For information, contact the President, Betty Pacey; bettypace3@aol.com.

Ron Kibbey’s Comedy Classic
Way Out West, starring Laurel & Hardy
Tuesday, June 18, 6:30 PM
Spice Milligan once said: "From the moment I saw Laurel and Hardy on the screen I knew they were my friends.” Friendship is at the heart of their 1937 spoof of Western Way Out West. Stan and Ollie set out to deliver a valuable deed to innocent young Mary Roberts but they are duped by Lola Marcel, a scheming bottle blonde vaudeville singer who pretends to be Mary and who is aided and abetted by the devious Mickey Finn. Stan: "I think we've given that deed to the wrong woman. That's the first mistake we've made since that guy sold us the Brooklyn Bridge." Oliver: "Buying that bridge was no mistake. That's gonna be worth a lot of money to us someday." Way Out West, also contains one of the most charming dance sequences in cinema history, Local Laurel and Hardy aficionado, Ron Kibbey, will introduce the film. Soft drinks and snacks! Mais oui bien sur!

June Local History Potluck: The Radicalization of "Bloody-Handed" Bill Davison: How a Union Soldier Became a Pro-Confederate Bushwhacker.
Presented by Stuart Sanders, History Advocate, The Kentucky History Society Thursday, June 27 Dinner 615 PM Program 7 PM
By the time William H. Davison was shot and killed at the end of the Civil War, he had been marked as a notorious pro-Confederate guerrilla. Saddled with a $5,000 bounty on his head and called "the bloody-handed Davison," the Louisville Daily Journal judged him to be "one of the most corrupt scoundrels unhung." Only three years earlier, he had been recognized for gallantry at the battles of Fort Donelson and Shiloh while serving as a captain in the Union army. The Emancipation Proclamation, his anti-authoritarian streak, deep personal flaws, and anger toward the policies of President Abraham Lincoln's administration radicalized Bill Davison. Stuart Sanders, History Advocate with the Kentucky Historical Society will illustrate for us how Bill Davison made the transition from hero to villain in the eyes of the Union. If you would like to join for the potluck meal, please bring a dish and arrive at 6:15 PM. If you would prefer to just attend the program, please arrive a few minutes before 7. Either way, please register in person, by calling 744-5661 or by using or Evanced registration system through our website, www.clarkbooks.org.
