The Hound of the Baskervilles, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

“A hound it was, an enormous coal-black hound, but not such a hound as mortal eyes have ever seen.”

Originally serialized in The Strand Magazine from August 1901 to April 1902, The Hound of the Baskervilles was the first appearance of Holmes after his apparent death in “The Final Problem.” The success of The Hound of the Baskervilles led to Holmes’ revival. Sir Charles Baskerville is found dead in the park surrounding his manor. Baskerville’s death is attributed to a heart attack but, Dr. James Mortimer says, Sir Charles’s face retained an expression of horror and not far from the corpse were footprints of a gigantic hound. A legendary curse runs in the Baskerville family since the time of the English Civil War, when Sir Hugo Baskerville abducted and murdered a woman in the mires of Dartmoor and was killed by a demonic hound. The creature has haunted the place ever since, killing Baskerville heirs. Sir Charles believed in the hound and so does Dr. Mortimer, who fears for the next heir, Sir Henry Baskerville.

Ron Kibbey’s Comedy Classic
Tuesday, October 15, 6 PM

Railroad baggage clerks, Chick Young (Abbott) and Wilbur Grey (Costello), receive the remains of Dracula and Frankenstein’s monster. When Chick and Wilbur deliver them to a House of Horrors, they disappear to a secret island. Chick and Wilbur follow their trail, and meet up with Dracula (Bela Lugosi) and Frankenstein (Glenn Strange), and a Mad Scientist (Charles Bradstreet) who wants to put Costello’s brain in the Monster. Despite these dilemmas, Costello finds romance and the Monsters find final resting places...or do they? What kind of costume will comedy maestro, Ron Kibbey, wear to introduce this film? There will be an opening cartoon. Soft drinks and popcorn, too.

Book Lunch: Joy in the Morning,
By P.G. Wodehouse
Thursday, October 17, Noon

Wodehouse was born October 15, 1881. To celebrate, the Book Lunch posse reads Joy in the Morning. Bertie Wooster believes his biographers will refer to the harrowing saga of Nobby Hopwood, Stilton Cheesewright, Florence Craye, Uncle Percy, Bokko Fittleworth, Edwin the Boy Scout, and (gasp!) Aunt Agatha as “The Steeple Bumpleigh Horror”. For PG Wodehouse, this novel, completed amid the horrors of wartime Germany, was something of a miracle. “The supreme Jeeves novel of all time”, he wrote. (www.theguardian.com/ books)

In the course of Joy in the Morning, novelist Bokko Fittleworth tells Bertie Wooster: “You’re a great comfort Bertie...You give me hope. You raise me from the depths.” Wodehouse may have been encouraging himself. Copies available at the circulation desk. Please register to attend.

“The Truth Is Out There”: UFOs, Monsters, and Cryptids in Kentucky Lore, presented by EKU Professor, Mason Smith
Tuesday, October 22, 6:30 PM

Kentucky is home to some famous UFO cases and cryptid reports: The Thomas Mantel UFO Incident made national headlines in 1948. Kentuckians have also reported numerous encounters with Bigfoot, the Pope Lick Monster, wolf-human creatures, and even a serpent in Hermitage Lake. What are these eye-witnesses seeing? Why do these stories fascinate us? Mason Smith grew up in Muhlenberg County hearing stories about the Bell Witch, a wolf-man lurking in the Land Between the Lakes, and the Bremen Bog Monster. Dr. Smith’s presentation will cover a variety of things cryptid, and while he is not a fanatical skeptic, he suggests that many of these stories have their origins in the realm of psychology and folklore. Sponsored by the Kentucky Humanities Council. Please register to attend.

Local History Potluck Dinner Program
Bluegrass Murder & Mayhem XI
Starring Jennifer Mattern & Angela Turner
Thursday, October 24
Dinner: 6:15 PM; Program: 7 PM

Small town living in Kentucky has many charms. You feel like you can really get to know your neighbors and join them in forming a productive community. However, some things behind Ms. Samantha’s fresh baked pies, or Mr. Robert’s friendly hello’s is a hidden monster waiting to emerge. Join us for a harrowing evening wherein Reference Librarians Jennifer and Angela will dip into the sanguine well of the past of the Bluegrass to bring us tales of murder and mayhem for the eleventh time. If you would like to join us for the potluck meal, please bring a dish and arrive at 6:15 PM. If you would just prefer to hear the program, arrive a few minutes before 7. Either way, since space is limited, please register in person, by phone or your Online catalog registration.
