Lacey, Charles T.	Johnston Howe is on trial at Falmouth for the murder of Charles T. Lacy. The citizens of Harrison county are there and are making an effort to prosecute. From the evidence produced thus far it seems he is guilty of murder. Witnesses testified that Johnston Howe lured Charles Lacy, a policeman, into a dark alley and murdered him. Friday night Howe was hustled away to Covington for safe keeping. The trial will last for several days, and trouble will likely be raised, as negroes from Harrison county and other places are there for his protection. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 20, 1897. At Falmouth Johnson Howe, colored, was acquitted of the murder of policeman Lacy at Cynthiana. A mob tried to lynch Howe at the time of the murder and he was brought to Paris for safe keeping. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 27, 1897 At Cynthiana, Thursday night, Mrs. Jas W. Lacey made a desperate attempt at suicide by cutting her throat. She has been despondent since the killing of Policeman Charles Lacey, her son, by the negro, Johnson Howe, Christmas Eve. Lachamelle, Willie	The Poisoning Case By Whom the Poison Was Administered to Little Willie Lachamelle in Doubt said the Men of the Juries Louisville, Ky., Nov.8.—The coroner Monday afternoon held an inquest into the death of little Willie Lachamelle, who died on October 19 under suspicious circumstances and whose body was exhumed and an analysis made of the stomach. The verdict was to the effect that the child came to his death by strychnine poisoning, but the jury could not determine by whom the poison was administered. It was found that it could not have been given on the pretzel, as was claimed, as this was given to the child ten days before he died. This practically exonerates Mrs. Minnie Schaden, a neighbor, who has been arrested as suspect of being implicated. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 15, 1898

Lafferty, Edward (Frank)	Crushed his skull Ed. Lafferty, fireman on L & N killed by falling from train Yesterday morning when the "Florida special" on the L & N, northbound from Atlanta to Cincinnati reached Riverside, this county, it was found that the fireman, Ed Lafferty, was missing. The train proceeded backward, a sharp lookout being kept for the body of the missing man. It was found near Shearer Station, just across the river from Ford. The injured man was unconscious but was placed in the baggage car and brought to this city. Drs. Shirley and Cole attended to him and several pieces of skull that were pressing on the brain were removed. He did not regain consciousness, however, and died shortly after. The remains were removed to Hall's undertaking rooms and prepared for shipment. After investigation it was found that the man's name was Edward Lafferty, whose home was a Ludlow, Ky., where his wife, to whom he had been married about a year, resided, and to which place his body was sent for burial. He was about thirty years of age and had been employed by the L & N railroad for several years, and was a valued employee. Coroner Brinegar held an inquest with a jury composed of C.T. Neil, J.S. Haggard, F.H. Jones, Riley Ragland, F.M. Fraysur and J.N. Brandenburg. The inquest elicited no new features and a verdict in accordance with the above was rendered. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 15, 1909 Ford, Ky., - Frank Lafferty, fireman on fast passenger train No. 34, running from Atlanta, Ga., to Cincinnati, was killed in No. 9 tunnel, one mile south of here. It is supposed that he was putting a fire in his engine when he lost his balance and fell out. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 19, 1909 Had presentiment of danger Edw. Lafferty, the L & N fireman, who was killed near Ford a few days ago, had a presentiment of danger and had requested that he be not sent out that day. The Master Mechanic could find no substitute and refused his request and Lafferty went to his death. On such little things do frequently the issues of life and death depend. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 22, 1909
Lafferty, James	Died suddenly Mr. James Lafferty, who for some time has been an inmate of the County Farm, died very suddenly Saturday afternoon, of heart disease, with which he had suffered for some time. He was in Winchester Saturday afternoon and left for the Home about four o'clock. Mr. Lafferty came to this county some years ago from Cincinnati with the late John Besuden and was employed by the latter as gardener at "Vinewood." After Mr. Besuden's death Lafferty still remained on the place with Henry Besuden until the latter's death a few years ago. The funeral was held at St. Joseph's Catholic church Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. W.B. Ryan, and the remains were interred in the Winchester cemetery. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, June 2, 1909 Uncle James Lafferty, with two or three others from the County Farm, went to Winchester last Saturday in a wagon. They all returned together but when they reached the gate on the pike that leads to the house, Uncle James said he preferred to walk to the house and got out of the wagon. The others drove on and shortly after Esquire and Mrs. Kissinger returning from town found Uncle James about two hundred yards from the gate lying on his face dead. The Coroner was summoned and the inquest disclosed the fact that he died of heart failure, of which he had been a sufferer for a number of years. The Winchester Democrat Friday, June 4, 1909

Laffoon, Mrs. John	A Brutal Murder. Sunday afternoon, John Laffoon, who lived near Valley View, in Madison county, sat down with his wife and son and ate dinner. Having finished, he procured an ax and split his wife's skull, killing her instantly. He then locked the house and told a neighbor what he had done, adding that his wife had made him mad. He then left, and although a large number of persons with blood hounds have been hunting him, he has not been found. He is said to be a very simple fellow, not very bright, but no one thought there was any harm in him. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 13, 1902 Wife Murderer Caught. Richmond, Ky., June 16.—John Laffoon, charged with the murder of his wife, at Valley View, was caught in Estill county. He was brought to this city and placed in jail. There was considerable excitement upon the arrival of the prisoner, but no violence was offered. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 20, 1902 Murderer Caught. John Laffoon, who killed his wife with an ax at his home near Valley View, was captured on Red Lick, Estill county, and lodged in jail at Richmond. Gov. Beckham had offered a reward of one hundred dollars for his capture. It is thought by many that he is deranged. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 20, 1902 Special Term Of Court The special term of court which was called by Judge Benton for this week opened Monday. Among the most important cases to be tried are those of Ben Chenault colored, for the shooting of William Hall near White Hall about a month ago, and the trial of John Laffoon, the Valley View wife murderer. LaMachio, Jean Aro	Mrs. Jean Aro LaMachio passed away on Wednesday, May 23. She was born May 10, 1913 in Mohawk, Mich., and recently celebrated her 99th birthday. She was the oldest of 10 children by Oscar and Anna Aro, Swedish immigrants. Preceding her in death were her husband Albert LaMachio; brothers Raymond, Richard, Bill and Eddie; and sisters, Alice and Helen. Still living are her sister, Irene Naasko, and brothers Art and Russell Aro. Other surviving family are Al and Pat LaMachio, her son and daughter-in-law; three grandchildren, Philip, Jon (Michele) and Paul (Kelly); and five great grandchildren, Zachary, Shinn, Brooke, Abby and Emma Rose. After graduating from Painesdale High School in northern Michigan, she moved to Detroit where she met her future husband, Al LaMachio. After marriage, while working various jobs, she attended Highland Park Community College earning a degree in home economics. The family later relocated to Winchester, Ky. where she was much involved in community affairs. She became active in the League of Women Voters and was the church librarian at First Presbyterian Church. She loved to travel, making trips to Europe, Sweden, Italy, the United Kingdom, China and Japan. She enjoyed history, art, music, reading, family and friends. Jean moved to Greensboro, N.C., from Winchester more than 12 years ago, living with Al and Pat until recently when her health began to fail. She was a member of Community In Christ Presbyterian Church. She was loved and respected by all who knew her and will be much missed by her family and friends. A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 23, at George Brothers Funeral Home, 803 Greenhaven Drive, Greensboro, NC 27406, with visitation to follow. Lamberlin, Augustine	DIED-At St. Joseph's hospital, Lexington, Sunday of asthma and white swelling. Rev. Father, Augustine Lamberlin, aged about seventy-five years. He was a naïve of Belgium and came of a prominent family. He came to this country many years ago and for several years was stationed at Maysville. He came from that point to this city in 1875 and for five years had charge of the churches at this place and Mt. Sterling. He went from here to Paris in 1880 and was Chaplain of the Visitation Convent there until failing health forced him to go to the hospital where he has been the past four years. He was a man of great natural powers and great learning. He had been a professor of languages in some of the leading colleges in Europe before he came here and lectured frequently after he came to this country. He also possessed great musical talent and was the author of many musical compositions of ability. In his young days he was a great and intimate friend of the second Napoleon. The funeral was held Wednesday at St. Paul's church Lexington, the Requiem mass being celebrated by LT. Rev. Camillus Maes, Bishop of this diocese assisted by Father Major, of this city, and several other priests. Several of his old parishioners from here attended the funeral. Lampton, Mrs. Ellinor Fairfax	Death of Mrs. Lampton Mrs. Ellinor Fairfax Lampton died at her home in this city Sunday night of old age. She was a daughter of Col. Isaac Miller, of Cynthiana, and was born there in 1816. While visiting relatives here she met W. H. Lampton and they were married fifty-one years ago. For twenty years or more after their marriage they lived in or near Ironton, Portsmouth and Stenbenville, Ohio, and the remainder of the time in Boyd and Carter counties this State until three or four years ago when they moved to this city. More than sixty years ago she joined the Christian church but afterwards united with the Presbyterian church, and has always lived the life of a happy, contented Christian. Her husband, aged 82 years, and three children, W. J. Lampton, Miss Nellie Lampton, and Mrs. Nannie Sympson, wife of A. H. Sympson, survive her. The funeral will be preached at ten o'clock this morning at the family residence by the Rev. H. G. Henderson and the remains will be interred in the cemetery at this place. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday August 20, 1895 A. E. Lampton, of Ashland, and Col. John O. Hodges, of Lexington, attended the funeral of Mrs. W. H. Lampton Tuesday. Lampton, R. W.	At Ashland R. W. Lampton, aged 73, died suddenly from falling down stairs. Paralysis is supposed to have been the cause. He was a brother of W. H Lampton, of this city and was a native of this county. The Democrat, Friday, December 25, 1891.
Lampton, William Henry	Death of W. H. Lampton. William Henry Lampton, the oldest native resident of Winchester, died at his home in this city Monday night of grippe, aged eighty-six years. He was the son of Squire James Lampton, who was one of a family of seventeen sons and seven daughters and who more than a hundred years ago was an inmate at the fort at Bryan Station. His mother was Susan Rion, a member of the large family of that who formerly resided in this county. Squire Lampton and wife raised three sons, John, Robert and William, and two daughters, Anne and Polly, the latter was the wife of Jesse Riley, who formerly was in business in this city, and Anne married Mr. Womack, of Carter county, and died several years ago. His brothers, John and Robert were better known in this section than himself. About 1826, Squire Lampton and family moved from this city to Carter county and before he attained his majority, W. H. Lampton entered the iron business at the old Hopewell Furnace on Little Sandy river. At the age of twenty-four he went to Union Furnace in Lawrence county, Ohio, with David Sinton, of Cincinnati and Thomas Means, of Hanging Rock. The firm of Sinton, Means & Lampton was long one of the most prominent in the iron business in the Ohio valley. Sinton is still living, nearly ninety years old at Cincinnati and is worth several million dollars. Means died several years ago and left an estate of several millions. For about twenty years Mr. Lampton remained as partner and manager with this firm, but in 1856 he returned to Kentucky where he took charge of the financial management of Star Furnace in Carter county. About this time he built at Catlettsburg the finest home in Eastern Kentucky. His health failed shortly after and he went to the country and purchased and interest in Pennsylvania Furnace, in Greenup county. Here he remained until the close of the war, when he organized the first "boom" in mineral lands in Kentucky or the South and sold out to an Eastern syndicate.

	He then removed to Portsmouth, Ohio, and engaged in the banking business, but became involved in the affairs of Star Furnace and returned to Kentucky. In 1873 he sold out to the Norton Iron Works at Ashland and retired permanently from the iron business. For a while he was in the newspaper business and conducted the Ashland Review, a weekly paper started by his son, J. W. Lampton. He soon removed to Steubenville, Ohio, where he remained for several years and then returned to Winchester, the place of his birth, after an absence of more than sixty years. In 1845 he married Miss Ellinor Fairfax Miller, daughter of Col. Isaac Miller, of Cynthiana, whom he first met here during a visit she made to her cousin, Washington Miller, father of Dr. Wash. Miller. She lived to be eighty years old and for more than half a century was indeed a helpmate and companion to Mr. Lampton. She died three years ago in this city. She was the last of her family and he was the last of his. The Lampton family is an old English one, and it is said that John George Lampton, the present Earl of Durham, is of the same stock. Three children live to mourn the death of their father, Mrs. A. H. Sympson and Miss Nellie Lampton, of this city, and W. J. Lampton, the well known journalist of new York. At one time the deceased was quite wealthy, having made a fortune in the iron business, but he lost the greater portion of it in later ventures. Although singularly free from many of the commoner vices of life, he was not a professor of religion until late in life when he joined the Presbyterian Church. He was a jolly and good natured man, taking life philosophically and had many friends. The funeral services were held Wednesday at the family residence by Rev. B. B. Baily and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 20, 1899 Mrs. Sue Price, of Frankfort, attended the funeral of her Uncle, W. H. Lampton, Wednesday. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Jan. 20, 1899 Demise of W. H. Lampton Winchester, Ky. Jan. 19 W. H. Land, B.	Killings Near Lancaster. James Rogers Kills Brother-in-Law and Fountain Land His Stepson. Lancaster, Ky., June 23.—Sunday afternoon at Harmon's Lick school house, nine miles east of here, James Rogers shot and instantly killed his brother-in-law, Bud Ledford. Rogers states that Ledford drew a knife on him and advanced over a remark made by him, Rogers. Ledford is survived by a widow and four small children. Rogers came to this city late Sunday evening and gave himself up to the officers. Fountain Land shot and killed his stepson, B. Land, Sunday with a pistol. The younger Land was under the influence of liquor and had been trying all day to provoke a difficulty with his stepfather. It culminated in the killing of young Land, who was advancing on his stepfather with an uplifted ax, when he was killed. The dead man was about 35 years old and single. He bore the reputation of being quarrelsome. Fountain Land is a farmer and a good citizen. The killing occurred in Madison, just across the line from this city. Landrum, Stephen H.	At his home, near Schollsville, Sunday, Stephen Landrum, aged 71 years. Burial at the family graveyard and funeral by Rev. Wm. Rupard. His death was due principally to kidney trouble, but a carbuncle was the immediate cause. Mr. Landrum was one of the most prominent citizens in that section, owning more than a thousand acres of land, and being the senior member of the firm of Landrum & Ware. He was a brother to Rev. Wm. Landrum who died a number of years ago and who was one of the most noted Methodist preachers in this section of the State.

Landrum, William	Rev. William Landrum, a Methodist minister, died very suddenly at his home in Laurel county last Monday about noon. He had just finished a very fervent prayer for rain and was sitting in a chair by the window, when all at once he expired with scarcely a struggle. So far as is known, he was troubled with no specific complaint. Mr. Landrum was born May 14th 1803, and consequently was a little over 76 years old at the time of his death. He lived and preached in this county for a number of years, and was well known and highly esteemed by a great many of our people. The Semi-Weekly Sun Fri., 6-6-1879

Landsberg, William	Death of William Landsberg. Saturday, Mr. Theodore Landsberg received a telegram announcing the sudden death of his father, William Landsberg, at his home in Cincinnati. He was about seventy-two years old and was the senior member of the firm of Wm. Landsberg and Son, of this city. He had been quite successful in business and had always been noted for his upright dealings. Besides daughters he leaves three sons, Theodore, of this city, Simeon W. of Versailles, and Henry, of Brunswick, New Jersey. The funeral was held in Cincinnati. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 9, 1899 A Peaceful End. The Democrat was in error Tuesday in stating that Mr. Wm. Landsberg had died in Cincinnati. He had been the guest of his son, Mr. Theodore Landsberg, of this city, and two weeks ago left for New York where he intended keeping house with one of his daughters, so he could be in close touch with the importers and manufacturers of the East in purchasing goods for the three stores. Mr. Landsberg after dining in the evening, told his daughter that he would retire to his room to enjoy a cigar and read the evening paper. The next morning, when they went to call him, he was found in his dressing robe sitting in a large arm chair where the messenger of death had passed and gently left the impress of his presence. The remains were brought to Cincinnati and interred beside his wife who had preceded him several years. Mr. Landsberg was seventy-five years of age and during his long and eventful business career his name had stood for financial integrity and probity. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 12, 1899

Landy, Sam		A Puzzled Jury The ordinary jury composed of good common people, and not medical specialist are often at a loss when medical specialist testify on both sides of a case, and such a case is now on trial at Danville. Last July Ed Williams quarreled with Sam Landy, a wealthy merchant and hit him on the head with a brick. Eight days later Landy died of lockjaw. Eight or ten doctors testified that lockjaw always comes from a microbe. Evidence showed that Landy rubbed old tallow on the wound and also had spread an old horse blanket on the grass and took a nap. The question is did the lock jaw microbe come from the brick that made the wound, the tallow with which it was dressed or the horse blanket on which he lay? On this question depends that of whether Williams is guilty of murder, or of simply wounding, and the jury is puzzled to know the origin of the lockjaw microbe. Lane, Stanley T	Stanley T. Lane, 99 1/2 years, passed peacefully in his sleep Wednesday, May 13, 2020. Raised on a farm in Mt. Sterling, KY, he enjoyed playing basketball throughout his school years at Sharpsburg High School, passing up a scholarship to Morehead State College and continued to help his parents on the farm until his 21st birthday, December 8th, 1941. A younger brother, Jack, was stationed at Pearl Harbor when it was attacked, and without hesitation, Stanley and another younger brother, Julian, both signed up with the US Navy. Stanley, a Pharmacist Mate 2nd class, served for three years on the USS Somers, a destroyer, which escorted President Roosevelt to the Casablanca Conference, as well as provided gunfire support during the landings in Southern France. Injured, he was sent back to Chelsea Naval Hospital in Boston. Homesick and hungry for some homemade fried chicken, Stan was invited to a friend's house for a meal cooked by his friend's sister, Eleanor. Wed shortly before the end of World War II, Stanley brought Eleanor to Mt. Sterling where he worked in town at Lane's Service Garage. In 1950, Stan, Eleanor, and his two girls, moved to Winchester when he bought part of Allsmiller's Hardware, located on Main Street since 1937. They hired a young, hardworking guy. Bill Bridges became Stan's much loved business partner in 1985, as well as partner in mischief and jokes. Bridges & Lane Hardware remained in operation until 2015. Stanley was a member of the Lions Club in the 50's & 60's, sang, danced and told stories and jokes on his fellow citizens of Winchester at the annual Minstrel shows performed as a fundraiser by the Lions Club. He was a 70 year member of the Mason's Winchester Lodge #20. He is survived by his daughters, Elizabeth Borden and Linda Minzenberger (Ken), both of Winchester; four grandchildren, David Borden Jr (Lisa), Daniel Borden (Krysta), Stephanie B. Moskal (Mike), and Dana Minzenberger, all in Louisville, KY; three great-grandchildren: Eleanor Grace Borden, Matthew and Laine Moskal; one sister-in-law, Lida (Jack,dec'd) Lane; two nephews: Jimmy Costigan, Mt. Sterling, Rocky Lane, Ashland, and a niece, Janet Elaine Simpson, Lexington.

	In addition to his parents and five siblings, Stan is preceded in death by his wife of 64 years, Eleanor F. Lane, and son-in-law David Borden, Sr. Thank you to the Winchester Police Dept and Clark County Sheriff's Office for their patience and guidance as Dad "forgot that he didn't remember" that he couldn't drive until he was 100 years old like a friend of his. Thank you to the VA Hospital, Lexington, KY for their continuous, quality care throughout his life. The Nursing Home that could not contain Stanley's energetic and strong personality shall remain nameless. A big thank you to the staff at Bridgepointe at Ashgrove Woods, Nicholasville, a Christian based Memory Care Center, that provided quality care, warmth, and humane kindness to the last five months of Stanley's life. A private graveside service was arranged by Scobee Funeral Home with Dr. Ed Mesta officiating. Donations can be made to Main Street Winchester, PO Box 40, 32 Wall St (memo line: donation to) or to The First Christian Church, 24 E Hickman St. "Sail on to glory" Dad. Langston formerly lived in this county. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 9, 1891. Deputy Marshal Evans Shot and Killed at Mt. Sterling. ANOTHER tragedy occurred at Mt. Sterling Saturday night. A negro named Johnson and a noted tough was raising a row in a saloon when Policemen Charles Evans and Horace Lane went in to arrest him. He fired first at Lane, the ball striking his silver badge just over the heart and glancing off without injury. Johnson then shot Evans in the groin, inflicting a wound from which he died the next day. The negro was shot in the face and also in the breast and is badly hurt. When Evans died a mob was talked of but the officers prevailed and Judge Cooper will hold a special term June 28th to try Johnson, who will be hung if he don't die of his wounds. Evans, the dead policeman, was married last Wednesday to Mrs. Ida Langston, whose first husband was killed several years ago by Sam Everett. A brother of the murdered man lives in this city on Mt. Abbott. Johnson had only been out of the pen a few weeks where he had been serving a sentence for shooting a negro woman a few years ago. Henry Watson, the manager of our Telephone Exchange, was fired upon a few nights ago by some unknown party and it is now believed that Johnson was the man, as Watson, while on the police force, shot and killed Johnson's father. Larkin, John Walter	Accidentally shot Walter Larkin, aged fourteen years, and living in Fayette county, accidentally shot and killed himself Monday. He was dressing to go to school and took a suit of clothes from a trunk, when a pistol, which was in one of the pockets fell to the floor and exploded, the bullet striking the boy near the heart killing him instantly. The Winchester Democrat Friday, December 21, 1906 Accidentally killed John W. Larkin, aged fifteen, son of John C. Larkin, of South Elkhorn neighborhood, while handling a pistol Monday, dropped it, the bullet being discharged, and the lad receiving a fatal wound, dying a few minutes later. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 25, 1906 Revolver fell from pocket Exploded, killing the young scion of ill-fated family

	Lexington, Ky., - Walter Larkin, 14, son of John Larkin, a wealthy farmer, accidentally shot and killed himself. The lad was preparing to start to school when a revolver, which the family did not know he carried, fell from his pocket and exploded, the bullet entering the left breast. The accident was witnessed by his two younger brothers. By the time the father reached his side he was dead. The boy was a grandson of Rankin Clemmons, the wealthiest man in the county, whose family has suffered many tragic accidents during the past five years. Several years ago Robert Clemmons brother of Mrs. Larkin, committed suicide by shooting; two years ago young Rankin Clemmons committed suicide; three years ago Mrs. Sheppard, daughter of Rankin Clemmons, committed suicide; three months ago Ernest Clemmons, cousin of young Larkin, was killed in a sawmill, while several years ago Rankin Clemmons, the elder, was called to his door in the night and assaulted by robbers. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 25, 1906

Columbia, Ky., May 12.—The man found near Jabez, Russell county, Wednesday in an unconscious condition was Taylor Larter, a highly respected and well to do citizen of that county. He died Wednesday night without regaining consciousness. A large stone found near the body was covered with blood and hair and is supposed to have been the weapon used. Larter disappeared a week ago and had not been seen since until found by his wife. He is supposed to have been in the field where found since he disappeared. It is an old unused field. It is said that Larter some time ago discovered some crooked work and told of it. The authorities are working on a clew as to the murder.

Lashbrook, Mrs. James	Ravished and Murdered. Richard Coleman, a Young Negro, Arrested and Confesses to Killing Mrs. James Lashbrook. Maysville, Ky., Oct. 6.—Mrs. James Lashbrook, the wife of a well to do farmer and a member of one of the oldest families in this county, was ravished and murdered Thursday afternoon at her home at Clarks station, six miles from this city. While alone at home she went to an outhouse and while there it is suppose that one or more tramps who have been in the neighborhood for several days attacked her. After the outrage her assailants secured a club and beat out the woman's brains. Thursday night the officers brought in Richard Coleman, a young Negro, who confessed to having murdered Mrs. Lashbrook. They were able to get him into the jail through a mob of 500 people by telling the crowd they were not sure of Coleman's guilt. It is doubtful that they will be able to save the Negro's life throughout the night. At 2 o'clock Friday morning the mob broke down the jail door. The first man to enter was thrown out by the guards inside, who then stood off the crowd with drawn guns. The mob lacks a leader, but it is feared another attempt to lynch Coleman will be made when reinforcements reach here from neighborhoods in which Mrs. Lashbrook lived. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 10, 1899 Dick Coleman's Trial Covington, Ky., Nov. 2 It is now pretty well understood that Dick Coleman, the colored murderer of Mrs. John Lashbrook, of Maysville, will be furnished with a military guard to escort him back to Maysville. Coleman's trial will begin November 10. The people of Maysville, where the man so brutally assaulted and fiendishly murdered Mrs. Lashbrook, are still so wrought up that it is generally understood that Coleman will never face a jury. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Nov. 7, 1899 Burned At The Stake Dick Coleman, the Murderer of Mrs. Lashbrook, Meets a Horrible Death.

	He Is Taken From the Custody of the Sheriff and His Deputies by an Infuriated Mob. A Rope is Thrown Over His Head and While Pleading for Mercy Brushwood and Timber is Piled About Him and Lighted by Many Willing Hands. Maysville, Ky., Dec. 7.—Negro murderer Dick Combs arrived at 10:30 Wednesday morning under a special guard of deputies sworn in by the sheriff, including Detective Fitzgerald, Constable Dawson, chief of Police Dawson, all of the police force and two deputy sheriffs. When they arrived at the court house they were met by fully 1,000 people, headed by James Lashbrook, the husband of the murdered woman, and went immediately up Second street through the central portion of the city to the hill, followed by fully five thousand of the citizens of this city and county. This is the first time anything of this kind ever happened in this city, and the excitement is intense. All was done that was possible by the Sheriff and his guard to prevent a lynching, but in the face of such a mob of people, irrespective of color, it was useless to attempt to do anything save deliver him up, which was done. They grabbed him and threw a rope over his head, and took him above the city and strung him up. The poor wretch could be heard above the cries of the mob, pleading for his life, but the mob only heard the cries of Mr. Lashbrook, and vengeance they meted out to him was just the thing. About 250 were at the C. & O. train Tuesday night expecting him, but as he failed to come they waited for him Wednesday morning. There is no telling what would have been done had they succeeded in getting him in jail, as there would have, undoubtedly been several killed in the attempt to storm the jail doors. The mob carried Coleman to a small hollow near the railroad tracks, where they bound him tightly to a young sapling. Then they heaped a huge pile of brush wood and timber around and fired the stack, while his eyes rolled horribly. Someone cut out his eyes, and in a moment his head rolled around and he was believed to be dead. Coleman said 15 minutes before he was set afire that he had nothing to say. His death was slow, and, writhing in terrible agony, he was hooted and glared at by the people standing on the edge of the pit. Many women were present. He died at 10:50 a. m. The scene was an awful one, and around the funeral pyre were 10,000 maddened people, headed by the husband of the dead woman. A dozen torches were applied simultaneously, and huge tongues of fire swept up and around the agonized wretch. Coleman's Crime Coleman's crime was a most revolting one. He enticed Mrs. Mary Lashbrook into a shed on the pretense of looking at some work, and knocked her senseless with a club. He then assaulted her. She showed signs of returning to consciousness, and he ran to his room, got a razor and cut her throat. Again she revived and he ended her misery with a blow from an ax. He jumped on a horse, and riding to a field calmly told his victim's husband that someone had killed her. He was arrested later, and before Lashbrook suspected that he was the murderer, he was put on a train and taken to a Covington jail. He made a complete confession of the fiendish crime to a Post reporter on his arrival. He is only 20 years old and has a pleasant face. Mrs. Lashbrook was beautiful, and a society favorite in Maysville. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 8, 1899 Reward For Maysville Lynchers Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 13 Gov. Bradley offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension and conviction of the members of the Maysville mob who lynched and burned Dick Coleman, the Negro who brutally murdered Mrs. James Lashbrook. The Governor Monday night received a communication from the Ohio anti-lynching society congratulating him on the vigorous fight he has made against mob violence. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Dec. 19, 1899 Gov. Taylor Against Mob Rule Frankfort, Ky., Dec.21 It is said that one of the most vigorous chapters in the forthcoming message of Gov. Taylor will be on lynching and that he will recommend dealings with mobs. The Maysville burning of Dick Coleman will be his text. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Dec. 26, 1899

Latham, Elizabeth Ann	Elizabeth Ann Latham, 75, of Sarasota, Fl., went to be with her Lord and Savior on Monday, January 25, 2016. Born March 2, 1940, in Winchester, Kentucky, to the late George Albert and Mary Emma (Forkner) Conkwright, Elizabeth Ann grew up on a bluegrass farm. She loved horses and climbing trees. In school she excelled in all studies, graduating Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Kentucky (Hons B.A.). She met the love of her life, Ralph Albert Latham II, while studying at the University of Pittsburgh (M.A). Elizabeth Ann and Ralph were a good match and lovingly supported each other throughout their lives. After marrying in Winchester, Ky., they moved to Liverpool, England, where Emma Margaret was born in 1969. The young family emigrated to Chapel Hill, N.C, in 1971 on a cargo ship where two more children were born, Jane Holly in 1971 and Ralph Albert III in 1973. Elizabeth Ann and Ralph raised their family in London, Canada, where Elizabeth Ann worked as a speech pathologist at St. Mary's Hospital and managed Ralph's orthodontic practice. Elizabeth Ann devoted herself to raising her children. She taught Sunday School at London Gospel Temple where she mentored youth who she inspired with her strong faith. She travelled around the world with Ralph, including many family missionary trips to provide dental care. Her house was always open to friends and those in need of love. Elizabeth Ann cared for her family, sewing clothes and dolls for her children. She cooked every meal and invited all to join at the table, giving unconditional love. She supported her children's pursuits and celebrated all of their achievements. She showered family and friends with generosity, she was never judgmental when loved ones struggled with life choices. A student of biblical studies, she shared her vast knowledge in study groups. She enjoyed watching college basketball and was a UK Wildcats fan. A member of the Abundant Life Church, she actively participated in a small cell group that she loved as family. Survivors include her devoted husband of 50 years, Ralph A. Latham II; children, Emma Latham Rushing (Boe), Jane Holly Latham (James Zarull) and Ralph A. Latham III (Lesley Magee); brother, George A. Conkwright (Jana); grandchildren, Claire and Madeleine Zarull, Holly Rushing and Violet Magee Latham. A Service will be held Friday, January 29, at 10:00 AM at Abundant Life Church, 6461 Proctor Road, Sarasota. Arrangements by Palms Roberts Funeral Home. The Winchester Sun January 28, 2016

Laughlin Family	Sketch Of The Laughlin Family. (By Judge James Flanagan) In the year 1812 Capt. John W. Laughlin and family moved from Carolina County, Virginia, to Clark county, Kentucky. He had married previous to that time and his family consisted of his wife and eldest son, Col. Henry C. Laughlin who was then an infant of two years of age. He located in the south western part of Clark county, having purchased in that section a farm on which he lived to see the close of his honorable and upright life. He was a man of generous instincts and was much beloved by all who knew him. He was a good, kind neighbor, ever ready to help the needy and deserving and to relieve the sick in his neighborhood. He died regretted by all who knew him. At his death he left as his widow, Mrs. Lucy Woodson Laughlin, nee Lucy Woodson Chiles, with whom the writer had an acquaintance of many years full of mutual love and friendship. Nothing too good can be said of that sainted mother in Israel. She was a woman of distinguished appearance with a queenly look, and received a good education in one of the best schools in Richmond, Va., and her father was a man of great wealth and owned a number of slaves and much land.

Capt. Laughlin left nine children, viz: Henry C., Ann, Lucy, Mary, Virginia, Tarlton C., Bettie, John W. and Laura.

The eldest daughter, Ann, became the wife of Col. Francis F. Jackson, of Clark county, Ky., both of whom are dead. They left one son, John Henry Jackson and two daughters, Lucy Jackson and Mary Virginia Jackson. John Henry was a soldier in Col. Walter Chenault's regiment in the Confederate Army, where he served faithfully until the close of the war. After his return from the army he farmed for a while and died without ever having married.

Lucy married Lafayette Green, but soon died leaving no issue.

Mary Virginia married Wm. H. Ecton a thrifty and greatly esteemed merchant of Winchester, Kentucky. He died in 1803 leaving her as a widow, and also three children, viz: Dewees, who is a prominent insurance man in Minneapolis, Annie Jouett, wife of E. S. Jouett, a distinguished attorney of Winchester, Ky., and Laura, who is yet in a state of single blessedness. She is a talented young lady, prominent in all good work in the city and county. Their grandfather, Col. Francis F. Jackson, was a representative man of great energy and industry. He, at one time, represented Clark county in the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature. He died in the fall of 1861, in his 86th year, full of honor and of esteem of the people of Clark county and wherever else he was known.

Henry C. Laughlin, the eldest child, was born in Caroline county, Virginia, and lived a useful life as a merchant in Winchester, Ky., and in Philadelphia. He died in his ___ year at his home in Winchester, Ky. He was appointed appraiser-at-large for the United States by President Pierce. He was a man of splendid business gifts.

Tarlton C. Laughlin and Ann Hopkins were married in Clark county, Ky., in the year 18___, and settled in Bath county, Kentucky. He died comparatively young, but had made his mark as a successful farmer. He was very popular in both Clark and Bath counties. He had filled the office of Deputy Sheriff of Clark county with great satisfaction. His early death was much lamented. His wife was a very talented business woman and raised a family that would have been a credit to any parent. Her three sons, Henry, Julian and Tarlton are men of fine talents and have succeeded in life. Henry has been Judge of the ___ Court of Chicago. There, by his ability and patient industry, he amassed a large fortune and is highly esteemed in his adopted home. Her daughter Nannie, married Dr. J. E. Neeley.

Lucy was twice married. The first time to Wm. Snyder, of Paris, Ky., and the second time to Capt. Robert C. Nicholas, a brother of Mrs. Patsy Winn and Dr. Wilson C. Nicholas.

Virginia married Wm. Kemp and they moved to Adams county, Illinois, and lived on their farm up to their death, leaving a large family, who are reported to be doing well.

Mary married Mr. John H. Quisenberry, of Clark county, Ky. She survived him and died at her home near Schottsville, in the year 18___. She was an excellent lady. They had one child, Mr. Henry L. Quisenberry, a prosperous and highly esteemed farmer and business man of Clark county. He married Miss Maude Duckworth and has an attractive family.

Bettie, an exceptionally bright woman married Alexander Julian, of Franklin county, Ky. She died first and he several years later, leaving a number of children, who have done well in life. One of them is an able lawyer, Henry S. Julian, residing in Kansas City, Missouri, where he has obtained an attractive patronage by his ability and fidelity in his profession. The other children have all succeeded in life.

John William was the youngest son. He worked as a young man on the family farm and for others, but when that was sold he came with his mother and three sisters to Winchester, Ky., and became a merchant. During his residence in Winchester he was appointed post master at that place, which office he held with general satisfaction for a term of years. At the close of the Civil War he and his family moved to Missouri where they each died leaving several children.

The last child was Laura, who became the wife of William Flanagan, one of the most remarkable men the County of Clark has ever produced.

He was a man of brilliant talent.

He was twice postmaster at Winchester and was also County Surveyor for fourteen years. He was a civil engineer by profession. He was born a mathematician and possessed phenomenal memory.

He was a man of great integrity and was much esteemed for his honorable and manly life. He was a graduate of West Point where he was a classmate of Gen. R. E. Lee,

	Joseph E. Johnson, Jefferson Davis and others, who became distinguished as soldiers and in the business walks of life. He died on September 1st, 1851, leaving a widow, Mrs. Laura Flanagan, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Hall, both of whom live together now in Lexington, Kentucky. He left his wife and child in comfortable pecuniary condition. His death was considered a public loss. The dwelling in which Captain Laughlin and his family resided is still in tact. The original part of it was built of stone with post holes, the supposition being that it was thus constructed to defend its occupants from the attacks of the Indians, who had not all left the "dark and bloody ground" whither they still came on their hunting expeditions. Capt. Laughlin added to the original stone building. Very many of those named in this hurried sketch have passed over the river. Peace to the ashes of the dead, and good will to the survivors and descendants of the Laughlin family. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, November 2, 1905

Laughlin, Mrs. Belle	Mrs. Belle Laughlin Some More. A dispatch from Dayton, Ohio, says: "A woman who gave the name of Mrs. Belle Laughlin, age forty-two and a widow, and her home at Lexington, was found at a street corner Monday afternoon apparently suffering from an overdose of morphine. The attending physician said that the woman was manifestly addicted to the use of the drug. She was sent to the hospital." The woman was raised in this county and is a stepdaughter of the man Williams who was murdered and thrown into a pond near this city, presumably by members of his own family. Mrs. Laughlin was once a beautiful woman, but has fallen about as low as it is possible for a woman to get. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 23, 1899.

Laughlin, Preston	Farmer Found Dead Preston Laughlin, who lives on the Paris pike five or six miles from town, is dead as the result of a bullet from a pistol. About three o'clock yesterday morning he went out into the yard and shortly after a pistol shot was heard. On going out the family found him dead with a pistol by his side. Coroner Brinegar went out to investigate the matter and had not returned at the hour of going to press. Whether the bullet was fired from his own pistol or another, and whether it was an accident or suicide was not known at the hour. He was about forty years old, a good citizen and leaves a wife and one child. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Feb. 16, 1906 Death of Preston Laughlin When the Democrat went to press Thursday afternoon various rumors were afloat as to the cause of the death of Preston Laughlin and although much care was exercised the account was in many respects incorrect. The wood pile of his residence where he was found is in plain view of the pike and Mr. W.O. Florence in passing along the road Thursday morning saw the body and recognized that something was wrong. On examination the body was found to be frozen stiff and had evidently been dead for some time. His family had been absent for some days visiting in Pendleton county and he was at home alone. From all indications he had gone out Tuesday evening to split some kindling when his pistol fell from a holster and was discharged the bullet striking him in the body killing him instantly, and the body had remained where it had fallen from that time until found Thursday morning. When the body was raised the pistol was found under him with one load discharged. Coroner Brinegar was summoned and held an inquest with the following jury: Harry B. Clay, Enoch Kindred, C. C. Kimbrell, Ben McDonald, A.T. Edwards and John D. Osborne, who returned a verdict of accidental death. The remains were brought to this city and buried in the local cemetery Friday afternoon under the auspices of Ivanhoe Lodge, No. 48 Knights of Pythias, to which he belonged. He was a native of Nicholas county, but had lived here for several years. He was a good citizen with many friends, and his untimely death is much regretted.

Laughlin, Robt.	Laughlin's Neck Broken Robt. Laughlin was hung at Brooksville, Bracken county, Saturday morning, in the presence of fifteen hundred spectators. The usual enclosure, forty feet square, had been put up to hide the execution from the public but the immense crowd tore it down and had an unobstructed view of the hanging. Laughlin murdered his wife and niece, after outraging the latter and then poured coal oil over the bodies and burned them. It was one of the most horrible crimes ever committed in Kentucky. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 12, 1897
Laughlin, Sarah Emma	The inquest Verdict charges Laughlin with murder, criminal assault and arson Augusta, Ky., Feb. 20 – The coroner's jury convened in the mayor's office at ten o'clock. The coroner examined several witnesses Wednesday morning. Marshal Sayers was at Maysville Tuesday night, returning here early Wednesday morning. Several of the officials of the Maysville jail have been here in attendance at the inquest. The examination of Edward Fitzgerald, the Chesapeake and Ohio detective, and Arthur Pumpelly, turnkey in the Maysville jail, corroborated the statements of Marshal Sayers and other witnesses in regard to the published confession of Robert Laughlin. The jury returned the following verdict: "We the jury believe, from all the evidence in the case, that Sarah E. Laughlin and May Jones came to their death by an iron poker in the hands of Robert Laughlin and that he ravished May Jones and burned the bodies within the house." The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 21, 1896 Four indictments against the Bracken county fiend Thursday, the Bracken county grand jury returned four indictments against Robert H. Laughlin. One charges him with the murder of his wife, Emma Laughlin; the second with the murder of Mary Jones, his eleven-year old niece; the third with assaulting his niece and the fourth with having set fire to a dwelling house. Laughlin will hardly be tried until the next term of court. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, March 17, 1896

Lawrence, James	A Rash Act James Lawrence Cuts His Own Throat With a Razor Wednesday Morning James Lawrence committed suicide at his home on P. L. Skinner's place near Tanner's Store on the Mt. Sterling pike. He had been absent from the house for some time and on going to the barn he was found with his throat cut and a bloody razor clasped in his hand. He was not dead when found but was unable to speak. His family relations were pleasant, his financial affairs all right and the only cause that could be assigned is temporary insanity caused by religious hallucination. A year or more ago he became infatuated with the ideas of the Sanctificationists and since that time he has brooded over the wickedness of the world until he had grown morbid. He was forty-four years old and leaves a wife and several children. His wife was formerly Miss Laura Glover. He was a son of Thomas Lawrence and his mother was a sister of Ben H. Jones, Mrs. John Adams of this city and others. He was a splendid tobacco man and had just sold a crop of sixteen thousand pounds at ten cents per pound. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 3, 1895 Tanner's Store

	The report that Jas. Lawrence committed suicide. Wednesday was not entirely true. He made the attempt and cut his throat badly with a razor, but he did not die and is now doing well. He is honest, conscientious and sober, but brooded over religious matters until his mind became unbalanced. He still refuses to take medicine but is getting along nicely. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 7, 1895 Jas. Lawrence, who on June 2^d attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, has become violently insane and was taken to the asylum at Lexington Tuesday. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 31, 1895 Jas. Lawrence was tried Tuesday on a writ of lunacy he was adjudged insane and ordered sent to the asylum. He was a peaceable, prosperous farmer until he became imbued with the doctrines of sanctification when his disposition underwent a complete change. He became morose, moody and despondent and some weeks ago was found in his stable with his throat cut and a bloody razor by his side. Although desperately wounded he recovered, but his mind has grown worse until his family were afraid of him. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 31, 1895
Lawrence, James	Died—James Lawrence, the three year-old-son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lawrence, died at the family residence near Tanner's store Tuesday night of croup. Burial yesterday in the old Lawrence graveyard on the Muddy creek pike. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 29, 1898 Died—The infant son of J. B. Lawrence died last Tuesday of membranous croup and was buried at the old Lawrence graveyard on four Mile. Scarcely was this child buried when the dread disease attacked another child in the same family, the infant child of French Dunn who married a daughter of Mr. Lawrence and who lived with them The attack was fatal and in a few hours the little one was laid to rest in the same burial ground. The family are greatly grieved and fears are entertained for the sanity of Mr. Lawrence, whose mind has given way once before and who attempted suicide. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 2, 1898

Lawrence, Marsh	TO HANG The Death Penalty Given to Dillard Rainey. The Murder of Aaron Adams to Be Avenged. The Majesty of the Law Vindicated. Not in a spirit of vengeance; not with an outburst of wrath nor with the savage senselessness of mob violence; but with the calm, dignified majesty of the law has the blood of Aaron Adams, which cries from the ground, been avenged, or will be when the sentence of the law is executed. A thrill of horror went through our people when the causeless, cruel murder was committed, and when the news spread Saturday that the death penalty had been awarded the murderer, there was a verdict of assent almost universal, and the only regret was that Matt Rainey, the prisoner's father, did not

	receive the same sentence. The crime was a most atrocious one, and with no mitigating circumstances. Matt Rainey and James Henry had differences concerning a piece of land near the mouth of Upper Howard's Creek, and Henry had placed Frank Haggard in possession as a tenant. Rainey hauled the fence from around Haggard's garden leaving it open to the stock. Haggard hauled the rails back again and a quarrel on the 13th of last May in which Rainey shot Haggard inflicting a wound that it was thought would prove fatal. Mrs. Haggard saw Aaron Adams passing along the road and asked him to go for a doctor. Adams went after Dr. T. S. Allen, who lived near, and returning with the physician half an hour later, he was met by Matt Rainey and Dillard Rainey, father and son. Matt was armed with a gun and Dillard with a pistol. The former raised his gun to shoot Adams, but was prevented by Dr. Allan. With an oath he told his son to shoot and the latter did so. As Adams sank down pierced with a number of balls, Matt Rainey savagely tried again to shoot him. Deputy Sheriff Eperson was in the neighborhood and arrested Matt Rainey at once. Dillard escaped, although the officers once got close enough to shoot at him. He went through the mountains and was finally arrested at Roanoke, Va., under an assumed name. Matt Rainey was tried last fall and got a life sentence. He took an appeal and since has been in jail here. Two or three feeble attempts were made to mob him here last Spring but they lacked leadership. Since he has been in jail he has incurred the ill-will of the officers and fellow prisoners all whom concur in saying he is the meanest man with whom they have ever had dealings. The trial of Dillard Rainey began last Tuesday. The evidence closed Thursday at noon and was argued until the next morning when it was given to the jury, which brought in a verdict of guilty and fixing the death penalty the next day. When the prisoner heard it he turned deathly pale and seemed almost overcome. He soon recovered and was taken back to jail cursing the jury and vowing that he would never be hung. Neither of the prisoners have ever shown any remorse for the poor widow and the six helpless children. This will make the second sentence pronounced by Judge Scott, the other being the negro Will Taylor, who was hung for the murder of Squire Doty, in Madison county a year or two ago. If Rainey is hung it will make the fourth legal hanging in the county, and the first white man to be hung. Many years ago Jesse Winn, a negro, was hung near where Col. R. N. Winn's residence now stands, for the murder of Wm. Emerson, a white man, who owned him or had him hired. In August, 1839, a young negro named Knight was hung on the Lexington pike near F. H. Dudley's. He belonged to Mr. Morris who lived on Stoner and had committed a rape on a little white girl. In April, 1841, a negro man, belonging to Daniel Spar, broke into a house and disemboweled his wife. The latter got well, but the negro was hung for housebreaking. The negro woman belonged to Geo. Anderson and her assailant was hung near the far end of the C. and O. trestle on the side of Poynterville. In November, 1850, Thomas Nichols killed his master, Fred B. Nichols, at a rock quarry on the Lexington pike. He was hung about Christmas of the same year. The late Wm. Simpson was Sheriff at the time, and not liking the job of hanging the negro, he employed Marsh Lawrence to tie the rope. A year or two later Marsh Lawrence was killed by his brother, Jack Lawrence. The latter fled to Missouri, but was caught, brought back and sentenced to be hung. He was the first white man in the county to receive the death sentence, but was finally pardoned by Gov. Powell. About seventeen years ago, Ben. Plunkett was lynched, being hung to a tree in the Courthouse yard, the charge being an attempt assault on Miss Annie Ball, now Mrs. Bradford. In the fall of 1895 Bob Haggard was hung from the bridge on the Muddy Creek pike for a similar assault on Miss Elkin of near Ford. No motion has yet been made for a new trial, but this will be done. Since the death penalty has been given to Dillard, his father says he does not wish a new trial, but is inclined to accept the life sentence given him last fall. The general opinion is that if he should secure a new trial he would also be hung. The Winchester Democrat. Tuesday, February 16, 1897.

Lawrence, Thomas	The ways of fate are certainly strange, says an exchange, as proved by the death of Thomas Lawrence, of Pettis county, Mo. A year ago he was struck by an express train and picked up twenty yards away uninjured, and a month later he fell twenty feet from a barn roof and was not hurt. Last August he stopped a bolt of lightning and was unharmed. Last week, while on his way to his barn he stumbled over a six-months-old puppy and fell and broke his neck. The Winchester Democrat Tue., May 19, 1903

Lawson, Eliza Brown	A Big Law Suit. A law suit is pending in Baltimore over possession of a piece of property worth now several hundred thousand dollars. Attorney George Webb, of Lexington, but formerly of this county, this week received a letter from Baltimore in regard to it. The Lexington Herald prints the following about it. "The story is that one Lawson, in 1765, came into this country and obtained possession of a tract of land on which a portion of Baltimore is now located. At his death, he conveyed the land to his trustees to be held in trust and used for the purpose of building and maintaining a church. In case the church ceased to exist the land was to revert to his wife or her heirs. Mr. Lawson's wife formerly a Miss Eliza Brown upon her death gave the property in her possession to her sister, Priscilla Brown and the latter's issue. Miss Priscilla married one Dr. Wm. Webb, of Virginia, who removed to Clark county, Ky., and died there about 1845. Dr. Webb's daughter, Miss Eliza Lawson Webb, who was heir through her mother, married a Mr. Childs of Clark county. They died without children. Finally the church did cease to exist and the property on which it was located was sold to the United States Government for the present custom house. Mr. R. M. Webb, father of Mr. Geo. Webb and Mrs. Susan Childs were half brother and sister to Mrs. Eliza Lawson Childs, to whom a portion of this property was left and who died without issue. Some years ago the heirs in Baltimore brought suit to recover the property, but were unable to prove their relationship to the original Mrs. Lawson. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 31, 1899

Lay, Arthur	Asylum Inmate Escapes, Buys a Pistol and Sends a Bullet Through His Brain Hopkinsville, Ky., April 22.—Arthur Lay, aged 22, suicided here Wednesday morning.

		Last month he was indicted on three counts for forgery at Bowling Green, Ky., his home. He escaped the penalty by a plea of insanity being sent to the asylum here. Tuesday night he escaped from the institution by letting himself down a distance of 40 feet by a rope made of his underclothes. At six o'clock Wednesday morning he entered a hardware store and asked to be shown pistols. He suddenly seized a loaded one and shot a bullet through his brain, dying in a few minutes. He left a letter saying that he was tired of life and asked that his money and body be sent to his mother at Bowling Green. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 23, 1897

Lay, Lillon		A sad accident The papers tell of a deplorable accident near Buckeye, Garrard county, in which Boyle Lay, aged eighteen, accidentally shot and killed his brother, Lillon, aged thirteen. The two boys were out rabbit hunting and ran a rabbit into a hollow log. Boyle told Lillon to go to one end of the log and place his hat over it to prevent the rabbit running out and he would fire into the other end. Instead of doing this Lillon knelt down and looked into the log. Thinking only his brother's hat was there, Boyle fired, blowing his brother's head almost off, killing him instantly. Boyle is almost crazed from grief. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 26, 1909

Ledford, Bud	Killings Near Lancaster. James Rogers Kills Brother-in-Law and Fountain Land His Stepson. Lancaster, Ky., June 23.—Sunday afternoon at Harmon’s Lick school house, nine miles east of here, James Rogers shot and instantly killed his brother-in-law, Bud Ledford. Rogers states that Ledford drew a knife on him and advanced over a remark made by him, Rogers. Ledford is survived by a widow and four small children. Rogers came to this city late Sunday evening and gave himself up to the officers. Fountain Land shot and killed his stepson, B. Land, Sunday with a pistol. The younger Land was under the influence of liquor and had been trying all day to provoke a difficulty with his stepfather. It culminated in the killing of young Land, who was advancing on his stepfather with an uplifted ax, when he was killed. The dead man was about 35 years old and single. He bore the reputation of being quarrelsome. Fountain Land is a farmer and a good citizen. The killing occurred in Madison, just across the line from this city. Lee, George	AA	On Saturday night, Mat. Tevis and Geo. Lee, two Negroes, the latter from Paris, became involved in a difficulty over a game of cards and a fight resulted, during the progress of which Tevis was stabbed in the region of the kidneys from the effects of which he will probably die. On learning of the affair, officer Ben Allen went in search of Lee, found and arrested him. He was warned by Allen that he would be shot if he attempted to escape, but he gave no heed to the warning but ran. Allen shot at him the bullet striking him in the back. He was placed in jail where his wound was examined and pronounced not mortal. On Monday night, however, he grew worse and about 10 o'clock died. The coroner held an inquest yesterday afternoon which completely exonerated Mr. Allen from all blame. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 4-25-1888

Lee, Larkin	A fatal affray Larkin Lee stabbed to death Thursday night by John Hopper About eight o'clock Thursday night a difficulty occurred on what is known as "Rat Row," a suburb on the Southern side of the city. John Hopper, aged about sixty years stabbed and killed Larkin Lee. Coroner Brinegar was at a house not far away and he arrested Hopper and lodged him in jail. He held an inquest the following day with the following jury, viz: Wiley J. Watts, S.P. Gannon, H.T. Williams, J.M. Lawrence, O.N. Todd and Gus Aldridge. From the testimony before the jury it appears that the men had been drinking at Hopper's home and that Lee had left and started to town. Hopper followed him and forced him to go back and go to bed. Hopper being armed with a big stick and a shotgun. After forcing Lee to lie down, Hopper approached the bed, when Lee grappled with him and threw him down on the bed and held him down. When he released Hopper the latter stabbed him just below the heart. Lee walked out into the yard and fell dead. The jury, after hearing the evidence returned the verdict in accordance with the facts, and expressed the opinion that the crime was murder. Lee had about attained his majority and last summer married the daughter of the old blind fiddler, Charles, who frequently comes here. Neither Hopper nor Lee bore a very good reputation in the community. The remains of Lee were buried by the county in the paupers graveyard. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 11, 1908 Will be held today The examining trial of John Hopper for the murder of Larkin Lee will be held before Judge Evans today. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 11, 1908 Warned to leave The two daughters of John Hopper who killed Larkin Lee, on Rat Row last week, reported that an unsigned note had been received by them warning them to leave the community, but that they would not obey the demand. The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 14, 1908 Held over The examination of John Hopper for the murder of Larkin Lee was held before Judge Evans Friday and at its conclusion Hopper was held over to the sum of $1,250 for his appearance at Circuit court. Hopper was unable to give bail and was remanded to jail to await the action of Circuit court. Lee, Robert E.	A Little Bit of History Gen. Robert E. Lee was born in 1808, graduated from West Point in 1829, and died Oct. 12, 1870. He was buried beneath the chapel of the University of Lexington, Va. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 7-13-1892 Lee's Birthday Robert E. Lee was born Jan. 19, 1802 and died Oct. 12, 1870. He deserves to be classed with our greatest American citizens. On account of his distinguished character and especially because of his services as Commander-In-Chief of the Confederate forces during the Civil War, the Ex-Confederates and the Daughters of the Confederacy observe the day of his birth. The exercises this year will be held in the Courthouse next Thursday at 1 p. m. Capt. Leeland Hathaway will deliver the address. The Sun-Sentinel Thur., Jan. 12, 1905

Lee, Robert E.		A double existence On June 6 th , Judge Robert E. Lee, of Louisa, committed suicide by taking morphine, at Huntington, W.Va. He had come to Louisa sixteen years before, studied law and had been successful in politics. Nothing was known of his early life. It has just been found out that he was Robert Weaver, of Fleming county, who disappeared about that time. He attended Kentucky Wesleyan College for three years and took a course of study intended to fit him for the ministry. He leaves a wife and six children. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 31, 1908

Lee, Sim	AA	To Be Hung Thomas Stout was on Friday sentenced to be hung by a Lexington jury for the murder of Sim Lee. Five prisoners are in the Lexington jail under sentence of death. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Jan. 16, 1906 Another Hanging Due The Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of the Fayette Circuit Court which gave Tom Stout the death penalty for killing Sim Lee in that county. Both are negroes and fell out over a tobacco crop in which they were partners. Gov. Beckham will fix the date of the execution. The Winchester Democrat Tue., June 11, 1906 Another hanging Lexington will have another hanging today. Thomas Stout, a negro, will be hung for the murder of Thomas Lee, another negro. The Winchester Democrat Friday, November 23, 1906 Hung for murder Thomas Stout, Jr., a negro aged twenty-four years, was hung at Lexington Friday for the murder of Sim Lee, another negro. Stout claimed to the last that he killed Lee in self-defense. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, November 27, 1906 Young mother Accused of murder, collapsed when murderer marched to his death Lexington, Ky., - As pathetic as was the execution of Thomas Stout in the yard of the county jail, there was a scene enacted on the third floor of the jail building that brought tears to the eyes of even the experienced sheriff and his deputies. As the death march began from Stout's cell to the gallows, the wails of a young woman were heard by the officers, and Holt was made for a moment to ascertain the origin of the sounds. They were the cries of Mrs. Etta Griffiths, wife of Nolan Griffiths, herself under indictment for the murder of her 15-month-old-babe. Mrs. Griffiths occupied a cell on the third floor, directly overlooking the jail yard, and since the workman began the erection of the scaffold on which Stout was to meet his doom Mrs. Griffiths has been in a state of almost total collapse. As Stout and the guards passed from the jail to the gallows Mrs. Griffiths was removed to the cell vacated by the doomed man in order that she would not see nor hear the drop. Mrs. Griffiths was arrested on a warrant sworn out by her husband's mother, charging her with murder, and the recent grand jury found a true bill against her. Stout was executed for the murder of Sim Lee, committed several months ago. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 4, 1906

Leisure, Thomas	Almost Reached Shore. Believed by some friends that he did not try to reach it. Owensboro, Ky., April 17 – Did Thomas Leisure want to have a reconciliation with his wife? This is the question which is being asked by those who saw him drown in Rough river. Some time ago Leisure separated from his young wife. Friends have been endeavoring to restore peaceful relations between the two, but not until recently did they succeed in obtaining the consent of the young man to return to his wife's home and talk over their differences together. To reach the home it was necessary for him to cross Rough river. The high waters of the spring had washed away the bridges and Leisure had about decided to abandon his visit when he suddenly exclaimed that he would swim across the river. He could see his wife's home and she was awaiting his coming, willing for the reconciliation. He removed his coat and plunged into the water. When within 10 feet of the opposite shore he called to his friends on the bank that he was drowning. Without struggling he sank and did not rise. His body was recovered. It is believed by some of the friends that he did not try to reach the shore. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 20, 1906

LeMaster, Gary Tony	Gary Anthony "Tony" LeMaster, 50, of Winchester, Kentucky went home to worship at the feet of his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on Sunday, October 11th 2020. Born on January 5th, 1970 in Ashland, Kentucky, he is preceded in death by his parents, Gary Blucher LeMaster and Nola Ward LeMaster, as well as his paternal and maternal grandparents, Blucher LeMaster and Hannah Ferguson LeMaster, and Phillip Ward and Amanda Franklin Ward. Tony grew up in Ashland, Kentucky where he was a member of the Paul G. Blazer Football and Baseball Tomcats. After graduating high school, he attended Cumberland College (University of the Cumberlands) as a member of their Indian Football team. While at Cumberland, he was a member of the 1988 undefeated football team and a Mid-South Conference 2nd Team recipient. He was later inducted into the Cumberland Athletic Alumni Hall of Fame as a member of the '88 Team. A gentle giant at heart, Tony was an Offensive Lineman known as Goon to those he protected and served on the field. Tony loved sports and passing on his love and knowledge to future generations. He was a former coach for the Winchester YMCA, Civitan Football, Little League Baseball, Clark Middle School Football and Baseball teams, and GRC Football. He loved, and was devoted to, each and every one of his players. During the off-season, Tony was an Assistant Executive Director of the Nike Coach of the Year Clinics in Charlotte, North Carolina, as well as the Technology Event Director for the Nike Coach of the Year Clinics in Louisville, Kentucky. Tony was an active and dedicated member of Grace Baptist Church where he served as an Interim Youth Group Leader and helped care for the church grounds as a member of the lawn crew. Tony enjoyed fellowship with his brothers and sisters in Christ through many different events at the church. Returning to Cumberland years later, Tony served as President of the Alumni Association, giving back to the school he felt had paved the way for his future successes. During this time, he helped with fundraisers for student scholarships, homecoming events, and other various activities. Tony was a former employee of IBM in Lexington, Kentucky and was currently employed with the University of Kentucky Medical Center's IT/Operations Department in Lexington, Kentucky. Tony was a devoted family man, dedicated husband, loving father, brother, and uncle. He was an encouraging role model to all. Tony continues to bless others through organ and tissue donation. He is survived by his wife of 28 years, Vicki E. (Helton) LeMaster of Winchester; his children, Emma Renee Campbell (TJ) of Bowmanville, Ontario Canada, Benjamin Austin LeMaster, and Harley Blu LeMaster both of Winchester. He is also survived by brother Robert (Shelly) LeMaster and Sister Tonya LeMaster; his mother in law Carol S. Lemen, Mrs. J. G.	Deaths. Wm. J. Bryan in the commoner: "A noble woman passed from earth when Mrs. J. G. Lemen of Council Bluffs, Iowa, died. She was matron of the Christian Home at Council Bluffs, of which her husband, Rev. J. G. Lemen, is manager. For years Rev. and Mrs. Lemen devoted their lives to caring for unfortunate little ones, and their sacrifices and devotion to their work stamped them as zealous Christians. Hundreds of little ones have been rescued from misery and saved from lives of sin by the efforts of Rev. and Mrs. Lemen. During all the years of their management of the Christian Home they never asked a dollar from the public, but depended upon the free and unsolicited offerings of

	those who understand the work they are doing. And it is a credit to the Christian fellowship of the generation that the faith of this good man and wife has never been shaken, and that their prayers have been abundantly answered. The death of "Mama" Lemen, as she was affectionately known to thousands, is a great loss to charitable circles." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 7, 1902

Letton, Mrs. Florence Longmoor		Peculiar Accident to a Kentucky Central Train. A special from Paris Monday give the following account of a peculiar accident that happened to a north-bound train. "The passenger train on the Kentucky Central branch of the Louisville and Nashville, which passed here at 7:58 o'clock this morning, caught fire when near Talbot station, three miles from this city. The smoking-car was destroyed, and several passengers were badly injured. A plumber had placed a can of gasoline by the door next the baggage car, and M.H. Applegate, the newsboy, lit a cigarette and threw the match down, not noticing the can. Some oil on the outside caught fire, and Wm. Tar, who sat near the door opened it and attempted to kick the can out, but knocked the stopper out, and the oil caught fire and enveloped the car in flames. Men rushed for the doors and some jumped through the windows, but not until the train had stopped. The most seriously burned are G. C. Lockhart, the L. and N. attorney, William Tarr, the distiller, Dr. John W. Jameson, John W. McShain, County Assessor, Robert Goggon, drummer for the Power Wholesale Grocery Company, all of Paris, M. H. Applegate, newsboy of Cincinnati, William Ballenger, of Kiserton and Red Crawford of Louisville, it was a miracle that no one was killed. Mr. Crawford's hand was badly burned by helping to get the corpse of Mrs. Florence Longmoor Letton from the baggage car, the remains being on their way to Covington for burial." Lewis, Asa K.	Among the "Prominent old Families of Kentucky" in the Industrial American we find the following sketch of a noted Clark county man. Asa K. Lewis, was educated at Transylvania University, and afterward graduated at Princeton, also graduating in Law there. He was a man of more than ordinary talent and ability with very refined and polished manners, and was very popular. He practiced law for a few years in Mt. Sterling, Ky., and was afterwards Judge of the County Court of Clark County for several years, but finally retired to his farm in that county and could not be induced to hold any political office, contending that he was disgusted with political affairs and professional business. He owned and resided on a large and excellent farm about six miles north of Winchester, in Clark County; being a one-fourth interest in the 3,600

	acres purchased by his father, Thomas Lewis, from Gest. He was a Major in the War of 1872 and displayed great bravery in the military service especially at Dudley's defeat, where he took a very prominent part and gained distinction for courage and skill. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 15, 1893. Died in Arkansas. Near Helena, Arkansas last Monday, Mrs. Sarah Lipscomb died, aged about seventy years. She was a native of this county, a daughter of the late Asa Lewis. Her husband, Josiah Lipscomb, was from Madison county and was a brother of the late Squire Nathan Lipscomb, of this county. She was a most estimable woman and highly regarded to all who knew her. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 27, 1898.

Lewis, Oscar	Fingers clutched limb So tight that they had to be cut open by his rescuer Harrodsburg, Ky., - Oscar Lewis, a farmer, was drowned, and Miller Burch, his neighbor, had a thrilling experience while going home from this place. The men were in a two horse wagon and attempted to ford Three Lick Creek, which was swollen by an all-day rain. They drove into the water and before they realized it the horses were washed off their feet and the wagon upset. Lewis was caught under the wagon bed, and together with the struggling team, was rushed downstream. They were found by a searching party a half mile below the ford. Lewis and the horse were dead, but the mule had managed to keep his head above water, although nearly dead. He was cut loose from the harness and rescued by Frank Votaw, who swam out in the steam with a knife in his teeth. When the wagon upset, Burch, who did not know how to swim, was swept out on the current, but managed to grab a small limb. The supple limb bent and curved with the weight of his body, and as the raging water rushed by he was plunged up and down in the flood, but though almost fainting, he kept his hold. He called for help with all the breath that was left in him, but it was three hours before aid reached him. Neighbors finally came to the scene and Charles Shelton volunteered to go to the rescue. Burch was almost frozen from being in the water so many hours and his hands were so stiff from his desperate clutch on the limb that his fingers had to be pried open by his rescuer. Lewis, Robert Burton	A Brutal Murder. Crowds Are After a Negro Who Killed a Little White Boy. Princeton, Ky., April 22.—A brutal murder occurred at the lime works Monday afternoon. Arthur Jones, colored, shot and instantly killed Bowling Lewis, a white boy. Lewis caught hold of a truck used in hauling cross ties and Jones ordered him to take his hands off. Lewis laughingly refused, whereupon Jones drew a revolver and fired, the ball taking effect in the right breast, causing instant death. Jones escaped. Sheriff Jones is after him with a posse. It is feared he will be lynched. Lewis lived in Rowland, Nelson county, Kentucky. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 25, 1902 The Grave Was Opened. Murdered Man Identified By the Signs His Mother Knew. Louisville, Ky., May 13.—When Mrs. Sarah H. Lewis, of Louisville, read that Bowling Lewis, killed at Princeton by an unknown Negro, had relatives in Bardstown, she investigated, and had the grave opened. By marks on the body she identified her son, Robert Burton Lewis, and had the grave marked by a suitable slab. She learned that her son, after he was shot, had been allowed to lie four hours by the side of a railroad track unattended, because, it is said, the railroad people, by whom he was employed, did nothing. The coroner's verdict stated that with proper attention Lewis would have recovered. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 16, 1902

Order Book 4; P. 385-386; February Court 1810 There is a post and panel fence around the family burying ground on the Lewis farm, about seven miles northeast of Winchester, built about sixty years ago which is made entirely of Kentucky marble. There are one hundred feet of fence, and the panels are five feet long, ten inches wide and five inches thick, and are dove-tailed into the posts, which are about one foot square and three and a half high. The post holes were dug down to solid rock, which forms the foundation for the posts, making the entire fence as solid as if nature had been the architect. It is as sound today as when first put up, and will doubtless stand for centuries if no other power than that of the elements is brought to bear upon its destruction. This is probably the only fence of its kind in the United States, and is a fit example of the thorough manner in which the old Kentucky gentleman always did things.

	The Democrat Wednesday June 5, 1889 Among the "Prominent old Families of Kentucky" in the Industrial American we find the following sketch of a noted Clark county man. Asa K. Lewis, was educated at Transylvania University, and afterward graduated at Princeton, also graduating in Law there. He was a man of more than ordinary talent and ability with very refined and polished manners, and was very popular. He practiced law for a few years in Mt. Sterling, Ky., and was afterwards Judge of the County Court of Clark County for several years, but finally retired to his farm in that county and could not be induced to hold any political office, contending that he was disgusted with political affairs and professional business. He owned and resided on a large and excellent farm about six miles north of Winchester, in Clark County; being a one-fourth interest in the 3,600 acres purchased by his father, Thomas Lewis, from Gest. He was a Major in the War of 1872 and displayed great bravery in the military service especially at Dudley's defeat, where he took a very prominent part and gained distinction for courage and skill. Lewis, William Sr.		Oldest fisherman Mr. Wm. Lewis, Sr., of Nashville, Tenn., is here, accompanied by his wife, visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Lewis was born in this county, 73 years ago. His wife is 66 years of age. Her maiden name was Malinda Elkin Tracy, also a native of this county. Thirteen children were born to them, all living: Mrs. Geo. Hart and Mrs. J.A. Griggs, of this city, Mrs. J.A. Myers, of Nashville; the following sons living in Nashville: E.T., Wm., Jr., Thos. D., L.T., Alpheus S. and James P. B.A. lives in Seattle, Wash., J.T. and O.T. in Chicago and Asa. K., in San Francisco. The Nashville Banner has recently published some interesting interviews with Mr. Lewis. Among them is the following: "When I started fishing we didn't have these jointed Japanese rods you use now, but had what we used to call the 'East India cane.' They were fifteen or sixteen feet long and smooth. Then the Meek's celebrated reel came out and we used them on the long poles. I remember the first reel I ever had. It was made by Snider, of Paris, Ky. I have it still and it's good for service now. Another one of my fishing possessions of which I am mighty proud is a gaff hook made way back in 1847 by my uncle, Acy Lewis. Then I've still got a No.2 Meek reel I've had over fifty years and it's as good as new now. Then I have one modern reel given me by one of my boys." William Lewis is just full of fishing stories. He remembers every detail of many exciting incidents of his younger days and can relate many marvelous stories. He never "stretches the blanket" any, however, and impresses a hearer before he begins a narrative that he's going to tell the truth and not wander into fields of fishing license. There's a good one he tells of a trip on the beautiful Kentucky river. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, October, 10, 1907

Lewis, Wilson		Judge Wilson Lewis, of Harlan county, was killed Wednesday by his son, Sydney Lewis. Judge Lewis made himself famous while County Judge as leader of the Law and Order faction which carried on a war with the famous Wilson Howard gang a year or so ago. Through his efforts Wils. Jennings was sent to the penitentiary for life. Wills. Howard was driven from the State and order restored in Harlan. His son, who killed him, is 21 years old and has the reputation of being a fighter. He was by his father's side during all his fights with the Howard gang, but lately he and his father fell out and the Judge had him bound over to keep the peace. This made matters worse and the father and son met in the barn. No one was present, but the son was seen to empty his five shooter into his father's body; either bullet would have killed him. The son escaped and has not been caught. Lexington Courthouse Fire		Twice in the last two weeks has the Lexington Courthouse been on fire and under such circumstances as to point without doubt to incendiarism. It is thought by many that the purpose was to burn the county records where Frank Searce has forged the release to so many mortgage releases. It is thought that more than one prominent man is interested in his work and has profited by his crimes, and the idea in having the Courthouse fired was to destroy the evidences of his guilt. Among the articles destroyed in the last fire

	was the old gallows which has figured in many sensational events. The first man executed on it was Isaac Turner, a negro, who shot another negro named Ray on Mrs. Gay's place near Chilesburg in 1881. The next victim was Dan Timberlake, colored, who killed a negro near Lexington. The next execution was that of John Bush, colored, for the murder of Miss Annie VanMeter. This was probably the hardest fought trial of the kind in the State. Bush was at work for Mr. VanMeter and becoming angry went to his cabin and got his gun and shot Miss VanMeter who was standing in front of the house. The defense was that the shooting was accidental and that even then her death was the result of want of medical attendance and not of the wound. The first trial resulted in a hung jury. The second gave Bush a death sentence. The Court of Appeals reversed this and sent it back. Again he was sentenced to death and this time the Court of Appeals affirmed the decision. It was carried to the Supreme Court of the United States which set aside the decision of both Courts and ordered the prisoner to be discharged. This was done, when Bush was again arrested on a new indictment for the same crime and again convicted, which verdict was sustained by the higher courts and he was finally hung. The next subject of outraged justice was Tuck Agee, who killed his brother-in-law, Falconer, to obtain possession of a little piece of land in which both were interested. Agee was a white man who lived on Todd's road between Pine Grove and Lexington. The execution of Tom O'Brien for the murder of Bettie Shea is of so recent a date that all remember the details. The old gallows has also played an important part in the "shuffling off the mortal coil" for murders in other places, Sam Bulger, colored, was hung on it at Maysville for rape, his victim being a little school girl, daughter of a prominent farmer. Another negro, from Nicholasville, made his exit from this platform. Pat Hunt, of Paris, was hung on it for the murder of Rick Thomas. The crowning celebrity of the old instrument of death was the hanging of Neal and Craft at Ashland. The excitement attending this trial is well known and the discomforts of the State Guard, who were called upon to protect them, has given many of the citizens of this section their only taste of the trials of actual warfare. The Winchester Democrat; Wednesday, November 29, 1893 Workman Horribly Mangled. Liddle, Gordon	On December 23, 2018 my beloved husband Gordon P. Liddle, PhD. Peacefully left this planet. He will be missed by his loving wife, family members, and friends. He was loved and respected by those who had met him. I want to share with you his last Christmas letter he wrote in October 2018. Christmas 2018 I have been writing Christmas letters since my first wife and I married in 1948, started growing a family, camping thru the West, and becoming involved professionally and personally trying to improve our world. Unlike many I was given the tools, the advantages: I was born a white American and with good genes. My parents valued education and thru their efforts and those of their parents had enough resources to assist their children to understand and appreciate the world around them. I was surrounded by a loving, supportive environment which encouraged and achievement. I have worked moderately hard, but in general have had an easy rewarding life. I expected friends be loyal, family be supportive, bosses to be fair, work loads to be reasonable, etc. and generally my expectations were realized. My supportive environment furthered a sense of community and safety. My father worked more hours than I would have liked but I admired his dedication to the young people he was trying to help. Occupationally he was a YMCA secretary usually, but he took leave to head the federal emergency relief agency for Maryland during the early Roosevelt administration and later during WWII the USO for Maryland, both as second jobs without pay. At work and in his Sunday School class he tried to help youth achieve their job and marriage goals. The depression frequently required night school and took longer. As a boy dad often let me follow him around so I learned that young peoples' lives were often made difficult by the economics of a world they felt powerless to change. At 19 I got a Navy commission. My dark skinned companions couldn't become radiomen, gunners, etc. They could only make my bed and serve my meals. How unfair, and also wasteful. The great depression and WWII were central to my learning and provided openings for my skills, modest as they were and are. When I left the Navy for graduate school, the very first black faculty members were being employed by the colleges I chose, Oberlin and the U. of Chicago. Dark skinned students and Jews began to be valued colleagues and friends. One of them who couldn't get a job as a school principal in our town later became Chicago's superintendent. I began to have black colleagues and doctoral students. Still they couldn't swim at the Y, eat at the Lincoln Douglas Hotel or be sure of a job when integration arrived, so I turned to helping the Civil Rights movement along as a local leader but not as one whose life or career was on the line. Our family members treated everyone with caring and respect and did what we could to become world citizens. Others did much more but we have made a difference in moves toward world citizenship. All of our grandchildren are fluent in another language and many have worked internationally and they think and care worldwide. As a former professor of Life Span Human Development I can see major changes within myself which indicate for the first time that this may be my last Christmas letter. If so I've had a long pleasant stay in a supportive community that shares my thinking and understanding and a commitment to change when needed. From my family, and particularly from my wife, who reminds me that there is still much that I can do, this is not the end, but I can see signs of disability and withdrawal. Even with closed captions on TV, people talk faster and I lose some of the meaning. Dialogues and movie plots become too difficult to follow; after 31 years I gave up being on the Clark County water board; even with new hearing aides I miss much in meetings at NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness), support group for adults struggling with their mental illness. On my best days I can partially participate in aerobics but generally my stroke last year severely cut what I can do physically. Jutta and I continue our normal activities. She is very involved with the Mental Health court and other activities with mentally ill adults and continues her private practice part time but I take more of her time. This year I have had three heart surgeries with little pain or suffering and the best of care, but I'm now an old man, and if my abilities decline further, I'm ready to leave. I've had a good ride with the kind of people I respect and enjoy. At present life is still worth living and Compassionate Choices and others are giving us choices for a good death. I talked with my brother twice the day before he died. We knew the end was at hand but we were still two friends communicating what to us was important. Share your thoughts, time, and money, live fully. I just have found that giving money to people I know and being in need it is generally more satisfying

	than other giving. In general my vision is affected moderately but more importantly my breathing problem has sharply increased and so even dressing seems like a day's work. The process of aging makes me appreciate more my parents, present family members, and special friends. My principal regret is that I did not spend more time with those close to me. Best wishes, Gordon A memorial service will be held at a later date. The Winchester Sun December 27, 2018

She is also survived by her grandchildren, Molly Lightner of Morrilton, Florida, Mary Lightner and Raymie Lightner of Ocala, Florida, Brittany Dykeman Neely (Danny) and Wyler Dykeman of Winchester. She is also survived by her great grandchildren, Will, Carter and Adalyn Dykeman of Winchester, Kentucky, Emma and Joe Lightner of High Springs, Florida and Margaret Dean and Danny Steele Neely, III of Winchester, Kentucky. She is also survived by her brother, Linville Puckett (Jodi) of Lexington, Kentucky and by many much loved nieces and nephews. Elizabeth was a beautiful, Christian lady loved by all who ever knew her. She was a graduate of Clark County High School, a member of Calvary Christian Church, and formerly the Mason Jar Lady of the Mason Jar Restaurant in Ocala, Florida. She relished her time at the Mason Jar loving on everyone who came through the doors

	there. Elizabeth was a fantastic Southern cook. She cooked Sunday Dinner for her family for over fifty years. She hooked rugs and made flower arrangements for Calvary Christian Church for many years. Elizabeth loved attending all the sports events in which her grandchildren played. She became "Nana" to all their team mates. She was part of several Bible Study Groups. We all remember her being the best ironer in the world. Her clothes didn't dare show a wrinkle. She doted on the grand children and great grand children and dearly loved making them chocolate fudge. She played the piano and taught all her babies to sing "Jesus Loves Me," her favorite hymn. Graveside services will be held at the Orange Hill Cemetery in Williston, Florida on Wednesday, April 14, 2021 at 4:00pm. Lightner, Joe	 Joe Lightner, 92, of Ocala, FL passed away on Wednesday, December 23rd while in the care of the Legacy House, a Hospice facility in Ocala, Florida. He was preceded in death by his parents, Joseph Raymond Lightner, Sr. and Julia Epperson Lightner, infant sister Juliette Lightner, sister Mildred Dillow and daughter Susie Dykeman. He is survived by his wife of 69 years, Elizabeth Lee Puckett Lightner, whom he married on April 26, 1946. Theirs is the greatest love story of all time. From the five and dime where they courted, to the nursing home nearly 70 years later, Joseph's devotion to her is unwavering and true. He is also survived by his son and best friend, Mike and his wife, Sherrie, their daughters Molly and Mary, and son, Joseph Raymond Lightner III and his children, Emma Lee and Joseph Raymond Lightner IV, all of Ocala; son-in-law William Dykeman, his daughter Brittany, her husband Danny Neely and children Margaret Dean and Trip (Danny III), and son, Wyler and his children William, MacCarter and Adalyn, all of Winchester, KY. He was born in Tulsa, Oklahoma on March 15, 1923. Surviving the depression combined with his own hickory nature prepared him for what was to come as he entered service of his country on October 10, 1942. As staff sergeant in the Army Air Forces in the big war, WWII, he was the radio operator, mechanic and gunner on a B-24 Bomber. When their plane crashed on a beach in Italy, he stayed with the plane to get the mayday out so his crew could escape. He never spoke of it. But when asked recently if it hurt when the plane hit the ground he replied, "Hell yes, it hurt!" His humble beginnings and frugal nature prepared him for his career after the war. He owned and operated Lightner Manufacturing and Winchester Box Company in Winchester, Kentucky. He was a hard worker and a smart leader. He had a management development book in his head with bits of wisdom such as "Don't hire a pipe smoker, he already has a job" and "If you have a really tough job, give it to your laziest worker. He'll find the easiest way to get it done." He had a bunch of these. "Bottom Line Joe" retired at 55. Having survived a plane crash prepared him with an outlook to enjoy life. He enjoyed fishing, although no one can recall him ever catching one. He loved horses so much, as there is nothing like hitting an exacta or getting your picture taken in the winner's circle. Having owned many Thoroughbreds throughout the years, his best horse was TREEKSTER, winner of the 1992 California Derby; but his favorite was LIBBY LEE, a minor stakes winner named after his wife. He loved his family. "Fops" never missed one of our ball games. There will be a graveside service befitting our hero, honoring his life at Orange Hill Cemetery, 3240 NE 180 Ave, Williston, Florida at 2PM on Saturday, January 2nd, 2016. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to: Timber Ridge Resident Council, 9848 SW 110th Street, Ocala, FL 34481. The Winchester Sun December 30, 2015 & Scobee Funeral Home

Lilly, Mrs. James J. AA	Killed His Wife He Then Ran To The River And Shot Himself-Tragic Death of Mrs. James J. Lilly Cynthiana, Ky., Oct. 19 James J. Lilly, a well-known and popular colored politician of this city, shot and killed his wife about 9 o'clock Thursday night. The trouble first started when his wife attended a camp meeting held at Berry, this county, about six weeks ago, against his

		wishes, and on her return home he gave her a severe beating. She left him immediately, and has since been making her home with her mother. Late Thursday evening Lilly called at his wife's home and asked to see her. Upon being admitted into her presence he drew a 32-caliber revolver from his pocket and fired, the bullet taking effect in his wife's head. Lilly then sat down and reloaded his revolver, after which he started for the river. Officers were soon on his trail and discovered him on the railroad bridge one mile north of here. When Lilly saw escape was impossible, he plunged into the river below, falling 25 feet before striking the water. He swam to shore, and immediately upon reaching the bank drew the same revolver with which he had slain his wife and attempted suicide, shooting himself in the abdomen, seriously, though not fatally, wounding himself. He was carried to town by officers and placed in jail. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Oct. 23, 1900

Lincoln, Abraham		Abraham Lincoln, aged seventeen years, and the only grandson of Pres. Lincoln, died at London, England, where his father, Robert Lincoln, was minister from this country. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 12, 1890. While making a professional call at the old stone house near Thatcher's Mill, in Bourbon county, Mr. Kegley said: "They say that Abe Lincoln was born in this house." According to tradition the birth of the 'rail splitter' president was a very remarkable event as more than a dozen different houses claim the honor of being his birth place. Before us is a history of "The Early Life of Abraham Lincoln" by Miss Ida M. Tarbell. In this book we find evidence which places beyond a doubt the place and date and legitimacy of Abraham Lincoln's birth. Rev. Jesse Head, a Methodist minister, certifies that on the 12th day of June 1806, he solemnized the rites of matrimony between

	Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks. The late Dr. C. C. Graham, of Louisville, born in 1784, and who died in 1885, was a guest at this wedding. The record shows further that Lincoln was born the 12 th day of February, 1809, at what was then known as the "Rock Spring Farm." About three miles south of Hodgenville in Larue county, Ky. The foregoing is perhaps as authentic as any other facts of history. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 27, 1900

Lindon, J. W.	Death Of Judge Lindon J. W. Lindon died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Hargis, near this city, Friday after a lingering illness, and at an advanced age. The remains were carried to Jackson for burial. He had been County Judge of Breathitt county, and even before the civil war was a power in politics in that county. He was an enthusiastic Democrat and his advice was much sought for. His wife died a couple of months ago. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Nov., 6, 1900 Will Probated The will of Judge J. W. Lindon, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Hargis, a few days ago, was probated Monday. He had given his daughter, Mrs. Ida B. Gambill, a farm worth $2,500, which he considered her share of the estate; hence the balance of the estate was given to his daughter Mrs. A. H. Hargis. Senator Hargis was named as executor and Harry Crawford, T. J. Engle and A. R. Sphar were appointed appraisers. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Nov. 27, 1900

Lindsay, Mrs. Mattie Lou	In life's morning The gentle spirit of Mrs. Joseph S. Lindsay passes into eternal rest – burial this afternoon That the ways of Divine providence are ever mysterious has again been verified in the taking of Mrs. Mattie Lou Lindsay, wife of Mr. Joseph S. Lindsay, whose sad death occurred at seven o'clock Monday morning. She was stricken just two weeks ago and from the complicated nature of her ailment, it was feared from the beginning her case was hopeless. Medical skill, professional nursing, and constant attention from family and friends were of no avail, and many were the hearts saddened by the announcement

	of her untimely and particularly sad death as, beside her devoted young husband, she leaves two little babies, the youngest a few weeks old, the other also too young to realize the loss of a mother's love and devotion, but to them she has left the heritage of a well spent life, and her love for them now comes from her Sainted Spirit above. Mrs. Lindsay was a sweet, gentle lady of a retiring disposition, her whole pleasure being centered in her family circle and church, and of her beautiful Christian life, those who knew and loved her can best testify, and realize the break caused by the relentless hand of death. To her bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Hunt, and to her devoted husband, The Democrat joins a host of friends in sympathy and condolence. The funeral will take place this afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence and the burial will be in the Winchester cemetery with services at the grave by Eld. J.W. Harding and Rev. J.J. Porter. The following will act as pall bearers: Active – Asa Barrow, John F. Davis, Harvey Franklin, Elkin Hunt, A. Gus Hunt, and O.T. Sudduth. Honorary – B.F. Curtis, Rev. Richard French, W.H. Lindsey, Mrs. Malinda	Died, May 19 th at the home of her son-in-law, Wm. Scott of Lexington, Mrs. Malinda Lindsey, aged 86 years. Several years ago she fell and broke her hip from which she never recovered. A second fall recently, doubtless hastened her death. She was a native of this county and had a large circle of relatives, her maiden name being Elkin. Three children survive her, Mrs. D. J. Pendleton, of this city and Wm. Lindsey and Mrs. Wm. Scott of Fayette county. Her brother, Zeke Elkin, Sr., is the only survivor of a large family of brothers and sisters. She was a good Christian woman and for sixty-one years had been a member of the Baptist church at Goshen, this county. The funeral was preached by Rev. J. Shouse. The pall-bearers were her three grandsons, F. P. Pendleton, Charles Scott, Wm. Lindsey, Jr., and three nephews, Edward Halley, Henry Halley and John Payne. The Democrat Wednesday May 22, 1889 Rev. Wm. Rupard will preach at the residence of Capt. D. J. Pendleton on South Main street, Wednesday, August 14 th at 3 o'clock, P. M. For many years Bro. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 6, 1901. Death of Claiborne Lisle A prominent citizen and well known farmer passes away – Sketch of his life The death of Claiborne Lisle, which occurred Monday was not unexpected and was the culmination of a long and busy life. But little seemed to be the matter and his death was simply the sunset of old age. Nearly ninety years ago he was born in the Southern part of the county and had lived all his life in the same neighborhood. He was a fine business man and in his vocation as a farmer he made money. By judicious investments he increased his holdings and at his death, or at least before he had deeded his real estate to his children, he was quite a rich man. He was affable and easily approached and few men had done more to help those who needed financial backing or financial assistance than he. His wife, who was Miss Hampton before her marriage died many years ago. Two daughters, Mrs. T. Jeff Eubanks, and Mrs. James Duckworth and one son, Hon. Marcus Lisle, preceded him to the grave. Three sons, James. D., Connie and Thomas, and two daughters, Mrs. Pora Oliver and Mrs. Jesse Hodgkin, survive him. The remains were buried Wednesday morning in the Winchester cemetery with services at the grave by Rev. Richard French and Elder James W. Harding. The pall bearers were Sam Hodgkin, Jr., Charles Lisle, Ben K. Duckworth, Harry Lisle, M.W. Lisle and Ernest Lisle. The honorary pall bearers were: N.H. Witherspoon, J.W. Hunt, Dr. J.W. Johnson, A. Hood Hampton, J.F. Winn, J.A. Bybee, J.M. Stevenson, and J.H. Croxton.

He was a strong man of strong convictions and could easily have made himself a leader of men. However, he did not aspire to public position. At the time of his death he was Vice President of the Winchester bank. He was a good citizen and his death will be greatly regretted. At a meeting of the Directors of The Winchester Bank the following resolutions were passed:

ACTION TAKEN BY BANK:

The Board of Directors of the bank desire to express profound sorrow at the death of Claiborne Lisle, which occurred on Tuesday, January 18, 1910, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jesse N. Hodgkin, near Elkin, Clark county, Ky., in the 90th year of his age. Mr. Lisle was one of the original incorporators of this bank and from that time has been constantly one of its most valued and efficient officers, and at the time of his death was its Vice President. To his faithful and intelligent care and oversight must be attributed in a large measure the success and high position which this institution has attained. He was a man of unusual business capacity, spotless integrity and strong personality, which made him a tower of strength to the entire community as well as the association with which he was connected for so many years. His influence for good in the community was unceasing, and will continue in many channels long after his removal from us. As a citizen he was an exemplary man, a man of uncompromising integrity, of high morals, clean in every transaction of his life, prudent in business, faithful to every trust, and was as true as steel to his friends. He has passed from our midst to enter upon the larger activities for which his life was a fitting preparation. It is ordered that this minute be spread upon the records of the bank, and that a copy of the same be sent to his family and furnished to the press for publication. Attest: W.R. Sphar, Secretary. January 20, 1910.

The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 21, 1910

Will probated

The will of Clairborne Lisle was probated Monday. The will of Clairborne Lisle was dated December 20th, 1909. It provides for the payment of all debts and that he shall be buried decently but without ostentation. A suitable stone shall be erected at his grave with the inscription: "What conscience dictates to be done, or warns me not to do, is more than Hell to shun, or Heaven pursue." It recites that all real estate had been conveyed by deed except lot in cemetery which is left free for the burial of any children who may desire to be buried there. Each of the living children of J.D. Lisle is left one thousand dollars except Jesse, who is given $500. These legacies are left to the children instead of the father because he has a mania for speculation and it would soon be squandered. Each of the five living children of Lou Ann Eubank and each of the three living children of Nancy C. Duckworth, is left five hundred dollars. Ernest C. Lisle is left one dollar, the will saying that his father, Marcus Lisle, had received more than the other children. Mrs. Minerva Hodgkin is given ten shares of Building and Loan stock, the dues on same to be paid out of the estate. This is in recognition of her care and attention during testators' sickness. Minerva Hodgkin, Thomas Lisle and the children of D.C. Lisle were each given twenty-one shares of Winchester Bank Stock and Mrs. Pora Oliver 12 shares of the same. She to have proceeds for life and at her death to go to Charles Oliver. Testator owned fourteen shares of stock in a bank at White city, Kansas, and two and a half shares in the Louisville National Banking Co. These are to be sold and with the proceeds from his notes and choses in action, to be used in paying the cash legacies given. What is left is to be given equally to Mrs. Hodgkin, Thomas Lisle and the children of D. C. Lisle, and if there is a deficit they are to make it up. Thos. Lisle and H. Clay Hodgkin are named as executors without bond. A codicil of the same date prescribes, if any legatee attempts to break the will he is to lose what is left to him.

Card of thanks

We desire to tender our heartfelt thanks to the neighbors and friends for their sympathy and ministrations during the illness and death of our father and grandfather, Claiborne Lisle; and especially are grateful for the numerous floral offerings and for the resolutions of sympathy from the Directors of the Winchester Bank, of which institution he had so long been a faithful official.

Will contest

Friday morning a copy of the will of the late Claiborne Lisle and a statement of Ben K. Duckworth, Ernest Duckworth, Esther Couchman and her husband, Frank M. Couchman and E.C. Lisle, all of them grandchildren of the deceased, except Mr. Couchman, versus the other heirs of the deceased, who are named in the statement on appeal from the order of the County court probating the will of Mr. Lisle. This is the first formal step in contesting the validity of the will.

Special term of court

As intimated some time ago, Judge Benton has called a special term of Circuit court for Monday, October 31st, for the trial of the case of Esther Couchman, etc., against the executors of the late Claiborne Lisle: It being an attempt to break the will of the latter.

	Judge Benton has refused to preside and a Special Judge will be appointed to try it. The Winchester Democrat Friday, October 7, 1910 Circuit court A special term of Circuit court for yesterday was called some time ago by Judge Benton and the contest over the will of the late Clairborne Lisle was set for trial. Judge Benton declined to preside, and Governor Willson, was notified. Saturday he appointed Judge Walker, of Lancaster, to preside. Court convened yesterday morning, and the morning of the first day was consumed in securing a jury. The following comprise the jury: Elias Curry, J.J. Thornton, Cliff Haggard, W.S. Keene, Robert G. Wallis, Joe Berryman, J.E. Guilfoyle, J.L. Skinner, W.E. Heflin, Charles Hadley, C.H. Adams, and R.E. Fox. Quite a number of the jurors are performing jury service for the first time. From the array of witnesses the trial of the case may consume several days. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, November 1, 1910 Will broken A special term of Circuit court convened Monday morning to try the contest over the will of the late Claiborne Lisle. It was bitterly contested on both sides and consumed the entire week including some night sessions. Judge Benton declined to preside and Gov. Willson appointed Judge L.L. Walker, of Lancaster, to occupy the bench. Scores of witnesses testified and speeches were made in support of the will by John M. Stevenson, of this city, and Robert Harding, of Danville. In behalf of the contestors, arguments were made by Dwight L. Pendleton of this city and John Allen, of Lexington. The last speech was made Saturday morning and the case was given to the jury. It did not take long for the jury to decide and they soon brought in a verdict that the instrument before them was not the last will and testament of Mr. Lisle. This verdict was signed by ten of the jury, Charles Hadley and Robert Fox refusing to agree to it. A session of court was held late in the afternoon at which time Attorneys for the propounders of the will asked for a new trial and presented grounds for the request. Judge Walker took the matter under advisement and will give his decision at the regular December term of court. The propounders of the will were represented by J.M. Stevenson, Jas. F. Winn, and F.H. Haggard, of this city, and Robert Harding, of Danville. The contestants, by Pendleton & Bush, of this city, and John Allen, of Lexington. The will disposed entirely of personal property as the testator had previously disposed of his real estate by deed. No matter which way Judge Walker decides the question of a new trial, the case will likely go to the Court of Appeals eventually. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, November 8, 1910

Lisle, Clayton	ONE of the saddest accidents that it has been our lot to chronicle for a long time, resulted in the death of Clayton Lisle., the seventeen-year-old son of Squire Jas. D. Lisle Saturday. The young man had a little rifle of which he was very fond, and in the use of which he had become very expert. Saturday he took his gun for the purpose of shooting a crow. While in the house he dropped the breech of the gun or put it down too hard, and the charge exploded. The ball struck near the corner of his mouth and ranged upward into the brain, inflicting a wound from which he died in a few hours without recovering consciousness. Funeral services were held at the family residence and the remains were deposited in the cemetery at this place. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 18, 1893.

This action has been taken after mature consideration and in response to numerous requests from various parts of the district and from among the best Democrats of the counties composing it. He is thoroughly conversant with the politics of the district, having been prominent in the various campaigns of his brother and being in touch with the prominent Democratic leaders everywhere. One of the most prominent factors in arriving at this conclusion was that it was the dying request of Marcus that Connie should succeed him. If this should be the case, the latter could take up the Congressional work where it was left off by our dead

Congressman, as he has been in full touch, with him in regard to all public affairs. If nominated he will add much strength to the ticket in this part of the district. The formal announcement will appear in our next.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 17, 1894.

“Both Judge Beckner and Mr. Connie Lisle state they are willing to submit their claims as candidates for Congress to Clark county for settlement. We shall be very glad to have Clark county settle this matter between these two gentlemen, and certainly, since it is on all hands, conceded that Clark should name the candidate to fill the unexpired term, no fairer adjustment of the matter can be proposed. A settlement such as these gentlemen say they are willing to submit to, will be the very fairest method of disposing of the question. Let us hear from Clark.-Mt. Sterling Advocate.

We do not know the views of either of the gentlemen on this subject, and however this matter is settled, it will give us great pleasure to support either Judge Beckner or Mr. Lisle, and we believe either would make a congressman worthy of the district. The truth of the matter is, no agreement made between these gentlemen is binding upon the Democrats of the district. It has passed beyond them, and the district committee will decide how it is done. While we think it is right and just that the nominee should come from Clark county, we think that the democrats of the Wolfe or any other county should have a say as to which of the Clark county candidates they prefer to support.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 20, 1894.

JUDGE W. M. BECKNER

At the Campton Convention Judge Beckner, of Clark county was recommended to the Democrats of the district as a man in every way qualified to fill out the unexpired term. This recommendation, be it understood, carries combined judgement of the delegates in convention assembled (these delegates, by the way, being representative men of the district). And expressed by them may amount to. It was not proposed to crowd any man off the track, nor do we wish to forestall any good Democrat in his desire to offer for nomination, for this term, by anything we may say of Judge Beckner now, or at any time, till the nominee is declared.

In Judge Beckner we recognize a man of unquestioned ability; a man of wide experience in legislative affairs, and a man of integrity. In short, a man who can fill this short term, not for the money in it, but to the credit and advancement of his State and his district. We sincerely hope there will no one offer for the short term against Judge Beckner, not alone because we recognized in him a peculiar position to which he aspires, but as well because we think the tacit promises of a support from so many delegates, in so many counties, can mean nothing less than needless expense and defeat to any man who opposes him. Judge Beckner will no doubt have a clear field and when elected, will go to Congress so well equipped for the service that he can at once take his place in the ranks of the workers in the House. Almost any other man in the district, who would be willing to accept the nomination would be about as much use to us during this “piece of term,” as a wooden-man.

(When the above was penned we did not know of any opposition to Judge Beckner. Later we are informed Mr. D. Connie Lisle, brother of the late Congressman, is an announced candidate.)-Mt. Sterling Advocate.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 24, 1894.

OFFICERS

Of the Democratic Primary election, Aug 6, 1894.

THE Democratic County Committee met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of appointing election officers and the transaction of other business. S. J. Shinfessel who had been selected as member from Goodes declined to accept and W. F. Clemons was chosen as the member from that voting place.

A mass meeting at the Court house Saturday, August 11th, at two o'clock was ordered, to choose between W. M. Beckner and D. C. Lisle as to which should be considered the choice of the county for the unexpired term of Hon. M. C. Lisle in Congress.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 24, 1894.

The withdrawal of Mr. D. C. Lisle from the contest in the Tenth district for the nomination for the short term for Congress gives Judge W. M. Beckner a walk over for the place, as it is not thought the Republicans will nominate against him, and it will also strengthen Hon. J. M. Kendall, the nominee for the long term, who is now certain to be elected by a good majority. It was feared that a squabble would arise over the short term which would do much damage to the party in the district, but that has now been adjusted. Judge Beckner will strengthen the ticket very materially, as he is a strong man on the stump and with the people, and will make as active canvass not only until the special election, but until November.—Courier-Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 31, 1894

D. C. Lisle, brother of the lamented Congressman, Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, has withdrawn from the race for the nomination to succeed his brother, and the field is clear for Judge W. M. Beckner. He will make a good running mate for Little Joe and, in our humble opinion, they will run so far ahead of Mr. Hopkins that he will have to inquire

“where is he at” when the polls close in November.—Hazel Green herald
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 31, 1894

The withdrawal of Hon. D. C. Lisle of Clark, from the race for Congress leaves Judge W. M. Beckner a clear field for the Democratic nomination for the short term. There is no man in our acquaintance who can so ably fill the unexpired term as can Judge Beckner. He will without doubt be found giving an intelligent reason for his position on every question that comes up, and no Democrat in Congress will be truer to the principles of the party than will Judge Beckner. He will not forget to keep a wide-open eye on anything and everything that concerns his district. We do not care who he is, no man who has represented us or will in future represent this district, will surpass Judge Beckner in a keen interest in all that looks toward the material advancement of Eastern Kentucky. If he had a full term or so before him he would so entrench himself in the good opinion of the masses that it would be next to impossible for any man to beat him.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

Claiborne Lisle this week received a letter from Malcolm Johnson, Consul to Pernambuco, Brazil, expressing sympathy for the death of Hon. M. C. Lisle. Mr. Johnson was appointed from Newberry, South Carolina and formerly purchased horses in this county for the Southern market.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 31, 1894

As has been our custom for the past thirty years we took in the “sarkus” Tuesday. D. C. Lisle was on hand. He said to us at a former circus: “This is an institution that I always patronize. When a little bare-footed boy I drove a yoke of oxen on a show day. After reaching the city with the oxen, which my father had sold, he said: ‘My son, you run along home.’ Well, I tell you, Dock, I never felt so let down in my life. I have been coon-hunting, been to candy pullings, camp meetings, horse races and all other places of amusements but I have never hated to leave a place so badly as I did to leave Winchester and go home that day. I learned in early childhood how good and pleasant it was for father and son to dwell together in harmony, and of course, I went back home; and on my way back I said to myself: ‘When I get to be a man I mean to go to every durn circus that ever comes to Winchester.’” And few resolutions have I ever made that I have kept so faithfully as this one.”

D. C. LISLE DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Former Editor and Postmaster Of This City succumbs Suddenly At His Home In Paris D. C. Lisle, age 73, died suddenly at his home in Paris about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. Heart failure caused death. He arose at his customary hour Wednesday morning and was in apparent good health. Mr. Lisle was in Winchester Monday to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, W. P. Winn, who also died suddenly from the same cause.

Mr. Lisle was a native of Clark County and a son of the late Claybourne Lisle. He married Miss Minnie Winn of this county, who survives him. He was a brother of the late Congressman M. C. Lisle.

The deceased resided in Clark County for a number of years and at one time was editor of the Clark County Democrat. In 1893, when Cleveland was inaugurated, Mr. Lisle was appointed postmaster of Winchester. He held this office for several years before moving to Bourbon county where he engaged in farming and stock raising. In Bourbon county Mr. Lisle although retired from active political life, was prominent in the counsels of his party and served as chairman of the Democratic County Committee several times. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, Winn and Thos. Lisle, and a number of nieces and nephews in Clark county.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Paris Cemetery with Rev. W. E. Ellis officiating.

LISLE

David Cosgrove Lisle, aged about seventy, died suddenly at his home on Link Avenue, early Wednesday Morning, his death coming as a shock to the community that had known him so long. Mr. Lisle had been engaged in doing some work around his home, and came in to breakfast, telling Mrs. Lisle that he did not feel well. Mrs. Lisle went into the kitchen to get him a cup of coffee, and upon her return was horrified to find Mr. Lisle dead.

Mr. Lisle was a native of Clark County, and was well-known throughout-out Central Kentucky. He was for a number of years editor and publisher of The Winchester Democrat. Several years ago he moved to Bourbon County, and was engaged in farming. A few years ago he moved to Paris to make his home, residing on Link Avenue. He was interested in all that pertained to the business of Paris, and gave his time and attention to helping all the movements having the good of the city and community as principal objects. He was a member of the Christian Church.

Besides his widow, who, was before her marriage, Minnie W. Winn, of Winchester, Mr. Lisle is survived by the following children; Mrs White Varden, D. C. Lisle, Jr., and

Lisle, Easter Hampton	A Tribute The incidence so well related by Col. S. M. Boone, in the life of Marcus Lisle makes me glad that the noble mother of the faithful son has not been forgotten. "Childhood days now pass forgotten." "Forms and scenes of long ago crowd memory's walls," and one of the most vivid pictures is the form and face of Easter Hampton Lisle. Life had not been what she expected it, but upon the faithful features there were few lines of deep trouble. Not a murmur ever passed the thin, white lips; she scarcely paused to send a regret into the grave of the past. She loved her children and the example and words of encouragement always brought them nearer to her side. And when thirty-three years ago, a dear boy was laid in the weary arms, perhaps she dreamed of the success she did not live to see. She was never impatient and the course events took were only the fulfilling of the divine plan. Who knows the hopes that lived when she saw the success attendant upon his youth. She passed away before she could behold the battles he fought and won upon this earth. Noble quiet woman! We can almost hear the words of welcome, and the first question asked when heaven's home was reached, "Where's Mother?" Fannie F. Lisle, Frances Marion	DIED Lisle---- Miss Fannie Lisle, died peacefully at midnight last night. Due notice of the funeral will be given. THE LEXINGTON, MORNING TRANSCRIPT JULY 15, 1887 DEATH OF MISS LISLE Miss Fannie Lisle died at her home, three miles west of this city, Thursday night at 12, O'clock. That she must die had been the conviction of her physicians since the Friday preceding. She suffered but little during the last hours of her illness. For the benefit of foreign readers the peculiarly interesting circumstances of her death are reproduced. Miss Lisle was a popular and most attractive member of the highest of the young society of this community. About two weeks since she was returning from a party at the handsome country home of Daniel Swigert Esq. about six miles north of this city. She was being driven in a two horse buggy by a worthy young gentleman named Scarce, and in passing through this city on her way home about 1 o'clock at night the breast yoke of the horses came loose and they ran off, throwing Miss Lisle and Mr. Scarce out in the street. Mr. Scarce was but slightly hurt but Miss Lisle's condition has been regarded as very critical from the beginning and great public solicitude for her welfare has occasioned daily inquiry as to her condition. Though the result is what the community had learned to expect, this calcination of the tragedy will naturally cast a gloom over the elegant young society in which she moved. THE LEXINGTON DAILY PRESS SAT JULY 16, 1887 IN MEMORY OF FRANCES MARION LISLE On the morning of the 30th of June last the residents of Lexington and the State were pained and shocked to hear of the distressing accident which had befallen Miss Frances Marion Lisle. On Thursday morning last she passed peacefully into that dreamless sleep that God has given as a last boon to them who believe in the awakening into His merciful presence. One universal sigh grief, sympathy, and condolence for her death, for her grief-stricken parents, her loved sisters and brothers. But, ah ! how deep the throbs of the aching hearts those who knew and loved her. In spite of tender nursing, skilled physicians, and the prayers of all, she died, and on Thursday morning God took her. Her placid, gentle, lovely life has gone out like the glorious day, when the dying sun paints the clouds with glory, giving promise of another rising on the morrow. Though it leaves us in the twilight to weep for her, yet we, with straining eyes and aching hearts can but think of her gentle spirit soaring to realms made more heavenly by its presence. A woman, pure, true, gentle, beautiful, a womanly woman, a gentle mentor, a brilliant conversationalist, a refined and cultured woman, she was one of the fairest, loveliest flowers that ever graced the garden of society, And thus untimely to be plucked by the hand of God, our human intellects cannot understand why. A tender, delicate flower that bloomed in perfect purity and beauty on earth. Aye even Heaven itself, jealous of the earth for the possession of so fair a bud, struck it down in anger and transplanted it there to Blossom and bloom again. "A perfect nobly planned," Frances Marion Lisle held sway over friends by the hundreds; if she ever experienced grief and disappointments, and who has not, she would not burden others with them, but her joys and her pleasures she was ever anxious to share with those around her. Kind in heart, gentle in manner, sympathetic in feeling, generous and whole-souled, ever ready to aid the unfortunate, ever willing to help the weak, eager to do justice to all always speaking a kind word of others, protecting and cherishing her own self respect and high regard for the noble qualities of others, no unkind word ever passed her lips. Loved by her the bitterness and grief for her ineluctable death is trebled. No woman ever lived of whom more kind things were said. Even the very dumb animals that knew her worshipped Fannie Lisle. Her cheering words, her sweet voice and lovely face invited the Many a young girl's heart has sobbed its secrets out on her bosom in gentle confidence, many a young has had its bleeding wounds bound up and healed by her loving tenderness, many a tear stained face and streaming eye had been brightened and cleared by her gentle touch and soothing hand. The confidant and mentor of her devoted friends, how sadly, how deeply will they as well as all miss her. The people, the press, offer deepest sympathy for her heart-broken family. Did heaven crave another star, The earth is thus to be despoiled of her; That we must count her with things that were, Not with the things that are? Or did God pity her, and take Her, kindly, from this world's harassing strife, Into a purer, and a calmer life For here Redeemer's sake? We know not, yet, how this may be; Our eyes, with bitter tears, are blinded so, We cannot see God's plan, we only know He said "come unto me."

Lisle, will take place from the residence of her father, this evening at 4 o'clock. Services conducted by Elders J. W. McGarvery and John S. Shouse. Friends of the family respectfully invited. THE LEXINGTON DAILY PRESS JULY 16, 1887 A CORRECTION OF AN ERROR REGARDING THE DEATH OF MISS LISLE There is current in this community a report to the effect that the immediate cause of the death of Miss Lisle was erysipelas induced by an attempt of her surgeons to transfer flesh from her arm to her face, by a process which is familiar. The report is entirely without foundation in fact, and has come to the knowledge of Mr. Lisle very much to his regret. This operation is never attempted by skilled surgeons except in instances where the general health of the party to be operated upon is very good. This explanation is not made simply as a means of allaying a piece of baseless gossip, but as being in justice to the surgical skill of this community. The Semi-Weekly Sun Tue., 3-25-1879 The will of F. M. Lisle, deceased, was probated yesterday, but will be contested in the Circuit Court. The Semi-Weekly Sun Tue., 3-25-1879 J. Tribble, John F. Bush and James Hodgkin have been appointed appraisers of the estate of F. M. Lisle, dec'd. The Semi-Weekly Sun Tue., 3-25-1879 It was reported on the streets last night that the famous Lisle will case from this county had been decided by the Court of Appeals, and that the will had been sustained. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday 12-18-1889 The Frank M. Lisle will case was finally disposed of by the Court of Appeals last week. It said that there substantially no proof of either mental incompetence or undue influence, and that the Circuit Court must dismiss the appeal thus leaving the will probated without further trial. This litigation began nearly eleven years ago, and has been hotly contested. In the Court of Appeals the devisees were represented by William Lindsay and W. M. Beckner and the contestants by Breckinridge and Shelby and C. D. Bronston. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 12-25-1889 In the Court of Appeals a relic of the famous Bush-Lisle will case bobbed up from this county in the shape of a motion to strike out the names of J. R. Carroll and wife from the execution for costs. These costs will probably amount to a thousand or twelve hundred dollars. The Winchester Democrat Wed. 6-25-1890

	A RELIC of the famous Bush-Lisle will case bobbed up during the late session of Common Pleas Court. Joe Carroll, of Elkin, had by the various processes of legal machinery, become responsible on a bond, for the whole costs of the suit about $ 2,800. Judge Scott decided that the bond under which he was held was illegally taken and Mr. Carroll was thus freed from an incubus of years. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 24, 1892. Settled at last One of the hardest fought legal battles over waged in this county was over the will of the late Frank Lisle: as a consequence, the costs pile up till they amounted to about $3,200. Joe B. Carroll, of Elkin, and others had given bond for the costs but when matters were investigated it was found that the bond taken by Judge Buckner was for some reason invalid and could not be enforced, at least this was the decision of the lower court which was this week affirmed by the Court of Appeals. This will doubtless lift a load from the mind of Mr. Carroll. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 28, 1896

Lisle, James D.	On Monday of last week Jas. D. Lisle was kicked on the knee by a horse. The limb has since inflamed and serious consequences are feared. The Democrat Wednesday January 15, 1890 SOME months ago Jas. D. Lisle bought John F. Bush his farm Southwest of this city, and moved to it shortly afterward. It is alleged that Cicero Price had rented this farm for the present year and next year, and writings were drawn. For his failure to obtain this farm Mr. Price sues Squire Lisle in the Circuit Court for $ 6,000 damages. The Democrat, Wednesday, April 27, 1892. Squire James D. Lisle has been quite ill for some weeks and is not much better at present. He suffers from lung disease. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 15, 1893 The little daughter of Jas. D. Lisle was severely burned about the body and face Saturday night by her clothes catching fire from a grate. The Winchester Democrat; Wednesday, December 20, 1893 The family of Jas. D Lisle is sadly afflicted. He has long been confined to his bed. His eldest son is sick nigh unto death of fever, another child is ill of the same disease while a little girl is slowly recovering from the effects of terrible burns. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 10, 1894 In this issue we announce Squire Jas. D. Lisle as an independent candidate for County Judge. He has been a member of the Board of Magistrates for the past ten years, and his decisions have been honest, fearless, expositious of what he believed to be right. He has always been an uncompromising Democrat, and we should have been glad to see him submit his claims to the regular party organization; but the fact that he has seen fit to do otherwise is another evidence of his independent, fearless spirit, and he honestly believes he is right. The Winchester Democrat, Friday June 22, 1894 LISLE, We are authorized to announce Jas. D. Lisle as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the action of the legal voters at the November election. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 29, 1894

D. LISLE who has been an independent candidate for County Judge is no longer on the track. He would not be used as a cat's paw to help Squire Reed and other Republicans pull chestnuts out of the fire. Squire Lisle may not be right in all things, but he is hones, and what he does is open and above board. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 30, 1894. Serious Accident. Squire Jas D. Lisle fell from a wagon loaded with rye yesterday and was badly and perhaps fatally hurt. His arm and collar bone were broken and it is thought his hip was also broken. Drs. Frank Jones and Frank Johnson were summoned to attend to him. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 12, 1895. Sent to the asylum James D. Lisle, of this county, who has been an inmate of a Lexington sanitarium for some time, was tried before a jury on a charge of lunacy and was adjudged to be of unsound mind and was sent to the asylum Friday. French, the leader of one of the factions of the Perry county prisoners now confined in jail here, in common with a number of others on both sides made a number of others on both sides, made application for bail before County Judge Lisle. The Judge refused the application of Mr. French and several others on the ground that the Perry Circuit Court had already refused bail and he therefore had no jurisdiction. On Wednesday Judge Benton, as counsel for French, got out another writ of habeas corpus, and Judge Lisle being absent, it was tried before Squire Bloom as the nearest magistrate to the Courthouse. The ground of application was that the prisoner was suffering from pulmonary and heart disease and that longer confinement would permanently injure his health and probably cause death. Those facts were substantiated by the testimony of two physicians, and Squire Bloom admitted him to bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars, which was readily given, two Perry county men becoming bondsmen. Mr. French has rented a house on Maple street and will reside here. THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY 10-1-1890

JUDGE M. C. Lisle has again found it necessary to leave the county on account of his health. He left last week for Colorado where he will spend the winter. Sq. Bloom will probably act as Judge during his absence.

Judge M. C. Lisle, who came to Colorado Springs last spring from Kentucky for the benefit of his health, has concluded to remain permanently in Colorado and will reside at Denver. He is a gentleman of marked ability as an orator and a lawyer. Chairman Arbuckle should invite the Judge to make a few speeches during the present campaign.—Denver Daily News.

We doubt not that the Centennial State would gladly rob us of so gifted a citizen, but we are glad to hear that his health is improving rapidly and we hope he may soon be able to come back to us permanently. He is a true son of Kentucky and if his health will permit, will never live elsewhere.

JUDGE MARCUS LISLE this week married his first couple, Lewis Woodford and Miss Kate Custard, of color. The Judge was highly complimented by the large crowd present for the delicate yet solemn manner in which the ceremony was performed.

Judge Marcus Lisle is a young and brilliant lawyer who already stands high and who has only been prevented by persistent ill health from achieving still greater fame. The confidence of our people is shown by his election as County Judge, one of the youngest that ever adorned the bench.

QUARTERLY Court is in session, Judge Lisle presiding. About forty cases on the docket. One of the most prominent is that of D. A. Mockabee against the K. U. Railroad for breach of contract in not building the bridge over the road on North Main Street. Those who have to travel over that bridge and the road close to it will heartily wish that he might secure heavy damages.

On Thursday, was tried before Judge Lisle perhaps the largest case of forcible detainer ever tried in the county. It was between C. T. Gamboe and W. W. Power and involved possession of 100 acres of land. This land had been sold by Squire W. N. West, as agent for Mr. Gamboe to Mr. Power at $48 per acre. Mr. Gamboe claimed the payments were not arranged in accordance with his instructions and repudiated the sale. Mr. Power had rented the land last year and was thus in possession and the suit was brought to oust him. It was decided in favor of Mr. Gamboe, but Mr. Power declares his intention of carrying it to the court of last resort, if necessary.

CITY, COUNTY, and STATE

Judge M. C. Lisle yesterday began the erection of a handsome residence on South Maple street.

THE DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY JUNE 17, 1891

A petition was presented to Judge Lisle Monday numerous signed by residents of Ford asking for a voting precinct at that point. The city is quite a place, considerably larger than Winchester in point of acre, being in fact a mile wide and two miles long. The population varies with the activity of the mills, but is never less than several hundred. The present voting place is several miles distant and as very few of the voters possess horses or vehicles they must walk. Even if they go by rail to Elkin it involves a considerable walk. A voting place has been needed there for a long time and we feel sure that Judge Lisle will grant this petition.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT 1-27-1892

In referring to Judge Lisle's candidacy, the Clay City Chronicle says: It will remember that Judge Lisle made a hard fight not long since for the place made vacant by the death of Congressman Wick Kendall, and came within a few votes of securing the coveted prize. His campaign at that time under the circumstances was one of the greatest ever made in the district, and although he went down in defeat he did so gracefully, and arose from the wreck with his coat off and his sleeves rolled up at work for the nominee. The manner in which the Democracy of his home county stands by him fully demonstrates the fact that he is in every way worthy the confidence of the people and the party, and that he would make an excellent Congressman goes without saying".

The number of districts must be not less than three nor more than eight. As all voters in the city must be registered, the Magisterial districts of the city can not as now, embrace a portion of the surrounding country, but must be confined to the city limits. The committee must report in twenty days.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

For Congress

LISLE, We are authorized to announce the name of Marcus C. Lisle, of Clark County, as a candidate for congress in the Tenth Congressional District, subject to the actions of the Democratic party.

THE DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY AUGUST 24, 1892

In another column will be found the announcement of Judge Marcus C. Lisle, of Clark County, as a candidate for the democratic nomination for Congress in this district. In presenting his claims to the Democrats of Lee, Judge Lisle argues that he comes from a county, which has shown more dispositions to cultivate friendly relations with our people than any other county in the district. It will be remembered that Clark County freely subscribed $100,000 to the L.C. & V. Railroad several years ago, and that one of the conditions of said subscription was that the road was to run to Beattyville or Proctor. Failing to secure this road Clark County then subscribed and paid $100,000 to the K. U., which has been an immense benefit to Lee county. Clark County has 24 miles of Kentucky river front, and is certainly as much interested in improving the Kentucky river as any other county in the district, and she is the only county presenting a candidate which is directly interested in the Kentucky river. Clark County has not had an office, either State or National, for about half a century and has not been greedy in asking for political favor. Judge Lisle contracts with this the record of Montgomery county, which has had in the last ten years a U. S. Senator, two terms in the Lower House of Congress, a Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, two Associate Justices of the Superior Court, Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney, and she is now asking for both Democratic and Republican candidates for Judge of the Court of Appeals, for Congress and for State Examiner of Banks. The Democrats ought to study these facts and make up their minds in accordance with their best interests and with a spirit of fairness to the various aspirants. - - Beattyville Enterprise.

- -Judge Marcus C. Lisle, of Winchester, was nominated by the Democrats at Estill Springs yesterday for Congress from the district on the 63rd ballot, receiving 32 and a fraction votes, one and a fraction more than necessary to nominate. On his return home last night the citizens of Winchester gave him a grand celebration. Judge Lisle is an elegant gentleman and has made many friends in this city and county within the last year. He came in 11 votes of beating Joe Kendall for the nomination last spring in this county when every person predicted that he would be beaten 2 to 1, MT. Sterling Journal

THE IRVINE CONVENTION.- - JUDGE M. C. LISLE NOMINATED ON THE 63RD BALLOT.

The Democratic Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress from the Tenth district met Wednesday at Irvine, each of the sixteen counties being represented by delegates.

The convention was called to order by Chairman Vansant, who called John P. Salyer to the chair as temporary chairman. G. W Birch, Fred Broadhurst, J. W Lilly and W. McCary were chosen temporary secretaries. Senator Hannah, of Elliott county, was unanimously elected as permanent secretary, with J. W Lilly, of Stanton, assistant. Resolutions approving the call for the convention, reaffirming fealty to Democratic principles, endorsing Cleveland's administration, and of sympathy for the death of J. W. Kendall were passed unanimously.

The Committee on Credentials reported in favor of seating the Bowles fifteen votes from Pike, Johnson, Martin and Floyd; Sublett got eleven from Knott, Morgan and Magoffin; Brooks had eighteen and one-half from Elliott, Menifee, Montgomery, Wolfe, Powell, and one and one-half from Estill; Lisle had seventeen from Clark, Lee, Breathitt, and one and one-half from Estill.

This continued without material change until the fifty-seventh ballot, when Sublett's name was withdrawn. At the conclusion of the fiftieth ballot a resolution was adopted to drop the Hindmost candidate after the sixtieth ballot. At this stage of the proceedings both Lisle and Bowles were ahead of Brooks, and latter was dropped.

By the skillful manipulation of a few votes Taylor Young caused a dead lock between Lisle and Bowles, and buy the interpolation of dilatory motions prevented a decisive ballot, although the convention did not adjourn Thursday night until 4 A.M. Friday morning, a futile attempt was made to put Brooks on the truck again, but the scheme failed and Lisle was nominated on the sixty-third ballot, receiving thirty-two and a fraction, while Bowles received twenty-nine and a fraction.

Speeches were made by Lisle, Bowles and Brooks, accepting the situation, and one of the hardest fought, best managed, and at the same time most harmonious conventions ever held was adjourned.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT 9-14-1892

--The nomination of Marcus C. Lisle, of Winchester, for Congress is a very strong one, and at once removes the remotest possibility of a Republican Congressman from this district. Judge Lisle will not only receive the full Democratic vote, but he will have a very large personal following. - - Clay City Chronicle.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT 9-14-1892

- -Judge Lisle of Clark County, after a warm contest, has received the nomination for Congress in the Tenth District. This is a fitting recognition of the talents and character of the energetic, enthusiastic young Democrat. He has the ability and the acquirements to fit him for the position, and he will make a useful member of Congress and one who will devote his time and talents to the service of his constituents. He is deserving of the honor conferred upon him and it gives us pleasure to record the fact that the people of his district appreciate him and propose to reward him as he deserves.- Danville Dem. With this issue we hoist the name of Hon. M. C. Lisle, of Clark County, as the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, and appeal to the party to accord him allegiance. We have from time to time acquainted our readers with his abilities, and it is now needless to expatiate on his excellence. He is a gentleman thoroughly qualified for the position, in touch with the people of the district, and who will reflect credit upon his constituents as their representative in Congress. Let all good Democrats - and there be no other kind in old Ky.- now go to work for a rousing majority for Marcus in the 8th day of November, and never let up until the evening of that day.- Hazel Green Herald.

WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE

We congratulate Clark County on the success of her candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress. He is a splendidly equipped man and we will be more than glad to support him. Some twenty days ago when in our city he made a speech to the boys at ratification meeting in which he challenged Montgomery to give as large a majority for Hazelrigg as Clark will do. We now challenge Clark County to give Hazelrigg as large a majority as Montgomery will give Lisle. They come to him from all parts of this district, and many others who want to strengthen their claim, "deaden over the line" from other parts to secure his endorsement. This is one of the penalties of greatness which must be endured with what grace is possible. No doubt Judge Lisle knows whom he will endorse at the proper time, but at present he is politely non-committal. As an instance of the number of offices to which his attention is directed, the sixteen counties of this Congressional district have from 6 to 44 post offices in each, or a total of 287. For these there will be from one to a dozen applicants, some of whom will pour their claims into his tired ear a score or more times. In addition to this will be applications for storekeepers, gaugers, etc., in the Internal Revenue service. In view of the jealousies and heart burnings that must naturally ensue from his inability to provide places for all these applicants, we smaller fry may find some consolation when we reflect that in all probability we shall never be Congressmen. upright citizen and a gentleman in all that the name implies. If the Democracy should select him for its candidate his election is a foregone conclusion. While we are not advised as to who may be before the convention and have no desire to forestall public opinion, our personal knowledge of Judge Lisle is such as to satisfy us that the party will make no mistake should he be selected as the standard bearer.”

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT FRIDAY 3-11-1893

TO THE VOTERS OF THE TENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The sudden striking down at his post of duty of the lamented Mr. Kendall, will render it necessary for the Democrats of this Congressional District to hold at a very early day, a convention to nominate a candidate at the special election to fill the vacancy. It is not yet known when nor where this convention will be held, but the time will necessarily be short and it will be impossible for any candidate to see all the people. I take this method of announcing my candidacy to you. Clark county has always been content to render her valiant service to whomsoever her sister counties might put forward for this great office. Only once has she had aspirant, and he did not succeed to the nomination. Her people feel that after these years of fidelity to the chosen sons of other counties they have some claims which the Democracy of the district will recognize.

Situated as we are at the very gateway to all the district, there is not one county in all the sisterhood, in the development of which we are not deeply and vitally interested, and I promise, if elected to this great position, that I will waste no opportunity which offers to develop and build up this magnificent domain of counties.

The great work so ably, faithfully and industriously undertaken by the dead Congressman ought to fall in to hands that will earnestly carry it forward to its legitimate completion. The beautiful symmetry of his work ought to be preserved to the end. No local prejudices ought to be allowed to mar any of the undertakings which he had put forward in behalf of any person of community. I promise that if elected I will earnestly labor to finish his work, not to spoil it.

As to my democracy and faithfulness to my party I refer you to the people of my own county who have honored me with the most important county office in their gift by probably the largest majority ever given in the county. I have stood in the midst of every political fray since I became a voter, and have unfalteringly offered battle to every enemy of Democracy and the people. I have never failed to heed the cry of Democratic distress whether it came from my own people or from those doing desperate battle with the enemy elsewhere. If elected I will serve the people faithfully, honestly and industriously. I will give them all my time, and the appeal of the humblest dweller in all this district will not go unheeded.

DIED

Friday, the infant son of Judge M. C. Lisle died and was buried beside the body of its mother, who preceded it but a few days.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY 3-23-1893

Representative Lisle arranged today to have a private interview with the President the latter part of this week, when he will tell Mr. Cleveland all about the boys in the Tenth Kentucky district and present their claims for consideration. Mr. Lisle has indorsed Mr. Robert Riddell, of Irving for the Collectorship of the Richmond district. Mr. Lisle says there are several gentlemen in his district after the Collectorship, but that as Mr. Riddell jumped into the ring first and he indorsed him he would like to see him get the appointment. Another constituent Mr. Lisle is working for day and night is C. R. Hill of Beattyville, who wants to be Chief of the Miscellaneous Division, Treasury Department. Mr. Hill is strongly indorsed.—Washington Cor. Courier Journal The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 12, 1893

The following shows that Congressman Lisle is hustling for the Post offices in the Tenth Congressional District: Inez, Martin county, Jeff Newbury; Paintsville, Johnson county, Green Meek; Flat Gap, Johnson county, S. W. Walters; Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Mrs. Belle Cassidy; Coal River, Pike county, R. C. Huffman. As these appointments are recommended by Congressman Lisle, they will be made by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Maxwell.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 12, 1893

Judge Lisle seems to be doing what he can for the boys in the trenches as the following from the Washington correspondent of the Courier-Journal would indicate:

“Representative Lisle is hustling these days for his constituents. He saw Postmaster General Bissell and Attorney General Olney today and urged upon them the claims of C. R. Brooks, of Mt. Sterling, who is an applicant for the position of Attorney-General for the Postoffice Department. The Postmaster General and the Attorney General gave Mr. Lisle a patient hearing, but did not intimate what action they would take. Mr. Lisle filed at the Postoffice Department this afternoon a batch of recommendations for fourth-class postmasters. He expects them to bear fruit within the next few days. He also filed the application of Judge Riddell, of Irvine, who wants the Richmond Collectorship.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 12, 1893

Judge Lisle has endorsed Sid Maple for postmaster of Stanton. The selection is a good one, and many friends and relatives of Mr. Maple in Clark will rejoice at his good fortune.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 3, 1893

A new Postoffice called Lisle in honor of Congressman Lisle has been established at Hainimes's store near the Levee in Montgomery county.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 10, 1893

Robert Riddle, of Irvine, is a candidate for the Collectorship of the Richmond district. He is backed by Representative Lisle and as Richmond has ten or twelve candidates hustling for the Collectorship, the probabilities are this juicy plum will fall to some other section of the district, and the section most likely to capture it is the Mountain district. It is this phase of the contest that increases the chances of Riddle.

Representative Lisle says his district has never had the Collectorship and it's about time that it be recognized. He is putting in some good work for Riddle and he believes fortune will favor him.—Washington Cor. Courier Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 10, 1893

The Washington correspondent of the Covington Commonwealth don't believe that Judge Lisle can land Judge Riddell a winner in the race for the Richmond Collectorship: "This revenue district contains two Congressional districts and two Democratic Congressmen, Marcus C. Lisle and Gov. McCreary. Lisle is urging the appointment of Judge Riddell, while McCreary hasn't settled which of the twenty-two applicants he will recommend. There are seven applicants from Mr. McCreary's own county, Madison, but as that county has had both the Collectorship and Congressman for many terms, the department has decided to give the other counties in the district a chance. McCreary's seniority in point of service will undoubtedly give him precedence over Lisle, and there is no doubt but that McCreary will name the man and that it will be decided in a few days. As a further 'tip' upon this office, the Commonwealth has it straight from the President that a lawyer ought to fill the Eight District Collectorship."

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 17, 1893

The change in the postoffice came sooner than was expected by many in view of the oft-repeated assertions that the present incumbent would not be molested unless under exceptional circumstances. Others however, knowing Mr. Hampton's intense and aggressive Republicanism, were not surprised to hear that he had been supplanted by D. C. Lisle, whose eventual appointment has been a foregone conclusion from the beginning. In this case one good man is succeeded by another. While it is impossible to please everybody, Mr. Hampton has come as near doing so as probably any man could have done. He has been uniformly courteous, obliging and polite. The financial management has been good and the officials of the department have always rated the Winchester office as one of the best kept establishments in the service. Walker Hampton his chief assistant, probably understates the details of the office as well as it is possible for any man, and has always taken great pride in the promptness and efficiency of the service. His political opinions have never been obtrusive, and few would know that his political views inclined to Republicanism. He is very popular and the determination of Mr. Lisle to retain him meets with general approval. In fact it will be absolutely necessary to have some one who is acquainted with the details of the business, in order to prevent confusion and dissatisfaction.

Mr. Lisle is peculiarly well fitted for the office inasmuch as he knows nearly every patron of the office already together with the members of the various families. He is very popular, has an unlimited supply of patience and will take a pardonable pride in seeing that the office stands in the front rank in regard to efficiency. He will take charge about June 1st as his bond must be forwarded and approved and other legal formalities gone through with.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 24, 1893

Sid Maple was Friday appointed Postmaster at Clay City in accordance with Judge Lisle's recommendations Congressman Paynter's man for the Sharpsburg office also got there. The latter, Mr. Baker, is the father-in-law of J. Clyde Nelson, formerly of this county and now editor of The World.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 24, 1893

Representative Lisle is feeling pretty good, thank you. He has at last secured the scalp of Postmaster Hampton, of Winchester, notwithstanding that Hampton sent the Postmaster General a protest against being removed. The Representative from the Tenth District has obtained an appointment for Ben D. Delaney, of Winchester, in the Treasury Department. Delaney is a newsboy, and for a number of years served Representative Lisle with the Courier-Journal. Delaney will enter upon his duties as Messenger in the department tomorrow.—Washington Cor. Courier-Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 24, 1893

The ousting of the Postmaster at Winchester, Ky., before the expiration of his term, to make room for Congressman Lisle's brother, gives hope to the friends hereabouts of Napoleon Carlisle and Justus Hetsch. Congressman Lisle filed charges against Harrison's old appointee, and Mr. Cleveland sustained them. It is certainly tip enough to show that Mr. Cleveland is likely to sustain all of the charges made by Colonel Berry in the local cases. The change of Postmasters at Midway, Ky., is also on the same basic.—Covington Post.

It is due to Postmaster Hampton to say that the charges mentioned are simply political and in no way affect his character as a man or his management of the office.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY 5-24-1893

Sid Mapel was Friday appointed Postmaster at Clay City in accordance with Judge Lisle's recommendation. Congressman Paynter's man for the Sharpsburg office, also got there. The latter, Mr. Barker, is the father-in-law of J. Clyde Nelson, formerly of this county and now editor of The World.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY 5-24-1893

Judge Lisle got his work Wednesday at the post office department and secured the following postmasters: J. D. Stamper, Fincastle, Lee county; H. A. Williams, Flat Gap, Johnson county; John L. Brown, Jeffersonville, Montgomery county; Mrs. Mary Cottle, Sandy Hook, Elliott county; Letcher Snowden, St. Heleus, Lee county; J. C. Flannery, French, Elliott county; J. A. Adams, Zachariah, Lee county, and T. S. Tolin, West Bend, Powell county. The latter was a Clark county man.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 31, 1893

"The Post office Department people are very slow in making removals of fourth -class postmasters," remarked Congressman Lisle this evening. "There are over fifty of my recommendations on file in the department, and they have been there for several weeks. I call upon the officials the importance of early action, but it seems that unless charges are filed no attention will be given them except in cases where a vacancy exists by reason of a resignation. The people in Kentucky ought to know the condition of affairs and not hold us responsible for keeping Republicans in charge of the post offices."—

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 7, 1893

The remains of Jefferson Davis were brought from their home in Mississippi and interred Thursday in the Richmond, Va., cemetery. Twenty-five thousand people viewed the bier as it lay in state, and it is said that seventy-five thousand were in the city. More Confederate troops were in line than ever before at one time since the war. Everywhere the emblems of mourning showed how much the great leader was loved by his people and how dear is his memory yet. Congressman Lisle was present and sent the following telegram to Capt. D. J. Pendleton, which well illustrates the feeling that prevailed: "Richmond has been retaken: the old Chieftain is again in command."

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 7, 1893

The following Pension Examining Boards have been appointed on the recommendation of Representative Lisle: Mt. Sterling Board—Drs. W. R. Thompson, N. F. Pierce and J. A. Shirley. Irvine Board—Drs. W. J. Groves, Embry and Stayner.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 14, 1893

Judge Lisle returned Friday afternoon from Washington for a little much needed rest.

From what the resident correspondents at Washington say, Judge Lisle has been the hardest worker for his constituents of the whole Kentucky delegation. He has certainly tried as hard as any man could to secure the positions to which the "boys in the trenches" are entitled by virtue of the verdict of November. He says Judge Rees is holding his department down like a veteran and that Ben Delaney is making a model messenger.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 14, 1893

Representative Lisle was at the Interior Department this afternoon and had an interview with Secretary Smith in the interest of Mr. C. B. Hill, of Beattyville. Mr. Hill desires to be appointed a member of the Board of Pension Appeals. He is strongly indorsed and Mr. Lisle is working hard to secure the appointment. There is a vacancy on the board caused by the reduction of Mr. Langley of Fostenburg, to the classified service. Mr. Langley was reduced at his own request just before the Administration came into power. A Kentuckian is entitled to the appointment and as Mr. Hill is the most prominent applicant the chances are he will get the appointment. Langley played the ostrich game but it won't work, and he will probably have to walk the plank before the dog days come.—Washington Cor. Courier Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 14, 1893

Representative Lisle was at the Interior Department Wednesday and saw Assistant Secretary Reynolds in the interest of C. B. Hill, of Beattyville. Mr. Hill is an applicant for appointment on the Board of Pensions Appeals. Kentucky had a place on the Board during the last Administration in the person of John W. Langley, of Prestonsburg, and just before the change of Administration Langley had himself transferred from the Board and put in the classified services, and he is still drawing $1,000 from Uncle Sam. Assistant Secretary Reynolds talked very encouragingly, and told Mr. Lisle that he would carefully consider Mr. Hill's claims. The only other Kentucky man who is an applicant for the same position is Mr. Reppert, of Rockcastle. It is understood that Mr. Reppert is being pressed for the place by Governor McCreary. It is believed Kentucky will get the place on the Board. Tomorrow Representative Lisle will call at the White House by appointment and see the President in behalf of Judge C. R. Brooks, of Mt. Sterling, who wants a Judgeship and W. O. Mize, of Hazel Green, who is an applicant for the Surveyorship at Louisville. In the case of Judge Brooks, Mr. Lisle has the President's promise of something good. It may be Judge Brooks will get one of the Judgeships in Oklahoma.—Washington Cor. Courier-Journal

CITY, COUNTY, STATE

Hon. M. C. Lisle scored another point in the appointment of George B. Gardner, of Salyersville, as law clerk.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT WEDNESDAY 8-16-1893

The Courier Journal of Wednesday says; "Representative Lisle was at the White House and waited half an hour to see the President for the purpose of obtaining an audience for Mr. W. O. Maize, of Hazel Green, who wants to be Surveyor of the Port at Louisville, but as this was Cabinet day. Mr. Lisle failed to see the President. He will make another attempt tomorrow. Speaking of bills which he will introduce, Mr. Lisle said; "There are two measures which my people are deeply interested in and I hope to secure favorable action on them this session. One of my bills is to establish a Federal Court at Jackson, in Breathitt county. This is very important to our people. Nearly all the moonshining is done in my district and the cases are all tried in Louisville at a considerable expense to the government. By establishing a Federal court at Jackson it would save the government considerable money in the matter of mileage of witnesses. The other bill I want to see go through provides for public building at Mt. Sterling. My predecessor Mr. Kendall introduced the bill into the last Congress and I think it was favorably reported on by the Committee. The government business at Mt. Sterling warrants a public building, and it won't be my fault if I fail to get an appropriation for it in this Congress.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 16, 1893

Hon. M. C. Lisle scored another point in the appointment of George B. Gardner, of Salyersville, as Law Clerk.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 16, 1893

Judge Lisle is pushing the claims of C. C. Peters, of Mt. Sterling, who has applied for the position of Foreman General of Public Buildings. As Mr. Peters is the only Kentuckian who has applied for the position, his chances are thought to be good. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 23, 1893

In the make up of the Congressional committees, Judge Lisle was by his request assigned to the committee on Arid Lands and also a place on the committee on Pensions
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 23, 1893

In speaking of measures he would push, Congressman Lisle said he was deeply interested in the establishment of a Federal court at Jackson, Breathitt county, and the erection of a public building at Mt. Sterling. If Mr. Lisle will secure those good and badly needed things for his district he will have accomplished much good.—Hazel Green Herald
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 23, 1893

It is hard to tell what man will make a good member of Congress until he is tried, as nine out of ten prove dismal failures; but if there is anything in present indications. Congressman M. C. Lisle of the Tenth Kentucky district, is going to make a first-class member of the House. He is active and earnest in the discharge of his duties and constantly at work.—Courier Journal
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 23, 1893

Mr. W. O. Mize, of Hazel Green, who is after the Surveyorship, was at the Treasury Thursday with Representative Lisle trying to learn something about the appointment. Mr. Mize is hopeful, and says he will stay here until the office is disposed of.—Washington Cor. Courier Journal
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 23, 1893

Representative Lisle to-day called at the interior Department and saw the Commissioner of the General Land Office in behalf of Judge J. W. Lilly, of Clay City. Judge Lilly wants to be appointed Chief of a Division in the Land Office and the member from the tenth district is making a strong fight for the Judge, who is indorsed by nearly every member of the Kentucky delegation. As Kentucky has not reached any great amount of patronage in the Land Office the Clay City gentleman ought to stand a pretty good show of landing on both feet.—Washington Cor. Courier-Journal
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 13, 1893

Judge M. C. Lisle has introduced fifty bills at the present session of Congress.
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 13, 1893

Among the sketches of Kentucky Congressmen given by an exchange we find the following concerning Judge Lisle, "M. C. Lisle, M. C. is the name of the youngest member of the Kentucky delegation and he comes within a month or two of being the youngest man in the House. He is a handsome specimen of the thoroughbred Kentuckian and he represents one of the most interesting districts in the United States. His own county is in the blue grass region but the other counties are up in the mountains. When he stumped his district last fall he had to do it on horseback and he wound in and out among the mountains for weeks without seeing a railroad train or a hotel. Three-quarters of his constituents cannot read or write and Andrew Jackson gets more votes among them than in any other district in the United States. Judge Lisle is uncertain how they are going to take his votes against free silver, but he is willing to run his chances and is ready for them. "You see," he says, "I feel something like my old friend, Bill Sokerby. Bill is one of the characters in my district and he was riding up on the mountain one time when his stock of whisky ran low. He heard of a still a few miles up the mountain and he struck out for it at double quick. "Sure enough, he discovered a fine article and filling a couple of jugs he hung them across his saddle and started out again. He hadn't gone very far before one of the jugs was nearly empty and the balance between the two having been lost they fell down over the horse's neck. The animal started into a frightened run and Bill, by that time was in such a condition that he was flat on his back in the road, with the horse miles away on the road and the jugs smashed by the wayside. "Bill slept where he lay for an hour or two, and when he began to wake up he saw a big copperhead snake coiled up in front of him and wickedly darting out his tongue." He sat up in a hurry and began to rub his eyes. Then catching sight of the broken jugs near by, he recalled his condition. "He looked the snake in the eye with perfect coolness. "Go ahead-----you" he shouted, "You can't frighten me, I couldn't have been better prepared for you if you'd given me six months' notice"
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 20, 1893

Hon. M. C. Lisle returned from Washington Wednesday and will remain some time. He thinks the Senate will reach a vote on the Silver question early in October, and that it will be in accord with the action of the House.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 20, 1893

The appointment of a new postmaster for Mt. Sterling will probably be made this week. When the appointment is made and the office turned over, every office of the presidential class in Representative Lisle's district will have a Democratic postmaster. The Congressman from the Tenth district, besides being a gentleman and a scholar, is a hustler of the first-class.—Courier Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 4, 1893

Representative Lisle's Brother, Judge Lisle, the brilliant young Congressman from the mountain district of Kentucky, has a brother as bright as he who is a prosperous farmer at home, says the New York Recorder. The farmer brother strolled into the village store in Winchester a few days ago, and the local wits began to quiz him by asking what he was busying himself about. "Oh," he replied good naturedly "just cutting a little corn and raising a few pigs."

"Just think of it," remarked the store keeper teasingly, "what a difference there is between members of the same family. Here you are, just a plain ordinary farmer living alone here raising a few pigs and cutting a little corn and there's your brother, Marcus up in Washington, one of the three hundred statesmen who are framing the laws for sixty million people. Now what do you suppose Marcus is doing up there while you are loafing around here in Winchester?"

"Oh," replied the farmer, with a drawl, "I reckon he's roaming around like he always did, asking everybody what's it all about."

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 11, 1893

Mr. Lucien Beckner, of Winchester, came over to go to Louisville with the football team. He goes to Washington pretty soon to take a place as private secretary to Congressman Lisle at a salary of $1,200 per annum.—Danville Advocate

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 25, 1893

Representative Lisle had a talk with Chairman Blanchard, of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, Friday and urged that the Committee visit the Three Forks of the Kentucky River at Beattyville for the purpose of investigating the work that has been done on the lock and dam at that place. Mr. Lisle says if the Committee will consent to go he is satisfied they will come back favorably impressed with the importance of making a liberal appropriation for the continuance of the improvement. Representative Berry and in fact every member of the delegation have united in the request that the Committee on Rivers and Harbors visit Beattyville. The citizens of that town will give the Committee a warm welcome should they accept their invitation. Congress has already spent $325,000 on this work, and the engineer in charge reports that with a liberal appropriation this year the work can be completed in two working seasons.—Courier Journal

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 8, 1893

Judge M. C. Lisle is at home, resting up from the labors of the extra session of Congress.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 8, 1893

Judge Lisle, Gov. McCreary and others of the Kentucky delegation have succeeded for the first time in the history of the country in having the River and Harbor Committee to pay a visit to this portion of the country. Chairman Blanchard and eight others of the Committee with a number of others interested, went as far as Beattyville and were much impressed with the possibilities of the upper Kentucky. The expenses of the trip were not paid from the Federal Treasury, but from the pockets of those interested, Congressman Lisle being one of the principal contributors. Capt. Dandridge did much to make the expedition a success, placing a special train at their service.

Judge Lisle thinks the result of this visit will be the improvement of the river, at least as far as Beattyville. This will probably be done by the contract system: that is the whole work will be let but the whole work will be let but the appropriation will be made annually and the work will be finished in eight or ten years.

This will be of vast importance to Clark county as she has about thirty miles of river front, and although we are well supplied with railroads, will give us competition by water, the cheapest of all methods of transportation. Preliminary work is now being done for Lock No. 7, at High Bridge. The next lock will be somewhere near the mouth of Boone's Creek, in this county. This will give slack water navigation to Ford or perhaps above. If Mr. Lisle does nothing more for his district than this it will entitle him to the lasting gratitude of a very large portion of it. He is also working unceasingly for the good of his constituents in other places.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 15, 1893

Congress met in regular session Monday, Judge Lisle from this district was not present but will go this week. Lucien Beckner will accompany him as private Secretary.

The Winchester Democrat; Wednesday, December 6, 1893

	A reporter of a New York paper has been interviewing Congressman upon their views concerning the proposed income tax. The member from the Ninth district has made a strong fight for his man. He has managed his case with considerable skill and diplomacy, and furthermore he has done it single handed." The Winchester Democrat; Wednesday, December 20, 1893 This afternoon, Deputy Marshal Punch of Mt. Lisle, Marcus Claiborne 1-1894 thru 7-10-1894	A letter from Washington, to the Mt. Sterling Advocate, has the following of Judge Lisle. "Mr. Lisle, our new member from the Tenth District, is not only becoming very popular, but he is gaining a reputation as a worker. He was sick all during the holidays; but as soon as Congress reconvened he was one of the first to be there. He is not in his A. B. C.'s by any means He is already gaining the reputation of being one of the brainiest men in the House. When he speaks his words are felt, and they count. Kentucky and the Tenth district should well feel proud of their election of Mr. Lisle, as their Representative." The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 24, 1894 Representative Lisle introduced Wednesday a bill to dredge and deepen the channel of the Big Sandy. The bill appropriates $50,000. Nearly every day he calls at the pension office and recommends a number of claims for special consideration.—Washington Cor. Courier Journal The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 21, 1894 THE Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat has the following concerning Judge Lisle: "Judge Lisle has only served a part of a term in Congress, but by an intelligent and faithful discharge of every duty devolved on him has shown conclusively to the people of the district that they made no mistake in electing him to the exalted position he now holds. He claims that if the people of the district think his record as their Representative in Congress is a fair one for a new member, that he should be accorded the same favor that has been granted to other Congressmen from this district by giving him a renomination and election. Judge Lisle has been an indefatigable worker on behalf of the "boys in the trenches" and has been exceedingly successful in securing government positions for his friends. Only a few days ago we heard a prominent Democrat of this district say: "Judge Lisle has greatly strengthened himself in the district, because he always works to get the boys who do the work for the Democratic nominees positions in the government service." Judge Lisle's duties will detain him in Washington for some months, but we are satisfied the Democrats of the district will give his claim due considerations." The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 16, 1894. IN this issue we place the name of Hon. M. C. Lisle, of Clark, as a candidate for Congress among our announcements. Mr. Lisle comes before the public on his record and asks for an endorsement. He has been faithful to his constituents, filing his seat and recording his vote on all questions, when his physical condition demanded that he should be in bed. He has done his utmost to faithfully represent the want of his people, and a scanning of the list of votes before Congress will disclose that he has been on the right side of every question before that body. Mr. Lisle writes us that it will be impossible for him to leave his place in the House at present to make a personal canvass, but that he relies upon the fair-mindedness of his people to see that his interests, do not suffer while he is at his post of duty. Our sister county of Clark calls

upon the people of Montgomery to stand by her candidate, as the day is not probably a distant one when Montgomery will be asking a like favor of her.-Mt. Sterling Advocates.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 27, 1894.

THE Kentucky Club, as headquarters for Kentuckians at the National Capital has been formed. Concerning its formation the correspondent for the Courier-Journal says: "Congressman Lisle, with few exceptions the youngest man in the House, greatly assisted in the organization of the club due. When the President appointed Maj. Adams Pension Agent he had in view the wishes of Mr. Lisle as much as Judge Lindsay's. In the hunt for patronage Lisle has been as modest as he was deserving, and whatever may be his faults Grover Cleveland may always be depended on to reward a man who adds modesty to other solid merits. Judge Lisle is very popular among all the leading people of the executive department and the Postoffice officials cleared his decks of Republican postoffice without delay. He also had the confidence of the pension office and his affairs in that immense concern are in good shape. The youthful member from the Tenth Kentucky district is one of the most genial men in the House and exceedingly popular with his associates. He is constant in his attendance and prompt in department and committee service. I was once a clerk of a congressional committee, and I know something about what I am talking about when I say that no man can be a successful Congressman who neglects his committee room. Lisle knows this and when he comes back here as a member of the next House he will be one of the members that the Speaker and committee chairmen will depend on. Perhaps he will be a chairman himself."

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 27, 1894.

Representative Lisle has announced his candidacy for re-election. His friends are out in the field tightening up his fences and laying the ground work to secure a unanimous re-nomination. Judge Lisle as his friends call him, has caught on to the ropes, so to speak, remarkably well for a new member. He has been studious and plodding and without purpose to praise, but to tell the truth, he has made a record to be proud of, a record that does honor to his constituents. One piece of work that he had a hand in was the Goodnight Bill, dividing Kentucky into two judicial districts and providing for the holding of a Federal Court at Jackson, Breathitt county. This bill, as stated in the dispatches at the time, has been unanimously reported from the Judiciary Committee, and is now on the calendar. Judge Lisle worked day and night on the bill, and gave great assistance to Mr. Goodnight, the author of the bill. The people of Jackson for several years have earnestly petitioned Congress to give them a Federal Court, but efforts to get such a bill reported were in vain until now. In the matter of pensions, Judge Lisle has been exceedingly active, hardly a day passing over his head without making a visit to the Pension Department in the interests of the old soldiers in his district. - Washington Cor. Courier-Journal.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 30, 1894

REPRESENTATIVE LISLE has received a great many letters from all over his district from permanent Democrats pledging their support for re nomination. Judge Lisle has not been feeling well for the past ten days, and although he has not been out of his room, he has managed to keep up with his correspondence and attend to all the wants of his constituents. He will attend the Democratic caucus Tuesday night and vote to approve the bill to repeal the per cent tax on State bans. He is a warm advocate of this measure. He says there will be some legislation on this subject before adjournment.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 13, 1894.

A WASHINGTON Associated Press dispatch says Representative Lisle is very much improved, but still not well enough to leave his room. He has received a number of letters asking him to come home and enter the canvass. He would do so, but, as a number of local bills in which his district is deeply interested, are liable to come up at any time, he feels it his duty to remain here and look after them.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 13, 1894.

AMONG the bills that will be reported favorably by the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds is the bill introduced by Representative Lisle, making an appropriation for a public building at Mt. Sterling. Col. Berry will write the report. Mr. Lisle has been most persistent in his efforts have finally been rewarded with success. Col. Berry says the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds will shortly be given a day by the Committee on Rules and that among the bills he hopes to get through are the bills providing for public buildings at Newport and Mt. Sterling. The Newport Public Building Bill is now on the calendar.-Washington Corr. Courier-Journal.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 17, 1894.

A CORRESPONDENT writing from Washington to the Mt. Sterling Advocate has the following to say of Judge Lisle, "In speaking of the Kentucky members from observation and of the House as a whole, I am impelled to say of Hon. M. C. Lisle that of all the new members, he is classed as among the best versed men in the House. He is a member, of now one of the most important House Committees and also a member of one other Committee. The tenth Kentucky District should well feel proud of her representative, and next November should send him back to Congress with an overwhelming majority."

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 17, 1894.

Judge Lisle is quite ill at Washington, although the reports of his illness have been greatly exaggerated by the daily papers. His brother, D. C. Lisle, went to Washington Tuesday night, and will return to-morrow. It is highly probably that Judge Lisle will come home with him.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 4, 1894

Postmaster Lisle yesterday receiving a telegram from Judge Lisle noting a great and continued improvement in the latter's health, and is assured of a speedy and permanent recovery. He will probably come home the latter part of the week, unless imperative business shall demand his stay in Washington.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 8, 1894

In speaking of Judge Lisle's record the Mt. Sterling Advocate says: "This will be good news to the many friends of our Congressman, and we hope to see his genial face at a very early day, as he makes a active canvass among his constituents."

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 11, 1894

Judge M. C. Lisle arrived here last night greatly improved in health and quite sanguine as to the future.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 11, 1894

Judge Lisle is rapidly recuperating from his recent illness and will soon be all right again.

Judge Lisle Withdraws

When Judge Lisle came home from Washington some weeks ago he was a very sick man. The physician held out hopes of a speedy recovery, which prediction his legion of friends hoped to see verified; such was not the case, and his strength has been very slow to return. After weeks he has only been able to leave his room for a short time, and the least exertion exhausts him. He has not been able to visit a single county in the district other than his own, and from present indications would not have been able to do so before the primaries. Notwithstanding all this, his friends in the various parts of the district have been loyal and enthusiastic and those who have watched the progress of events have been confident that he could again win. Taking everything into consideration, however, Mr. Lisle has announced his withdrawal in the following card which explains itself:

Winchester, Ky.,

June 6, 1894

To the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District:

Having become convinced that my candidacy for a renomination to Congress is seriously interfering with and retarding my recovery of health, it becomes my duty to my family and myself to withdraw from the contest. To the many loyal friends in each county who, both with and without solicitation, have pledged me their earnest and devoted sympathy and support. I desire to express my sincerest thanks. To the Democrats of my own county, who without any seeking upon my part, have without a dissenting voice, so far as I know, given me well nigh through three heated contests, their undivided and unanimous support, I bare and bow my head humbly. My life, whatever may be left of it, belongs to them.

Respectfully,

M. C. Lisle

The Sentinel-Democrat in commenting upon Judge Lisle's withdrawal says: "It is indeed distressing to see such a brilliant, honorable and useful public career cut short by ill-health. It has been generally thought that if Judge Lisle had retained his health that he would have been renominated. We sincerely hope that he may some day take up where he left off and round out his public life, so ably and brilliantly begun.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 12, 1894

In compelling Marcus C. Lisle to decline entering into the Tenth district contest, ill health robs Kentucky of her rose and expectancy of the present delegation in Congress. In the forenoon flush of handsome manhood, genial yet studious, true as steel to his friends, but truer still to the greatest good to the greatest number, Judge Lisle gave promise of a long career of usefulness in the councils of the nation—a promise that has not been broken or withdrawn, but only suspended for a period of, let us hope, not longer than two years.—Louisville Times

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 12, 1894

For several days Judge Lisle has lingered on the verge of the grave and his death seemed but a question of a few hours. Tuesday he rallied somewhat, and for two or three days seemed a little better. Yesterday he grew worse again and as we went to press it was thought the end was very near.
The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 6, 1894

JUDGE LISLE this week received from the Sec. of State the official vote of the various counties comprising this district. The counties carried by Judge Lisle, and the majorities are Breathitt, 411; Clark, 372; Elliot, 627; Floyd, 540; Knott, 318; Montgomery, 468; Morgan, 452; Menefee, 230; Pike, 190; Powell, 108; and Wolfe, 268. Mr. Russell carried Estill, 163; Johnson, 555; Lee, 62; Martin, 235; and Magoffin 182. The total vote for Judge Lisle was 14, 515, and for Mr. Russell was 11,713. Lisle's majority 2,772. On the same basis as here-before the district will have 73 votes in convention. Clark still retains her supremacy with 10 votes, but her influence will hardly be so potent as here-before as several of the other counties have increased their representation.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT JULY 9, 1894

HON. M.C. LISLE DEAD.

Clark County Mourns the Loss of Her Gifted Young Son.

The fact that "Death loves a shining mark" was never more fully exemplified than in the death of Judge Marcus Lisle, which occurred at his home on South Maple Street at five o'clock Saturday morning.

Young, gifted, ambitious, popular, it seemed that life had so much for him and for this reason it seems doubly hard for him to be cut off in the very spring time of his young manhood. Possessed of talents far above the average man: with a popularity which extended beyond the bounds of his own State with the Napoleonic power of organizing, directing and commanding men which so few possess in so marked a degree, there was no position in the gift of the people to which he might not confidently have aspired. The nation mourns for one of her most gifted young sons, but those who knew him best, mourn for him not as Judge Lisle, not as Congressman Lisle, but as Marcus Lisle, their Neighbor and friend, who was ever ready with hand or brain to serve them: who never forgot a friend or harbored malice against an enemy: who hated all that was low, mean and ignoble with the intensity of a noble and generous nature: who was always ready and glad to grasp the hand of the humblest neighbors of his boyhood days, and whom no elevation or power could render haughty or arrogant.

"Into each life some rain must fall" and bitter are these drops to his family. His father seemed bound up in the life of his gifted son, and to his old age comes this, the bitterest sorrow of his life. His brothers and sisters mourn the loss of the youngest son, the joy and pride of the family, but it is to his bright little boy bereft at so tender an age of a mother's loving care and a father's guiding hand, that the tenderest sympathy goes out. May He who watches over the lambs of His flock guide and direct his little feet into the paths that shall make him worthy of his parentage.

The career of Marcus Lisle is an incentive to all aspiring young men. Born on a farm in the Four Mile Hills, September 22, 1862, his course was a model one from the start. At the country school he was one of the brightest and best boys of his class. He then attended the High School of this city and finished his education at Lexington. He then studied law graduating from Columbia Law School, New York. He at once entered upon the practice of law in this city, in which he was quite successful. With positive views on all subjects, he naturally drifted into politics and at once became a leader. He early developed a talent for newspaper work and while he was owner and editor of this paper it ranked as high as it ever did in its varied career. In 1890 he was elected County Judge by a decided majority defeating a most estimable and popular gentleman.

Although the youngest judge the county ever had he administered its affairs in a wise and conservative manner. While County Judge, he received numerous solicitations to make the race for Congress in the Tenth district. He consented and in one of the most spirited contests ever known he was nominated by the Democrats of this district and elected by more than the usual majority over a popular Republican, Charlie Russell. His career in Congress has been singularly successful. Without making a single speech, he had more influence with the President and the heads of the various departments than any new member of the House and he was an especial favorite with the President.

His brief married life was a most happy one. In 1887 he was married to Miss Lizzie Buckner Bean, one of the brightest and sweetest of Clark's fair daughters. For nearly six years their life was a dream of happiness, which was rudely dispelled by the death of Mrs. Lisle in March 1893. One child of this union survives, Ernest Claiborne, one of the prettiest and brightest little boys to be found in a day's journey and who is now about five and one-half years old.

Early in life the seeds of hereditary consumption developed and only his indomitable will and courage enable him to do what he has done. He went to Colorado, that Mecca of consumptives, and for a while his condition improved and he bade fair to live a long time, but the love of home was too strong and declaring that he would rather die in Ky. than live in Colorado, he returned. By sheer will power he performed his congressional duties and had not his health failed utterly there is no reasonable doubt that he would have been returned to Congress again. Human nature, however, has its limit, and when he came home a few weeks ago, his most intimate friends knew it was to die. His strength gradually grew less and without pain he died. His last days were peaceful and he met death with the same tranquil courage that has all his life distinguished him. He gave the same thoughtful consideration to religious subjects that he did to others and in 1892; he united with the Presbyterian Church, of which he had since been a consistent member.

He was the youngest son of Claiborne and Esther Hampton Lisle, the latter having died several years ago. Three brothers, Squire Jas. D. Lisle, Postmaster D.C. Lisle and Thos. Lisle, of Elkin, and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Oliver, of Arlen and Mrs. Jesse Hodgkin, of Elkin, survive him, while two sisters, Mrs. Jas. Duckworth and Mrs. Jeff Eubank preceded him to the grave.

The funeral was arranged for ten o'clock Monday morning but was deferred more than an hour to await the arrival of the congressional delegation. Long before the beginning of the services, the Presbyterian Church was filled to its utmost capacity and hundreds were unable to obtain admission.

Rev. J.J. Chisholm preached the funeral sermon from the text "Where Is My God that Giveth Songs by Night." He spoke feelingly of life and its duties and afflictions, of God who was able and willing to lighten the night of grief and sorrow by the songs of gladness or resignation.

The prayer offered by Rev. W.S. Keene was most fervent and eloquent while the music rendered by the choir was beautiful and appropriate. A solo by Mrs. Fanniebelle Sutherland, of Paris, was especially sweet.

The floral decorations were most beautiful and appropriate.

In accordance with a proclamation issued by Mayor Garner, the business houses were closed, and a feeling of subdued sadness was prevalent every where. The bell of the church and also of the engine house tolled at half-minute intervals. The procession was one of the largest that ever entered the cemetery, nearly one hundred vehicles being in line. At the grave Rev. W.T. Bolling made a most feeling prayer, and a quartet from the Presbyterian choir sang an appropriate selection as the grave was being filled. The pallbearers were Col. H.P. Thomson, Hon. Jas. F. Winn, S.A. Jeffries, W.H. French, Eli Bean, T.C. Robinson, Waller Quisenberry, Thos. W.L. Vanmeter, F. P. Pendleton, of this city, and Capt. W.F. Dandridge, of Frankfort. The honorary pall bearers were Sid Mapel, of Clay City; John Welch, of Nicholasville; F.A. Evons, Beattyville; Floyd Hagan, of Jackson; Lieut. Gov. M.C. Alford, of Lex.; N. H. Trimble, of Mt. Sterling; O. A. Lyle, of Stanton; Vernon L. Vaughn, of Irvine, and M. O. Cockrell, of Montgomery county.

The Congressional delegation present was Senator Wm. Lindsay. Congressmen A.H. Taylor and A.N. Martin of Indiana; Gov. McCreary, Hon. T.H. Paynter and Hon. Albert Berry of this State; Hon. W. V. Lucas, of South Dakota, and Hon. Wm. Draper, of Mass. They were accompanied by Clifton Rose, of the Washington Bureau of the Courier-Journal; Lucien Davidson and W.C. Parrish, pages, Albert and Robert Berry, sons of Hon. A. S. Berry. The delegation was in charge of Henry Noller, Assistant Sergeant of Arms of the House. W. H. Gregor, General Passenger Agent of the C&O road, was in charge of the train.

This delegation was met at Mt. Sterling by Mayor Garner and Judge Flanagan.

Among those present from a distance were: Hon. C. M. Clay, Jr., James McClure, of Paris; Judge D.B. Redwine of Jackson; S. B. Phelps, of White Hall; Green R. Kellar, of Carlisle; J.C. Bryant, of Ashland; C. B. Hill, of Beattyville; J. L. Lisle, Mrs. V. H. Lisle, Miss Nancy Lisle, Miss. Miriam Lisle, Thos. H. Shelby, Mrs. William Preston, and Mrs. Wickliffe Preston, of Lexington; Mrs. John Mason Brown and daughter, of Louisville.

The following account of the action of Congress we take from Sundays Courier-Journal:

"The death of Congressman Marcus C. Lisle was not unexpected, as he had been in a precarious condition for some weeks. It can be said to his credit that he never gave up until forced to do so by tired nature. Mr. Lisle was one of the most popular members of the House, and had he lived there is no doubt but that he would have made his mark in the legislation of the country, as he possessed a peculiar fitness for the position to which his people elected him.

As Gov. McCreary received the dispatch from the deceased Congressman's brother, announcing the death, he felt it a duty to inform the members of the delegation and to call a meeting for the purpose of taking appropriate action. This was done without delay. Gov. McCreary was elected as chairman, and instructed to prepare suitable resolutions to present to the House.

While the Ky. members were thus engaged, the House was proceeding to non-concur in the Senate amendments and to agree to the conference asked for by the Senate. It took nearly two hours to do this. When this had been done, the Governor arose and addressed the Chair. He said:

"Mr. Speaker, it is my sad duty to announce to the House of Rep. the death of Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, late a Rep. in Congress from the State of Ky. He died early this morning at his home, in Winchester, KY. He was born September 23, 1862, in Clark County, KY. Though young in years, he had become very prominent as lawyer, legislator and businessman. In the year 1890, he was elected County Judge of the

	county in which he was born and reared. In 1892, he was elected as Rep. in Congress, and was, therefore, serving his first term at the time of his death. He was a true friend, a pure patriot and an accomplished gentleman, and he was loved and respected by all who knew him. In all the positions of honor and trust held by him he was conspicuous for his ability, integrity and fidelity to duty. At this time I will not indulge in any extended remarks on the life, character and public services of our deceased colleague and friend, but in the future I will ask the House of Representatives to set apart a day for the commemoration of his virtues and public services and for appropriate action in regard to his death. I now ask the adoption of these resolutions which I send to the desk." Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives have heard with deep regret and profound sorrow of the death of the Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, late Rep. from the State of Ky. Resolved, That a committee of seven members of the House be appointed by the Speaker to act with such Senators as may be selected to attend the funeral of the deceased, and that the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House shall take proper action for superintending the funeral and for attending the remains of the deceased at the place of burial, and the necessary expense incurred by the execution of this order shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House. Resolved: That the clerk be directed to communicate to the Senate a copy of these resolutions. Resolved: That as a further mark of respect the House do now adjourn. The resolutions were unanimously agreed to. Before announcing the vote the Speaker appointed the following committee in pursuance of the resolutions: Messrs. McCreary, Berry, Taylor, of Indiana: Paynter, Draper, Lucas and Martin, of Indiana. Mr. Pence was appointed in the place of Mr. Martin, but owing to some House engagements could not serve. The Vice President appointed the following committee on the part of the Senate to attend the funeral of Congressman Lisle: Messrs. Blackburn, Lindsay, Palmer, Squire and Duboise. The funeral party will leave tomorrow afternoon in a special car over the Chesapeake and Ohio. They are due in Winchester 10:30 Monday morning, at which time the funeral will take place. The members of the Kentucky delegation held a meeting at which Mr. McCreary presided and adopted the following: "It having been announced that the Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, of Kentucky, had this day departed this life, a meeting of his colleagues were held in the Capitol, and the following resolutions were adopted: Resolved. That the members of the Kentucky delegation join with the family and constituents of the Hon. Marcus C. Lisle in mourning his untimely death and desire to express their regard for him as a man and their respect for him as a representative of the people." Resolved. That in the death of the Hon. M. C. Lisle there is taken from the labors of business to the rewards of eternity a true man: a faithful public servant, one whose future was full of promise, one who had in a short life of but thirty-one years won the respect and confidence of the people among whom he lived: had attained the highest position within the gift of his district and commanded the admiration of his colleagues in the American Congress by his faithful, zealous and intelligent discharge of his representative duties. Resolved. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of the deceased. "It was commented on today by the members as somewhat singular that of the three Democrats elected from the tenth district one should have been killed and the other two John M. Kendall and Marcus C. Lisle should each die while serving the first half of their first term. There seems to be a strange fatality around the members who come from the Tenth district." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 10, 1894 The Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, congressman from the Tenth Kentucky district, died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning at his home at Winchester. By his death Kentucky loses an upright representative and a true man. Lisle, Marcus Claiborne 7-13-1894 thru 12-1894	Resolutions of Respect At a meeting of the Winchester bar held in the County Court room, Saturday, July 7, 1894, to take appropriate action upon the death of Hon. M. C. Lisle, a member of the bar. Col. Jos. T. Tucker was elected Chairman and Gibson Taylor Secretary. Leeland Hathaway, Geo. B. Nelson, W. M. Beckner, Rodney Haggard, F. H. Dudley and C. S. French were appointed a committee to draft resolutions of respect and instructed to report at 8:30 o'clock Monday, July 9, 1894. The Committee reported the following resolutions which were adopted unanimously:

Resolved. That it is with the deepest pain and sorrow that we have learned of the death of the Hon. M. C. Lisle, member of this bar, who on the 7th day of July 1894, yielded up his young and useful life in obedience to the final summons.

Resolved. That his death has taken from the bar of Winchester one of its most valued members; one who in his intercourse with his brethren of the profession was always courteous, obliging and kindly, and in his duties to his clients was always faithful and true.

Resolved. That we tender to his bereaved family our sincere sympathy in this, their great loss.

Resolved. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Circuit and County Courts of Clark county and a copy thereof be sent to the family of the deceased

JOS. T. TUCKER, Chairman

GIBSON TAYLOR, Secretary.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 13, 1894.

D. C. Lisle has received requests in the last few days from several parts of the districts asking him to stand for the unexpired term of his brother. Marcus, and stating that this precedent had been established in the past. Mr. Lisle is thoroughly acquainted with the political affairs of the district, having been prominent in the management of his brother's campaigns, and would make a good Congressman.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 13, 1894.

IN a great many minds the first question presenting itself after hearing of the death of Judge Lisle is, who will be his successor to fill the unexpired term? While the term is short, six or seven months, the $ 2,500 or $ 3,000 which will be due whoever is elected, is not to be scoffed at these hard times. It has been generally observed that a Congressman dying in office is succeeded by a relative or some one from the same section of the district in which the deceased resided, and in this case we know of no good reason why this custom should not be observed. The counties of this district should say to Clark county, select and nominate your choice and we will elect him. Outside of the family circle of Judge Lisle we know of no one more deserving or competent for this position than Judge W. M. Beckner, of Winchester. We have not heard what action, if any, the Campton convention took in this matter, and in all probability will not hear the result until after the Messenger is printed, but we believe it would be advisable for the convention now in session to endorse some one to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Lisle, or rather let the delegates agree that Clark county furnish the candidate to be selected by the Democratic voters of the county.- Morgan County Messenger.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 17, 1894.

D.C. Lisle has conducted to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination to fill his brother's unexpired term in Congress. This action has been taken after mature consideration and in response to numerous requests from various parts of the district and from among the best Democrats of the counties composing it. He is thoroughly conversant with the politics of the district, having been prominent in the various campaigns of his brother and being in touch with the prominent Democratic leaders everywhere. One of the most prominent factors in arriving at this conclusion was that it was the dying request of Marcus that Connie should succeed him. If this should be the case, the latter could take up the Congressional work where it was left off by our dead Congressman, as he has been in full touch, with him in regard to all public affairs. If nominated he will add much strength to the ticket in this part of the district. The formal announcement will appear in our next.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 17, 1894.

Resolutions Passed by the Kentucky Club at Washington.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Kentucky Club, of Washington D. C. held July 11, 1894, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to terminate by death the physical sufferings, long borne with philosophical fortitude, of Hon. Marcus C. Lisle, last a member of the Kentucky Club, of Washington, D. C. therefore in token of our sorrow, as well as in testimony of our appreciation of his worth as a man, his great value as a public officer and on account of the high esteem and fraternal affection in which he was held by the members of this club.

Be it Resolved, That we sincerely mourn his sad death, which came in the flower of his youth, just as he had, by his own merits, and by virtue of his great intelligence and innate manliness, reached a high station, attained by few so young. In this station he had already acquitted himself so worthily as to give evidence that the most distinguished career and highest civic honors would surely be his, if he might only live to attain them:

That in his untimely death the country has lost an able and incorruptible patriot and public servant, society an ornament, Kentucky one of the brightest and most promising of her sons, and this club one of its best beloved and most zealous and enthusiastic members:

That we extend to his bereaved family in this the hour of their sore affliction, our most earnest and heartfelt sympathy,

That copies of these resolutions be furnished for publication to The Winchester Democrat, Winchester Sun, the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Washington Post, and that they be spread upon the minutes of the club.

A. C. Quisenberry, Sam M. Gainer, W. H. Anderson, Geo. B. Gardner, Committee.
The Winchester Democrat Tuesday July 17, 1894

THE Democratic convention at Campton on Wednesday endorsed Hon. W. M. Beckner, of Clark county, as the proper person to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. M. C. Lisle last Saturday. This, we think, was eminently right and proper, and we believe the Democrats all over the District will in turn endorse the action of the convention, though it is an open question as to their right to take any action in the matter.-Hazel Green Herald.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 17, 1894.

FROM the expressions found in our exchanges published in the 10th Congressional district and from all other information at hand we think the district is highly pleased with the action of the Campton Convention in endorsing Judge Beckner for the short term. He above all others, will be ready to step into the harness next December and knows how and what to do in the three months' of service to which he will be called.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 17, 1894.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE

Paid the Memory of Our Dead Congressman

In the Campton Convention by Jas. H. Swango.

MR. CHAIRMAN:-In support of the resolution just adopted and in behalf of the people of Wolfe County, I rise to pay a tribute, as one beginning the great journey of life, to our friend and fellow-citizen who has just ended it. While, in the active discharge of his duties the hand of disease was laid upon his manly form and threatened his entire usefulness; but day by day the glad tidings of continued convalescence were brought to us, when, like the lightning's bolt from a cloudless sky, there came the brief appalling message-"Marcus Lisle is dead." It smote our hearts like ice. We stood with bowed heads in the presence of great sorrow, and to day we get to consecrate this hour to the commemoration of him who has closed his eyes to the scenes of this world to be opened amid the great realities of a blest eternity. Loving hands have gently laid him away in his last, long resting place; loving eyes have looked for the last time through blinding tears upon his still cold faced and the last sound of the funeral dirge has long since died away. But how vain are these formalities to the conquering hero who gave his life for his county's cause. Naught on earth will disturb the sleep that wrapped the mantle of death about this mouldering form. Would that I could relate the story of his life. Born of poor but honorable parentage, he rose rapidly in his profession and in the brightest morning of manhood he gained the confidence of his fellow man wherever he was known. His fathers pitched their tents in Kentucky's lonely forest when she was indeed the dark and bloody ground. They watched by the cradle of the infant commonwealth beset with danger on every hand. They wrested mountain fastness and bluegrass fields from savage foes, founded a religion that feared nothing save God and established a civilization that never closed a door to a stranger. Their sacred dust lies mingled with our soil made doubly sacred by the best blood of their hearts. Such was the ancestry of our deceased and honorable servant. Fellow citizens let bow our head in gratitude to God that such a patriot dwelt among us. Let our mountain sides resound with his praise. Let us manhood, our beautiful and virtuous womanhood swell the great chorus in singing songs to the memory of him who like the man of Galilee, gave his life for his fellowman. As an humble citizen of the commonwealth, let me dedicate to his memory this epitaph, so beautifully inscribed by another. And let I be enshrined in the hearts of every true American present as a stimulant to his honesty, his integrity, his fidelity to the great principles of American citizenship. In remembrance of Marcus C. Lisle. Born Sept. 23, 1862. Died July 7th, 1894. A learned and faithful lawyer, peaceful and public spirited citizen, an incorruptible patriot, a sagacious statesman, and over all-God's noblest handiwork-an honest man, he was an ornament to the commonwealth and an honor to his race. Peace be to his ashes and God bless his memory.

OFFICERS

Of the Democratic Primary election, Aug 6, 1894.

THE Democratic County Committee met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of appointing election officers and the transaction of other business. S. J. Shinfessel who had been selected as member from Goodes declined to accept and W. F. Clemons was chosen as the member from that voting place.

A mass meeting at the Court house Saturday, August 11th, at two o'clock was ordered, to choose between W. M. Beckner and D. C. Lisle as to which should be considered the choice of the county for the unexpired term of Hon. M. C. Lisle in Congress.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 24, 1894.

The withdrawal of Mr. D. C. Lisle assures Judge W. M. Beckner the Democratic nomination for the unexpired Congressional term of the late Marcus C. Lisle, and it is not probable that even a Republican candidate will be put up to contest his election. Judge Beckner has been for years the most earnest and efficient advocate of the betterment of the public school system of Kentucky; he has served on the Prison and the Railroad Commissions, in the Constitutional Convention and the legislature, and will take his seat in Congress next December admirably equipped for service in that wider field of public service.—Louisville Times.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 31, 1894

In another column will be found the advertisement of Gov. Brown fixing the time for holding the election to choose a successor to Hon. M. C. Lisle. The time is fixed for the regular November election. This is as it should be. We believe Judge Beckner will add strength to the ticket especially in this district, while "Little Joe" Kendall will whoop up the boys in the Licking and Sandy valleys.

An Incident in the Life of the Late M. C. Lisle

Col. S. M. Boone, who was for years a resident of this city, prints the following incident in last week's issue of his paper, The Marion Falcon:

"The death of this brilliant and sprightly young Kentuckian, late a member in Congress representing the Tenth District recalls an incident in his life which should be preserved in the archives of his State. He was a lawyer of fine ability, had been elected County Judge of Clark and then to Congress of the United States. In all these responsible relations his career was that of a fearless and strictly upright man, loved and respected by all who knew him.

"At the time of the occurrence to which reference is made the writer was residing in Winchester, and one fine morning passing along Main street, he met a bright-looking little country boy with a basket of eggs on his arm. The question was asked of the little fellow if his eggs were for sale and the price: he said they were and that they were worth 12 ½ cents per dozen. To which I replied: "You are asking too much for your eggs, my boy; I can buy them here in any of the stores for 10 cents"

"Well, Sir," said he, "this you may do, but my mother told me to sell these eggs for 12 ½ cents per dozen, and I propose to do so, or carry them back home to my mother, as her hens cannot afford to lay eggs for you town people for ten cents a dozen."

"He was a stranger then to me, but the manner in which he spoke and the sparkle in his honest, bright eye made an impression upon me that I shall never forget. I said: "I'll take your eggs, my little man, and did so, carrying them into the house, at the same time remarking to my wife: 'Mollie the little boy standing at the door is waiting for his chance to make his mark in the world.' That little boy was Marcus C. Lisle. What impressed me most was his loyalty and devotion to his mother; she whom he loved had given him his marching orders, and by them he proposed to stand, or carry the eggs back home to mother."

There will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee for the 10th Congressional District of Kentucky, held at the National Hotel, in the city of Mt. Sterling, on the 25th day of August, 1894, at 11 o'clock a. m., to take action with reference to the nomination of a Democratic candidate to fill the vacancy in the present Congress, caused by the death of Hon. M. C. Lisle. Notice is given that if there is, by that time, no candidate for the nomination other than Judge W. M. Beckner, of Clark, it will be in order then to declare him the nominee. The members of said Committee may take such action as they deem proper to ascertain the wishes of the Democrats of their respective counties with reference to this matter. Given under my hand, as Chairman of said Committee, this August 8th 1894.

R. H. Vansant, Chairman,
Dem. Com. 10th district.

A Tribute

The incidence so well related by Col. S. M. Boone, in the life of Marcus Lisle makes me glad that the noble mother of the faithful son has not been forgotten. "Childhood days now pass forgotten." "Forms and scenes of long ago crowd memory's walls," and one of the most vivid pictures is the form and face of Easter Hampton Lisle. Life had not been what she expected it, but upon the faithful features there were few lines of

	deep trouble. Not a murmur ever passed the thin, white lips; she scarcely paused to send a regret into the grave of the past. She loved her children and the example and words of encouragement always brought them nearer to her side. And when thirty-three years ago, a dear boy was laid in the weary arms, perhaps she dreamed of the success she did not live to see. She was never impatient and the course events took were only the fulfilling of the divine plan. Who knows the hopes that lived when she saw the success attendant upon his youth. She passed away before she could behold the battles he fought and won upon this earth. Noble quiet woman! We can almost hear the words of welcome, and the first question asked when heaven's home was reached, "Where's Mother?" Fannie F. Stryker Windsor, Mo. Lisle, Marcus Claiborne 1-22-1895 thru 1-29-1895	IN MEMORIAM Tribute to the Memory of Hon. M. C. Lisle by His Coleagues of the House In accordance to a resolution passed some time ago the se4ssion of Saturday was set apart by the House of Representatives for address in memory of Hon. M. C. Lisle. The following report of the proceedings is from the Courier-Journal. "At 2 o'clock this afternoon the House suspended all business in order that the members might pay tribute to the memory of the late Representative Marcus C. Lisle, of the Tenth Kentucky district. Mr. Lisle was a very popular member of the House, and during his brief service he made many warm personal friendships. Representative McCreary was the first speaker to do reverence to his deceased colleague. He referred to the many noble qualities of the late Representative from Kentucky, and in choice language sketched his public career from his election as County Judge to a Representative in Congress. He spoke of the bright future that was in store for the deceased and how, with the courage of a philosopher, he laid himself down to die at the very noonday of his life, without a murmur. Representative Berry was the next speaker. He read his remarks. He knew his late colleague well, they having entered the House together. He dwelt on his personal character and told of many instances when he had displayed those qualities that endeared him to his friends. Representative Caruth was the next speaker. He passed a handsome eulogy on the late Representative from the Tenth district. Representative Pence, of Colorado, made a few remarks on the character of Mr. Lisle, who he said was one of the most unselfish men he had ever met. Judge Beckner, Representative Lisle's successor, said he had known his predecessor for years; had seen him steadily make his way to the front, surmounting obstacles in his path that would have turned back men of less resolute will and firmness. He could add but little to what had already been said. The last speaker was Representative Breckinridge, although a number of gentlemen who were on the list to speak were unavoidably detained from the House. Col. Breckinridge is a flowery speaker, and the House likes to hear him talk. The eulogies he pronounced on his dead friend were simple and touching. It seemed but yesterday he said, that he was his friend from Clark, accompanied by his bride, at the Capital. They were here on their wedding trip. And what a brief trip it had been. He spoke of the fortitude displayed by his friend when the telegram came telling him that the wife of his bosom was sinking into that sleep which knows no awakening. And following fast upon the death of the mother and child came the grim destroyer to the home of the father. He said the record left by his colleague was profit. At the request of Mr. McCreary, unanimous consent was given the members to print their eulogies in the Record. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 22, 1895. Judge Beckner's Eulogy The following are the remarks of Judge Beckner in the House of Representatives on the day set apart in memory of Hon. M. C. Lisle: "Mr. Speaker, we are all walking the thin ice of a Lethean lake whose depths no mortal power can measure. It will sooner or later engulf every human being, and to the great majority the final catastrophe is reached without warning, or even an intimation that it is near, to others, however, bodily infirmities herald death long before it might be expected in the usual course of nature. The young man in whose memory these services are held knew for years that his days were numbered, and in his waking hours could hear the hoof beats of the pale horse in a race which he realized from the start he could not win. It was death and life with him from the time he entered this House until the closing scene. Consumption and Bright's disease had begun their combined assaults upon his system

and there could be no escape. He was not a craven spirit, however, and he made a struggle that was as heroic as it was hopeless. Shortly after he had reached home last spring I called to see him, and as I arose to take my leave asked if I could in any way serve him. "I am very much obliged, he answered cheerily, "but I am fighting death and it is a struggle in which no one can help me." He had rallied somewhat under the balmy influences of our Kentucky spring, and was beginning to think that the end which had seemed so near when he left Washington might after all be for awhile deferred. Marcus Claiborne Lisle was born on the 23rd day of September, 1862, in Clark county, Ky., within a few miles of the historic spot where Boone made the settlement which bore his name.

It is a beautiful portion of the borderland between the far-famed Blue Grass and a not less worthy region. He had the usual experience of a country-bred boy in attending the district school and working on a farm until almost grown when he had a limited academic training at Winchester, the county seat.

After attending Kentucky University, at Lexington, where he was a classmate of our worthy Chaplain, he was for awhile a student of the law in my office and closed preparation for his professional career at Columbia College, in New York. It was not long after he had been admitted to the bar before he was elected by a most complimentary vote to the office of county judge, a position of much honor and responsibility under the system which prevails in Kentucky, and one peculiarly to be desired by a young man beginning to practice law.

Soon after he had finished his professional education he married Miss Lizzie Bean, a member of one of our oldest and most respected families, and beyond doubt one of the gentlest and most charming girls that favoring nature and careful culture could produce. The future seemed to have in store for him nothing but prosperity and happiness until disease marred the flattering prospect. In the fall of 1890 he went to Colorado, hoping beneath the bright skies and amid the bracing atmosphere of that elevated region to regain the health which it was then evident he had lost. He rallied, but it was merely a respite.

Returning in the spring of 1891, he resumed the discharges of his official duties. It was plainly to be seen, however, by those most intimate with him that he would never fully recover. He was himself deceived as to his condition. Hon. J. W. Kendall at the time a member of this House from the Tenth district of Kentucky, died in March, 1892. When I first heard that Judge Lisle had it in mind to offer for the unexpired term I went to see him and suggested that the son would probably want to succeed his father, with a sentiment in his favor that would make his candidacy well-nigh irresistible.

"Yes," he replied, decisively, "I understand all that most fully, but it has been the ambition of my life to have a seat in Congress, and if not gratified at once it will never be, as the condition of my health is such that I can not hope to live very long." He did not succeed in that effort, but in the summer of 1862 was nominated and in November elected to fill the term now drawing to a close. He seemed to gather strength from the canvass, but as soon as the excitement had subsided and the effects of the vigorous exercise and constant exposure to sun and air incident to an active race had worn away he began again to droop.

His gentle, loving wife died about the time that his term of office began, which gave a perceptible impetus to a frailties already painfully apparent. A humble will however enabled him to rally from the effects of this bereavement and held him up through all the strain and struggle not to be avoided by a Representative trying to do his duty toward the men who looked to him to see that they were not ignored in distributing the patronage of a new Administration elected by the party to which he belonged.

He was zealous and diligent, although never well, and rarely able to undertake what he so energetically did. He took his seat at the extra session and like the man that he was, followed the course which his conscience and judgement approved, although in opposition sometimes to the views and wishes of many whose opinions he most highly prized. He continued to come to this Hall long after his strength had so far failed that it would not have been a discredit to him had he quit the field and surrendered to an enemy he could not then reasonably hope to vanish.

In the spring of 1894 he was compelled to take to his bed, but would not distress his friends by apprising them of the serious nature of his condition until death seemed very near indeed. Rallying all his strength he was able to reach home early in May, but ill as he was, would not give up his candidacy for renomination until he had become so weak that he could not even dictate the letters he had never ceased to send over the district with a view to organizing the rallying his friends.

Early in July last he wrote in no gloomy mood to his secretary, whom he had left in charge of his affairs at Washington, to send him without delay the draft for the June installment of his salary, as it would be the last he would ever call for and he did not want his administrator to be annoyed with so small a matter so far away from home. Early in the morning of July 7 he ceased to breath and his spirit took its flight—hither do you ask? Human wisdom can not tell although it has been diligently inquiring throughout all the ages. We must accept the answer that faith gives. There is no other.

But whither went his soul, let such relate
Who search the secrets of the future state.
Divines can say but what themselves believe.
Strong proofs they have but not demonstrative.

For were all plain then all sides must agree
And faith itself be lost in certainty.

How many in their anguish have uttered the cry expressed by the late poet laureate in Maud:

Ah Christ, that it were possible
For one short hour to see
The souls that we loved, that they might tell us
What and where they be.

Secundus, when asked by Hadrian what was death:

It is sleep eternal: the body's dissolution the rich man's fear: the poor man's refuge an inevitable: an uncertain journey: a thief that steals away man: sleep's father: life's flight: the departure of the living and the resolution of all.

Shakespeare speaks of "our little life" as being "rounded with a sleep" and makes Hamlet say:

To die, to sleep:
To sleep: perchance to dream: ay, there's the rub:
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause.

When David declares "He shall give his beloved sleep," it may be the license of the poet, but when God announces to Moses, "Behold, thou shalt sleep with the fathers." It can reasonably be taken as meaning nothing else than the condition in which he would be after death. Lazarus had been dead four days, and had been placed in the tomb, wrapped, as was the custom of the Jews, so that breathing was impossible. Yet, after the Master had learned all of this. He said: Our friend Lazarus sleepeth;" and St. John significantly adds, "Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death." So also when He appeared at the house of Jairus the Savior assured the ruler of the synagogue that his daughter was "not dead, but sleepeth," and when He called her to life again, Luke significantly records that "her spirit came again."

But the chronicler of the acts and words of the Son of God does not vouch safe to tell us whither the spirit of the young girl had gone ere it "came again."

This is the tremendous mystery we so yearn to fathom.

All that humanity can get of its solution is a glimpse.

That death comes we know. That there will be a judgement we believe. What our state is between these momentous events even revelation does not make clear.

Whether there be a Hades or a Sheol or a Purgatory, or whether the soul in truth slumbers until the resurrection truth shall call all the dead simultaneously from their graves, is something we can not find out in this life. And after all what does it matter? In the eternity of God the ages between the killing of Abel and the day of judgement if it be at the same time for all, will not amount to so much as does a single night's repose in the economy of our mortal lives.

It is this uncertainty as to what shall be after death that makes us incompetent to decide whether life, with its tears, its toil, its travail and its tribulations, be really worth living. Were it not for this darkness beyond the tomb how many more would cease to bear the ills they have and fly either to the rest or to the annihilation which would be preferable to the struggle here below. As it is—

The weariest and most loathest worldly life
That age, ache, penury, and imprisonment
Can lay on nature, is a paradise
To what we fear of death.

Of course the Christian has his faith to strengthen him and the brave man has the courage to continue in the discharge of duty, but every rational being in normal condition must look with dread upon the transition from life to death. It is a blessed provision that affliction and disease in some degree reconcile us to the final change. Much as Judge Lisle yearned for health and preferred, no doubt to live, yet I never heard him express a tremor or a fear or even repine or complain of the fate which for years he felt sure was not far off.

In the introduction to the Republic, Plato makes Cephalus say:

Be assured, Socrates, that when a man is nearly persuaded that he is going to die, he feels concerned about things which never affected him before. Till then he has laughed at those stories about the departed which tell us that he who has done wrong here must suffer for it in the other world; but now his mind is disturbed by the fear that those stories may possibly be true, and either owing to the infirmities of old age, or because he is nearer to the confines of a future state, he has a clearer insight into these mysteries. However that may be, he becomes fuller of misgiving and apprehension, and sets himself to the task of calculating and reflecting whether he has done any wrong to anyone. Hereupon, if he finds his life full of unjust deeds, he is apt to start out of sleep in terror, as children do, and he lives haunted by gloomy anticipation. But if his conscience reproaches him with no injustice, he enjoys the abiding presence of sweet Hope, that "kind nurse of old age," as Pindar calls it.

Shakespeare in Henry VI has in fewer words express the same thought:
 Ah, what a sign it is of evil life
 Where death's approach is seen so terrible.

Judged by these considerations, Marcus Lisle certainly was conscious of no cause for reproach, as life closed quietly with him and there was in his last hours no indication of remorse or dread. He had not lived what we call a religious life, but had always entertained a proud respect for God and his revealed religion.

The inward monitor, a reflective temperament, much reading, and his strong, hard sense, had during the years when young men are so prone to lose sight of the hereafter in their eagerness to enjoy the present, brought him to about that condition as to religion so strikingly expressed by Lucretius:
 Religion does not consist of turning unceasingly toward the veiled stone, nor in approaching all the altars, nor in throwing one's self prostrate on the ground, nor in raising thy hands before the habitations of the gods, nor in deluging the temples with the blood of beasts, nor in heaping vows upon vows, but in beholding all with a peaceful soul.

In the spring of 1893 he joined the Presbyterian Church, of which his wife had been a member, and accepted in deep sincerity the faith which worldly man that he had been, he felt was so potent an element in her gracious character.

Our relations were at all times in his latter years as intimate as they could have been, considering the disparity in ages and somewhat different tastes.

A short time before he died we were talking about his experience in Washington and I asked as to whether he had taken any part in the work of the House. He answered that he attended committee meetings when he could, but that he was rarely able to remain long in his seat owing to his feebleness and the drafts and ventilation of this Hall. He added that sometimes he would grow so weak he was not sure whether he was in the land of the living or whether the figures he saw passing about were the spirits of the illustrious dead who have played their parts here as we are now doing, and have gone the way we will shortly follow. I am not one of those, Mr. Speaker, who believe that power has been given to any one here below to have communication with the departed, but the wisest and most thoughtful in all ages and under every system of religion have believed what the devout Milton has so impressively expressed:
 Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth
 Unseen, both when we wake and when we sleep.

What an influence such a conviction must have on our thoughts and actions. Many a time, when vice has allured me or passion has stirred the sea of my soul, I have imagined that I saw standing beyond vice or rising above the storm of passion the form of that dear being who amid all the struggles of an impoverished widowhood, cherished no hope in life so sweet as that her son might enjoy advantages she did not have that he might be able to secure the comforts she could not give him, and that he might so live as to be of service to his fellow-men, whose sorrows and misfortunes so touched her sympathetic heart and immediately there came the strength and the calm which no other influence could have brought.

At the organization of the House when it met in August, 1893, Judge Lisle sought a place on the Committee on Arid Lands, because he had faith in the hereafter the vast territory now useless for any purpose by reason of its want of water can by means of irrigation be made a rich domain, capable of supporting the overflowing population that will so sadly need it in an era that lies before us. He was ambitious to be identified with the regeneration of these possessions now so worthless to the Government, but fraught with such possibilities to the people of the future. His mind always had a practical cast and his sympathies were ever with inquiry and progress. He took a broad liberal view of all questions that came before him and believed this to be the best and greatest age of the world.

He was an ardent lover of his country and its institutions and was in heartiest sympathy with that younger America whose mission it is to plant the banner of "Excelsior" on heights still further toward the rising sun. He had a profound respect for the constitution, but would never have been of those who regard it as a penny whistle to be blown in every market place. He looked upon it rather to be revered as a grand organ designed to give forth its almost divine music in the vast cathedral of human liberty, wherein the whole earth shall finally worship.

He was also, while here, a member of the Committee on Pensions, and had he lived would have dealt generously with the old soldiers of the Union, although reared under influences intensely Southern during the war between the States. The passions and prejudices of the war did not stir him because it was merely history so far as he was concerned, and its memories brought to his mind no personal experiences. Before going upon the bench Judge Lisle was for some time the owner of The Winchester Democrat, the leading journal of his country, and edited it with no little force and ability. He had been a diligent student of history and had thoughtfully read the best of our standard literature, and wrote with ease and precision.

He loved politics as every intelligent patriot ought to do, and found no employment so congenial as that of mingling with public men and exchanging views with them concerning the passing movements of the day. He had fixed convictions, but was ever

	tolerant of the views of others. On his father's side he was of a stock that ran back to the Huguenots, who loved religion and liberty as sincerely as did the Puritans and allowed other men the same freedom of conscience they had sought for themselves and their posterity in this Western World. His mother was a Hampton and connected with the illustrious family that has so great a place in the history of South Carolina. She was also closely related to Governor Routt, who has been so prominent in the history of Colorado. He leaves one child, an interesting boy of 6, who is amply provided with this world's goods and what is better still, who has loving and affectionate relatives admirably fitted to care for his proper rearing. Judge Lisle was courteous and considerate in manner, prudent and thoughtful in conversation, possessed of rare tact in dealing with his fellows and had the power to draw about him warm and devoted friends. He had his faults, of course, and also his enemies, as every positive man must have, but the resentments of those whom he may have offended have no doubt passed away and certainly I am not their spokesman. I do not think any one well acquainted with him, whatever his feelings may have been will take issue with me when I apply to him the lines of the great poet: His years but young, but his experience old: His head unmellow'd but his judgement ripe: And, in a word(for far behind his worth Came all the praises that I now bestow). He was complete in feature and in mind, With all good grace to grace a gentleman. The people in whose midst he was born and reared, and to whom he never looked in vain for support, will long regard with pride his brief but brilliant career and I shall ever hold in fond remembrance the fact that such a man was my friend. I regret, Mr. Speaker, that I cannot crown his memory with a wreath of immortelles rather than with this feeble but none the less sincere tribute of affectionate regard. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 29, 1895

Lisle, Mrs. John	The Lexington Gazette tells the following on a well known Methodist minister, Brother Dick Redd, who astonished his audience on last Sunday night by using the following illustration: "Brethren: There are too many John T. Lisles in the church who wish to take only the sunny side of religion rather than by taking up the cross and following the cross absolutely. When Dr. Jas. Bush told Mrs. Lisle that she could only live a few hours, there sat by her death bed her two cousins, Mattie and Marie. The latter was just blooming into womanhood and was fair to behold, and Marie was as old and ugly as Leah. Mrs. Lisle said: 'John my dear husband, I want you to marry Marie (Leah) to raise up my children.' John T. blubbered out, "My dear wife, won't Mattie do? Mrs. Lisle flew into a rage and said abruptly, 'No' and it had such an effect on her that when Dr. Bush returned he found her sitting up in bed eating crackers. She lived long enough to bury all her five children after that." The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 25, 1898

Lisle, Mrs. Lizzie B.	DEATH – Of Mrs. Lizzie B. Lisle, Wife of Hon. M. C. Lisle. Death at all time and under all circumstances is painful to contemplate but it is seldom a death occasions such wide spread sorrow as was maintained Saturday when the tidings of the death of Mrs. Lizzie B. Lisle, wife of Judge M. C. Lisle, which occurred at the family residence on South Maple street, was announced. During his wonderfully successful business and political career she has been his helper and counselor, sympathizing with him and cheering him in moments of depression and rejoicing with a loving wifely pride in this success. While he appreciated the kindness and partiality of friends, and fully appreciated the good will of his people, it was to the wife of his bosom that he turned for the loving appreciation and inspiration that was the main

	spring of his ambition. For months they had looked to March 4th as the day that should have fulfilled the culmination of Judge Lisle's political ambition, but instead of being one of the proudest moments of his life, it was by far the saddest. The fact that he was the chosen representative in the grand council of the nation of a hundred thousand constituents could not mitigate the pangs of grief, and loving hearts could only throb in sympathy without ability to do more. God's ways are not our ways and His actions are not to be questioned, else we would wonder why she should be cut down in the full vigor of her young womanhood, with so much to live for and with such a vista of love and usefulness opening before her; when the children whom God had given her so much needed a mother a loving tenderness; when her husband needed her wifely ministrations, and when the public needed her goodness and cheerful disposition which brightened everything around her. With mother, brothers, husband, children, friends, a lovely home surrounded by everything that has a tendency to make life beautiful, she is taken and other, whose life is a burden to themselves and whose present, past and future has nothing pleasant to look upon, are left. We know not why these things are so, but when we shall see Him as He is then shall we know and be satisfied. Mrs. Lisle was about 27 years old, the only daughter and eldest child of Mrs. Anna W. Bean, her father, Asa Bean having been dead for a number of years. She was educated in Cincinnati and took a high rank in her classes. She was handsome in form and features and being possessed of a bright happy disposition she was universally popular, not only with those of her own circle or society, but with the working class also for whom she always had a smile and a cheerful word. Her marriage with the handsome and ambitious young lawyer, M. C. Lisle, was the society event of the season and they began their married life with the best wishes from everybody. Three children were born to them two of whom survive, a boy about three years old and another about ten days old. Judge Lisle, who was in Washington was telegraphed during the early part of the week, which was the first intimation the public had of her dangerous illness. Notwithstanding every effort known to medical skill was put forth, she grew steadily worse until the end came Saturday. Retaining consciousness until the last she quietly disposed of temporal affairs and calmly went down into the dark valley on the other side of which is peace and light and life eternal. The funeral was held Monday at the family residence which was filled to the utmost with friends anxious to pay this last tribute of respect to her memory. Eld. L. J. Spencer and Rev. J. J. Chisholm offered the singing being done by a quartet composed of Mesdemere Jas. S. Winn and Will Miller and Mercer W. R. Logan and James Simpson. The pall-bearers were Messrs, H.P. Thomson, T. C. Ribinson, J. M. Benton; C. E. Rees, W. F. Dandridge and J. H. Evans. The handsome casket was covered by beautiful floral designs which were lavished by loving hands. The procession of carriages was one of the longest ever seen on our streets. At the grave the simple and expressive burial service of the Presbyterian church was read by Dr. Chishold, and all that was mortal of one of our fairest and best wives and mothers was consigned to the tomb. After a touching prayer by Eld. Spencer the people were dismissed and the family returned to the beautiful home from which the central figure, the life and light of the household was gone. In common with a host of other friends we tender out heartfelt sympathy to the husband, mother and brothers and invoke the blessing of Him who careth for the sparrow, in behalf of the motherless babies. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 8, 1893. In Memory of Mrs. M. C. Lisle. If in life we praise the merits of the worthy, may we not in the death of a friend offer a tribute in their memory. So often the evil which we do live after us and the good so soon forgotten that I seek to impress upon our minds the tender recollections of a rare and dear companionship. We grieve over the absence of such a friend, but it will be consoling when we meet in friendly but broken union to speak of her womanly charms and friendly attributes for she was everybody's friend and gathered from every life some grace or virtue and by a strange and secret alchemy made them all her own. As a bee gathers its honey from every bloom and blade and flower, hurting none but making sweeter by its contact, so she left us when she went away. Every kind and condition of men raised her unselfish disposition and gracious manners. I heard a man of lowly station say "That he would gladly given a portion of his days to prolong her life." And I offer this as a comfort not soon to be forgot. She was kindly affectionate, and many households contain some sweet and mute reminder of her thoughtfulness. Such a life indeed went out too soon for when was young but such a character will outlive the number of the days of her life. She was prepared by birth and education to adorn the home to which so many honors had lately come. To her husband she was able to counsel and worthy to confide and in all the relations of life she was so faithful and tender and loving and true that quoting from the beautiful prayer of the pastor we can almost get a glimpse of her in the Saviour's arms. Lisle, Mrs. Susan Shelby	Died-At Boonesboro, Madison county, Kentucky, on the 19 th , inst., after a long and painful illness, Mrs. Susan Shelby Lisle wife of Mr. Henry Lisle, in the seventy fourth year of her age. The deceased was nearly related to some of the early pioneers of the State, her father and mother were in the Fort at Boonesboro with Col. Boone, and her oldest brother was the first child buried in it. She was a granddaughter of Capt. Nathaniel Hart, who came to Kentucky in 1775, being one among the first to occupy the soil. The father, mother, and grandfather now sleep together in the same grave yard. She was a niece of the wife of Gov. Isaac Shelby, who in his day was one of the most honored citizens of the commonwealth. Thus one more link in the chain which binds past generations to the present is broken—one more friend of long years acquaintance is gone, but as we trust to join the circle around the Fathers throne in heaven. Mrs. Lisle was married in the 1829, to William Henry Lisle of Madison county, and in all the relation of wife, mother, and friend, was ever faithful and affectionate. For more than thirty years she had been a member of the Christian church and let a consistent, pious life and adorned the doctrine of her profession. She died in one mile and a half of the place of her birth, and in that immediate neighborhood spent the whole of her life. She leaves a kind husband, three sons, and two daughters to mourn her loss. Farewell dear friend. Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee, Though sorrow and darkness encompass the tomb, The savior has passed through its portals before thee, And the lamps of his love is thy guide though the gloom. Lisle, Rufus Sr.	RUFUS LISLE DEAD He Passes Away Sunday, at His Home in This County His Career as a Breeder and Turfman. Funeral To-Day At Eleven O'clock Mr. Rufus Lisle, one of Kentucky's oldest turfmen and breeders of thoroughbred horses, died Sunday afternoon at his residence in this county, aged seventy-two years. Of his career as a turfman, John K. Stringfield the well-known writer on turf matters says: He has been one of the most successful of Kentucky's small breeders. The Derby winner Macbeth, the great handicap horse Jacobin the good performers Robespierre, Castaway 11. Laura Agnes and Dollikins being from his farm. His most noted mares are Lucky Lisle and Agnes, and they have produced a fortune for him. Mr. Lisle's stud was at no time an extensive one, but successful stud matrons seemed to develop in mare of little promise when owned by the lucky "Rufus" Lisle. His first venture with thoroughbreds was the purchase of an Asteroid colt named Master John, for $210, a half interest in which he gave to a well known trainer, who developed him into such a promising looking colt that he was readily sold for $5000. To illustrate his good fortune, after disposing of the colt the high-priced youngster took a severe cold and became a roarer and thus he never was able to show in public the form he had exhibited in private. His trainer often said that America has seen few better two year olds and but for his illness Master John might have gone down to history with the El Rio Reys and the Futurity winners. Ella Jackson, Actress, and Harry Peyton then came from the Lisle farm, but his greatest success as a breeder dawned when he came into the possession of Lucky Lisle and Agnes. From the latter came Gilt, Jacobin, Macbeth 11, Girondes, Robespierre and Laura Agnes, while in addition to Felix and Dollikins,

Lucky Lisle threw that good horse Castaway 11, the hero of last year's Brooklyn Handicap. While Mr. Lisle got fairly good prices for his horses, he was always a ready seller, and for that reason many bargains were obtained at his farm. He however, received $7000 for Jacobin, $4000 for Macbeth 11, $3,500 for Robespierre and $3000 for Dollikins, which are the highest priced horses he owned in later days. To breed such an array of turf lights from but two mares is distinction enough and Agnes and Lucky Lisle have made their breeder's fame safe to the turf history.

Though lucky with his horses Mr. Lisle experienced misfortune in his family affairs. One of his daughters fell at the blighting touch of consumption, another was killed in a runaway accident and a favorite son accidentally stepped off a boat in the Mississippi river and was drowned, his body never being recovered.

Two months ago feeling the near approach of death, and after the physician had told him that the end was not far off, Mr. Lisle expressed the desire to see a clergyman. The Rev. Dr. Bartholomew of the Broadway Christian church, called to see him and told him the old, old story, Although Mr. Lisle had been a man who never listened to the teachings of Christianity and who had perhaps never been inside of a church since reaching man's estate he listened and was converted. He joined the church of Dr. Bartholomew and was received into its fellowship. He called in all his horses that were racing at the time of his conversion and died not a turfman, but a Christian.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The Directors of the Fayette National Bank met yesterday and passed following resolution:

Whereas, We have heard with the deepest sorrow of the death of our friend and associate. Rufus Lisle, be it an able and efficient officer who by his business foresight and wise counsel contributed large to the success of this institution having been connected with its Board of Directors for many years, and we desire to bear testimony to his worth and sterling integrity, to his uniform courtesy and high character. We offer to his bereaved family our profound sympathy in this their house of bitter sorrow.

Resolved, That the Board attend the sad rites of burial in a body.

R. S. Bullock, S. Bassett

Cashier President.

THE LEXINGTON MORNING TRANSCRIPT NOV. 17, 1891

Sunday, at his home in Lexington, after a long illness, Rufus Lisle. He was a native of this county, being a brother of John and Claiborne Lisle. He was a good business man and had acquired quite a fortune. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Halley of Boonesboro, and several children.

THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT NOV. 18, 1891

The will of Rufus Lisle deceased, was probated yesterday morning. After all debts are paid the rest is to be divided as follows: The home farm on the Leestown Pike with stock and implements also the income from ten shares in the Fayette National Bank, ten shares in a Memphis Tennessee, bank, and Security Trust and Safety Vault Company of this city, to his wife. At her death his five children, James L. Lisle is given 850 acres in Scott county and fifty shares of stock in the Fayette National Bank. Virginia Lisle receives 271 acres of Scott county land and fifty shares of Bank stock. Three hundred and fifty acres of land of land, $10,000 in cash and 100 bank shares to be equally divided between his two daughters. After Mrs. Lisle death the home farm of 1885 acres will go to Hampton Lisle. He directs also that all his horses be sold.

Lexington Transcript.

The Democrat, Wednesday, November 25, 1891

THE Courier-Journal announces Jas. L. Lisle, of this county, as having been appointed a Colonel on Gov. Brown's staff. Col. Lisle lives in Scott county and is a son of the late Rufus Lisle, of Lexington, but is very closely related to the family of that name here.

The Democrat, Wednesday, December 23, 1891.

At the sale of the racehorses owned by the late Rufus Lisle, the famous old brood mare Agnes, sixteen years old brought $5,000. She was the dam of Jacobin, Robespierre, MacBeth II, etc. Of her produce seven were winners, all in fact old enough to be trained. They won over $65,000. His other great brood mare, Lucy Lisle, aged fourteen, also $5,000. All of her colts but one were winners; the amount won being nearly $45,000. By far the largest part of this was won by Castaway II. Several young things brought from $1,200 to $1,800.

C.H. Stoll's attack on Kentucky

The newspapers are almost unanimous in the "skinning and roasting" of C.H. Stoll, formerly of Lexington, for his recent outrageous attack on Kentucky and Kentuckians. The Courier-Journal in its editorial says: "His son-in-law to whose difficulties as a tobacco planter he refers so feelingly, bears a given name and surname that means something to Kentuckians of the old regime in this section of the State." The son-in-law alluded to is Halley Lisle, whose father was the late Rufus Lisle, and his mother was Miss Halley, both natives of Clark. The Halley's once owned all the land at and around

	Boonesboro, including the old Fort and town site and were among the pioneers there, while the Lisle family was equally numerous and prominent in Clark. Mrs. Rufus Lisle still lives at the old home place near Lexington. Mr. Stoll's attack on his native State is regrettable, but not surprising to those who know him and his career in Kentucky. Cold, grasping, utterly selfish. After making a fortune out of the people of his native State he now turns his back upon and abuses them in the most vicious fashion. He can well be spared as he has been for the last ten years. Even the Courier-Journal can differentiate between a man like Stoll and his splendid son-in-law, Halley Lisle. Lisle, Solomon S.	A Fort Worth dispatch says: By a divorce suit here a romantic and very strange story is given to the public. The plaintiff, Solomon S. Lisle, a traveling salesman, alleges that on February 8 th he was invited to call on Mrs. Belle Fonteuere. He went and she insisted that they be married. He declined and the woman, the petitioner states, drew a pistol, leveled it at his head and a minister, who had been sent for, arrived and they were married, he at all times being secretly threatened with instant death if he demurred. The petitioner alleges that he has not seen the woman since the marriage and asks that it be declared void. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Little Family	An Unfortunate Family The Little family, of Breathitt county, has been pursued by a strange fatality. Joseph, John, Jason, and James Little were four brothers, who lived in the same neighborhood in Breathitt county, and who reared large families. The four men were highly respected citizens and had hosts of warm friends. Of the younger member of the family Thomas was assassinated on the streets of Jackson by an unknown party: Jerry, the leader of the celebrated Strong and Little mountain feud, who had survived the ordeal of being shot twenty-seven times, was killed by a log rolling over him: William was shot and killed by a boy near Jackson: Robert was murdered in a saloon at Elkatawa, while Joseph, one of the older men, was knocked down by a horse during the past year, from which he received fatal injuries, and his brother John died of la grippe. Mart was killed Sunday by a man named Miller. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 6, 1895

Little, Alfred	A Bad Man. If Jesse Fields, of Breathitt county, is not a very bad man he has been much maligned. Not content with being mixed up in the French-Eversole feud, where he was a trusted leader of the French side, he has been in trouble ever since. He and Joe Adkins were indicted for the murder of Judge Combs, at Hazard and the latter is now serving a life term in the pen with a probability of being joined by Fields when the latter is tried. A few weeks ago Alfred Little, an ex-convict and a bad man generally, who has been

James Moore, a deputy Sheriff, was shot while at home in bed at the same time. Littleton, Carl Edward	Carl Edward Littleton, 92, Winter Haven, FL, formerly of Parma, OH, passed away May 15, 2020 at Winter Haven Hospital, due to complications from COVID-19 and Alzheimer's disease. Carl was born October 28, 1927 in Cincinnati, OH. He was a gentle and quiet man, who cherished the simple things in life. Carl retired from LTV Steel, Cleveland, OH in 1994 after nearly 39 years. He was a member of Trinity Baptist Church, Parma. His wife often said he was one of the most patient men she knew, as he accompanied her on trips to the store and watched without objection while she shopped. Carl proudly embraced his Blackfoot heritage and enjoyed traveling - his favorite trip was a trek out west to South Dakota, Wyoming and Colorado. A true child at heart, he was known to play practical jokes and was certain to make you laugh with his unexpected humor. He was a master tinkerer and frequented hardware stores for fun. He was a proficient woodworker and was notorious for repurposing kitchen tools for his projects. Carl loved to peruse flea markets and had quite the collection of salt and pepper shakers and pocketknives. He will be fondly remembered for wearing his signature fedoras and classic black sunglasses. He is survived by his loving wife of nearly 45 years, Wanda Ratliff Calvert Littleton, formerly of Winchester. He is also survived by one daughter Maria Calvert Barksdale (Ken) of Winter Haven, FL, formerly of Winchester, one granddaughter Sarah Senn (David) of Dothan, AL, and two great-grandsons, Joshua and Gabriel Senn, also of Dothan. He was preceded in death by his mother Alice, sister Lodema, and brothers Nolan and Harold. Burial is to take place at Winchester Cemetery. Due to COVID-19, a memorial service will be held at a later date. Donations in memory of Carl may be made to the Alzheimer's Association or Bok Tower Sanctuary Gardens in Lake Wales, FL. Lloyd, Anna	A brutal murder A few days ago the body of a young white woman was found dead in the suburbs of Cincinnati, under conditions showing that she had been murdered under circumstances of extreme brutality. The body was soon recognized as that of Miss Anna Lloyd, who was Secretary of the Wilberg, Hanna Lumber Co. So much interest was manifested that a reward of $2,500 was offered for the apprehension of her murderer. Several arrests were made, but no definite clues have been found. Monday night, Sam Reed, of Ford, telephoned Chief of Police McCord that a vagrant negro had come there that evening and secured something to eat at a negro house. He seemed very nervous and excited and while eating told the other negroes that he killed Miss Lloyd in Cincinnati and showed the knife with which he said the deed was done. The police here were warned to be on the lookout for him. He did not come this way but went toward Richmond. The police place little credence in what he said, thinking he was either boasting or was off his base mentally. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 7, 1910

Locknane, James T.	Death of James T. Locknane—We regret to learn of the death of James T. Locknane, which occurred at his residence at 3 o'clock last evening. Mr. Locknane's health had been declining for more than a year, but it has only been within the last month that his friends despaired of his recovery. He was born in Clark county, and at the time of his death was among the oldest native born citizens of the county. Though it is allotted to same to attain a much greater age, Mr. Locknane had well nigh lived out his three score and ten, being at the time of his death in his seventieth year. Beginning life with few advantages, by force of character and enterprise he became prominent among the citizens of the county. He was a farmer, and took a deep interest in stock raising and in the business of agriculture generally. Earnest and decided in his convictions, no one had to guess at his opinions. He loved his friends, and was always true to what he conceived to be the best interest of his country. In his religion persuasions he was a firm believer in the doctrine and usage's of the Christian church. His funeral will take place at his residence this evening at 2 o'clock. Services by Rev. H. T. Wilson. Clark County Democrat Wed., 6-30-1880 Will Book 1, Page 363 Dated: September 29, 1875 Recorded: July 26, 1880

	In the death of James T. Locknane, which took place last Tuesday evening, Clark county has lost one of her most valued citizens. He had been in ill health for a long time, and all hopes of his recovery had been given up for several weeks ago. Kind and loving relatives and friends ministered to him during his long and painful illness, and smoothed his pillow in his last hours. At the time of his death he was seventy years of age. He was born in Clark county, and spent the whole of his life within her borders. His funeral was preached at his residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday evening, by Eld. J. W. Harding. The Semi-Weekly Sun Fri., 7-2-1880 Petrified Body. Samuel Locknane recently sold his farm to a Madison county woman and one of the terms of the trade was that Mr. Locknane should remove the bodies of several members of the family who had been buried in the yard. In consequence the bodies of Jas. T. Locknane and wife, Mrs. T. J. Bush and others were taken up and reinterred in the cemetery. The body of Mrs. Bush had been buried more than a third of a century but was remarkably well preserved and in the opinion of many, was petrified. The clothing and even a flower in her hand were intact. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 19, 1898

Locknane, Reuben	Died—Thursday, of diphtheria, Reuben, the three-year-old son of W. R Locknane. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 1, 1895 In Memory of Little Reuben Reuben, second son of W. E. and Susan Locknane, closed his earthly career on the 26 th day of September, 1895. He was born on the 13 th day of February 1893. Hence had passed three springs and summers and was reaching out after the third winter. Wholly unexpected, Death reached out his icy hand and bade the little prattler lay off his earthly robes and join the swelling army that makes up the congregation that is to extend through all time. This little fellow was remarkably mild and gentle. A few days before his death the writer was with him. When he left he reached out his hand and bid him good-bye. Little did we think this was the last time we would see little Reuben. We extend to the bereaved parents and family our warmest and deepest sympathy. We invite them to look the Author of All-Life in their bereavement. They will find solace in the exceedingly precious promises of God's words. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord." This denotes resignation. In the language of the sweet singer of Israel let them say, "We cannot bring him back but we can go to him." Paul in his divine eloquence, would quiet the troubled breast. "Sorrow not as those that have no hope, for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, then also that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." "As in Adam all die even so in Christ shall all be made alive." His little hands we gently folded on his breast Fully believing his soul was at rest To his redeemed spirit we would say Wait for us until the Resurrection day You we desire to meet Bade at the Master's feet. Locknane, William 'Bill' Goebel Chandler	William "Bill" Goebel Chandler Locknane, 76 was born in Clark County on January 10, 1944 as the only son of William Goebel Locknane and Lenora Chandler Locknane. He passed away on August 14, 2020 after a brief illness. He was in the 1962 class of Clark County High School. Bill married Lenora Gibson Locknane on May 6, 1965. He was a devoted husband to her for their 54 years together. Bill was a retired employee of Western Electric, AT&T, and Lucent Technology after working for this changing names company for 35 years. He enjoyed working his farm, playing cards with family and friends, playing with his grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and spending time with his family at gatherings for holidays, birthdays, cookouts, bonfires or anything they wanted to share time together. He was also a huge animal lover, especially dogs. He was saved and baptized at Central Baptist Church in his youth. For the last decade, he has been an active member of Mt. Zion Christian Church. Bill is preceded in death by his parents. He is survived by his wife; two sisters, Janet Marie Locknane Campbell and Carol Anne (Doug) Locknane Oliver; and three daughters, Susan (Bobby) Locknane Roberts, Lori (Todd) Locknane Stokes, and Leah Marie Locknane. Bill is survived by his grandchildren: Ashley (Ricky) West Carter, Blake Gibson Roberts, William M. Philpot, and Caroline E. Philpot.

Locknane, William R.	Proved fatal William R. Locknane, who was shot Wednesday afternoon by R. Hood Curtis died Thursday at Lexington When W.R. Locknane was shot Wednesday evening by R. Hood Curtis he was placed in an automobile and taken at once to Lexington where an operation was performed in the hope of saving his life. It was found that the intestines had been perforated several times and it was recognized at once that his condition was very critical. All was done that could be done but he grew steadily worse and shortly after noon on the following day he died. The remains were brought here on the afternoon train and taken to his home in the country where the funeral was preached Friday morning by Eld. J.W. Harding, and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. Shortly after the shooting Curtis came in, surrendered, and was admitted to bail in the sum of $750.00 which he readily gave. As soon as the authorities here were notified, a writ, charging murder, was issued and Curtis was again arrested. In such cases bail cannot be allowed until the examining trial is held and Curtis has since been in the hands of an officer. It is said that before his death Locknane made a dying statement, but the tenor of the statement has not been given out. His attorney, J.M. Stevenson, claimed self defense. According to law either the authorities of the county in which the shooting is done or those of the county in which the victim dies, may assume jurisdiction, and a warrant for the arrest of Curtis was issued at Lexington. Judge Evans promptly assured the Lexington authorities that Clark county had already assumed jurisdiction and the matter was dropped at Lexington. The examining trial of Curtis for the murder was begun before Judge Evans yesterday morning, and consumed most of the day. Curtis was represented by John M. Stevenson and Frank H. Haggard, while County Attorney S.A. Jeffries, was assisted in the prosecution by Locknane's brother-in-law, Ex-Congressman J. Bamford White, of Irvine. At the hour of going to press the trial had not been concluded. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, May 18, 1909 Mrs. J.B. White, of Irvine, attended the funeral of her brother, Wm. R. Locknane, Friday. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, May 18, 1909 Warrant dismissed R. Hood Curtis was before Judge Evans Monday charged with the murder of Will R. Locknane. After an investigation which consumed nearly the entire day, Judge Evans dismissed the warrant and set Curtis at liberty. This action does not prevent the grand jury from taking action on the matter if it so desires. The Winchester Democrat Friday, May 21, 1909 Miss Patsey Bush attended the funeral of her cousin, W.R. Loesch, Clara	Girl Shot Dead in Her Room. Louisville, Ky., Aug. 2.—Miss Clara Loesch, a beautiful young girl of 18 years, a clerk in a store in Parkland, a suburb of this city was shot by burglars at midnight and instantly killed. She slept in a room over the store with the family of the proprietor. Two men raised her window and when she leaped out of bed to run they shot her with a double-barreled shotgun, taking effect in her breast. The men are supposed to have been burglars, though some believe they came here to kill the girl. No one saw the men. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 9, 1898 Accused Of Murder. Robert Weber, an Eighteen-Year-Old Boy, Shot Miss Loesch—The Affair is Shrouded in Mystery. Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—Robert Weber, the eighteen-year-old son of the woman who employed Miss Clara Loesch, Tuesday confessed that he had shot and killed the young lady and that the shot was not fired by burglars, as was at first supposed. While the affair is still shrouded in some mystery, the best obtainable evidence is to the effect that two Negro burglars got into the house Tuesday midnight and that Weber killed Miss Loesch while firing at them. The window shutter was cut and goods taken from the store were found two miles away, traced there by bloodhounds. Miss Loesch sprang from her bed when she heard the burglars and ran toward the door of young Weber's room. He had heard the noise and in the darkness fired a shotgun through the open door just as the girl was rushing toward him. He was arrested and charged with murder. Logan, Bena	AA	PAID THE PENALTY Tom Hayden Hanged Monday Morning at Hartford, Ky., for the Murder of Bena Logan. HARTFORD, Ky., July 12.-Tom Hayden was hanged here at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning for the murder of Bena Logan last October. An immense crowd was in attendance, it being the first hanging in Ohio county since 1826. Hayden had intended to play "Home, Sweet Home" on the harmonica on the scaffold, but broke down. Hayden, who was a mulatto and a miner by occupation, and 26 years of age, killed Bena Logan, a colored girl, whose company he had been keeping, at Render mines, in October of last year. The killing, according to the evidence, was unprovoked. Hayden, having shot the girl down in cold blood because of her refusal to allow him to accompany her on a visit she was about to make to a neighbor. Lokmer, Tea	Tea Lokmer, a beloved daughter, sister, and friend, passed away on February 13th, 2021. It was her 24th birthday. Tea was born on February 13th, 1997 in Sarajevo, Bosnia. She was brought into the United States of America on October 20th of that year, and immediately began to leave her mark on everyone she met. Throughout her life, she lived in multiple states: Kansas, Arkansas, Kentucky, and Virginia, living in various cities in each state. She graduated from Rowan County Senior High School, Morehead, Kentucky in 2015. Regardless of her location, though, Tea lived life to the fullest, loved the hardest, laughed the loudest, and smiled the brightest. Tea was an extraordinary human. She accepted and cared for absolutely anyone lucky enough to meet her. She loved everyone immensely. Tea was a shoulder to lean on for many, and was always impartial, never quick to judge. Her smile shone as brightly as the stars and allowed her to light up the world for everyone near her. Tea's love for coffee, yoga, her home country, nights out, nature, kittens, her friends, and family will forever resonate in her memory. There are hundreds of people all over the world mourning her passing and we pray that she sees the amount of love that each one of us hold in our hearts for her sweet soul. She is missed more than can be put into words. Tea is survived (In the United States) by her mother, Nada Tomanic (CT), her father, Tomislav Lokmer (KY), her older brother, Danijel Lokmer (AR), her younger brother, Cristian Lokmer (AR), her younger sister, Kristina Lokmer (KY), and stepmother, Tabitha Lokmer (KY). Tea is also survived by an abundance of family overseas in many countries. A memorial service for our sweet Tea will be held at 11:00AM, on Thursday, February 25th, at Scobee Funeral Home, 219 W Lexington Ave, Winchester KY. Anybody who loves Tea is welcome to come and remember her with us. We ask that everyone please wear a mask properly.

	Family will receive friends from 10:00AM until time of service. The Winchester Sun February 19-21, 2021 + Scobee Funeral Home

Louisville Bodies	THIRTY DEAD BODIES. They Were Found in a Cold Storage Plant in Louisville, Ky. Louisville, Ky., Oct. 9.-Thirty dead bodies were found Wednesday night in a cold storage plant in the rear of an ice cream factory on Eighth street. The same pipes that were used in congealing the cream for table use were connected up with a small plant in a shed in the rear where they kept the bodies cool. It was at first thought that the cadavers had been brought here from Indianapolis, but the heads of the several colleges interested in the establishment asserted that the bodies were obtained legitimately by them from the penitentiaries, insane asylums and other institutions of the state of Kentucky. Chief of Police Gunther received a letter from the chief of police of Indianapolis, inclosing a letter from a woman in Louisville, who said she had lived at the place in question and that some of the bodies stolen in Indianapolis had been shipped here and were stored in the shed. Chief Gunther sent two policemen to the scene. They report that they could not get in the shed without breaking it open. While the chief of police was trying to get the permission of the court to open the building, those having charge of the place sent word to police headquarters that the building was open and the investigation was made. The building was a small one, provided with numerous thermometers for the proper observation of the temperature. The bodies were found in boxes and most of them were in good state of preservation. The establishment is maintained by several Louisville medical colleges. The head of the institutions say they are given the bodies by the state with the understanding that they are to be held 30 days for identification. In order to assist in the identification the cold storage plant was established and an arrangement made with the ice cream plant to furnish the cooling air. The building is on Eight street, but the entrance to the place where the bodies were found is from an alley. Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.-A party headed by Detectives Asch and Manning went to Louisville Thursday afternoon to identify, if possible, some of the bodies found in a cold storage room in that city Wednesday night. It is thought that some of the bodies were stolen from Indianapolis cemeteries and which mysteriously disappeared from the colleges here, may be found there. The party included besides the detectives, Wesley Gates and his son, Everett R. Gates, of Irvington: J. E. and George

	H. Stilz, William T. Long, Attorney Cass Conaway and several newspaper men. Louisville, Ky., October 10.-The Indianapolis people who came over to Louisville to view the bodies found in the cold storage plant here announced Thursday night that they had failed to identify any of them. Lovens, Dick	Terrible Feud Outbreak. Five Men Reported Killed in Clay county Ky.—War Between the Philpot and Morris Factions. Louisville, Ky., July 18.—A special from London, Ky., tells of a report reaching here of the outbreak of another feud in Clay county by which five men lost their lives Monday. The dead are said to be: Robert Philpot, Ed Fisher, Aaron Morris, Jim Griffin and Hugh Griffin. These fatalities resulted from a pitched battle fought near Little Goose creek, three miles of Manchester. The feud dates back nearly two years. On Christmas, 1897, James Philpot was killed by Aaron Morris, but before he died he shot and killed Wm. Bundy, a friend of Morris. The Morris and Griffins were closely affiliated. Since then the feuding between the two factions has been very bitter, and it has been aroused recently by the White-Baker hostilities. The Philpots, who are the strongest faction in the mountain numbering about 750 voters, openly espoused the cause of the Bakers, White, the Griffins took sides with the Whites. The story that reaches here from Manchester is to the effect that Bob Philpot was arrested Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Wash Thacker. While very circumstantial, in other respects the report does not show clearly the origin of the trouble nor give the reason for Philpot's arrest. It is said that while Thacker was taking Philpot's bond, the latter was shot from behind by a member of a crowd that had gathered. This precipitated a general fight with Winchester and revolvers, which was participated in by George, Granville, Robert and Peter Philpot and Ed Fisher on one side and Aaron Morris, Hugh, Jim and Green Griffin on the other. The battle began about 9 o'clock and raged fiercely for ten or fifteen minutes. When it was over it was found that the five men mentioned above had been killed outright, three of the belligerents were seriously wounded, while Pete Philpot was the only one on either side to escape injury. Granville Philpot is said to be one of the most seriously wounded. He is a union veteran having lost a leg at Stone river. He is an ex-member of the Kentucky legislature and is said to have killed three or four men. Ed Fisher, who is reported dead, was another man with several nicks in his cane. He was but 23 years old but was said to have killed three men. The story of this battle caused consternation here notwithstanding the fact that serious trouble has been expected to break out among the mountaineers of Clay county ever since the assassination of Tom Baker several weeks ago. An effort was at once begun to secure deputies to go to the seat of the trouble and attempt to restore quiet, but up to a late hour in the afternoon there had not been enough responses to make up a force that would command respect. The situation at Manchester is deplorable. Since morning the place has been in a state of terror, scarcely anyone daring to venture out of doors. Business is suspended and the residents are momentarily expecting a renewal of hostilities.

	The entire county of Clay is filled with men mounted and armed. Other battles may occur at any moment. A relative of the Philpots has just left here to join his family and swears vengeance. London Depot, Ky., July 18.—Clay county has another killing for its annals. Dick Lovens' body has been found three miles from Manchester. He was beaten to death in the night. When found his head was severed from his body and had been beaten to a pulp. A 45-calibre revolver was found on the body. Having killed three men and injured several, he was probably killed by the friends on one of his victims. He leaves a widow and eight children. An attempt has been made to kill Will Gray, near Manchester, Clay county. After three shots had passed through his clothes, one of them scraping his body, he escaped by running through a forest. Gray is one of the Baker's friends. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 21, 1899

Lowe, J. Willie	Saturday night, of Bright's disease resulting from diphtheria, J. Willie Lowe, only son of J. R. Lowe and wife, aged ten years. Burial Sunday in the Winchester Cemetery; services at the grave by Eld. J. W. Harding. Willie was one of the best children to be found anywhere; gentle, kind and pious, he was the favorite alike of the old and young. Never strong in body, his intellect was bright far beyond his years, and he gave promise of a true and useful manhood. This beautiful bud, just opening has been, however, transplanted into the celestial gardens above, there to bloom through all eternity in the sunlight of God's love, and the parents loss here is only an added interest therein. Lowry, Thomas	Revolutionary War Soldier List of Revolutionary Soldiers Who Were Citizens Of Clark County, Kentucky Compiled By Mrs. William D. Clark, Of Hart Chapter, D.A.R. Chairman Of Revolutionary Soldiers Graves Winchester, Clark County, Kentucky, Library Research Room
Lowry, Thomas	Died at her home in this county, March 11 th , after a long and lingering complication of diseases. Mrs. Ellen Lowry, aged about 75 years. The funeral was preached at Log Lick church to a large concourse of people the following day, and the remains interred in the graveyard at that place. She leaves six children, among whom is Rev. M. P. Lowry, besides a host of friends and relatives to mourn her loss. Her husband, Thomas Lowry died 8 years ago. Deceased had been an exemplary member of the Church of Christ for a number of years and died in the full hopes of Christian religion. A singular coincidence of her death is that her oldest daughter, wife of Thos. Adams, of Ruckerville, was born just 56 years ago on the 11 th day of March, within one hundred yards of where she died. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 17, 1899.
Lowry, Thomas	Taken to the asylum Thomas Lowry, a white man, aged about fifty years, and living in Goodes precinct, was tried Wednesday before Judge Evans and a jury and was adjudged to be of unsound mind. He was taken to the asylum by officers John Bedford and Albert Tanner. Some years ago he received a blow on the head and since then has been subject to fits. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 23, 1909 Back to the asylum Some months ago Thomas Lowry, of this county, was tried before a jury, adjudged a lunatic and was sent to the asylum. He stayed there for awhile and was sent home as cured. Lately he became violent again and Saturday was taken back. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, June 29, 1909
Lowry, Thomas	The last will and testament of Thomas Lowry dec. was produced in open court and proven according to law by the oath of Pleasant Bush witness thereto subscribed and ordered to be recorded. Order Book 11; P. 468; December Court 1846 Pleasant Bush the executor named in the last will and testament of Thomas Lowry dec. came personally into court and refused to qualify as the executor aforesaid. Order Book 11; P. 469; December Court 1846 Satisfactory evidence is exhibited to the court that Thomas Lowry was a pensioner of the United States at the rate of seventy dollars per annum and that he is the identical person named in an original certificate of pension produced to the court of which the following is a true copy to wit War department Revolutionary Claim I certify that in conformity with the law of the State of Kentucky who was a private in the army of the Revolution is entitled to receive seventy dollars and ~ cents per annum during his natural life. Commencing on the 4th of March 1831 and payable semiannually on the 4th of March and 4th of September in every year- Given at the War Office of the United States this second day of October one thousand eight hundred and thirty three. John Robb acting secretary of war examined and counter signed J. L. Edwards commissioner of pensions. Order Book 12; P. 16; April Court 1847 It was also satisfactory therein to the court that said Thomas Lowry was a resident of the County of Clarke in the State of Kentucky and that he died in said county and state on the 21st day of November 1846 and left a widow named Nancy Lowry who resides in Clark County Kentucky. Loyd, John M.	JOHN M. LOYD, who rented Mrs. Surratt's tavern at Surrattsville, in 1864, was a chief witness against the Lincoln murder conspirators, died in Washington City last week.

	His testimony told fearfully against Mrs. Surratt, though he always maintained her innocence of the lot to murder. Monday before the assassination Loyd met Mrs. Surratt who told him that the weapons concealed by John H. Surratt and others would be wanted soon. On the fatal night Booth and Harold called at Loyd's place for the weapons, Harold going in for them and for whisky while Booth, with a broken leg, sat in the dark on the white horse which was shot a week after among the scrub pines of the lower Potomac to silence his neighing. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 18, 1893.

Lunatic Asylum	In the afternoon we visited the Lunatic Asylum, Dr. Redwine the courteous Superintendent took us through most of the wards. The Hospital seems to be kept as nice and clean as it is possible to do with this class of patients. There are about 1,000 inmates at this time, and only four doctors to give this large number medical attention, within our opinions not at all sufficient. The building is not only full, most wretched and pitiable looking situation somewhat through curiosity and we have no desire whatever to repeat our visit. There were 277 admitted last year. Fayette contributed 34 of this number, Franklin the next highest sent 15, Clark county furnished 9, Jefferson in which Louisville is situated only sent 1. I am unable to say why more people go crazy in Fayette county than any other county in the State as shown by this report. The State makes an allowance of $12,000 per month for defraying the expenses of the institution. There are quite a large number in the Asylum that should be in our county poor house, or at home with their families. There is no doubt in the world of this fact. There are scores of old people here, who are only suffering from that mental decline incidental to old age, and who should be cared for by their relatives or respective counties from which they are sent. The burden of care of their indigent is encouraged by the present jury system and Dr. Redwine very properly suggests that the system of trial by jury be changed to a "Lunacy Commission" consisting of three reputable physicians in each county. He says to compel a person to go before a jury of men with sometimes dozens of curious spectators and undergo the ordeal of a trial in order to be adjudged insane is alike repulsive to both patient and friends. In all cases a trial should be had before those most competent to render a just verdict and it is an unquestionable fact that a physician is better qualified for this service than an ordinary layman. Among no class of patients are so much skill experience and judgment required as there are in treating the insane and the physicians employed on account of their qualification and fitness and not on account of any party or political affiliation. Besides being a learned physician and

	Christian gentleman the doctor should be kind and prompt to respond to the needs of distressed people. To come up to the full measure of requirement the doctor should be as wise as Solomon, meek as Moses, patient as Job, as loving as John and as strong as Sampson. We only mention, but of course don't expect this high standard of qualification. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 12, 1901.

Lutes, Dillard	Homicide At Pine Grove. Dillard Lutes Shot and Instantly Killed by Minor B. Wilson. A tragedy resulting in the instant death of Dillard Lutes at the hands of Minor B. Wilson, occurred near Pine Grove at a late hour Thursday afternoon. Both men were farmers and resided near each other on the farm of Dan Scott. A day or two previous to the killing Wilson had some slight difficulty with a man in his employ but nothing serious grew out of it. Lutes espoused the cause of the other man and talked considerably about it. The night previous to the killing, Lutes and two other men went to the house of Wilson after the latter had retired and raised a disturbance. Wilson endeavored to pacify them and failing to do this drove them away. The visitors had been drinking and were very offensive. Wilson was sober and, it is said, does not drink at all. Thursday, Wilson and a couple of his hands were at work in the field shucking corn when Lutes and two other men, Oliver and Gumm, came into the field and renewed the quarrel. They had been to Athens, where whiskey is sold, and had evidently been drinking. Lutes and Oliver began to use violent language and, although Wilson had taken his shotgun to the field in anticipation of probable trouble, he called his men and left the field going towards home. Lutes and Oliver followed with threatening actions, and after repeated warnings Wilson fired; both loads struck Lutes in the breast killing him at once. Wilson also shot him three times with a pistol. Oliver, who was with Lutes ran up and took a pistol from the hand of the dead man and fired several shots at Wilson and party but without effect. Coroner Wills was notified and went at once to the scene. When he arrived there several hours after dark, the body of the dead man lay on his face in the road where he fell. He summoned a jury and by the fitful glare of a few lanterns, held an inquest, which resulted in the following verdict: "We the jury find the dead body before us to be that of Dillard Lutes and he came to his death by a gun shot wound in the hands of Minor B. Wilson in self defense. Wm. McEwan, T. J. Harris, L. T. Mansfield, Jas. Mullins, Jas. Walden, F. J. Sayre." Wilson came to town and gave himself up. The charge being murder the case was not bailable, but he was placed in charge of the Sheriff, being nominally in custody but really free. The examining trial was fixed for yesterday morning, but as some of the Commonwealth's witnesses were absent the case was put off until Monday. Lutes leaves a wife and several small children. The remains were carries to Lee county where he formerly lived, for interment. Wilson, who did the killing, is also a man of family. Public opinion seems to justify Wilson in what he did. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 8, 1898 Acquitted. Minor B. Wilson, who shot and instantly killed Dillard Lutes at Pine Grove about two weeks ago, was tried before Judge Evans Tuesday and was acquitted. The killing was a clear case of self defense and the dead man brought his fate upon himself. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 18, 1898

Lykin, Chas.	Killed at Richmond Chas. Lykin, a railroad man, was killed Saturday night in a peculiar manner. In company with Preston Lacy, he was crossing a big trestle near the city, and in a short time Lacy returned and said Lykins had been killed. He said they met a party of negroes on the trestle and in an altercation that ensued, Lykins was thrown from the trestle, a distance of thirty feet. He was instantly killed, his skull being crushed. Being a stranger Lacy did not recognize any of the negroes and no arrests have been made. The body of Lykins was taken to his home in Morgan county for burial. Lykins Family	All in the Family. Judge William Lykins, who died in 1892 at a ripe old age, says the Caney Valley Courier, was ordained a minister of the hard-shell Baptist faith at the age of eighteen, was one of the first justices of the peace of this county, and was Morgan’s first County Judge, serving two terms. He baptized his grandfather, preached his mother’s funeral, and performed the marriage ceremony that made Miss Hannah Ratliff his stepmother. Uncle Dudley Lykins, aged fifty-five, the youngest son of the Judge, and a resident of this place, made his mother’s coffin and assisted in making his father’s, and he and four brothers and one brother-in-law acted as pall-bearers at both funerals. Uncle Dudley has also made the caskets in which were buried one of his own children, a daughter-in-law and seven grandchildren. The coffins were all made of black walnut. Lykins, Frank	A Reign Of Terror. Desperate Fights Between Two Factions at Caney, Ky. Caney, Ky., Nov. 18.—This little town was in a state of siege Monday night on account of a fight between the Frisbee and Mans factions, which has been going on at intervals for the last 21 hours. Sunday the child of Bob Frisbee was buried in this county. Kelley and Bob Mans and Matau Howard, enemies of Sam Frisbee and Frank and Al Lykins were at the cemetery and began raising a disturbance. Frisbee's friends protested. The Mans boys walked outside the graveyard and dared the Lykins boys to follow. Frisbee and some friends started with the Lykins boys for the hotel by another route when the Mans began shooting.

	The Frisbees covered their retreat with revolvers and the Howard-Mans faction fired at them at long range. One or two spectators were slightly wounded and one of the Mans boys received a bullet in his shoulder. Frank Lykins was shot in the abdomen. After reaching the house Frisbee and his friends stationed themselves at the windows and began firing rapidly at their enemies when the Howard-Mans faction retreated. An hour later they returned reinforced by several friends and riddled the hotel with bullets. In the meantime Lykins and Frisbee had escaped to the mountains on horseback to alarm the neighborhood. Both sides are heavily armed. Frank Lykins will die and Kelley Mans is dangerously wounded. Both factions include men prominent in the affairs of the county. The town has no protection excepting from the county officers who are powerless because of the standing of the participants in the battle. No arrests have been made, and each hour it is feared will bring on a renewal of the encounter. The Winchester, Democrat, Friday, November 21, 1902. A Reign Of Terror. Lyle, John	Rev. John Lyle Pioneer preacher, educator and author, prominent in the Annals of Kentucky John Lyle was not only a pioneer preacher but also a preceptor and a publisher and was singularly successful in all. His immediate ancestors were scotchmen who, driven from home by religious persecution, settled first in the north of Ireland and later emigrated to America. More remotely the family seem to have been Norman and to have gone to England with William the conqueror. Instead of the usual “three brothers,” four Lyles came to America and, after perhaps a brief sojourn in Pennsylvania, found permanent homes in Timber Ridge, Rockbridge, now Augusta county, Va. Dr. William Henry Ruffner, who wrote “The Lyle Chapter in the History of Washington and Lee University,” says: “The immediate family of Lyles, now small in Rockbridge county, was one of the largest and best....The Lyle blood and influence became largely merged in other families. By marriage they became connected with the Alexanders, Stuarts, Grahams, McClungs, Reids, Paxtons, McDowells, Lacys, Ruffners, Montgomerys, Moffats, Donalds, Campbells and many others. "In 1749 August Academy was established. Elder John Lyle, the father of the subject of this sketch, was one of the first trustees of this Academy and here his three sons, John, Joel, Reid and William, were educated. The Academy was in 1782 chartered as Liberty Hall Academy which later Washington and Lee University. The Lyles were closely connected with this institution. Three of its trustees were Lyles, Elder John Lyle and his son William having served in succession during a period of fifty-nine years. Fifteen Lyles are mentioned among the Alumni. Thirty-two of Lyle lineage appear under other names. Bringing with him the best education the times afforded Rev. John Lyle came to Kentucky where all of his professional life was spent. Dr. William H. McGuffey, the author of the famous “Reader,” thus describes Mr. Lyle’s appearance: “He was of the most venerable and dignified-looking gentlemen I ever saw. Much above the ordinary stature, erect form, with an expanded chest and a remarkably fine head, surrounded by a profusion of hair, entirely white, and which he wore long, flowing down to his shoulders; with an elastic step and commanding mien, he could not be mistaken in any company or by the careless observer, for an ordinary man. “Being a thorough scholar, especially in the languages, he was intent on doing his utmost for the rising generation, both intellectually and morally. Hon. Chilton Allen, of Clark county, member of Congress from Kentucky, says: “As a teacher he was singularly devoted to the improvement of his pupils and had an admirable talent for communicating knowledge. I think that his labors in this way accomplished more than those of any other of the ministry. In the great revival meetings of the times he distinguished himself by the firm stand he took against the hysterical excitement which occurred at those meetings. His diaries of events during the years 1801 to 1805 inclusive, give vivid accounts of scenes in those great camp meetings and of events which caused the schisms which were the beginning of the new denominations known as Campbellites or "Christians" and Cumberland Presbyterians. He was not a voluminous writer. One of his sermons, written as he rode on horseback from church to church, was addressed to young ministers who were about to be licensed to preach by the Presbytery. The writer copied it for his great-great grandson and it covered ninety pages of sermon paper. He frequently mentions preaching for three hours to "attentive audiences." His accounts of the part he took in debates with Barton W. Stone and others who differed from him in religious doctrine are singularly modest and he speaks no word of bitterness against those who opposed his views, yet it is a fact that his famous sermon on "Order" put a stop to the disorders which had disgraced the revivals. The culmination of the excitement concurred at Walnut Hill, Fayette county, and the sermon was preached in 1803 in the old stone church which still stands. These meetings were held at Lexington, Paris, Walnut Hill, Salem, Pisgah and other well known churches. Thousands of people were gathered together, many of them camping. Services were conducted in the morning, the afternoon and sometimes nearly all night. People seem to have "gotten religion" in the way we have ridiculed the negroes for doing. They wept, shouted, sang, danced, jerked, hugged each other, and fell down in spells which resemble hysteria, epilepsy, catalepsy or lunacy. Sometimes great masses of people shouted or prayed aloud for hours. The original diary still exists and is owned by the family at Danville, Ky. It is a very valuable contribution to the history of religion in our State.

LIZZIE A. LYLE – A great niece of Rev. John Lyle.

(Extracts from diary of Rev. John Lyle)

1., Sab. Of June 1803. Supper administered at Walnut Hill. Ministers present, Messrs. Samuel Shannon, James Blythe, Jas. Howe, Isaac Tull, Samuel Rannals, Barton Stone, John Coyle, Robert Stuart, ordained ministers of West Covington Presbytery. Of Transylvania Presbytery, Messrs. Cameron, Finley, Houston, Kleland, S. Robinson, W. McPheeters, licentiate of Lexington P. Virginia, R. James Moore, President University. ...In the evening society held in the meeting house. Not long after it was introduced the affections of some were excited and others fell. Some talked, some sung, some prayed, and others exhorted in loud reiterated peals which made the arches of the sanctum ring. One Hawkins from Madison seemed happily engaged; his language was expressive of the overflowing of real piety. I left I think about eleven o'clock and went to Mr. Stuart's Saturday morning the people assembled early. (Note – It rained Friday and Saturday, so that though there were wagons and tents the people had to resort to the house) and engaged in worship in promiscuous multitude, men and women of all ranks closely crowded together before the pulpit and conducted as described above whilst many others occupied the seats but could get no advantage owing to the loud peals of indistinct sound that issued from the busy crowd. Mr. McClelland, a Licentiate, began to preach....After him Mr. Finley preached. After sermon the people broke out in a loud bursts of prayer, hundreds using their voices at the same time. On the countenances of many there was much solemnity and it appeared that they prayed in the spirit though their understanding was unfruitful as to the edification of others. Many of the populace of all ranks stood and beheld this scene with apparent amazement. They continued the praying in this manner with a decrease of loudness at intervals for perhaps an hour or two hours but at the same time now and then parties singing through the meeting house. It must be acknowledged it was a solemn but at the same time a confused scene. Just at dusk I rose and claimed their attention, which with difficulty I obtained. I exhorted for a few minutes....After night the people crowded together in a close huddle and were engaged in salutation by shaking hands, some hugging, etc....Numbers of them were almost constantly employed in praying and exhorting with all their might when none scarcely could hear what they said. Many hollow till they are hoarse and debilitate their bodily constitutions when but few or perhaps none can hear them. Sam McL., of Woodford got afloat either Friday or Saturday evening, exhorted much....The people who could not join in this exercise from want either of room or of disposition or because of the great noise, sat for hours idle in their seats or walked about the meeting house....After the table service was over the people were dismissed and an appointment for afternoon sermon made, but numbers agonized, numbers singing and numbers praying together with a loud voice so that the evening was spent without any sermon at the tent. One thing of some importance was transacted which may be worth relating. A Miss D--, an orphan from Garrard county, on the forks of Dick's river, was in an ecstasy of joy. Two men hoisted her on their shoulders, though she was a woman grown, in the manner that the victorious party of the vulgar hoist their representative at election. She exulted aloud crying, "Glory to God," clapped her hands until they were all red and swollen, told the people she had lost father and mother but now she knew God was her father, and she talked I suppose near half an hour before they let her down. She then hugged Mr. Shannon and Finley, Mr. McD and another man that stood near. Put her arms about their necks and hugged and then clapped their backs. Though the hoisting of the girl might have been done with a good intention, yet it appeared impudent and in a certain degree and she seemed not to rejoice with trembling. Note – I do not think the scripture authorizes female exhortation. I think too much fuss and applause about those who get a manifestation engenders spiritual pride....Lyle's Dale, Nov. 16, 1802. I have been reviewing the narrative of those who fell at Sugar Ridge last

	year in September. I find that there are but two or three of them who are now professors of good report. Twenty one fell in all; of the whole there are but three reputable professors; the rest are chiefly careless or do not make any profession.” The Winchester Democrat Friday, November 19, 1909

Lyne, William	THE late William Lyne, of Jessamine, had a way of protecting his meat that was very effectual. At hog killing time he produced a paper of white powder and in the presence of the negroes he sprinkled a little of it on a piece of the meat and remarked that he did this to catch any thief that should be so foolish as to go into his smoke house after meat, strychnine was sure to get the scoundrel sooner or later, for he marked that piece so distinctly that he could not mistake it." No thief ever went into Mr. Lynes smoke house.-Lexington Gazette. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 18, 1895.

About two weeks ago Alma, a four year old daughter was burned to death and now his last child is dead. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 11, 1894 DIED-The hand of Death has again been laid upon the family of Squire John W. Adams. Thursday night his daughter, Miss Clara Belle Adams died aged 21 years, after an illness of eight weeks of typhoid fever. Her funeral was preached Saturday at the Christian church by Eld. Keene and the remains were interred in the cemetery. She was a most amiable young woman and greatly beloved. This makes the fourth funeral in this family since late in September; at that time his daughter, Mrs. F. K. Lyons, died. She was followed in quick succession by her two children, one of whom was burned to death. Mrs. Sallie Hogan and Mrs. Irene Waldon are the only daughters left. Our sympathy goes out to the stricken family. The Winchester Democrat, January 22, 1895.

Lyons, Stanley	Overheard The Plot The Knowledge Od An Alleged Murder Is Said To Have Caused A Barkeeper To Commit Suicide Louisville, Ky., Dec. 6 J. O. Lyons of this city, is in Paducah to investigate a rumor with regard to the death of his cousin Stanley Lyons, aged 22, of this city, who was found dead in the New Richmond hotel at Paducah three years ago. Lyons had committed suicide, but according to a story Mr. Lyons had heard he was murdered for some money he had won at gambling, and his body and the pistol were arranged to make it seem suicide. The story has it that Charley Sexton, a barkeeper, overheard the plot, and that his knowledge so weighed on him after the young man's death that he killed himself a short time ago.
