Quarter House Battle	A Desperate Battle. Mountaineers and Officers Fight, Six Killed and Six Wounded. It is thought That Several of Turner’s Men Perished in the Burning “Quarter House”— More Trouble Is Expected. Middlesboro, Ky., Feb. 13.—Six are dead and as many more are dying as the result of a battle between officers from Middlesboro and mountaineers. The battle, which was one of the most desperate things of its kind in the history of mountain warfare, occurred between 4 and 6 o’clock Wednesday evening at Lee Turner’s “Quarter House” saloon, three and a half miles from Middlesboro. Last month some mules and other goods of Turner’s were levied on payment for a debt and a few night ago, it is alleged, he with others went to Virginia where the property had been taken, secured what was formerly his and returned to the “Quarter House.” Wednesday Deputy Sheriff Wat Thompson summoned a posse of ten or fifteen men for the purpose of arresting Turner at his “Quarter House” saloon Turner had heard that an attempt would be made to arrest him and he and his men, 15 in number, gave the officers a warm reception. The saloon is well suited for an attack like this. It is built of huge logs and is surrounded by a 30 foot fence in which loop holes are cut so that the inmates can shoot outsiders. Turner’s surrender was demanded. His reply was a round of shots. Charley Cecil, of Middlesboro, was riding a palfrey in plain view of the Turner men. Some one raised a window of the log house and shot Cecil, who fell dead. Instantly the man at the window fell back pierced by half a dozen bullets. Then the firing began in earnest. The officers scattered and hiding behind trees and roots poured a galling fire into the mountain fortress. In the fight John Doyle, a former railroad man was badly wounded, perhaps fatally, and Simon Bean, another ex-railroader was shot in the hand. The town men gathered closer around Turner’s place, undaunted at the shots which whizzed around them. As soon as Cecil was killed his companions determined to burn Turner’s rendezvous, and in the midst of the battle a man applied a torch to an exposed side of the building. A few minutes later the building was in flames. Several of the mountaineers came to the window and were immediately shot down. Lee Turner and several of his friends in some manner escaped and he is now at Mingo mines, eight miles from Middlesboro. Several of his men perished in the flames. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 18, 1902 Middlesboro, Ky., Feb. 14.—It was reported on the streets Thursday night that Lee Turner, proprietor of the burned “Quarter House,” who escaped from the palisades with his brother “General” during the battle Wednesday afternoon, has been all day scouring the mountains for the purpose of gathering around him enough men to come against the Middlesboro fellows who burned his fort and killed his staunchest supporters. The Middlesboro men are greatly alarmed and have mustered into service all who are available. The band that went after Turner Wednesday have remained together all day. Wednesday night ten coal miners from Excelsior went to Mingo mines, where Turner is staying, and offered him their services. Mrs. Turner, Lee’s wife, who lives here was seen Thursday night by a press correspondent and asked for an opinion on the situation. She said that she had not heard from her husband since the battle occurred, excepting once, when he telephoned her that he was safe, but she would give an authentic that Turner will remain in the mountains and will rebuild his place. She also said that Turner was a man who did not know what defeat is, and if it were necessary he will put a standing army of 500 mountaineers in his fort. The precise number of dead as a result of the battle at Lee Turner’s “Quarter House” saloon Wednesday at sunset is now believed to be five, although there are still reports that ten men were killed. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 18, 1902 Life Term For Elisha Hoskins Pineville, Ky., Oct. 23 Elisha Hoskins was Wednesday sentenced to imprisonment for life for alleged participation in the murder of Charles Cecil in the “Quarter House” battle on the Kentucky-Tennessee line. The Winchester Sentinel, Wed., Oct. 29, 1902 Charles Powers Gets Life Sentence Pineville, Ky., Oct. 24 Charles Powers, indicted for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Doland in the “Quarter House” battle, asked to see the judge and pleaded guilty, throwing himself on the mercy of the court. A jury was called and he was given a life sentence. The Winchester Sentinel, Wed., Oct. 29, 1902

Quinn, W. P.	W. P. Quinn, recently a shoemaker of this city is reported to have died in Cincinnati this week. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 14, 1891. Last October a man committed suicide in the Cincinnati Workhouse to which he had been committed to serve out a fine for drunkenness. He was identified as W. P. Quinn, a well-known shoemaker of this city. The people with whom he boarded were positive the dead man was W. P. Quinn, and so the coroner's jury declared, and under this name he was buried. Mr. Quinn had never heard of the affair and when in the city last week, he was very much astonished to find that he had been dead and buried several months. The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 3-9-1892

Quisenberry, A. C.	Letter From Q. Hyattsville, Md., Sept. 16, 1905 Messrs. Perry & Beckner: Dear Friends:--In this week's Sun-Sentinel, you re-publish from Collins, Ky., a list of names of 6 or 8 Revolutionary soldiers who were living in Clark county in 1840, and ask that the names of others be sent you by those who know of them. In the Winchester Sun of Jan. 31, 1895, (Bosley & Hampton, editors), I published a list of 89 Revolutionary soldiers who either lived in Clark county, or have descendants living there now. If you have files of The Sun you can easily find this list.

	In 1896 the Ky. Society of the Sons of the American Revolution published (Jno. P. Morton & Co., Louisville) a Year Book 286 pages, the greater part of which was compiled by me from original sources in Washington, which contained a roll of the Officers of the Virginia Line who received land bounties; a Roll of the Revolutionary Pensioners in Kentucky, a list of "the Illinois Regiment" who served under Geo. Rogers Clark in the Northwest Campaign, and a Roster of the Virginia Navy in the Revolution. In each of these rolls or rosters are the names of men who afterwards settled in Clark county, but they are not "divided off" in the lists so as to show in what counties of Kentucky they settled, except in the "Roll of Pensioners," which shows that, first and last, 59 men lived in Clark county, who received pensions as Revolutionary soldiers. The list gives in each case the date on which the pension was granted, its amount, the age of the pensioner on that date, and the name of the State from which he served. As no Revolutionary pensions were granted until 1818, and then only to a very limited class and as the first "service" pensions were not granted until 1832—or about 50 years after the close of the war, you will see that there must have been a grant many Revolutionary soldiers who lived in Clark county, and died there, without ever getting on the pension rolls. "Joel Hickman, private of the Virginia Line, pensioned ($80 a year) on May 7, 1833, at the age of 73," is on the list. So also, is Stephen Holliday—another one of the junior editor's kinsmen— and several of the others may be his kindred also. If I had a spare copy of the Year Book I would gladly send it to you. But if you want a copy (and it is well worth having, if I do say so myself), I think John P. Morton & Co. sell them at $2. Anderson county had 18 Revolutionary pensioners, John Penny (which may be a misprint for Perry), among them, admitted Nov. 28, 1832, age 75—Va. State Troops. Benjamin Perry, of Henry county., and John Perry, of Pulaski county, are also on this list. I am laid up with the grip and can hardly write. "May the Lord be with you till we meet again." Yours faithfully, A. C. Quisenberry. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 21, 1905 Our War Stories. We complete this week the story of the Battle of Winchester by Mr. A. C. Quisenberry. We have before us the manuscript of a story which shows that there was another battle in the city and suburbs in 1863 a year later. It is written by one who was a participant on the confederate side. It will appear in a later issue. There was an engagement on Stony Creek in this county that an eye witness will describe. It is not probable that these articles will appear until after the first of the year. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, December 14, 1905

Quisenberry, Elizabeth Ann Pergram	Elizabeth Ann Pergram Quisenberry, 83, died peacefully at her home in Mt. Sterling, KY on January 21, 2022. She was born August 20, 1938 in Clark County, KY, the daughter of the late John and Nell Miller and Cecil Pergram. Ann is preceded in death by her husband Roger Manuel; two sons, Roger Michael and Jerry Ray Quisenberry; siblings Kenneth Pergram, Peggy Grant and Fred Pergram. She leaves behind four daughters; Peggy Quisenberry, Karen (Larry) Burton, Vicki Quisenberry and Sandy (Larry) Black; siblings Cecil "Pete" (Bonnie) Pergram, Danny (Harriett) Pergram, David (Brenda) Miller; 8 Grandchildren, 18 Great Grandchildren and 4 Great Great Grandchildren; A host of nieces and nephews that she loved dearly. She also had two grand dogs, Lexi and Bella. Ann retired from BellSouth Telephone Company. She was a fabulous cook and always prepared to feed anyone that visited. She enjoyed working in her flower gardens and feeding the wild birds. She could do just about anything from building a house to making the curtains to go in it. Her most fabulous trait, however, was being a wonderful mother and grandmother. There is no doubt her grandchildren got their first taste of Ale 8 when they were spending time with her. She had a giving spirit, as her door was always open to anyone that needed a loving home. She will always be remembered for her witty personality that she had up until the day before she gained her wings. January 24, 2022, the day Ann's family will bury her, would have been Ann and her late husband's 68th wedding anniversary. There is no doubt that they are celebrating in heaven together after so many years apart Funeral services are being handled by Scobee Funeral Home in Winchester, KY and will be held Monday, January 24, 2022 at the Leon Pace Chapel. The visitation will be held 11am to 1pm with the funeral services immediately following. A dear family friend, Bill Shumate will be speaking during the service. The burial of Ann along with her son Jerry's ashes will be in the Winchester Cemetery following the funeral service. Rick Erwin will lead in prayer. Pallbearers will be; Gunner Brock, Carter Maynard, Larry Burton, Larry Black, Colby Tharpe, Roger Richardson, James Maynard and Jason Epperson. Quisenberry, Fielding B.	Big Land Suit Judge B. F. Day, of Mt. Sterling, Judge J. C. Lykins, of Campton, and T. T. Cope of Jackson, have been here this week taking depositions in the case of Chenault vs. Quisenberry's heirs which has been pending in the Wolfe Circuit Court for several years. In 1828 Enoch Elkin and Lewis Grigsby bought ten thousand acres of land lying principally in what is now Wolfe and Powell counties. In those days the timber was but little valued and the mineral wealth of the mountains was thought of. The principal value of this wild land was for the mast, or nuts of various kinds. Each year large droves of hogs were taken there and turned out in the woods to fatten on this "mast". About twenty years later, the late Fielding Quisenberry bought out most of the heirs and early in the fifties sold a considerable part of this land. The purchaser refused to pay for it on the ground that Quisenberry's title was not good. The suit was fought with much vigor through the lower courts and was finally taken to the Court of Appeals which decided that Quisenberry could give a good title. About twenty years ago Wm. Chenault, of Montgomery county and Joel Chenault, of Powell county, laid claim to this land, now reduced to about eighteen hundred acres, and the present suit is the result of these rival claims. It has been dragging along in the courts for years and has never come to trial. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 20, 1894. THE Chenault-Quisenberry land suit, which has attracted considerable attention, was decided last week at Campton in favor of the Quisenberry heirs. In 1838 Lewis Grigsby, Zeke and Enoch Elkin patented 10,100 acres of land in what is now Wolfe and Powell counties at various times, beginning half a century ago. The late Fielding Quisenberry bought 6,200 acres of this land, and early in the fifties sold half of it to John D. Spencer. Spencer refused to pay for it on the ground that Quisenberry's title was not good. A long suit followed, which went to the Court of Appeals, and was finally decided in Quisenberry's favor. In 1874 G. W. and E. C. Chenault got out a patent on this land, which was covered with valuable timber, most of which is now gone. The present case has been on hand for some time, and the decision of the court recently again asserts the rights of the Quisenberry heirs to this land, now reduced to about 1,700 acres. They secured a judgement against the Chenaults for something over $ 1,400. An injunction with a bond of $ 2,100, given by them, still remains unsettled. The parties are related, the mother of the Chenaults having been a Quisenberry. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 12, 1894. For a number of years a suit has been in progress in the Wolfe Circuit Court between the heirs of Fielding B. Quisenberry, of this county, and Messrs. Chenault, of Montgomery county, involving the ownership of a large lot of land in Wolfe and Powell counties. The Quisenberry' won in the lower court but last week it was reversed on a technicality by the Court of Appeals and will be tried again on it's merits. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday December 28, 1897 Lower Court Reversed The Court of Appeals Monday, by Judge Paynter, reversed the decision of the lower court in the case of Chenault, etc., vs. Quisenberry, etc., appealed from the Wolfe Circuit Court. The action was brought about ten years ago by the heirs of the late Fielding B. Quisenberry, of this county, of which Mr. C. C. Quisenberry, of this city, is one, and involves a large body of land in Wolfe county. This was the third appeal in the same case from the lower court. At the last trial the plaintiffs secured a verdict for $2,000 damages, which the higher court holds to be excessive and the case is therefore

Quisenberry, James Francis	IN MEMORIAN "Only the dead hearts forsake us never; Love, that to death's loyal care has fled, Is thus consecrated ours forever, And no change can rob us of our dead." James Francis Quisenberry, late junior editor of this paper died of typhoid pneumonia on Wednesday, the 4 th day of February 1880, after an illness of three week's duration. He was born in this county on the 23 rd day of February 1855, and consequently lacked nineteen days of completing his twenty-fifth year. During his last illness he was assiduously and unremittingly attended by physicians and friends who lovingly did all for him that human power could do, but the disease was deeply seated, and successfully resisted every effort to abate it. Throughout all his illness and suffering he was patient and resigned. Whatever pains he may have suffered and they must have been many, he made no sign, but he endured them with that uncomplaining fortitude which had ever been a characteristic of his life and he approached the dread hour of desolation as peacefully and as quietly as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams. He died like an infant sinking to sleep. Francis was educated at Georgetown College, Ky., and was perhaps more thoroughly informed and had achieved a wider and more general course of reading than any young man of his age in Kentucky. But he was modest, reticent and retiring and lived pretty much within himself. It required a very intimate friendship to draw out his brilliance and his accomplishments. He was full of promise and had within him the germs of true greatness, but he did not seek to be seen or known of men. He preferred rather to direct his course "far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife," and sought and found his chiefest pleasures among the cool shades of the forestry and amid the universal beauties of nature. He had a rare literary gift, being a poet of no mean pretensions. He published a poem in the Christmas number of the Louisville Argus which received the hearty encomiums of competent critics. As a prose writer he was terse, forcible and brilliant. His ideas were always fresh, crisp and sparkling, and were expressed in pleasing, striking language. He became connected with the Sun on the first day of last January and would have made its columns a power had he lived. But, alas for human expectations within a week after he mounted the tripod the Death Angel brushed him with her wing and soothed him speedily into the sleep that known no waking. We will not pretend to deny that Francis had faults, for he had many, but they were the faults to which the brave, the noble and the generous are mostly addicted. He was high principled and impetuous. His honor was of the true, chivalric order. His high strung soul could not look upon an act of injustice with the least degree of allowances. He was brave as a lion, yet gentle as a little child, and always championed the cause of the weak and the opportunist. We have known him throughout life as a brother and a friend, and feel that a sudden or more blighting affliction than his death could hardly have befallen his family. We all know him for what he was worth and he was our favorite and the object of our tenderest solicitude. His death leaves us all bereft of one whose like we shall not look upon again, and whose untimely death we shall mourn with ever freshening grief as long as the grass grows, the water runs and the blue sky canopies the earth. We will cherish his memory while life endures and take comfort with the blessed thought that "no change can rob us of our dead." Francis lived a moralist and died a philosopher and we can not close this last tribute to his memory without adding a quotation which he fervently admired. "Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word, but in the night of death hope sees the glimmering of a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing." Brave, noble, generous heart, hail, and farewell, Thou hast passed beyond the heights, Rest thee and abide thee. Thou art better now! The Semi-Weekly Sun, Tue., 2-10-1880

Quisenberry, Mrs. Elizabeth	Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Quisenberry. Mrs. Elizabeth Gibbs Quisenberry died at her home on Boone Avenue Wednesday morning, aged eighty-six years. Her death was quite sudden and is attributable to some affection of the brain. The funeral was preached yesterday morning at her late residence by Elder W. F. Neal and the remains were interred in the family graveyard near Pilot View. For more than sixty years she had been a consistent member of the Bethlehem Christian Church. She was the daughter of the late John Gibbs; and in early womanhood married James Quisenberry, who died in 1862. She leaves five daughters, Mrs. N. T. Bush, Mrs. Talitha Grigsby, Mrs. Elia Parrish, of this city; Mrs. Geo. Foy, of Hedges, and Mrs. Grant Berry, of Lexington. Quisenberry, Mrs. Emily Cameron Chenault	Deaths Mrs. Emily Chenault Quisenberry died at her home on the Boonesboro pike Monday night after a protracted illness. She was about 73 years of age. The funeral took place at the Baptist church yesterday morning and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. Services by Rev. Richard French. The deceased was a daughter of the late Anderson T. Chenault, of Madison county, and the widow of the late James F. Quisenberry, of this county. She was a faithful member of the Baptist church and in all the relations of life a good, true woman. Two sons Waller Quisenberry, of this county, A. C. Quisenberry, of Washington City, and a daughter, Mrs. Alice Hinkle, of McKenzie, Tenn., survive, and were at the bedside of their mother during her last

	illness. The Sun-Sentinel, Thur., July 14, 1904 In Memorial. Mrs. Emily Cameron Chenault Quisenberry, who died July 12, 1904, at her home near this city, where she had lived for more than fifty years, was born in Madison county, Ky., Feb. 15, 1832, on the old plantation which her grandfather, William Chenault, bought in 1785 from George Boone, the brother of Daniel Boone. She was the daughter of Anderson Chenault and Emily Cameron, his wife; and Emily Cameron was the daughter of Robert Cameron of Pennsylvania, who was the son of Robert Cameron, of Inverness, Scotland, who fought with the Young Pretender, Charles Edward Stuart, at the battle of Culloden, in 1745, after which he fled to America, and settled first in Connecticut. Anderson Chenault, though of the third generation of his name born in America, was of pure French blood. His father, William Chenault, was born near Monakin-Town, Virginia, in 1749, served in the Revolutionary War in the 5th Virginia regiment of the Continental line; fought at Germantown, Stillwater and Saratoga; and spent that terrible winter of 1777-78 in the historic camp at Valley Forge. He was the grandson of Estenne Chenault who, in the year 1700, came on the ship "Nasseau" with some two hundred families of French Huguenots and settled at Monakin-Town, Va., where their descendants intermarried with each other for two or three generations, and kept their church and town records in the French language. The subject of this sketch was left motherless when but four years old; on Oct. 15, 1846, she was married to James Francis Quisenberry, of this county, son of Colby B. Quisenberry and Lucy Bush, his wife; and grandson of Rev. James Quisenberry, who came from Orange county, Va., and settled in this county in 1788, being among the earlier settlers of Kentucky, as his ancestors had been in Virginia, where the first Quisenberry, coming from County Kent, England, had settled in 1624. Mrs. Quisenberry survived her husband for more than 27 years. She bore him four children:--Mrs. Alice Hinkle, of McKenzie, Tenn.; Anderson C. Quisenberry, of the War Department, Washington, D. C., who lives in Hyattsville, Md.; Waller Quisenberry, of this county; and James Francis Quisenberry, Jr., who died in 1880. Of numerous brothers and sisters she is survived by two:--Mrs. Mary Burgin, of Madison county, and Hon. A. T. Chenault, who has represented that county in the Legislature a number of times. Her brother, Dr. William J. Chenault, died in Port Lavacoa, Texas, while serving with the 1st Kentucky Cavalry in the Mexican War; another brother Colonel D. Waller Chenault, of the 11th Kentucky Confederate Cavalry, was killed at the head of his regiment in the charge at Green River Bridge, in the early days of General John H. Morgan's famous "Ohio Raid;" and still another brother, Dr. Robert Cameron Chenault, was for many years the medical Superintendent of the Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum, at Lexington. Personally Mrs. Quisenberry was of a deeply and sincerely religious nature, as well as of lovely character and disposition. That she should possess a high sense of honor and the finest traits of lofty character was but the inevitable result of the instincts grounded into her ancestry through centuries of right living. As a neighbor she was unexcelled; and she spent herself unceasingly and unsparingly for her friends. When, a few months ago, she was stricken with that dread disease, lympho-sarcoma, from whose ravages there is no release but death, the estimation in which she was held was freely testified to by the solicitude of her friends, who came every day in hosts from all over the county, with flowers to brighten her room, and gracious words of comfort to cheer her. Day after day her spacious yard was filled with the carriages of her friends who came to tenderly inquire about her; and she insisted to the last in personally seeing all who came. One son and his family were with her constantly, ministering to her needs; and her absent children hastened from far distant States, with loving but bleeding hearts, to be with her at the end, and to receive as the last and best of her innumerable sweet and gracious gifts, her dying benediction. Her patience, resignation, and cheerfulness under affliction were remarkable. Knowing that death was inevitable she met the grim reaper bravely; and almost until her last breath her thoughts continued—as they had all through her life—to be constantly for the comfort and happiness of others. Her mind was unclouded to the end; and she was cheered by the thought that soon she was to meet again in the Higher Life all the loved ones gone before. At the very last she passed gently and quietly away from the Night of Death to the Morning of Life. "And with that morn those angel faces smile Which she had loved long since, but lost awhile." The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 8, 1904

Quisenberry, Mrs. Maud	Mrs. Maud Quisenberry Wife of Mr. Henry L. Quisenberry dies at her home in the county Tuesday morning One of the saddest duties that has devolved upon us for some time is to chronicle the death of Mrs. Henry L. Quisenberry, which occurred at her home near Schollsville, this county, about eight o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Quisenberry and his eldest son, Fleming, had gone from home for a few hours on a matter of business, and it was during their absence that Mrs. Quisenberry was discovered lying on the floor in her room, her life's blood flowing from a ghastly wound in her throat. She lingered only a short time after being discovered and never regained consciousness. Her parents resided with her and only a few moments before her mother had been assisting her in some household duties. She had long been a sufferer from nervous disorders and her overwrought and delicate organization could no longer withstand the ravages of the exhausting and depressing strain that preyed upon her vitality and which finally culminated in the sad ending that brought sorrow and grief unutterable to her family and innumerable friends.

	Words fail to portray just tribute to this lovely woman whose life and character were as the sunshine that illumines the household, but, alas! Almost as suddenly as the falling of an autumn leaf the sunlight was extinguished leaving an aching void in the hearts of the devoted husband and family, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes out in their irreparable loss. Mrs. Quisenberry was a devoted member of the Christian church, and was the only child of Col. and Mrs. Al. Duckworth, by whom she is survived together with her husband and two sons, Fleming and John. Funeral services were held at the family residence at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon conducted by Elds. J.W. McGarvey, of Lexington, and W. Morrow, and the interment was in the Winchester cemetery. The pall bearers were H.P. Thomson, E.Y. Nelson, R.P. Taylor, D.J. Prewitt, W.D. Judy, R.M. Eubank, E.S. Cunningham and C.R. Prewitt. Quisenberry, Ormie	Death of James Hodgkin, Sr. James Hodgkin, Sr., died at his home on South Main Street, Tuesday afternoon after a long illness. He was born in this county in 1820 and consequently was in his seventy-fifth year. His first wife was Miss Ormie Quisenberry, daughter of Tandy Quisenberry. After her death he married Mrs. Rachel Gillespie, daughter of Fielding Bush. The latter died several years ago. He leaves eight children, Samuel J., Tandy Q., and Philip, the result of his first marriage, and John M., F. Bush, William and Rachel Hodgkin, and Mrs. Joe R. Martin, by his last wife. Mr. Hodgkin was an earnest, devoted Christian, and for half a century, perhaps, had been a consistent member of the Christian church, much of the time as an officer of Providence Christian church and afterwards of Forest Grove church. He was a man of practical benevolence, and perhaps no man who has lived here for a long time has done more to help poor and deserving young men to prepare for useful lives. Quiet and unostentatious, he was one of the most trusted and influential men in his church and community. He was a fine financier and for many years was Vice President of the Clark County National Bank. All in all, he was one of our best citizens and his death is a loss to the whole community. The funeral will be held at the family residence this afternoon, the services being conducted by Eld. I. B. Grubbs and the remains will be interred in the cemetery. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 19, 1895.

Quisenberry, Roland		Fatal Accident At a late hour Sunday afternoon, Coley Mahone and Roland Quisenberry got on the bumpers of a freight train here in order to get a free ride to Mt. Sterling. At Thomson, a negro attempted to do the same thing and Quisenberry leaned over to see if he succeeded. In doing so he lost his balance and fell from the car, the train passing over both legs near the ankles. He was taken into the depot and physicians summoned who amputated the legs in hopes of saving his life. The shock was too great, however, and he died at an early hour Monday morning. Coroner Wills impanelled the following jury who brought in a verdict in accordance with the above facts: W. T. Duckworth, J. D. Manly, C. F. Garrison, C. D. Yearly, H. Frazier and J. Bramble. He was about twenty-five years of age and unmarried. He was a son of William Quisenberry, formerly of this county, and was a half brother of Roger Quisenberry, late candidate for Assessor. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., April 16, 1901

Quisenberry, Sam		AN UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE – Hugh Embry shoots Sam Quisenberry Killing Him Instantly. On last Tuesday afternoon a difficulty occurred near Beckersville in which Sam Quisenberry was shot and killed by Hugh Embry. From the evidence it suggests that the cause of the difficulty was some remarks made a year or more ago by the deceased to Mr. Embry concerning a young lady and which he felt to be his duty to repeat to his uncle, Perry Browning, as the young lady implicated was a near relative of the latter's family. Of late the matter had been revived and the deceased had expressed much anger concerning it. Several of the witnesses testified that the deceased had said that either he or the one who had repeated these reports must die. Mr. Embry being informed of these threats, armed himself, and both parties living in the same neighborhood a difficulty was almost inevitable. On the day in question the deceased, accompanied by his father, Rhodes Quisenberry, and brother, Robert, came near the field where Embry was plowing and called to him. They met at a spring between their respective positions and a few pleasant words at first passed between the principals, but the subject at issue was soon introduced, the "d-d lie" passed and Quisenberry advanced with uplifted cane, when Embry drew a pistol and fired, the bullet striking him in the stomach, inflicting a wound from which he died in a few minutes. Embry came to town and gave himself up to the Sheriff in whose custody he remained until Saturday when he was tried before Squire Bloom and acquitted. The decision met with almost universal approval. Each of the parties were about 25 years old and unmarried. The deceased was a member of one of the oldest and largest families in the county and was generally liked. Mr. Embry is a grandson of Ed Browning, Sr., a family whose members are among our very best citizens. He is a very quiet, hard working young man and one who is universally esteemed. He greatly regrets the circumstances that led to the unfortunate affair and doubtless believed his life to be in immediate danger. In justice to Messers Rhodes and Robert Quisenberry, it must be said that they took no part in the affray and claim that they did not believe a serious difficulty was imminent. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 2, 1890.

Quisenberry, Tandy		DEAD BY HIS OWN HAND Tandy Quisenberry, a Veteran of the Mexican War, blows his Brains Out with a Shot Gun. Tandy Quisenberry committed suicide Monday afternoon by shooting his brains out with a shotgun. He was quite an old man, and his mind had been unbalanced for many years. He was a soldier in the Mexican war and for a long time lived the life of a hermit in the far West. His brother persuaded him to return home and built for him a cabin on some land owned by the deceased near this city. There he has lived alone for a third of a century. He would rarely speak to anyone without being addressed, and seemed averse to society of any kind. He has had at all times money in the bank, but refused to

	invest or loan it. His health has been failing for some time and a short time ago he fell while in this city. He was carried to Waller Quisenberry's, where he has since been. It is reported that a short time since he offered some one $ 1,500 to kill him, but no one thought he contemplated the rash act. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 5, 1892.

Quisenberry, Tandy J. Sr.	In the death of T. J. Quisenberry, Sr., which occurred last Saturday, the county lost one of its best and most substantial citizens. He had been an active man in all good works in his section, and was held in high esteem throughout the county. His funeral was preached at his residence Sunday afternoon by Elder T. C. Stackhouse, and the great crowd assembled testified to the general respect for his character. Mr. Quisenberry was about fifty-nine years old, and the son of Joel Quisenberry, whose father, James Quisenberry, was one of the earliest preachers in Kentucky, and the founder of the family in this region.
