O'Banion, J. B.

Horrible Accident

J. B. O'Banion Struck and Killed by a K. C. Train Yesterday Afternoon.

The passenger train from Richmond yesterday afternoon, when near this city, struck and killed J. B. O'Banion. He came here from Lexington last fall and worked for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

He left this company a short time ago and since then has been working for an accident insurance company and had recently began work for a New York Nursery Company. The exact manner of his death is not known. Ed. Green, a boy plowing in a field near by saw him walking along the track and after the train had passed saw him crawl up the bank on his hands and knees. He straightened up a moment and then fell.

When young Green reached him he was unconscious and died in a few minutes. It is probable that he stepped from the track and as the train was passing he stumbled and fell, the engine or some of the cars struck him crushing his breast. He was not mangled, showing that the cars did not run over him.

He was a former student of the State college and was well educated.

He was not a drinking man and was quite popular.

Shot And Killed

J. B. O'Banion Murdered by an Unknown Hand

No Clue to the Perpetrator of the Awful Crime

Monday afternoon after the forms were locked and this paper was ready for the press, information was received that a man had been killed on the K. C. railroad about a mile from this city. A representative of the paper went there at once and found several persons present some of whom had seen the man die. Though nothing was known positively, it was the universal verdict that he had been struck and killed by the train. Blood was running from his nose, mouth and ears and the clothing on one side of his breast was covered with blood and every appearance showed that it was an ordinary railroad accident, and we so reported.

When the Coroner arrived and began an investigation it was soon found that he had not been struck by the cars but had been shot and killed. A post-mortem held by Dr. Shirley, assisted by Dr. Joe Maury, showed that the ball had entered on the right side of the neck, passing downward and back of the lungs and striking the fifth rib on the opposite side; the bullet was not found, having probably dropped into the pleural cavity. In its course it wounded the carotid artery and the man soon died from internal hemorrhage.

He was recognized as John O'Banion who came here from Lexington last fall and who worked for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which insures for small amounts and on weekly payments. After working for that Company for some time he was discharged it is said on account of an alleged shortage in his accounts.

He was a man that had little to say and did not court the acquaintance of those around him, and this rendered the investigation of his death more difficult as little was known of his habits or associates.

The Coroner's jury, impaneled Monday, adjourned until Tuesday and again until Wednesday morning. The evidence before it was interesting but not conclusive. Dick Green and Ed. Green, who were plowing in a field near by, saw, just as the passenger train passed, a man crawling up the bank on his hands and knees; saw him stand erect for a moment and then fall; when they reached him he was unconscious. They heard no shots, but others did. Some negro boys saw a white man and a negro woman a short time before his death and a short distance from the place, in a compromising position. Other witnesses testified that a few minutes after his death a negro woman came from the direction of the place described by the boys, passed the body of the man lying on the track, and after asking "Is he dead?" walked rapidly on towards the city. Several persons met her but none recognized her, and in consequence, her identity is unknown. The general idea is that she committed the murder.

Shortly after the killing, Lou Stuart, a well known colored woman, was arrested but she was soon released as it was clearly shown that she had nothing to do with it. All efforts to find this negro woman were unavailing and the following verdict was returned: "We the jury, find the body before us to be that of John O'Banion, and that he came to his death from a pistol shot in the hands of some unknown person on the 20^{th} day of May 1895."

O'Banion came of a first rate Owen county family and was educated at the State College at Lexington. His relatives were notified by telegraph and his brother, G. W. O'Banion, and brother-in-law, Jas. Settle, came Tuesday night. In company with Sheriff Hodgkin they visited the scene of the tragedy and other points connected with the case. They left Wednesday morning with the body which was buried at the old home place near Lusby's Mills, Owen county.

Settle was formerly Deputy Circuit Clerk of Owen county and is now a lawyer at Owenton. He is a brother to the noted orator Evan E. Settle, who ran against Owens and Breckinridge for Congress last year.

O'Banion evidently led a dual life as at least half of his mail came to him under the name of Chas. E. Oliver. An examination of the papers in his room showed letters from women in all parts of the State. Most of them evidently well educated.

He had brought suit against the Metropolitan Insurance Company, at Lexington on account of the former having discharged him and last week the suit was compromised. He had also been appointed as solicitor for an Accident Insurance Company, and also was equipped with a book for a nursery company of Geneva, New York. When his pockets were examined a letter was found signed "T. G. B." asking him to meet her that night at "Sarah's back door," and saying that he must not be angry with the writer for coming here. The "Sarah" alluded to was Sarah Burrus, a negro woman of this city, and the writer was Tilly G. Brown, a negro school teacher of Versailles. She was here a day or two but returned home Saturday. Since the death of O'Banion a letter came to his address written by Tillie Brown begging him to leave Winchester and telling him he would be killed if he did not. She warns him to beware of some parties here but gave no names. Were there enough interest shown by his people and skillful detectives employed, the truth could probably be ascertained, but as he was evidently a "black sheep," and any investigation would probably make public a state of affairs not creditable to the memory of the deceased or pleasant for the family, it is not probable that any great effort will be made to find the In many of its features this murder resembles that of Louis Friedman, who was found dead in the cemetery last year with a bullet hole in his brain and whose murderer is yet unknown. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 24, 1895 Winchester, although she is a hundred years behind, is making some strides toward doing things after the modern style. A few days ago some of them wanted to kill a man, and the man (O'Banion, late Owen county), was found dead near their railroad trestle with a bullet hole in him. They have progressed far enough to get the venue about right, but they kill in the same old brutal way.—Mt. Sterling Times. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 28, 1895 G. W. O'Banion and J. B. Settle, the relatives of the murdered J. B. O'Banion are here to probe the matter to the bottom. They brought with them the Versailles woman Tillie Brown, who figures so prominently in the case. Developments are expected. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 28, 1895 The O'Banion Murder Messrs. G. W. O'Banion and J. H. Settle, of Owen county, have been here this week assisting the officers in their endeavors to ferret out the mystery of J. H. O'Banion's murder. Tilly Brown, the negro woman from Versailles whose evidence it was thought would throw light on the subject, was brought before the grand jury, but she knew nothing of value. The identity of the woman who was with him just before his death, is still unknown. The report that O'Banion had been discharged by the insurance company on account of a shortage in his accounts, is proved to be untrue, as Messrs. O'Banion and Settle bring letters from the agent of the company to that effect. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 31, 1895 For some time there has been rumors that Kidd Allan, the little son of John C.Allan, had fired the fatal bullet which killed John O'Banion near the city on the K.C. Railroad some time ago. The Grand Jury fully investigated the matter and found there was nothing in it. Allan was a considerable distance from where the man was killed and was armed with a small Flobert rifle while the ball that killed O'Banion was a large ball. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 18, 1896 THE killing of Maj. Brink on the K & C. road near this city, recalls the fact that he was the third man killed at that point. John O'Banion, whose death is still a mystery, was shot and killed at that spot. During the building of the road a man named Cain was accidentally blown to pieces by dynamite near the place. Just a week before she had returned from the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Mary Quinn, of Lexington, notice of whose death appeared in our last issue. She contracted a severe cold on this trip, and was compelled to take her bed. Pneumonia developed rapidly and the end soon came. Deceased was the widow of the M. C. O'Connell, and was about 58 years old. She leaves four children: William B., Miss Florence, Charlie and Max.—Mt. Sterling Gazette. Both Mrs. Quinn and Mrs. O'Connell, had numerous friends in this county, who will hear with deep regret of their deaths.

O'Rear, Mabel	Sad Home
	The home of our old friend, Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, is a sad one now. Friday evening last, his daughter Mabel, was drowned in the Ohio River. With some friends she was boating when the boat was capsized by the waves of a passing steamer. Her companions were rescued but her body sank beneath the waves.
	We want to say to the father and mother, and to the children that have last their sister, our heart goes out to you.
	Our own Mabel, our first born, sleeps in her grave these many years, the name is very dear to us. We would give words of consolation if we could.
	The body was found fifteen miles below Cincinnati Monday morning and was buried in Mt. Sterling at 11 a. m. yesterday.

	Mabel O'Rear Drowned. Daughter of Judge O'Rear, Kentucky Court of Appeals, Lost her Life. Cincinnati, Aug. 23.—Miss Mabel O'Rear, daughter of Judge O'Rear, of the Kentucky court of appeals, was drowned in the Ohio river Friday evening. She with a gentleman and two lady companions, were in a canoe, and when in the middle of the river the vessel was overturned by the waves of a passing steamer near Fernbank. She with her mother was visiting the family of A. Stuart, of Fernbank. The four clung to the bottom of the canoe and floated down the stream for half a hour, when Miss O'Rear became exhausted and lost her hold and was drowned. The others were rescued by the crew of the steamer H. M. Stanley. The body of the drowned girl was not recovered. Lawrenceburg, Ind. Aug. 26.—The body of Miss Mabel O'Rear, daughter of Appellate Judge E. C. O'Rear, of Frankfort, Ky., who was drowned Friday night while boating at Fernbank, was found Monday by Sam and Frank Bowman, fishermen, who live in Kentucky opposite the mouth of the Big Miami. The search for the body had continued all day Sunday and a $300 reward was offered by the distracted parents. Four launch parties spent Sunday in a search of the river from Fernbank to rising Sun, Ind.

	After killing his mistress, he plunges under a train and is killed Maysville, Ky., - Tom O'Regan, a baker, committed murder here and within an hour acted as his own judge and jury and executed himself in a most horrible manner. O'Regan, it is claimed, lived with Mrs. Becky Bradford, on the Lexington and Maysville pike. They quarreled frequently, it is said, because of her associating with other men. He went to their home, and drawing a revolver, shot her dead. Immediately after the killing he fled. Hoping to elude the officers he started for this city, expecting, no doubt, to escape by the railroad or across the river. He started for the C & O track just about the time a freight for Cincinnati was due. The police were close on the heels of the fugitive as the trains came down. It was nip and tuck whether he could catch the train, and even if he did the thought must have struck him that it would be no use. He would be taken anyhow. There seemed no escape. The train came in. The crew saw him rush toward the tracks. One instant of indecision, a backward glance that measure his pursuers and with a scream the fleeing murderer dashed himself before the rushing train. His body was cut in two and the two parts were picked up by the horrified trainmen. The Winghester Demograt. Tuesday, Oct. 23, 1906.

Odum, Simon	Killed at a Dance
	Paducah, Ky., July 29 – George Egnor stabbed Simon Odum to death at a dance at Birmingham, Marshall County, Saturday night. The killing was the outbreak of an old feud. Both men had many friends, and they are thoroughly aroused over the murder, which was committed without any provocation. It is feared that there will be more trouble.

Off, George	Wants A Pardon
on, deorge	John P. Monsch, Fugitive From Justice For 34 Years, Asks Clemency
	Louisville, Ky., Jan. 14
	After being a fugitive for 34 years with a conviction of murder hanging over his head, John P. Monsch, alias John P. Smith, is seeking a pardon of Kentucky's governor that he may return to his home in Louisville and die surrounded by his children. Monsch or Smith, stabbed and killed George Off in 1867 in this city. He was tried in 1870, found guilty and the jury's verdict was death. On August 21, before sentence had been passed, Smith broke jail with five others. All were recaptured except Smith. A wife and unborn child, now a grown man, were left in Louisville by Smith.

Offutt, John L.	Another chapter in the Evans-Offutt feud ended last Thursday in the death of John L.
,	Offutt at the hands of Richard Evans, near Newtown, Scott County. It will be remembered by most of our readers that Evans was shot by Offutt about two years ago, the ball lodging in his spinal column and causing him to be paralyzed from its effects ever since. Evans was riding along the pike and met Offutt and without a word, fired, and the ball lodged in Offutt's heart killing him instantly. Evans has an extensive relationship in this section.

	ration 51, 2022, at his home. He was som on october 23, 1717.
	David is survived by his wife of 6 years, who he said he was "smitten" by the first time they met. In addition, he is survived by his very special stepdaughter and stepson-in-law, Ashley and Danny Ray Clem and their sons, Hayden and Bentley Clem, whom he cherished dearly. Two brothers-in-law, Michael (Pam) Burns and Roy (Pam) Burns. A sister-in-law, Linda Burns Reed.
	Sister-in-iaw, Linda Burns Reed.
	He was preceded in death by four stepbrothers, Harvey Smith, Pleas Smith, Jr., Johnny Stamper, and Reed Stamper. As well as, his brother-in-law, Ledford Reed.
	David was a cabinet maker for 35 years for The University of Kentucky, a job he said that he enjoyed going to everyday of those years. If he had a nice piece of wood and a measuring tape in his hands, he was a happy man.
	Per his wishes, Sheila's David will be cremated.
	A memorial service will be held at a later date to be announced. Rev. Ronnie Willoughby, his cousin and lifelong friend, will officiate.
	Thank you and love to the Hospice workers who so lovingly cared for him during his illness.
	In lieu of flowers donations are requested to Hospice East, 407 Shoppers Drive,

Oliphant, James (Shine) AA Oliver, Abbie & father	The Winchester Sun Thur., 2-4, 2-9-1926 At Sturgis, Ky., Miss Abbie Oliver was seduced by Harry Delaney, a drug clerk.
	Delaney denied the alleged facts. Wednesday night the father and mother of the girl went to the drug store, and at the point of a revolver forced him to get into a carriage where the girl was; they went to the clerks office, got a license and were married. As they were returning home, a distance of fifteen miles, the carriage was met by four men on horseback who opened fire. Delaney jumped out and ran to the attacking party who were his friends. Miss Oliver and her father were killed and Mrs. Oliver was shot. She recognized the attacking party and some of them were arrested. All belong to the higher class and much excitement resulted. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 12, 1893
	They Confess All of Abbie Oliver's Murderers Break Down There Will Likely Be a Resort to Mob Violence at Morganfield, KY. William Omer, J. L. Tate, Frank Holt, George Delaney, Will Holt, A. Thompson and a stranger the Guilty Parties—Great Excitement Created Sturgis, Ky., April 10—Excitement in the Oliver murder is increased by the confession of Lewis Land, a young man, who up to Thursday noon was not suspected of being connected with the affair. Land made his confession to Police Judge Berry. He says William Omer, J. L. Tate, Frank Holt, Geo. Delaney, W. H. Holt, A. Thompson and a stranger whose name he does not know are the guilty parties. He says that on that night all the persons named, on horses and armed with shotguns halted the carriage containing Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, Henry Delaney and the girl, Abbie Oliver; that Frank Holt, George Delaney and the stranger opened the fire and that immediately Henry Delaney, who had been forced to marry the girl and who was in the carriage called out: "Don't shoot me boys," that after several shots had been fired and the carriage had passed on, Henry Delaney, who had jumped out of the carriage and joined the party, was offered a gun by Frank Holt to go and complete the terrible work of murder, but that he (Land) advised that the affair stop: that Henry Delaney said: I refused to let one preacher marry us. Oliver said if you don't marry my daughter, I will kill you and give myself up." I put it off as long as I could, thinking the boys would come up. This confession is sworn to and creates great excitement. Land, Alex Thompson and Will Holt have been taken to the Morganfield jail. A lynching is expected. The following telegram was received here Saturday morning from Morganfield: "I am all right. The parties who are guilty have confessed and exonerated me. Show this to friends. Geo. P. Henry" This fully clears Mr. Henry, coming from the guilty parties immediately after the confession of Lewis Land. Very few believed Mr. Henry guilty, as he had no personal interest in the m

Oliver, Asa Oliver, Carl D. Oliver, Carrie	Henry Delaney and Miss Fannie Tate, of Sturgis, Ky., were married at Shawneetown, Ill., Saturday afternoon. Delaney, it will be remembered, was forced to marry Miss Abbie Oliver, whom he had ruined in April, 1893, near Sturgis, and while on the way to her home after the ceremony, she was shot and killed by Delaney's friends and relatives. His reason for refusing to marry Miss Oliver was that he was engaged to marry Miss Tate. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 11, 1894 George Delaney, of Union county, implicated in the murder of Miss Abbie Oliver, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, was refused a new trial. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 4, 1893 Wm. Omer, implicated in the killing of Miss Oliver at Morganfield, was given a life sentence the second to be so sentenced. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 29, 1893 At Morganfield, the jury in the Henry Delaney case failed to agree, and the issue will have to be tried again. Delaney is accused of the murder of Abbie Oliver. Oliver, Richard	Death of Richard Oliver
	Richard Oliver, formerly a well known distiller of the county, died at his home near this city Tuesday of the infirmities of old age. He was eighty-four years of age and had always lived in the county. The remains were taken to the old family burying ground in the eastern part of the county for burial Wednesday. W.A. Oliver, of this city, is the only survivor of a large family of brothers and sisters.

Onver, Simpson	The Court of Appeals this week affirms the decision of the Circuit Court of this county in the case of Oliver's administrator vs. Oliver. This is a case that has been on the docket here for a long time and grew out of the settlement of the estate of the late Simpson Oliver. The effect of the decision of the Court of Appeals is to give a homestead in the estate to the widow of the deceased who is now Mrs. Samuel Brumback.
	The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday February 14, 1899
	The Court of Appeals in deciding the Oliver case that gave to the widow of Simpson Oliver a homestead in his estate says: "The mere purchase of land with partnership money and its use for carrying on the business of farming does not furnish evidence of intention on the part of the partners to convert the land into personalty so as to deprive the widow of a partner of dower therein."

Trail builder Verne Orndorff dies at 100

Over the course of the past century, Verne Orndorff left a mark on his family and the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Orndorff, a retired U.S. Forest Service employee, World War II veteran, poet and resident at the Rose Mary C. Brooks Place, died June 8. He was 100. Orndorff, who served during World War II with the U.S. Army Air Corps as a weatherman in Australia and New Guinea, retired from employment with the federal government, working in the 1950s with the USDA and ultimately with the U.S. Forestr Service as a landscape architect on the Daniel Boone National Forest, where his primary duties were designing and laying out trails to scenic overlooks and vistas. That experience led him to a vision of arguably his greatest accomplishment as he designed and created the Sheltowee Trace National Recreation Trail, which he pioneered through Kentucky from Tennessee to West Virginia, all on foot.

Orndorff was responsible for the idea of establishing the trail, and he walked hundreds of miles laying out, marking and designing the trail as well as conceptualizing his vision of the trail to a reality. "We had a great almost father-son relationship," said Doug Billips, a former state trail coordinator who helped Orndorff design the trail. "I knew him for just short of 40 years and I hadn't turned 30 when I met him." More than 35 years ago, the U.S. was seeing a boom in the number of users on trails in parks and federal lands across the country. The Appalachian Trail was gaining increased popularity and usage. To meet the demand, new trails were being constructed across the country. Orndorff's trail system in the Daniel Boone National Forest was a series of trails around local significant natural landmarks. In looking at the system, Orndorff decided a trail from one end of the forest to the other would link all the trails and serve as the backbone of that trail system. "We went out a lot of times together on the trails, mostly we went out on the Sheltowee in the Stanton district, London district and the Red Bird district," Billips said. "I helped him on at least two right-of-way letter approvals from land owners, one in the London district and other by Frenchburg." His vision to connect existing trails, forest service roads and country roads into a linear trail was completed 36 years ago and stands today as a testament to his passion to get people and families outdoors and into the forest. "The trail was 248 miles in Kentucky and it ties into the Pickett State Park," Billips said. "He envisioned it, he was the brainchild of the whole trail and I walked some of it with him." Not only walk, but climb as well said

	Billips as he vividly recalls July 3, 1978, on the eve of a Bluegrass 10K, when he and Orndorff ended up crawling on their stomachs through a briar patch over hilly terrain. "He about killed me," Billips said. "We were in the Red Bird district and you could never keep up with him. He was a strong guy, a hearty eater and he'd been outdoors most his life. "I just laid in bed that night thinking about the next day, but that next day I ran one of my best times and had one of my best races." Steve Barbour, executive director of the Sheltowee Trace Association, said Orndorff's legacy will live on as the trail system is used by thousands of people each year. "While the user may not know it when they hike to Cumberland Falls or Natural Bridge or Vanhook Falls or Yahoo Falls, they are walking on a trail that was designed by Verne and enables all of us to enjoy the wonders of the Daniel Boone National Forest, two state parks and the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area," Barbour said. "Every significant trail across the nation starts with a vision and a visionary," Barbour added. "Verne was our visionary. It takes great resilience and fortitude to build a few miles of trail. Verne and his friend (Doug Billips) built at that time 287 miles of trail where there was none. He connected trail pieces with forest roads and country roads." Barbour said sadly, many Kentuckians don't know of the work of Orndorff in establishing Kentucky's longest trail. "Many have little appreciation today for the time expended to walk unglazed trail in a time when there was no GPS and maps were not always accurate," Barbour said. "Verne connected some of the most scenic locations in the Daniel Boone making them accessible to generations of visitors. Over the years, the Sheltowee Trace Receation Trail System received national recognition. Annually the Sheltowee Trace Association base also established an Orndorff Award, to individuals who have made exemplary contributions to the work of the association. The Sheltowee Trace Association

Some time ago Miss Hattie Osborne, a young lady living in the eastern part of the county, placed a letter in a bottle requesting the finder to answer it. The bottle was dropped in to one of the small tributaries of Lulbegrud creek and from thence it went into Kentucky. The bottle was found in the river below Frankfort by William Kane. He answered it and the correspondence ripened into a marriage engagement and the marriage was set for December 15th. She fell ill of typhoid fever a few days prior to that time and continued to grow worse until she died a short time ago. Her affianced was present during her illness and insisted on being allowed to pay the funeral expenses. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 23, 1900 The Winchester Sun Thur., 2-11-1982 Nelson Embry clubbed Henry Osborne to death with a billet of wood in Estill county and escaped, but Talton Embry and wife are in jail at Irvine for complicity in the crime. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 23, 1897 The March term of the Estill Circuit Court began Monday with a light docket. There are three murder cases to be tried, two of them continuances, Clabe Thorpe, for the killing of Bruce Finney, and Chas. Witt for the killing of Tom Pucket. The other case is that of Nelson Embry, for the killing of Henry Osborn.

Oscorne, wirs. Litzaucui	Mrs. Elizabeth Osborne died Wednesday at her home near the mouth of Howards Upper creek, after a short illness of pneumonia. She was sixty-nine years of age, and was a native of this county. She was Miss Osborne before her marriage and her husband, Rev.
	Geo. Osborne, died more than twenty years ago. She leaves four sons, William, Thomas, Enoch, and James Osborne. The remains were buried in the Brock graveyard, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. H.C. Wright. She was a good woman and had many friends who will regret to learn of her death.
	The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 25, 1910
	Our dead
	Mrs. Elizabeth H. Osborne was born in Clark county, Ky., Feb. 14, 1841. Married to the late G.H. Osborne in 1860, and after a five day illness of typhoid pneumonia died Nov. 23, 1910, at her home near Arlen. She was a hero type of Christian womanhood, and her character was marked by such noble traits, as sincerity, frankness, unselfishness, purity and love of peace. She always greeted her friends and neighbors with a pleasant smile, and a cheerful word, and was ever ready to help those in distress.
	The vast crowd which assembled to witness the last and sad rites over her remains attest to her popularity, having spent all her life in this and surrounding neighborhoods. She leaves a wide circle of friends to mourn her loss, for to know her was to love her. She and myself having for a long time been each other's sole companions, the ties of devotion binding us together were indeed strong and the breaking of these ties brings sadness and loneliness. No love can fill the place of mother's, the mother's vacant chair can never be filled by any other, her absence in the home can never be supplied. She leaves four sons, T.E., W.G., and J.A. Osborne, of this place, and E.M. Osborne, of Becknerville.

Osborne, Mrs. Maggie	Mrs. Maggie Osborne, wife of Thos. Osborne of Arlen, died Thursday of typhoid fever.
	She was about seventeen years of age. She leaves a young husband to whom she was married a few months ago. She was the daughter of Jefferson Johnson, who has had remarkably hard luck recently. He is a poor man with a large family, and some months ago shot himself from which he had almost lost the use of one arm. A week or two ago, his eldest son about grown, died of typhoid fever, his eldest daughter, Mrs. Osborne has just died as related above, and another child lies at the point of death from the same fell

Oursler, Henry A. (Pete)	"Pete" Oursler found dead A well known man fell from window and broke his neck – formerly resided here
	The Owingsville Outlook contains the following account of the death of Henry Oursler, or "Pete" Oursler as he was better known. He lived in this county for many years, and was a well known Red man: "Two men came to Weston, Missouri, about 10:30 p.m., August 4, and registered at the hotel as R.W.D. Hunt and H.A. Oursler. The two men went to be in the hotel. About one o'clock the proprietor and wife heard a noise somewhere. The proprietor went to investigate and not finding anything wrong in the hotel went out in the street and found Oursler lying dead on the ground under the window of the room that Hunt and Oursler had occupied. The window sash was raised and also the screen pushed up about eighteen inches. The proprietor called some men in the hotel and they went to Hunt and Oursler's room, in the second story, and found Hunt in bed asleep. They went in and out of the room two or three times before they tried to awaken Hunt and then he was very hard to arouse. The coroner held and inquest and the evidence seemed to indicate that Oursler fell out of the window and killed himself. "On Hunt's information the authorities wired a brother of Oursler's at Anchorage, Ky., and not hearing from the brother buried Oursler there about 7 p.m.
	August 5. On the morning of August 6 a message from his brother said to let the county

Ousley, Ashlany Outten, Norman	bury him. Pete Oursler came to this county from Henry county, Ky., as a tobacco prizer twenty-five or thirty years ago, when he went West, to Oklahoma or in that section of country. He was one of the most sociable of men, known by nearly everybody and was like by all. He was elected Coroner of Bath county in 1897, but soon resigned the office. Pete was a good man, as straight as a man could well be, and his death will bring a feeling of sorrow to countless friends throughout Kentucky." Overton, Smith	Rival Dive Keepers. In a Fight Two Men Were Killed and One Fatally Wounded. Middlesboro, Ky., June 23.—A fight in Cabin Hollow, five miles from town, between rival dive keepers, resulted in death to Henry and James Shackleford, brothers, and the fatal wounding of Smith Overton. The engagement occurred early Sunday morning. The Shacklefords ran the moonshine saloon in Cabin Hollow and a short distance away was one owned by Luke Hopper and Henry Muller. The men were jealous of each other's business and so fell out. Hopper is supposed to have killed both the Shacklefords. Overton belongs to Hopper's gang. No arrests have been made and more trouble is expected at any moment.

The Kentucky Baptist Convention elected him its executive secretary-treasurer and the chief executive officer and he served in that position from Sept. 1, 1972 until April 30, 1983. His tenure was characterized by unprecedented growth and accomplishments. Financially, receipts increased 219 per cent, indebtedness was eliminated and reserve funds for the future were established. Support for Baptist colleges and schools were prioritized, Baptist student centers were constructed across the state at the state universities, an impressive addition to the Baptist Building in Middletown was constructed, and a new level of cooperation was attained with African American Baptists. His most enduring legacy, according to the editor of the "Western Recorder," the late C. R. Dailey, was found in such intangibles as "spirit, morale, confidence, dependability, trust and integrity." During World War II he volunteered, he served for the United States, serving with combat troops in the Army Ground Forces in the European Theater of Operations, receiving the Bronze Star and the War Department Letter of Commendation. He was present with the division that liberated the concentration camp at Dachau and concluded hid service with the rank of major. He was a Mason and a member of the Kiwanis Club with photography, flowers, birds and boating as his hobbies. Owen, G. W.	G. W. OWEN.
	BORN FEBRUARY 23TH, 1835; DIED MARCH 22 ND , 1904.
	The long illness of Mr. G. W. Owen terminated at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in death, at the home of his son, D. W. Owen, in this city. Funeral services were held at Owen's Chapel yesterday, conducted by Eld. J. R. Savage. Burial at the same place.
	Mr. Owen was married twice. His first wife was Miss Harriett Jane Brown. His second, Miss Lucy E. Jones who survives. His children all the issue of his first marriage, are Mrs. James Jones, W. A. Owen and D. W. Owen, of this city, and Mrs. F.
	J. Farmer, of L. & E. Junction. Mr. Owen left three brothers and three sisters living; R.
	T. W. P. and F. W. Owen, Miss Jane Owen, Mrs. J. W. Creed and Mrs. W. H. Irvine, all of this county. J. W. and Wilson Owen, deceased, were also his brother. He had been a consistent member of the Methodist church for more than twenty years he was a correspondent of The Winchester Sun. When we established the Sentinel he took great interest in the success of the paper. He was a regular contributor, and secured over two hundred cash subscribers for the paper. At our annual meeting in July last, on the occasion of our outing at Natural Bridge, he was elected president of our Correspondents' Association. We feel that we have sustained a great loss in the death of Mr. Owen. He was one of THE SUN-SENTINEL'S family, and when we all meet during our outing this year, we will, as a body in the appropriate words, put on record what we thought of our departed president, brother and friend.
	The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 24, 1904.
	I was indeed grieved to learn of the death of Bro. Owen, our venerable President. It was not my pleasure to personally know Bro. Owen, never having met him but once, and that was at our first outing. I read his items with great pleasure. This is the first death I believe in our society. Who can say on whom the grim reaper will call next?
	Will we be ready? Are we letting golden opportunities pass and making no preparations against that day? I would I could impress upon all the brevity of human life. We flourish and fade as the leaves of the forests and the flowers that bloom and wither in a day have no frailer hold upon life than the mightiest monarch who ever shook the earth with his footsteps. Life is short, too short, for foolishness.

Owen, Jesse Owen, John B.	The Winchester Sun January 21, 2013 The Winchester Sun Mon., 8-5-1940 Obituary.
	Mr. John B. Owen, of Woodford county, who died suddenly last Monday night, April 3 rd , at the home of Mr. John Hords at Speedwell about 9 miles from Richmond, Madison county, Ky., Mr. Owen was well and cheerful when he left his home as usual ate a hearty dinner at his home and took the noon train for Richmond for the purpose of winding up the estate of his sister, Mrs. S. A. Harbor, who was unexpectedly taken just 13 months and 4 days to his death. He going home with his friend, while in a jolly conversation, just at the hour of 6 o'clock in an instant threw his hand to his breast replying, "what is the matter?" and at the twinkle of an eye passed away to meet those standing with outstretched hands to greet him on the other shore. Mr. Owen's body was brought to his home at Ft. Garrett, Woodford county, on the 5 o'clock train the following day. The loving husband and devoted father was followed by a large crowd of friends and relatives to his home. The deepest sympathy is felt for the heart-broken wife and mother. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jolly, of Nicholasville and Rev. Arnold of Versailles. A beautiful duet was sung by Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bettes, of Keen, Ky. About 200 were present at the funeral. The pall-bearers were, Messers. Theodore Harris, Thos. Gellers, D. L. Thornton, Z. T. Sellers from Versailles, and Thos. Parks and J. C. Roberts. The burial was in Versailles cemetery. The grave was covered with a mass of beautiful floral designs. The deceased was 72 years of age, born in Madison county, Ky., and married to Miss Nannie Wood in Powell county, Ky., on December 3 rd , 1857. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church for 60 years, led an honest and Christian life, and was true in all business transactions. Mr. Owen came to Woodford county in 1876 and has been prosperous in most all his undertakings. He leaves a heartbroken widow and six children: Messrs. James M. Owen, Charley W. Owen, Geo. W. Owen, and Henderson Owen, of Woodford county; Brutus Owen, of Arizona and Mrs. J.
	Thy fond and earnest care, Our home is dark without thee, We miss thee everywhere.

	Not now, but in the coming a second
	Not now, but in the coming years,
	It may be in the better land,
	We'll read the meanings of our tears,
	And there sometime, we'll understand.
	We'll catch the broken thread again,
	And finish what we here began,
	Heav'n will the mysteries explain,
	And then ah then, we'll understand
	Then trust in God thro' all thy days,
	Fear not, for he doth hold thy hand,
	Tho' dark thy way, still sing and praise,
	And in time, sometime, we'll understand.

	boarding house of Mrs. J. H. W. Spohn, on North Main Street, Thursday. He came up from a visit to Bourbon county the evening previous and made arrangements to spend the night there, but subsequently changed his mind and did not do so. He came in the next morning, but remained in his room all day. Shortly before ten o'clock that night Mr. James Griggs, who occupied the same from, found him sitting in a chair apparently asleep, but on trying to awaken him he was found to be cold in death. Friday morning Coroner, Alexander summoned a jury composed of I. N. Massie, R. R. Perry, Wm. Eckley, Woods McCord, J. K. Allen and C. E. Lyddane who, after the testimony, returned a verdict of death from apoplexy. The funeral was preached Saturday at the Christian church by Eld. I. J. Spencer and the remains were interred in the Winchester cemetery. Mr. Owen leaves a wife, nee Miss Scearce, but no children; an adopted daughter married Mr. Bell, of this city about two years ago. Mrs. Mack Evans, of this county, Mrs. Dr. Fithian, of Paris, and another sister at La Grange, survive him. He had a policy of life insurance for $ 2,000 which had been taken out but a short time. 	Learning of Mrs. Lane's Shooting, Commits Suicide

	Paris, Ky., Jan. 19.—Miss Harriet Keith Owens, aged about 25, committed suicide early Tuesday morning at Crab Orchard Farm, the home of her father, Col. Basil Owens, one of the most prominent farmers of Mason county. A 38-caliber pistol was the weapon used, the ball entering the right temple, passing entirely through and lodging in the wall of the room. Miss Owens was a sister of Dr. C. C. Owens, C. and O. surgeon of this point, and was one of the most estimable young women of the county.
	Her health had been bad for several months and she was compelled recently to give up her position as a teacher. Tuesday morning she seemed better than usual, but after breakfast retired to her room, wrote a note disposing of her property and then fired the fatal shot. Near her body was found a paper containing an account of the shooting of ex-Senator Blackburn's daughter.

Owens, James	THREE-HANDED FIGHT
	Two of Them Killed by the Third, Who Escapes, Pursued by a Posse.
	Louisville, Ky., Aug. 22 – A special from Sargent, Ky. Says: Will Gilbert and James Owens, brothers-in-law, were killed in a terrible hand-to-hand battle Tuesday night by John Strauss, at the little town of Keystone, in West Virginia. The fight was the result of an old feud of ten years standing.
	It seems that the three met on a rough mountain path near town for the purpose of "painting things red", when a quarrel followed.
	The battle lasted for an hour, in which time more than 200 shots were fired. Strauss is now a fugitive, having escaped across the line into Pike county. A large posse is in pursuit.

Owens, virginia C.	surrounded by loved ones on Wednesday July 19, 2023.
	surrounded by loved ones on wednesday July 17, 2025.
	Born on July 09, 1944, the daughter of Lon Gillman Sr., and Bertie (Tony) Domingo.
	We all knew her as Jennie, except when her mom was flustered and called her by all her sisters names. She had a life goal like most girls in the 50's to get married, have a family and take care of her home. She worked until her son Johnny started school and then quit so she could be there when he got home. She opened her house to her nieces who lived nearby and there always seemed to be an extra kid at her house on the weekends. She was a great cook and an even better baker and those same nieces as well as her son learned to cook and bake in her kitchens. She tried to teach us to clean. Beth came along 9 years after Johnny. While Johnny was her buddy, Beth became her companion. Beth didn't learn to cook till later in life but she learned how to dress and how to decorate and do crafts, especially crochet from her mom. Jennie loved her children equally but differently. Later in life she attended EKU for 2 years and enjoyed enriching her mind and had a special love of Sociology.
	omioning her mind and had a special love of Boelology.
	On any given holiday or birthday it was a time to come together as family. Food, board games and long discussions (Jennie's mom called them arguments) were what we did and her home was always holiday central. One of her nephews has never spent Christmas Eve at his own house-he was always at Jennie's.

	Jennie was married to John Owens Sr. for 33 years until they went their separate ways but when all was said and done they stayed friends. John passed away on April 15th of this year and Jennie's heart was broken.
	Jennie asked her family to get together to celebrate her life, which is what we will be doing at a later date. The family will be scattering some of her ashes in Middletown, OH where she lived for much of her childhood and Kenosha, WI where she met John and spent half of Johnny's childhood. The remainder will be buried in the Winchester, KY Cemetery with her loved ones. If you would like to send a card or note to Johnny and Beth, send them to 121 Kittison Dr. Winchester KY 40391.

Owsley, Robert	Saloonkeeper Killed
	Maysville, Ky., Oct. 13 George Bentz, aged 24, a shoemaker, walked into Robert Owsley's saloon at Maysville, this county, and asked for a drink. Owsley told him to produce the money first. Bentz pulled his revolver and fired twice, both shots taking effect in the head. Owsley died about two hours afterward. Bentz came here and gave himself up to Policeman Tolie, who turned him over to Sheriff James Robertson. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Oct. 17, 1902 Pursued By Mobs. Two Alleged Murderers Taken to Covington For Safe Keeping. Covington, Ky., Nov. 20.—After being pursued by mobs in two counties, two men, charged with murder, were locked up in the Covington jail Wednesday morning. They are Alvin Burgess, of near Flemingsburg, Fleming county, Ky., and George Bentz, of Mays Lick, Mason county, Ky. They were taken to Covington jail in the early morning. Bentz and Burgess were first placed in the jail at Brooksville, and it was there that the authorities first received word that the mobs had been formed and were approaching the place. Sheriff Robinson of Mason county, had just time to take them away when the company of those who were after the men arrived. The two prisoners were taken by a devious route toward Brooksville, where it was intended to keep them. But the mob arrived there first. While on the way the sheriff received a warning and he turned back with his prisoners to Wellsburg, much to the disappointment of the mob, which thought that it had the men surely in its hands. The mob had taken a cross country route and arrived in Brooksville in time to be lined up before the jail ready for the sheriff. The latter, however, put his prisoners onboard a freight train and soon had his men in Covington. They were locked in separate cells. Burgess was morose when locked up. He said that he had no statement to make. The crime with which he is charged is the killing of a 16-year-old boy named Walter Peck last Sunday. It appears that the boy was going to a church a little distance from where Burgess worked and that a fence was being built near there also. Peck offered to help build the fence and, in some way, became involved in an altercation with Burgess, who shot him. Bentz had a duel with a saloonkeeper, Robert Owsley, at Mays Lick. The latter fired at him twice, but missed, while Bentz's bullet went true. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, November 26, 1902
