Rader, John B.	The Winchester Sun Sat., 12-1-2001
Rader, John E.	Shooting at Jackson Dr. J. E. Radar, who has figured quite prominently in several shooting scrapes, was shot and killed at the house of Catherine McQuinn, four miles from Jackson Wednesday night. Mrs. McQuinn went to town and surrendered herself saying she did the shooting. Her statement is not believed as it is thought that Dr Rader was shot by Tim Smith, a paramour of the woman, who confessed the crime in order to save her lover. The officers found Radar dead in bed in his night clothes having been shot twice just below the fifth rib. Dr. Radar shot and wounded John Hurst of Lexington, about eighteen months ago, but was pardoned by Gov. Brown after serving a few months of his sentence. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 8, 1895. TOM SMITH and Mrs. Catherine McQuinn were held over at Jackson for the murder of Dr. Rader. The woman's husband was placed in the lunatic asylum some time ago and since then Smith has been living with her. She testified that while Smith was in a drunken stupor, Dr. Radar, made improper proposals to her and tried to assault her and she shot him. The circumstances do not bear out her statement, as the bed clothes had two bullet holes through them and the bed was soaked with blood, and the belief is the woman is trying to shield Smith. The latter was one of the French leaders in the Perry county war, and while in jail here made night hideous with his howls. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 15, 1895. THE attention of the Breathitt Circuit Court has been occupied during the past week with the trial of Tom Smith for the murder of Dr. J. E. Rader in January last. The cause of the murder leads back for many years. John Hurst killed a brother of Dr. Rader over a disputed line fence. Hurst was sent to the pen for seventeen years but was pardoned after serving three or four years. Dr. Rader had threatened to revenge the murder of his brother, and fearing this vengeance Hurst moved to Lexington and opened a grocery there. About dark one evening Hurst was sitting in the door of his grocery and was shot five times by a person hidden behind some object. He recovered and said he recognized Rader. The latter was tried and sent to the penitentiary for two years, but was pardoned and went to Breathitt to practice his profession. In January he was summoned to the residence of Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, a few miles from Jackson. It is said the evidence adduced showed that he had been enticed to this place where he was killed by Smith. It is thought the friends of Hurst had it done. Mrs. McQuinn claimed that Rader made indecent proposals to her and she shot him in consequence, but the jury evidently did not believe it as they were out but a very short time and brought in a verdict of guilty and death by hanging. Smith was one of the most prominent men on the French side during the French and Eversole war and was confined in jail here for a long time. He used to awake through the night and awake the other prisoners by his howls. It was said at the time that it was caused by the frightful visions of his past misdeeds which came to him in his dreams. His case was filed away along with the other Perry county cases in our Circuit Court, but some of his enemies raised the in-lictment again in Perry county and the case was transferred to Pineville. Smith made no defense and was sentenced to death. The case was reversed by the Court of Appeals and he was set at liberty. He is a bad man and the country would well be rid of such. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 15, 1895. THE juries in the Breathitt Circuit Court are making short work with criminals and hardly a single one has escaped conviction. Saturday Mrs. Catherine McQuinn was tried for the complicity in the murder of Dr. Rader and received a life sentence. When put upon the stand she told a very different story from her testimony at the examining trial. She then swore that Dr. Rader made improper proposals to her and that she shot him. This time she says Tom Smith shot him and then told her if she did not tell the story that she told she would be killed. Smith also told her, so she says, that he belonged to a gang who were sworn to avenge each others wrongs. She mentioned B. F. French, of this city, Jesse Fields, Joe Adkins, and others, all of which were Smith's companions in the Perry county troubles, as belonging to the gang. Smith denies ever having told her anything of the sort and says the woman killed Rader. It is not now believed that the shooting of Hurst had anything to do with Rader's death. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 1, 1895.

JUDGE REDWINE on Tuesday sentenced Thos. Smith to the scaffold for the murder of Dr. Rader. When asked if he had anything to say, he replied that he did not, and never a muscle quivered when the Judge pronounced May 31st as the fatal day. Mrs. McQuinn was equally as cool when Judge Redwine sentenced her to the penitentiary for life for the same cause. Smith is the first man ever sentenced to death in Breathitt county. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 22, 1895.

Tough on the Court of Appeals.
 "Tom Smith must hang" says the Louisville Post, headlining its special from Breathitt telling that Judge Redwine had pronounced sentence of death. A dollar of the daddies to a snifter that he doesn't—that is, of course, if he appeals.—Covington Commonwealth. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 26, 1895.

MRS. McQUINN, who was convicted along with Tom Smith for the murder of Dr. Rader, and who got a life sentence in the penitentiary, has taken an appeal. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 26, 1895.

Not Our Tom.
 SOME telegrams have been sent from her relating to the possibilities of Tom Smith's friends rescuing him from the Jackson jail, and on the strength of these telegrams he is alluded to as "Tom Smith of Winchester." We disclaim any right to Tom Smith or any desire to have him here. He was an inmate of our jail at one time and on account of asthma or a bad conscience his midnight howls were a nuisance to every body in his vicinity. No sir, he is Breathitt county's Tom Smith and the sooner and the deader Breathitt county hangs him the better it will be for all concerned except Tom Smith. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 29, 1895.

A DISPATCH from Lexington to the Louisville Times says: A gentleman from Jackson who arrived here to day says it was reported in Jackson last night that B. F. French, one of the principals in the French-Eversole war sent word to "Bad" Tom Smith's attorneys to take his case to the Court of Appeals, and that all expenses would be paid. Smith is the man under sentence to hang May 31st for the murder of Dr. Rader. The gentleman continued: "The law-abiding citizens of Breathitt are getting very tired of French's methods and the interest he has taken in the case of Smith, a man who ought to be hung on general principles, is not endearing him to our people. We intend to see that the order of the court regarding Smith is carried out, and if French knows what is good for him he will keep his hands off." The above may or may not be true; we agree with the man that said Smith should be hung on general principles, but no one can blame Fult French for trying to help Smith. The latter stood by French at a time when he needed help, and anybody that knows French, , knows that he stands by his friends till the last. We hope and believe Smith will be hung but don't blame French for trying to get him out of trouble. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday April 2, 1895

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 2, 1895. A FEW weeks ago William Combs, of Breathitt county, was brutally murdered by Levi Cope and some of the Thorps. Cope was tried at Jackson last week and was sentenced to be hung. A singular feature of the filling was the fact that the pistol with which Combs was killed was purchased with money earned by a juror as fees while sitting on the Grand Jury which indicted Tom Smith for the murder of Dr. Rader. If the juries of other counties will take a lesson from those of Breathitt county we will hear less of mob law in Kentucky. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 16, 1895.

Will Delay the Execution
 Tom Smith, under sentence to be executed the 31st inst., at Jackson, for the murder of J. E. Rader, has made arrangements to take his case before the Court of Appeals, where he expects to have the finding of the lower court reversed. This step will delay the execution at least sixty days. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 17, 1895

The cases of Tom Smith and Mrs. McQuinn for the murder of Dr. Rader, which resulted in a sentence for life imprisonment for the woman and death for Smith, has been carried to the Court of Appeals and set for hearing June 8th. Notwithstanding Smith's professed readiness to meet his fate, he was found a few days ago actively engaged in trying to escape. He had secured a box of saws and had partly cut the bars of his cell, when a fellow prisoner informed the Jailer who searched his cell and found saws. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 31, 1895

BAD Tom Smith must hang. The Court of Appeals at its sitting Friday rendered a decision in his case affirming the judgment of the lower court, which sentenced him to hang June 4th, but he obtained a stay of execution on account of the pending appeal in the case. The governor will now have to set the day of the hanging and as the murder of Dr. Rader by Smith and his paramour, Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, was particularly cold blooded and atrocious there is not likelihood of executive clemency being extended in his behalf.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 18, 1895.

THE Breathitt county hanging will come to pass Friday the 28th. As stated last week, the Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court which sentenced Tom Smith to hang for the murder of Dr. Rader. His attorneys at once make application for a rehearing which was over ruled, and Gov. BROWN fixed the 28th inst., as the day of execution. The court of Appeals also affirmed the life sentence in the penitentiary given Mrs. Quinn for complicity in the same crime.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 25, 1895.

SHERIFF COMBS of Breathitt county, passed through this city Tuesday with Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, who was on her way to the penitentiary to serve a life sentence for the murder of Dr. Rader for which crime Tom Smith is to be hung to-day. She seemed to be in good spirits and those in a position to know say that she hopes that the confession to be made by Smith will exonerate her so such an extent as to secure a pardon for her. Judge Redwine authorized the jailer to have a guard of fifty picked men all the past week and for several nights a picket line has been thrown around the town to guard against surprise.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 28, 1895.

The Execution of Bad Tom Smith at Jackson.

“WORSE than affairs in Breathitt county,” which a few years ago was the worst that could have been said of any community, can now no longer be truthfully averred of that action. The church, the schoolhouse and the newspaper have done their civilizing work and instead of crime being avenged by the bullet of the bushwhacker or the rope of the lyncher, the stern majesty of the law, without haste, without hate, but terrible in its awful simplicity, enforces the penalty of the ancient law, “Who so sheddeth man’s blood, by man shall his blood be shed.”

An object lesson of the stern majesty of the law, an account of which will take its place among the traditions of the mountains and which will be handed down to future generations, was the execution Friday of Tom Smith at Jackson for the murder of Dr. Rader last February.

The day was beautiful and several thousand persons were present including many women. An excursion was run from Lexington and a number from here went up to see the execution. Those present say it resembled a huge picnic or holiday more than anything else. Several days ago Smith professed conversion and at an early hour he was taken under a strong guard to the river where with manacled hands and feet he was baptized by a couple of Baptist ministers. The scene was a most impressive one and strong men wept. He was taken back to jail and the hours sped on until noon, the time set for the execution. Just before the hour fixed Smith told the sheriff that he had been forgiven for all his other crimes, but was not for the murder of Dr. Rader. He telegraphed to Gov. Brown asking for time but the latter refused to interfere and the execution proceeded. On the Scaffold he made he made a long talk confessing his various crimes interspersed with appeals to God for mercy. K. J. Hampton and John Bosley were there in the interest of the Louisville Post and the following extracts are from their report:

“He and Joe Adkins ambushed Joe Eversole and Mick Combs. Joe Adkins fired the fatal shot and he afterwards shot Combs and Eversole. He then took $30 from Eversole’s pocket. He shot at John McKnight, but as Bob Profit was shooting at the same time, could not tell who killed him.

“I shot and killed Bob Cornet while he was sitting on a log. Jack Combs was with me. “He said he was with B. F. French, Joe Adkins, Jesse Field and Boone Frazer at Field’s house last fall, when they planned the murder of Judge Josiah Combs. He said he was wounded at the time and could not go with them.

“I heard Atkins say afterward that he fired the shot that killed Combs. I also heard French speak of the job.

“After making this statement to the reporters he talked to the crowd and warned the young men of the dangers of whiskey and bad women. He told how in a drunken delirium he had killed Dr. Rader. He said:

“No man paid me to kill Rader. I was drunk and Catherine McQuinn roused me from my sleep and said: “He is fixing to kill you.” I jumped up and fired two shots; one of them killed him.”

The preachers then sang, “Guide Me, Oh Thou Great Jehovah,” in which smith joined as he walked around on the top of the scaffold. After this he knelt under the gallows and prayed most fervently for god to have mercy on him. He arose and another song was sung.

“He then roamed again under the gallows and prayed most pitifully. The black cap was placed on his head and his last words were, “God have mercy upon me.” Sheriff Breck Combs spring the trap.”

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 2, 1895.

The father of Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, who was sent up for life for complicity in the murder of Dr. Rader, of Breathitt county, is trying to get a pardon for her.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 20, 1896

Sheriff Bates and four deputies of Knott county, was here several hours Tuesday en route to Frankfort with a number of prisoners, among them a nephew of “Bad Tom” Smith, who was hung at Jackson for the murder of Dr. Rader. The principal prisoner was Albert Gibson, who was sent up for life for murder.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 23, 1897

	Mrs. McQuinn Pardoned Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 30.—Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, the companion of “Bad Tom” Smith, was pardoned Monday afternoon. Smith murdered Dr. Rader at the house of Mrs. McQuinn, in Breathitt county, three years ago. Smith was hanged and Mrs. McQuinn was given a life sentence on the charge of being accessory to the murder. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 7, 1897 A Breathitt County Case. A case from Breathitt county was tried here this week before Judge Benton. Thomas McQuinn sought to set aside a deed made by his son, Jerry McQuinn, to the latter’s wife, Catherine McQuinn, on the ground of mental incompetency. Judge Benton set aside the deed but evened up matters by giving Mrs. McQuinn a homestead in the property. She is the woman at whose house Dr. Rader was murdered and for which murder “Bad Tom” Smith was hung. In order to shield Smith she said she did the killing, but Smith was hung anyhow. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 7, 1899 Case Reversed. The Court of Appeals reversed the decision of Judge J. M. Benton in a case from Breathitt county. A few years ago Jerry McQuinn, of that county was sent to the Lexington Lunatic Asylum where he died a couple of years ago. His wife, Catherine, then took up with “Bad Tom” Smith, and it was at her house that Dr. Rader was killed for which Smith was hung and she was sent to the penitentiary for life; she was afterward pardoned by Gov. Bradley. Before the husband was sent to the asylum he deeded all his property to his wife, and after Mrs. McQuinn was pardoned out of the penitentiary, C. B. McQuinn, the father of the crazy man, brought suit to have the deed set aside. Able counsel was employed on each side and the case was hotly contested. For some reason Judge Redwine the regular Circuit Judge refused to act and the matter was referred to Judge Benton of this city, who decided in the favor of Mrs. McQuinn. The father appealed and the Court of Appeals reversed this decision and gave the property to the father. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 2, 1901

Rader, Sam	John Hurst, a grocer of Lexington, was shot four times while sitting in his own door Thursday night. It was not known who did the shooting, but it proved to be the sequel to a fight some six years ago in Breathitt county in which Hurst killed a man named Reider. Hurst was sent to the penitentiary and served four years before he was pardoned. John Reider, a brother of the dead man, has often threatened the life of Hurst in revenge, and on being arrested it was proved that he had tried to carry out his threat. Dr. Rader then removed to Jackson and boasted that he would kill Hurst whereupon the latter moved to Lexington. One night while he was sitting in his store door he was shot and nearly killed. He recognized Dr. Rader and the latter was sent to the penitentiary for two years. About two weeks ago Rader was pardoned and since then it is said he has sent Hurst word that he will finish the job. Rader, William Denzil	 William Denzil Rader, 81, born April 18, 1934, in Kenton County, Kentucky, was called home July 18, 2015, from Lexington, Kentucky. Mr. Rader was the son of the late John B. and Beulah Laswell Rader. Mr. Rader is survived by his wife of 46 years, Lorean Abner Rader; three children, Kimberly Rader Flynn (Michael), Tina Rader Overbey (Kevin) and Denzil Dwayne Rader (Tamela); six grandchildren, Kaylie Brooke Plummer, Colby Chase Plummer, Michael Andrew Flynn, Taylor Andrea Rader, Jillian Price Overbey and William Ross Rader; and four brothers and sisters, Eva Barnett (Isaac), Roxie Thomas (Harvey), Dola Rader (Pat) and Bob Rader (Linda). In addition, Mr. Rader is survived by numerous nieces and nephews. Mr. Rader was preceded in death by his parents and one brother, Shirley C. Rader. Mr. Rader was a member and trustee of Landmark Baptist Church, Winchester, Kentucky. Mr. Rader was a retiree of the Square D Company (35 years) and a U.S. Army veteran. Those that knew him recall that he was an avid car enthusiast from his youth until his passing, restoring countless antique vehicles. He was the recipient of many awards for his car restoration efforts and drag racing achievements. Mr. Rader will be forever remembered from his drag racing days for his accomplishments as the owner and member of the "Rebel Rouser" drag racing team. Mr. Rader loved his family, church, traveling and music. He enjoyed life and touched the heart of all those he came in contact with. Visitation will be 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 21, 2015, at Landmark Baptist Church, 1225 Iron Works Road, Winchester, KY 40391. Services will follow at 1 p.m.

	and will be conducted by Pastor Jim Muncie. Burial will be in the Winchester Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Robert Abner, Daniel Abner, Royce Paynter, Rufus Cravens Jr., John Rader and Jack Strickland. Honorary pallbearers include Dr. Joseph Ott and the deacons, trustees and men of Landmark Baptist Church. In lieu of flowers memorial donations can be made to the Landmark Baptist Church. Raferly, Ron "Riff"	Ron (Riff) Raferly passed quietly Saturday, June 22, 2019 of natural causes in the loving company of his wife of 62 years Patti, and their children Kelly and Mike. Ron and Patti recently returned to their longtime home of Winchester KY, where Patti still resides at Brooks Place senior living community. Ron was born and raised in Newark Ohio by Dorothy Raferly and her extended family. Ron graduated from St Francis de Sales High School in Newark in 1956. Ron and Patti Church Raferly, who attended and graduated from Newark High School met during their high school years dating and dancing through the heart of the '50s. They married in July of 1957. Both Ron and Patti worked at the Newark Rockwell International plant until the birth of their daughter Kelly in 1960 when Patti stayed home to raise the family. In November 1964 Patti and Ron had their second child Michael. In 1968, Ron was offered a position of Specifications Engineer at Rockwell's new Winchester KY facility. Ron accepted the challenge and the family relocated to the bluegrass state. The move away from the comfort of lifelong friends and family in Newark was daunting for Ron and Patti, but proved to bear the fruits of a happy family. Ron served on the board at St Agatha Academy where both his children attended and he was also active in activities at St Joseph Catholic church where they recently returned worshipping. Ron's career at Rockwell thrived, and he gained many personal and professional relationships. His innate care for doing the right thing, caring for customers, having fun, and helping his peers succeed made him happy at work. During the mid '70s other career opportunities presented themselves, but they required moves to other states. His commitment to the success of his teenage children and happiness of his wife outweighed the promise of career progression, and he elected to remain in Kentucky. He loved his time and the people at Rockwell in Winchester. While Ron continued at Rockwell, Patti thrived in many activities including Newcomers Club, Winchester Women's Club, St Agatha PTA, and many bridge clubs. "Dad" was always there for his children supporting Kelly's love of art and Mike's sports activities. He never missed an event or a game. Kelly and Mike both graduated high in their classes at a George Rogers Clark HS, 1979 and 1983 respectively. Ron's hard work afforded the family many opportunities to travel the United States on family vacations to places many families of the time did not have the privilege to enjoy. Too many trips to name including Houghton Lake Michigan, Yellowstone, Rocky Mountain National Park, The Tetons, Arches/Zion, the Oregon Coast, Grand Canyon, and of course Buckeye Lake with family in Ohio. Upon Rockwell closing its facility in Winchester in the mid 80's, Ron and Patti were relocated to Rockwell/Meritor's facility in Florence KY along with several of his Winchester co-workers. Their time in Northern KY was equally fulfilling for the empty nesters where they made many new friends. Ron retired from Rockwell/Meritor in 2001 after 44 years of service.

	They enjoyed several years in their Florence home with a beautifully landscaped yard until 2009 when they moved to a lovely townhome in Union with views of rolling hills and a horse farm. Kelly went on to graduate from the University of Kentucky with a BS in Social Service Administration. Kelly and her husband of 33 years, Ron Crisci reside in Winchester, KY. Mike attended UK and went on to graduate from Colorado State University with a BS in Construction Management. Mike and wife of 31 years Elizabeth (Walden) Raftery reside in Dallas, TX and have two children; Austin and Abigail. Austin is a 2018 graduate of the University of Texas, Austin with a BA in Economics. Abigail is a sophomore at the University of Oklahoma with a major in Advertising. Dad/Grampy, Rest easy, you did a great job as husband and father. You will be forever loved, remembered, and sorely missed. Ron will be buried in his childhood home of Newark in the St Joseph Cemetery. A grave side service, open to friends and family will be held Wednesday, June 26, 2019 at 11:00 a.m. Thoughts and well wishes may be forwarded to Patti at: Brooks Place, 200 Rose Mary Drive, Apt. 214, Winchester, KY 40391. The Winchester Sun June 25, 2019

Ragland, Archie	Archie Ragland, aged nineteen years, son of Mart Ragland, committed suicide at his father's home a few miles from this city on the Two Mile road Monday evening. Shortly after supper he called a younger brother and going into the yard drew a pistol and after calling his brother's attention to the weapon, placed it to his heart and fired. He fired two more shots into the air and died in a few minutes. Despondency over a love affair is thought to be the cause. Coroner Alexander summoned a jury consisting of John G. Ragland, Dillard F.	Love led to suicide D.F. Ragland ended his life a week before wedding day Disappointed by lack of money He was a messenger in the Treasury department and was engaged to a young lady in Texas, where his father is a prosperous professional man He had sent for funds, but received a discouraging letter – Died by asphyxiation (Washington Post) (The subject of the following sketch was a son of Colby Q. Ragland, who went from this county to Texas in 1859, The latter is the oldest son of W.H. Ragland, of this county – Ed. Democrat) Dillard F. Ragland, a messenger in the Treasury Department, who was to have led a fair Texas maid to the hymeneal altar this week, is dead. He planned and brought his own death sometime Thursday night. As the time approached for him to go to Atlanta, where the marriage was to have taken place, Ragland found that his reserve fund had been suffering from heavy withdrawals. He possessed but $4, which was not sufficient to meet all the expenses incident to the trip. He had written to his father, a professional man, living in Texas, to come to his aid, but when the hour arrived for Ragland to take his departure the father, it is said, refused to comply with the request for money, and sought to discourage the step. This was more than the young man could bear. Young Ragland was a native of Goliad, Texas, from which place he came to Washington about six months ago to accept the position he was holding at the time of his death. He boarded and had a room at Mrs. Griffith's, 814 I street northwest, and it was there that he killed himself by inhaling gas. Mrs. Griffith's son and J.W. Peebles occupied a room with Ragland. All were in bed by 10 o'clock Thursday night. Ragland and Peebles slept in the same bed. When Mr. Peebles awoke at 7 o'clock Friday morning he saw Ragland was not in the room. His clothing lay upon a chair, just as he had placed them the night before. This aroused suspicion, and a search was made for Ragland. SITTING LIFELESS IN A CORNER In a small room at the end of the hall on the same floor they detected the odor of gas, and when the door was forced open, there was the missing man. The deadly fumes of

	the gas had sent him to eternal sleep. There being no furniture in the room, Ragland was obliged to sit upon the floor, and in one corner of the little room he was found. Clothed only in a night robe, he had courted death. That he had purposely turned on the gas with intent to kill himself was evidenced by the careful manner in which the cracks about the window had been stopped up. There was everything to suggest suicide, and no other theory was entertained. Although soon to realize the happiest moment of his life, Ragland was despondent, and to such an extent that his friends noticed something was wrong with him. It was known that he was to be married, as he talked freely about the approaching event. When his father failed to respond promptly to the request for money, Ragland asked some of his friends to advance him some, but evidently was not successful. Had he been possessed of more patience, and had he postponed his death a day longer, he would have been happy. A telegram from his father, Friday announced that money had been placed to his credit, upon which he could draw. If alive, he would now be speeding toward Atlanta with a heart light and free. The young lady who was to have become Mrs. Ragland is Miss Bessie Gurley, of Dallas, Texas. Her photograph was in the room Ragland occupied. The picture is that of a beautiful girl. Next Wednesday was the day set for the wedding. At about the time the prospective bride should receive word of the coming of her future husband, she is informed of his tragic death. The news was sent to her Friday. An Atlanta society paper was found among the dead man's effects, and in its columns was an announcement of the approaching wedding. Not a note of any kind was left by the suicide, but he may have written a farewell message and placed it in the mail. As soon as the death was discovered the police were notified. Patrolman Simpson took possession of the effects, which consisted of a lot of letters and some clothing. The sum of $4 was all the money found in his pockets. Anderson C. Quisenberry, a cousin, living at 737 Sixth street northeast, was informed of Ragland's death, and had Undertaker Speare remove the remains to his rooms and prepare them for burial. Ragland was twenty-seven years of age, and was of steady habits. He aspired to a better position than the one he held, and it is said his chances were good for promotion. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 16, 1896

Ragland, Thomas	Death Of Thos. Ragland Thos. Ragland died at his home in Bath county yesterday of heart trouble. He had bought the Alfred Martin property on Lexington Avenue this city, and expected to move here next week. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., March 3, 1903 Will Probated The will of the late Thomas Ragland, of the Ragland oil fields, who died suddenly last week, was probated Monday. He left all his property, including that recently purchased in this city, to his wife. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., March 13, 1903 Will To Be Contested Several years ago Thomas Ragland owned a little farm in Bath county considered of little value. Oil was found and the Ragland oil field, now worth millions of dollars, was named for him. He sold his little farm for ten thousand dollars to an oil company, which later disposed of it at an immense profit. He died some years ago and left all his property to his widow, Mrs. Lou Ragland. Mr. and Mrs. Ragland had purchased property in this city and intended to move here, but when Mr. Ragland died, Mrs. Ragland sold the property. She died some weeks ago, and now it is announced that suit will be brought by certain of the heirs to break the will of Mr. Ragland. The estate is valued at fifteen thousand dollars and the heirs are widely distributed, one living at Eustis, Fla., one in New York City, one in Petersburg, Va., and some in Kansas City, Mo. Raines, Less	Resisted A Sheriff. Two Men Are Dead and a Third One Fatally Wounded as a Result of a Lively Battle. Middlesboro, Ky., Feb. 6.—In a general fight which took place near Cumberland Gap, across the state line in Tennessee, two men are dead and another fatally wounded. The dead are Less Raines and Tom Swan (colored). Deputy Sheriff Charley Ball, of Lee county, Virginia, received wounds from which he will probably die. Sheriff Ball had under arrest a man by the name of Gibson and was taking him in custody when the other men attempted to take him from the sheriff. A general fight followed and 20 or more shots were fired, there being several other parties who took part in the battle. The little town, which is near the line of the three states, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, is in a state of excitement. The fight took place in a saloon, the parties involved being drunk. Raines is a distiller and a prominent citizen. Nothing definite can be learned as to who fired the fatal shots and as yet no arrests have been made. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 9, 1900

Rainey, Dillard	TO HANG The Death Penalty Given to Dillard Rainey. The Murder of Aaron Adams to Be Avenged. The Majesty of the Law Vindicated. Not in a spirit of vengeance; no with an outburst of wrath nor with the savage senselessness of mob violence; but with the calm, dignified majesty of the law has the blood of Aaron Adams, which cries from the ground, been avenged, or will be when the sentence of the law is executed. A thrill of horror went through our people when the causeless, cruel murder was committed, and when the news spread Saturday that the death penalty had been awarded the murderer, there was a verdict of assent almost universal, and the only regret was that Matt Rainey, the prisoner's father, did not receive the same sentence. The crime was a most atrocious one, and with no mitigating circumstances. Matt Rainey and James Rainey had differences concerning a piece of land near the mouth of Upper Howard's Creek, and Henry had placed Frank Haggard in possession as a tenant. Rainey hauled the fence from around Haggard's garden fence leaving it open to the stock. Haggard hauled the rails back again and a quarrel on the 13th of last May in which Rainey shot Haggard inflicting a wound that it was thought would prove fatal. Mrs. Haggard saw Aaron Adams passing along the road and asked him to go for a doctor. Adams went after Dr. T. S. Allen, who lived near, and returning with the physician a half an hour later, he was met by Matt Rainey and Dillard Rainey, father and son. Matt was armed with a gun and Dillard with a pistol. The former raised his gun to shoot Adams, but was prevented by Dr. Allan. With an oath he told his son to shoot and the latter did so. As Adams sank down pierced with a number of balls, Matt Rainey savagely tried again to shoot him. Deputy Sheriff Eperson was in the neighborhood and arrested Matt Rainey at once.

Dillard escaped, although the officers once got close enough to shoot at him. He went through the mountains and was finally arrested at Roanoke, Va., under an assumed name. Matt Rainey was tried last fall and got a life sentence. He took an appeal and since has been in jail here. Two or three feeble attempts were made to mob him here last Spring but they lacked leadership. Since he has been in jail he has incurred the ill-will of the officers and fellow prisoners all whom concur in saying he is the meanest man with whom they have ever had dealings.

The trial of Dillard Rainey began last Tuesday, the evidence closed Thursday at noon and was argued until the next morning when it was given to the jury, which brought in a verdict of guilty and fixing the death penalty the next day. When the prisoner heard it he turned deathly pale and seemed almost overcome. He soon recovered and was taken back to jail cursing the jury and vowing that he would never be hung. Neither of the prisoners have ever shown any remorse for the poor widow or the six helpless children.

This will make the second sentence pronounced by Judge Scott, the other being the negro Will Taylor, who was hung for the murder of Squire Doty, a year or two ago. If Rainey is hung it will make the fourth legal hanging in this county, and the first white man to be hung.

Many years ago Jesse Winn, a negro, was hung near where Col. R. N. Winn's residence now stands, for the murder of Wm. Emerson, a white man, who owned him or had him hired.

In August, 1839 a young negro named Knight was hung on Lexington pike near F. H. Dudley's. He belonged to Mr. Morris who lived on Stoner and had committed a rape on a little white girl.

In April, 1841, a negro man, belonging to Daniel Spar, broke into a house and disemboweled his wife. The latter got well, but the negro was hung for housebreaking. The negro woman belonged to Geo. Anderson and her assailant was hung near the far end of C. and O. trestle on the side of Poynterville.

In November, 1850, Thomas Nichols killed his master, Fred B. Nichols, at a rock quarry on the Lexington pike. He was hung about Christmas of the same year. The late Wm. Simpson was Sheriff at the time, and not liking the job of hanging the negro, he employed marsh Lawrence to tie the rope. A year or two later Marsh Lawrence was killed by his brother, Jack Lawrence. The latter fled to Missouri, but was caught, brought back and sentenced to be hung. He was the first white man in the county to receive the death sentence, but was finally pardoned by Gov. Powell.

About seventeen years ago, Ben. Plunkett was lynched, being hung to a tree in the courthouse yard, the charge being an attempt assault on Miss Annie Bell, now Mrs. Bradford. In the fall of 1895 Bob Haggard was hung from the bridge on the Muddy Creek pike for a similar assault on Miss Elkin of near Ford.

No motion has yet been made for a new trial, but this will be done.

Since the death penalty has been given to Dillard, his father says he does not wish a new trial, but is inclined to accept the life sentence given him last fall. The general opinion is that if he should secure a new trial he would also be hung.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 16, 1897.

CIRCUIT COURT

The principal item of interest during the closing days of the term was the sentence of Dillard Rainey Friday morning. In delivering this sentence, Judge Scott was visibly affected and once or twice the emotion almost overcame him. He pointed out the enormity of the crime, showed he had had a fair and impartial trial, that every power of the law had been afforded him to prove his innocence or mitigate his guilt. After exhorting him to prepare for a great hereafter, he sentenced him to be hung this Saturday, May 15th. The attorney's have sixty days in which to bring the matter in front of the Court of Appeals and it will probably be many months before the higher courts act on the case. Judge Scott and Sheriff Hodgkin exercised great care during the trial that there should be no technical grounds for reversal, and those conversant with such matters, say that the higher court will not reverse the decision of the lower court. If this is the case, the governor will set the time for the execution. Matt Rainey has withdrawn his appeal from the life sentence given him and will accept the verdict of the jury.

While Dillard Rainey still asserts that he will not be hung, both father and son have lost most of the defiant manner that have heretofore characterized them, and seem to realize something of the terrible condition in which their crime has placed them.

When brought out to sentence, Dillard was evidently less moved than Judge Scott, and had evidently braced himself for the ordeal. He was deathly pale but did not tremble. When asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of death should not be pronounced, he replied that his attorney's would speak for him, but they said nothing at the time.

Matt Rainey is still in jail here and as his case was taken to the Court of Appeals, Judge Scott has no jurisdiction over him. As soon as the Clerk of the Court of Appeals notifies the officials here that his appeal has been dismissed, Sheriff Hodgkin will take him to Frankfort to begin his term of life imprisonment. Dillard will remain in jail here until the higher court takes action in his case. Some persons think that if the court of appeals affirms the decision of the lower Court, the Governor may commute his death sentence to that of imprisonment for life.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 2, 1897.

CITY, COUNTY, STATE

THE appeal of Dillard Rainey was filed Thursday in the Court of Appeals and was passed for argument.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 16, 1897.

Dillard Rainey is very averse to having his picture taken and when a visitor went to jail a few days ago to see another prisoner, Rainey exclaimed "There's that snap-shot man" and hid behind the stove.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday March 16, 1897

As a grim reminder of a possible duty Sheriff Hodgkin yesterday received a circular from an enterprising Cincinnati firm wanting to furnish the rope with which to hang Rainey. The circular describes in beautiful style the elegant rope, convenient noose already arranged etc.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 7, 1897

Affirmed

Another step has been taken in the tragedy of Dillard Rainey's life which must soon close unless the Governor interferes. His appeal from the sentence of death imposed by our Circuit Court was argued before the Court of Appeals by his attorneys some days ago and after due deliberation the action of the lower court was sustained, and its decision affirmed.

If no other steps should be taken he would be hanged to-morrow week, the day fixed by Judge Scott. This will, however, hardly be done. His attorney will probably make a formal motion for a new hearing before the Court of Appeals. This is scarcely ever granted, but will consume some time. Then the only hope is executive clemency, and Gov. Bradley will be appealed to, first to pardon him and next to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment. He has been abused so much for interfering with the decisions of the courts that he will hardly do this, and general opinion is that Rainey will hang. He does not believe it, however, and is wonderfully optimistic in his views. He believed he would be cleared in the Circuit Court, then he believed the Court of Appeals would reverse the decision of the lower court, and was much cast down when told of its decision. Now he professes to believe that Gov. Bradley will interfere and is confident that he will never hang. He utterly refuses to talk to newspaper men, and will not have his picture taken.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 7, 1897

The Court of Appeals Friday suspended the death mandate in the case of Dillard Rainey for thirty days and gave his attorneys leave to file a petition for rehearing within that time. This will carry the time beyond the date fixed for his death by Judge Scott and the Governor will fix the day for his execution if he is finally hung.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 11, 1897

The following is the opinion of the Court of Appeals in denying the application of Dillard Rainey for a new trial: "Dillard Rainey vs. Commonwealth—Appeal from Clark county.—(Not to be reported.) Decided May 4, 1897. Opinion of the Court by Judge White affirming.

First—The Court of Appeals has no power to reverse a judgement of conviction in a criminal action upon the sole ground that there was not sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict of the jury, being restricted to the single inquiry, whether there was any evidence before the jury to show the guilt of the accused.

Second—To show no malice where R. shot and Killed A. and the father of R. at the time of the killing said to his son, R., "Let him have it," and R. immediately shot and killed A., it is not competent to prove at the trial, on behalf of R., the father's method of controlling his children; that the father was always stern and exacting and always demanded of them implicit and unquestioning obedience, and that his manner was authoritative and that his children obeyed his commands without hesitation, fearing to question his motives.

Third—Where the attorneys for the State and defendant agree that a special judge shall receive the verdict and there is no objection by defendant at the time, it is not prejudicial to the defendant for such special judge to receive the verdict."

A. T. Wood, Hathaway, Cardwell & Hodgkin, Flanagan & Fluty, attorneys for Appellant, and W. S. Taylor for the State.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 14, 1897

Instead of being hung Saturday, as was originally intended, Dillard Rainey broke out thick with measles and went to bed.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 18, 1897

Sheriff Hodgkin received a message late yesterday afternoon stating that the death sentence of Dillard Rainey had been commuted to life imprisonment.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 15, 1897

Rainey's Commutation

Just as we went to press with our last issue news was received that the death sentence of Dillard Rainey had been commuted to life imprisonment. Joseph Simcox, the Governor's official stenographer, arrived that night with the official document.

The commutation was granted upon the recommendation of the Court of Appeals. The Judges said in substance that the jury which tried the case was the judge of the facts and that as everything was regular and no errors were found in the record of the trial that the decision of the lower court must be sustained. At the same time they felt from reading the record that he was under his father's influence and as the latter received only a life sentence the punishment of the son should be no greater.

The fifteen days extension granted by the Court of Appeals for the application of his attorneys for a rehearsing would have expired Friday and while he would not have hung

	on that day, as many believed, he would have eventually been executed as all other remedies save an appeal to the Federal Supreme Court, had been exhausted. It would have been necessary for the Governor to set the time, however. On Wednesday, previous to his removal to Frankfort, he was baptized by Eld. Keene in the baptistery of the First Christian Church, and was afterward taken to Guadinger's restaurant where he was given a supper of strawberries, ice cream and other delicacies. Sheriff Hodgkin, when he carried the news to him that the time would be up in two days and asked if he would be ready. Rainey turned ghastly pale and said he guessed he would be as ready as he would ever be. When Mr. Hodgkin then told him of the commutation he was overjoyed. Those in attendance think he is an utter coward at heart and if he had been hung, think he would have utterly collapsed. Rainey thinks he will get a full pardon in a few years when he says he intends to enter the ministry; as the records show that life termers are usually pardoned before they have served an average of ten years, and as Rainey is still a young man, it seems that he is not without grounds of hope. Mr. Hodgkin took him to Frankfort Tuesday evening. It is not known definitely what disposition will be made of him, but it is thought he will be assigned to work in the shoe shop. His father, Matt Rainey, is said to be one of the most refractory convicts in the penitentiary. At last accounts he was in the dungeon, where he had been put as a punishment for an assault on a fellow prisoner. The latter will recover though he was sent to the hospital on account of his injuries. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 18, 1897

Rainey, Matt	TO HANG The Death Penalty Given to Dillard Rainey. The Murder of Aaron Adams to Be Avenged. The Majesty of the Law Vindicated. Not in a spirit of vengeance; no with an outburst of wrath nor with the savage senselessness of mob violence; but with the calm, dignified majesty of the law has the blood of Aaron Adams, which cries from the ground, been avenged, or will be when the sentence of the law is executed. A thrill of horror went through our people when the causeless, cruel murder was committed, and when the news spread Saturday that the death penalty had been awarded the murderer, there was a verdict of assent almost universal, and the only regret was that Matt Rainey, the prisoner's father, did not receive the same sentence. The crime was a most atrocious one, and with no mitigating circumstances. Matt Rainey and James Rainey had differences concerning a piece of land near the mouth of Upper Howard's Creek, and Henry had placed Frank Haggard in possession as a tenant. Rainey hauled the fence from around Haggard's garden fence leaving it open to the stock. Haggard hauled the rails back again and a quarrel on the 13th of last May in which Rainey shot Haggard inflicting a wound that it was thought would prove fatal.

Mrs. Haggard saw Aaron Adams passing along the road and asked him to go for a doctor. Adams went after Dr. T. S. Allen, who lived near, and returning with the physician a half an hour later, he was met by Matt Rainey and Dillard Rainey, father and son. Matt was armed with a gun and Dillard with a pistol. The former raised his gun to shoot Adams, but was prevented by Dr. Allan. With an oath he told his son to shoot and the latter did so. As Adams sank down pierced with a number of balls, Matt Rainey savagely tried again to shoot him.

Deputy Sheriff Eperson was in the neighborhood and arrested Matt Rainey at once. Dillard escaped, although the officers once got close enough to shoot at him. He went through the mountains and was finally arrested at Roanoke, Va., under an assumed name. Matt Rainey was tried last fall and got a life sentence. He took an appeal and since has been in jail here. Two or three feeble attempts were made to mob him here last Spring but they lacked leadership. Since he has been in jail he has incurred the ill-will of the officers and fellow prisoners all whom concur in saying he is the meanest man with whom they have ever had dealings.

The trial of Dillard Rainey began last Tuesday, the evidence closed Thursday at noon and was argued until the next morning when it was given to the jury, which brought in a verdict of guilty and fixing the death penalty the next day. When the prisoner heard it he turned deathly pale and seemed almost overcome. He soon recovered and was taken back to jail cursing the jury and vowing that he would never be hung. Neither of the prisoners have never shown any remorse for the poor widow or the six helpless children.

This will make the second sentence pronounced by Judge Scott, the, the other being the negro Will Taylor, who was hung for the murder of Squire Doty, a year or two ago. If Rainey is hung it will make the fourth legal hanging in this county, and the first white man to be hung.

Many years ago Jesse Winn, a negro, was hung near where Col. R. N. Winn's residence now stands, for the murder of Wm. Emerson, a white man, who owned him or had him hired.

In August, 1839 a young negro named Knight was hung on Lexington pike near F. H. Dudley's. He belonged to Mr. Morris who lived on Stoner and had committed a rape on a little white girl.

In April, 1841, a negro man, belonging to Daniel Spar, broke into a house and disemboweled his wife. The latter got well, but the negro was hung for housebreaking. The negro woman belonged to Geo. Anderson and her assailant was hung near the far end of C. and O. trestle on the side of Poynterville.

In November, 1850, Thomas Nichols killed his master, Fred B. Nichols, at a rock quarry on the Lexington pike. He was hung about Christmas of the same year. The late Wm. Simpson was Sheriff at the time, and not liking the job of hanging the negro, he employed marsh Lawrence to tie the rope. A year or two later Marsh Lawrence was killed by his brother, Jack Lawrence. The latter fled to Missouri, but was caught, brought back and sentenced to be hung. He was the first white man in the county to receive the death sentence, but was finally pardoned by Gov. Powell.

About seventeen years ago, Ben. Plunkett was lynched, being hung to a tree in the courthouse yard, the charge being an attempt assault on Miss Annie Bell, now Mrs. Bradford. In the fall of 1895 Bob Haggard was hung from the bridge on the Muddy Creek pike for a similar assault on Miss Elkin of near Ford.

No motion has yet been made for a new trial, but this will be done.

Since the death penalty has been given to Dillard, his father says he does not wish a new trial, but is inclined to accept the life sentence given him last fall. The general opinion is that if he should secure a new trial he would also be hung.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 16, 1897.

CIRCUIT COURT

The principal item of interest during the closing days of the term was the sentence of Dillard Rainey Friday morning. In delivering this sentence, Judge Scott was visibly affected and once or twice the emotion almost overcame him. He pointed out the enormity of the crime, showed he had had a fair and impartial trial, that every power of the law had been afforded him to prove his innocence or mitigate his guilt. After exhorting him to prepare for a great hereafter, he sentenced him to be hung this Saturday, May 15th. The attorney's have sixty days in which to bring the matter in front of the Court of Appeals and it will probably be many months before the higher courts act on the case. Judge Scott and Sheriff Hodgkin exercised great care during the trial that there should be no technical grounds for reversal, and those conversant with such matters, say that the higher court will not reverse the decision of the lower court. If this is the case, the governor will set the time for the execution. Matt Rainey has withdrawn his appeal from the life sentence given him and will accept the verdict of the jury. While Dillard Rainey still asserts that he will not be hung, both father and son have lost most of the defiant manner that have heretofore characterized them, and seem to realize something of the terrible condition in which their crime has placed them.

When brought out to sentence, Dillard was evidently less moved less moved than Judge Scott, and had evidently braced himself for the ordeal. He was deathly pale but did not tremble. When asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of death should not be pronounced, he replied that his attorney's would speak for him, but they said nothing at the time.

Matt Rainey is still in jail here and as his case was taken to the Court of Appeals, Judge Scott has no jurisdiction over him. As soon as the Clerk of the Court of Appeals notifies the officials here that his appeal has been dismissed, Sheriff Hodgkin will take him to Frankfort to begin his term of life imprisonment. Dillard will remain in jail here until the higher court takes action in his case. Some persons think that if the court of appeals affirms the decision of the lower Court, the Governor may commute his death sentence to that of imprisonment for life. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 2, 1897. A Penitentiary Fight. A dispatch from Frankfort says: "Dillard Rainey, of Clark county, and Albert Elmore, of Green county, life convicts in the penitentiary, fell out over some trivial matter and went after each other with knives. When they were separated each had a half dozen wounds about the face and upper part of the body, and was seriously but not fatally hurt. The fight began as the men were en route to the cell house. They were only a few feet apart, and a remark of one about the other started the trouble. Both are white men and were sent up for murder. Rainey is well connected in Clark and Montgomery counties and recently a strong effort has been made to secure a pardon or parole for him." Rainey was sentenced to death in the Clark Circuit Court for the murder of Aaron Adams, and his father, Matt Rainey, was given a life sentence for the same offense. As it was thought the younger Rainey committed the crime under the influence of his father his sentence was commuted by the Governor to life imprisonment. The elder Rainey died in the penitentiary some time ago. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 21, 1901.

Raleigh, Joe	CIRCUIT COURT is in session this week at Jackson. The Sheriff and jailer came down Friday and carried up a couple of prisoners who had been confined in Jail here for safe keeping. One was Joe Raleigh, and the other was Brack Roberts, both charged with murder. Raleigh killed a thirteen-year-old girl because she refused to ride behind him. Roberts killed a man named Bowman, and was sentenced to be hung. He appealed, and while the appeal was pending he broke jail and fled. He was recently apprehended in Georgia, and brought here. Both are serious cases and the Death penalty is expected in each. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 15, 1893. That precious pair of murderers, Breck Roberts and Joe Raleigh, of Breathitt county, are again here for safe keeping. Roberts had his second trial at Jackson last week and was again sent up for life. As before, he has made application for a new trial but will hardly escape again while it is pending. The trial of Raleigh, who is charged with the murder of a helpless girl, was continued. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 5, 1893 Joe Raleigh, the Breathitt county prisoner confined in jail here charged with the murder of a young girl has been released on $10,000 bond. Ramsey, A. B.	Died—A. B. Ramsey, a prominent farmer of the Sugar Ridge neighborhood, died at an early hour yesterday morning of heart disease. He was in usual health when he retired, but about 4 o'clock in the morning his wife heard him struggling and in a few moments he was dead. He was highly respected and his death will be a loss to the community. He was sixty-seven years of age and leaves a wife, five sons and four daughters, all of his children being grown. The funeral will be preached this afternoon at Sugar Ridge church by Revs. C. B. Clark and L. D. Beck. The interment will either be at this place or at David Barrow's. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 18, 1894

	While the family of J. M. Woodward, of Boone street, was attending the funeral of A. B. Ramsey at Sugar Ridge Friday, the residence was entered by thieves, the contents of bureaus were thrown upon the floor and the place thoroughly ransacked. Three or four dollars in money was taken but the family silverware, jewelry, etc., was not molested although in plain sight. The burglars repaired to the dining room and ate a hearty meal before they left. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 22, 1894

Ramsey, Andy	Conscience hurt him And tool of alleged murderer told of ghastly crime – forced at point of pistol to burn barn Somerset, Ky., - Frank Perkins, arrested at Pine Knot, and in jail here, gives a thrilling account of the recent murder of Andy Ramsey, a merchant of Pine Knot, in a “Blind Jack” near Stearns. According to Perkins, Ramsey was shot by Frank Crabtree, owner of a shack and who, he claims, was running the “Jack.” Perkins was then commanded at the point of a pistol in Crabtree’s hands to help set fire to the building, and thus burn the body in the hope of covering up the “tracks.” Perkins said he was afraid to tell anything until his conscience hurt him so he couldn’t keep it from the officers. Ramsey was robbed of $850. Crabtree has fled. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 11, 1910

Ramsey, daughter	On Tuesday of last week, while the older members of the family of Joseph Ramsey,

	who lives on the farm of Capt. J. I. Wheeler, were absent, a little five year old son obtained possession of a loaded pistol and pointed at his little sister, two years old, with the remark that he would show her how to kill hogs. The weapon was discharged, striking the little girl in the face killing her almost instantly. Another instance of the criminal carelessness of leaving a pistol within reach of children. Ramsey, Edward Woodward	Edward W. Ramsey Death of this estimable young man Wednesday morning Mr. Ed Woodward Ramsey died at his home on East Broadway, this city, at an early hour Wednesday morning of internal hemorrhage, aged about thirty-eight years. He had been in failing health for several months, but many of his friends did not realize his condition was so serious, and the announcement of his death was heard with much sorrow. For many years he clerked in the various stores of this city, later embarking in the transfer business, and was known to all the business men here. He was strictly honorable in all his dealings and popular with all who knew him. He leaves a wife, who before their marriage was Miss Sallie Ramsey, and one son, Russell, about thirteen years of age. He was a son of the late Jesse Ramsey and is also survived by his mother, several brothers and sisters. The funeral was held at the Washington street Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. C. E. Crafton, and the remains were interred in the Winchester cemetery under the auspices of Winchester Lodge of Masons, No.20, F. and A.M., of which he was a devoted member. The following were the pall bearers: W.J. Walden, C.A. Tanner, W.R. Gordon, O.S. Johnson, J. Hood Smith, James T. Lawrence. Ramsey, Jesse A.	Jesse A. Ramsey Prominent citizen and widely known auctioneer passes away Jesse A. Ramsey died shortly after midnight of Friday night at his home on East Broadway, aged sixty-one years. Sometime ago a nail in the sole of his shoe irritated his foot, which became very sore. Finding it would not heal he went to a Lexington hospital where one or more surgical operations were performed on the injured member. He came home a few days ago, but matters got worse and Wednesday the leg was amputated above the knee. This was done as a last resort and he died, as was feared. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Woodward; three sons, Edward, Gordon and Frank, and two daughters, Misses Kate and Velma. The funeral was preached Sunday at the Washington Street Presbyterian Church, services being conducted by Rev. C.E. Crafton, and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery under the auspices of the Masonic order of which he had long been an enthusiastic member. Mr. Ramsey was one of our best citizens and one of the most popular auctioneers of Central Kentucky. For many years he served on the city Board of Education and was afterward chosen again and again to represent his ward in the City council, where he was recognized as one of the best and safest members of that body. His death is a distinct loss to the community and his example in many ways was worthy of emulation. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 5, 1908 Resolutions of respect Winchester lodge No.20, F.&amp;A.M. Whereas, the Grand Master of the Universe, in his wisdom, has called from labor in the Lodge here below, to rest and refreshment in the Celestial Lodge above, our friend and brother, J.A. Ramsey, on May 2, 1908. Resolved, 1. That while we bow in submission to the Divine will, we are deeply sensible of the irreparable loss sustained by our Lodge, of which he was one of its oldest and most faithful members, as well as the church, of which he was a consistent member, and the community, of which he was an honored citizen. Yet we are comforted by the belief that his life work was done on the square, and that his daily walk was by the plumb, and will receive from the Master Builder the welcome plaudit, "Well Done." Resolved, 2. That we extend to the family your heartfelt sympathy in this our common sorrow, for which he was to them husband and father, he was "our brother." Resolved, 3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and that they be spread on our minutes and published in our city papers, and printed in Masonic Home Journal, and that we wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

Ramsey, William J.	Death Of W. J. Ramsey William J. Ramsey died at his home in the county Saturday night, aged forty-seven years after a long illness of typhoid fever. The remains were buried in the Winchester Cemetery yesterday morning, services at the grave being conducted by Eld. Waters, pastor of Bethlehem Church. He was a member of Watson Lodge of Odd Fellows of Mt. Sterling, and of Winchester Camp, Woodmen of the Woeld and the burial was under the auspices of the former order. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Cunningham, but no children. He was a good citizen and his death is deeply regretted. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Feb. 6, 1906 Prompt Payment The late W. J. Ramsey had his life insured for $750 in the local Camp Woodmen of the World. Proofs of death were sent to headquarters in due time and in less than two weeks a draft for the amount was received. The laws of the order also allow one hundred dollars for a monument. His death is the first that has occurred in the local camp. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Feb. 27, 1906 Will Probated The will of W. J. Ramsey was probated. He left to his wife, Mollie C. Ramsey, one-

	third of his real estate and one-half his personalty. Also his life insurance of $1,500. The remainder of his property was devised to his mother, Sue A. Ramsey. He also left a cow to Rufus Dunn. W. N. Scobee was named as executor without bond. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., March 2, 1906 Unveiling Ceremonies The monument in the Winchester cemetery erected by the Woodmen of the World to the memory of Sovereign W.J. Ramsey, will be unveiled Sunday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. State manager J.H. Brewer of Louisville will be master of ceremonies assisted by members of the local camp and visiting members of the order. Rev. J.R. Hobbs, of Mt. Sterling will deliver the address, and a quartette composed of Misses Mae Belle Faris and Laura Ecton and Messrs. T.N. Rupard and E.L. Upham will sing appropriate hymns. Miss Ella Grigsby will recite a poem. Hickman Lodge and Odd Fellows of Mt. Sterling, of which order Mr. Ramsey was a member will participate in the exercises. The parade, preceded by the Winchester Military Band will start from the courthouse promptly at two o'clock, and an invitation is extended to the public to witness these ceremonies. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 21, 1906 A memorial occasion Twelve or fifteen hundred people attended the ceremonies of the Woodmen of the world in unveiling the monument erected to the memory of Sovereign W.J. Ramsey, of Winchester Camp, who died sometime ago. This is the only fraternal order that erects a monument as a part of the benefits given. The ceremonies were simple, yet beautiful and impressive. The deceased was also a member of the Odd Fellows and members of that order attended in a body. The procession was formed at the Courthouse and marched to the cemetery headed by the Winchester band which discoursed some splendid music at intervals during the proceedings. J.H. Brewer, of Louisville, was Master of Ceremonies and various officials of the Camp participated in the ceremonies. Miss Ella Grigsby recited an appropriate poem and a quartette composed of T.N. Rupard, Ray Patterson, Misses Laura Ecton and Mae Belle Faris sang several hymns. Rev. J.R. Hobbs, pastor of the Baptist church at Mt. Sterling, made an eloquent address that was most appropriate to the occasion. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 25, 1906

Raney, James Woodford	James Woodford Raney, age 72, of Jeffersonville, was born October 12, 1942, in Winchester to Frank and Ella Mae Birch Raney, and passed away Tuesday, February 3, 2015, at Clark Regional Medical Center in Winchester. Better known as Rainbo, he was a dedicated and loving husband, Daddy, and friend to all who met him. Rainbo had a strong and passionate love for his family. He was a very outgoing man who truly enjoyed himself and life. He was a good man with old-fashioned values. Rainbo was united in marriage to the love of his life, Lois Ann Carroll of Mt. Sterling on January 5, 1980. In addition to his wife, he is survived by three children, Jeff (Marilyn) Raney, Sherry Raney, and Jamie Ann (Jason) Reffitt, all of Mt. Sterling; two step daughters, Tammy (Bruce) Adams and Drema Jones, both of Mt. Sterling; four grandchildren, David Allen Jones, Zach Adams, Anna Reffitt of Mt. Sterling and Tracy Thomas of Irvine. He was preceded in death by a grandson, Austin Blake Adams. Also surviving are three great grandchildren, Katelyn Jones of Mt. Sterling, Logan Jones, and Lucas Thomas, both of Irvine; and one sister, Brenda Townsend of Irvine. Rainbo was a very special man to a lot of people, mainly because he never met a stranger and he loved to talk. He was a hard worker who had a passion for farming and trucking. Only one thing he enjoyed more than farming and that was telling someone else how to farm! He previously worked for the ambulance service, Oliver Trucking, Amburgery's, and was a retired school bus driver for Montgomery County. He was currently owner and operator of Raney Trucking and a member of the Christian Assembly of God. Visitation is 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. Thursday, February 5, 2015, at the Christian Assembly of God, 1834 Owingsville Road, Mt. Sterling. Rankin, John AA	A Shooting Affray. Near Flanagan Sunday morning some negroes became engaged in a quarrel and John Rankin, aged about twenty-one years, was shot by Chas. Bates, who was several years older. The ball from a 44-calibre pistol passed through Rankin's abdomen, penetrating the bladder and making a fatal wound. Bates was arrested and is now in jail. He claims the shooting was accidental. The wounded man is a peaceable, well behaved negro, while Bates has been in a number of scraps and is known as a violent, dangerous character. Rankin died yesterday. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 4, 1899 Examining Trial The examining trial of Charlie Bates for the killing of John Rankin of Flanagan Sunday, is set for tomorrow before Judge Evans. Rankin, Mrs. Cora C.	Death Of Mrs. Rankin Mrs. Cora C. Rankin, wife of Dr. J. N. Rankin, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, Saturday afternoon, where she had been taken a few days previous. The remains were brought to her late home on East Broadway Saturday night and the funeral was held at the Methodist Church Monday morning. Services being conducted by Rev. J. R. Savage and Dr. J. L. Weber, the interment being in the Winchester Cemetery. Mrs. Rankin's death was the result of an accident which befell her about two weeks ago. In descending from her buggy, her horse plunged, causing the reins, which were wound about her wrist, to wrench her hand, causing considerable pain. In a few days her arm became swollen and discolored and she was removed to Lexington, where her arm was opened, but nothing was found which would cause such terrible suffering. After her death a second operation disclosed an abscess formed in her hand which caused blood poisoning and resulting in her death. Mrs. Rankin was a daughter of the late Franklin Ramsey and besides her husband, is survived by her brothers, Messers. Jesse and Ryland Ramsey, and sisters, Mrs. James Woodward, Mrs. Sam P. Hodgkin, and Miss Alice Ramsey. She was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church until a few weeks ago, when she united with the Methodist Church. She was a kind, true-hearted woman, beloved by her neighbors and friends and her death has caused universal sorrow. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Jan. 16, 1906

Rankin, R. N.	At his home, in Goode's precinct, Thursday, of consumption. Dr. R. N. Rankin, aged 23 years. His death cut short what promised to be a noble and useful life. Naturally ambitious, he overtaxed a delicate constitution in preparing for his chosen vocation, and when he graduated from Medical college last Spring, it was evident that the fatal malady to which he at last succumbed, had already made fatal inroads upon his vital forces, and his early death prove their surmises to have been correct. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 7, 1892.
Rankin, R. W.	Suicide-Last Saturday morning, Mr. R. W. Rankin, of Goode's precinct, in this county, took strychnine and died from its effects. For some time past he has been afflicted with spells of melancholy and his friends have frequently been uneasy lest he would end his life. On Saturday morning he proposed to his wife that they should kill the children and then take poison themselves. As he had talked that way frequently before she paid no attention to it. He then went to his brother Albert Rankin's house in the neighborhood, and soon after getting there began to have cramps. He told them at last that he had taken strychnine, and everything possible was done to save him but it was too late. He was a generous, kindly man, and had many friends. Financial embarrassments are supposed to have precipitated the rash act. He leaves a wife and four children. The Clark County Democrat, Wed., 2-23-1881

Rankin, Waller C.	Body found The body of Waller Rankin found in Lake Erie - Remains brought here for burial Waller C. Rankin, who was raised in this county, went to Cleveland, Ohio, a year or two ago and engaged in business with a telephone company. One evening last November he left his boarding house and went out in town. He was seen during the early hours of the night and that was the last heard of him. The police made diligent search, but not the slightest trace of him could be found. His whereabouts remained a mystery until Tuesday, when his body was found floating in the lake near one of the docks. The body was in such a condition that marks of violence, if any existed, could not be detected, but his money was in his pocket showing that robbery, at least, was not the motive. The circumstance of his death remains as much of a mystery as ever. He was the oldest son of the late Allen Rankin, and besides his mother, leaves one sister, Mrs. T.L. Harmon, and two brothers, Allen, of this county, and Elbert of Cleveland, Ohio. The latter accompanied the remains to this city, where they were brought yesterday and were buried in the Winchester cemetery. He was thirty-nine years old, a widower without children. He was quite popular and leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 15, 1910

Rankin, Will AA	Another Killing In Buck Sunday afternoon Will Rankin a young negro was setting near the corner of Washington and Maple streets when Will Edgo, another negro approached, and after a few words

	Edgo shot Rankin in the head killing him instantly. Edgo was arrested and placed in jail.  Coroner Wills, a short time after the killing impaneled a jury composed of F. F. Goodpaster, W. H. Bailey, J. W. Hisle, J. C. Ringo, J. C. Frazier and J. R. Pace, to examine into the circumstances of the killing.  From the testimony it seems that the negroes were angry at each other concerning a crap game involving fifteen cents, and that Edgo during the day had made threats against the life of Rankin.  The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the facts given above.  Edgo has been in jail a great many times and served two years in the penitentiary for stealing a gong, and other articles from the Central Hotel.  The Winchester Democrat, Tue., May 21, 1901 Held Over  Will Edgo, the negro who killed Will Rankin, another negro, some days ago, was brought before Judge Evans Wednesday for examination and was held over to Circuit Court without bail. Rash, Thomas Warren	Death of Thos. Warren Rash As a sheaf of ripe grain is garnered, so passed away the life of Thomas Warren Rash. Wednesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. F. Duckworth. Nearly eighty-nine years ago he was born in this county on the Lexington pike, near the present residence of W. M. Robb, and during all his long life he has lived in Clark county. When twenty-two years of age, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary F. Ireland, of Henry county, and for sixty-seven years they have helped each other over the rough places of life and together have they enjoyed the pleasant portions. During all this time he was a modest, unassuming citizen who did well his part and who made the world better for his having lived in it. For many years he had been a member of the Old Baptist church at Goshen. The funeral procession will leave the residence of Mr. Duckworth at noon to-day and the remains will be interred this afternoon in the cemetery at this place. Rassimus, Frank	FOR a while Middlesborough was filled with a lawless element but the police force had succeeded in reducing it to subjection. On Thursday, a couple of desperadoes from the adjacent country came into the town and fired off their Winchester rifles. A squad of officers attempted to arrest them and were led into ambush just outside the city limits. Several of the officers were badly shot, but Rassimus, one of the men, was captured. Johnson, the other surrendered on condition. That he be taken at one to Pineville. This proved to be a wise precaution as that night a mob broke into the jail and took Rassimus out and shot him full of holes and then hung him. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 22, 1891. The friends of Frank Rassimus, formerly of Cincinnati, who was lynched last July in Middlesboro, have raised $ 16,000 to bring the lynchers to justice, as they claim he was innocent of the crime he was hung for. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 9, 1891.

Ratliff, Charles	Commits suicide Charles Ratliff, aged 80, formerly of Mt. Sterling, committed suicide at Le Compte, La., last Thursday night. Mr. Ratliff was for some time connected with his brother, L.N. Ratliff, in the laundry business at Mt. Sterling, and was held in high esteem by the citizens of that community. Mr. Ratliff, after leaving Mt. Sterling, went West. He returned to this city in December to make his mother, Mrs. Lou Ratliff, who had in the meantime moved to this city from Mt. Sterling, a visit. He left about the first part of this month for Le Compte to take a position with the engineering department of the Rock Island Railroad. While here, Mr. Ratliff seemed to be in his usual good health, and in the best spirits and the family are unable to assign any cause for the rash act. Mr. C.S. Ratliff, of Owingsville, and N.R. Ratliff, of this city, left immediately for Le Compte to take charge of the remains. They are expected to arrive in this city today. The remains will be interred in the Crown Hill cemetery, at Sharpsburg, Ky. His mother, five brothers, S.J. and C.S., of Owingsville; T.J. and R.N., of Sharpsburg and N.R. Ratliff and a sister, Mrs. Ben Myers, of this city, survive. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, January 16, 1908 C.S. Ratliff wants $7,500 damages from the Postal Telegraph Co. Ratliff, Lewis J.	A dispatch from Lebanon says: "Lewis J. Ratliff met a horrible death at Howardstown Monday morning. Ratliff went to Mahoney's distillery early in the morning and was not long in picking a quarrel with Mahoney, who struck him a fearful blow on the head with a hatchet. The infuriated man then dragged Ratliff's lifeless body a short distance, placing his neck across a log, completely severed the head from his body. Ratliff leaves a widow and several children. His home was in this county, and he had been in more rows than any other man in the county. Mahoney is a quiet and peaceable man and has never before been in trouble. Ratliff, Raymond	Body Recovered Today Clark Man Drowns In Howard's Creek A Clark County man drowned in Upper Howard's Creek at approximately 10 p.m. Tuesday. His body was recovered at 8:30 a.m. today. Dead is Raymond (Rusty) Ratliff, 42, who resided on the Grimes Mill Road with Maurice Sidwell. Coroner Leon Pace said death was due to accidental drowning. Officials gave this account of the accident; Ratliff was fishing the Upper Howard's Creek about one mile east of Allensville with a companion. Harold Sidwell, Magnolia Street, when he slipped from the bank into about 12 feet of water. Sidwell told officers he jumped into the water and attempted to pull Ratliff out but was unable to hold onto him. Sidwell left the water, ran about on-half mile to his car and drove to Allensville where he telephoned for help. THE WINCHESTER SUN. WED. 4/25/1965

Ray, Abe	AA	The Negro, Ike Turner, who shot and killed Abe Ray, colored, in this place on the 6 th inst., is still at large. He was reported as seen in the Combs Ferry neighborhood, a few days since, with gun and pistol. I understand his aim is to avoid the officers until he has killed one of Ray's associates and then give himself up. Does it not devolve on all good citizens to watch out for this wretch and make good arrest, should an opportunity present itself. The Clark County Democrat, Wed. 6-22-1881

Ray, Ira Scott		Ira Scott Ray, 92, of Winchester, Kentucky peacefully left his home for heaven on November 20, 2021. He was a faithful man of God who loved his family dearly. It is such a comfort to know that he is now with his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.  Born in Chapmanville, West Virginia, he was the last surviving sibling of the nine children born to the late Wilson Arthur and Stella Elizabeth Ray. Scott is survived by the love of his life, his wife of 62 years, Shelva Jean Sperry Ray of Whitman, West Virginia. Their love and union were a beautiful example of what a marriage and home should look like.  Scott graduated from Chapmanville High School at the age of 16. After graduation he worked for the C & O Railroad and then went into the military where he served in the Korean War as a Corporal in the United States Army. Upon returning home, he worked as a teller at the National Bank of Logan. He decided to go into business for himself and purchased a gas station, all before the age of thirty. After selling the gas station, he joined Fairmont Foods as a sales representative. He advanced within the company

		moving to Charleston, West Virginia and then Bluefield, Virginia as it changed ownership to Valley Bell Dairy and later Borden. After 36 years of service, Scott retired from Borden as the Plant Manager in 1993. While living in Bluefield, Scott and Shelva raised their family and were active members of Edgemont Baptist Church. Scott and Shelva moved to Winchester, Kentucky in 2003 in order to live closer to their daughter. He enjoyed his time here, made many friends including his coffee buddies at Arby's. He was a man who valued hard work and strong morals. He loved his country and always enjoyed his birthday on the fourth of July when he wore his special birthday socks that had been given to him by very close friends nearly 50 years ago on his birthday. Without a doubt though, Scott's greatest accomplishment in life was his family. Besides his wife, Scott is survived by his daughter Ruthann Ray (Don) Sharrock, and son Scott Alan (Rebekah) Ray. Six grandchildren, Chris (Brittney), Todd (Amanda) and Luke Sharrock, London (Aaron) Ray-Dykstra, Graham and Finn Ray. Five great-grandchildren, Raylee and Drayke Sharrock, Jett Sharrock, Elsa Dykstra and Arthur Ray-Dykstra. He is also survived by two sister-in-laws, Imogene Lackey and Lily Ray and several very special nieces and nephews. Along with his parents, he was preceded in death by his siblings, Erma Lilly, Okla McDonald, Annabelle Hager, Amos Ray, Mary Stollings, Claudia Turner, Jean Ray, and Alice Ray. Grandsons will serve as Pallbearers along with Noah Meyers. Services in Winchester will be Tuesday, November 23, 2021 at the Leon Pace Chapel at Scobee Funeral Home. Family visitation will begin at 2:00 pm and friends may visit 2:30 – 4:00 pm. The funeral service will begin at 4:00 pm with Pastor Pat Finley, Grace Baptist Church, officiating. A military graveside service will be held in Chapmanville, West Virginia on Wednesday, November 24, 2021 at the Highland Memory Gardens at 12:00 pm. Friends and family are asked to wear red, white, and blue in his honor. In lieu of flowers, friends who wish may contribute to Gideon International, www.gideons.org or Grace Baptist Church (cbcky.org) in Scott's memory. Scobee Funeral Home is in charge of all services. Ray, James (Jim) Eddie		James (Jim) Eddie Ray, 90, of Winchester, Kentucky, passed from this life to his eternal home in heaven Saturday, March 11, 2023. Jim was born in East Detroit, Michigan, on December 24, 1932, to John and Iva Pearl Ray. He married the love of his life, Millie McClard, March 23, 1955. He was a faithful and devoted husband for the past 68 years. He served in the army where he was stationed in Korea for part of his tenure. Jim trained as a journeyman and worked many years in various capacities as a hydraulics engineer. He was a faithful follower of Jesus Christ and a lover of Gospel quartet music. Over the years, he served the church in many various roles. He is preceded in death by his parents, 2 brothers, 3 sisters, and one granddaughter, Ashley Marie Cunningham. Along with his loving wife, he is survived by his three daughters, Sharee (Tim) Patrick, Denise (Dale) Cunningham, and Dianne (Jeff) White. He is also survived by his grandchildren: Chris (Niki) May, Stephen (Rachel) May, Jared (Emily) White, Whitney (Paul) Pendell, Brad (Holly) White, and Alli (Andrew) Isbell, along with 14 great grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, March 15, at Grace Baptist Church, Winchester, Kentucky. Redmon, Mrs. Lucy E.	Mrs. Lucy E. Redmon. A mother in Israel is dead. Monday morning after weary weeks of wasting sickness and pain, the spirit of Mrs. Lucy E. Redmon passed away as tranquilly as the sun sinks to rest at the close of a summer day. As wife, mother, friend, she had performed the duties that were allotted to her, faithfully and well. With a bright, sunny disposition that neither pain nor misfortune could crush, who was the light of the family and the most companionable of friends. Yielding allegiance to the Master in the strength of her young womanhood, she had been a faithful member of the Christian church and passed away in the full assurance of a life undimmed by pain or care. She was a native of this, a daughter of the Late James Bush. Of a large family of brothers and sisters, only four remain, viz: John P. Bush, of Hedges, Wm. H. Bush of Mt. Sterling, Harry T. Bush, of Stanford, and Ambrose Bush, of Illinois. Her husband, Thos. Redmon, died many years ago. She leaves two sons, John and Will and four daughters, Mrs. C. L. Vanmeter, and Misses Lou, Irene and Eliza. The funeral will take place at ten o'clock this morning from the Christian church, services being conducted by Eld. I. J. Spencer and the remains will be interred in the cemetery where many of her relatives lie. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved ones and may they find solace in the wisdom, mercy and goodness of the God she loved. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 8, 1893.

Redmond, Edward	Louisville, Ky., - George Redmond, 57, shot and killed his son, Edward Redmond, at the family residence. Both men are well known. Bitter feeling of long standing is believed to be the cause of the trouble. Young Redmond was not in good grace with the family. He came to the residence and attempted to gain entrance by breaking down the kitchen door. His father drew a revolver and fired at his son three times. The father was placed in jail charged with murder. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 10, 1910

Redmond, Mrs. Nora Smith	A Fatal Accident. Monday afternoon John Redmond and wife and Chas. Sullivan were returning from Paris along the Clintonville pike, when the horse became frightened and ran off. While Mr. Redmond was trying to hold him the lines broke. Mrs. Redmond jumped out, her head striking the pike. She was picked up by Mr. Herndon, who was passing, but died in a few moments. Mr. Sullivan also jumped and was badly bruised. Shortly after the buggy turned over throwing Mr. Redmond out injuring him. Mrs. Redmond was formerly Miss Nora Smith, daughter of Ben Smith and both she and Mr. Redmond were raised in this county. She was about twenty-eight years of age and leaves two sons and a daughter, the eldest seven or eight years old. The funeral was preached Tuesday at the family residence by Rev. Tadlock and the remains were brought to this city for interment. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 7, 1899  In speaking of the sad accident by which Mrs. John Redmond was killed last week, the Paris News says: "Several Paris friends advised Mr. Redmond and wife not to drive the horse home Monday as it was very vicious, but they started home behind it, and the accident occurred before they were half a mile from town." Reed, Florence Hite		Florence Hite Reed, age 78, passed away on Sunday, November 27, 2022, at Bourbon Heights Nursing Home in Paris after a long mental and physical struggle with Alzheimer's Disease. She was born in Marion, Ohio, on August 9, 1944, to the late Park Daily and Cora Beaver Hite. In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her infant son, Brian Edward Reed, on August 27, 1966. Also, she was preceded in death by her older brother, Virgil Burton Hite, and her older sister, Carolyn Hite Sarber. She married William Edward Reed on May 9, 1964, at the Rocky Fork Primitive Baptist Church in Marion, Ohio, and he still resides at their home on Clintonville Road in Winchester after their 58 years of marriage. Florence is survived by one son, Kevin (Carrie) Reed of Winchester, and one daughter, Beverly (Lenville) Martin of Martin, and four grandsons, Hunter Mitchell Reed, Tyler Brian Martin, Andrew Maddox Martin, and Jacob Reed Martin. Other survivors include two sisters, Nina Hite Lucas of Marion, Ohio, and Elaine Hite Lewis of Edwardsville, Illinois, and several nieces and nephews. Florence was the graduate of Ridgedale High School in Marion, Ohio, and then Columbus Business School for an Associate Degree in Business. Her career as a secretary and administrative assistant spanned over 40 years with jobs at the Water Company in Marion, Ohio, the Water Company in Lexington, KY, the Migrant Children Support Program at Central Elementary School in Clark County, the Clark County Board of Education in Winchester, KY, the University of Kentucky Co-Op Program, and the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA). Her employers described her as hard working, motivated, energetic, and responsible. Her coworkers often stated that "she not only stayed busy and got her work done early but she also made sure everyone else in the office stayed busy too!" – which was probably due to her "Hite" nature. She was very organized and efficient with detail-oriented tasks and usually helped others complete their tasks too. She even served as Secretary for the PTA for Central Elementary School where her children attended school. Florence was a member of Rocky Fork Primitive Baptist Church in Marion, Ohio, and then Goshen Primitive Baptist Church in Winchester, KY, for over 60 years. She was proud to be called the "Pastor's Wife" and truly enjoyed fixing large meals for the church friends and family members as often as possible. She loved to entertain and have family get togethers at her home. She was an excellent cook with a specialty in all types of desserts. Anytime a friend or church member or family member would experience sickness or a death in their family, Florence was quick to provide them with a dessert for their family to enjoy. She had talked about starting her own business making desserts to sell after her retirement. Besides cooking, she was also an excellent seamstress and made clothes for herself and her children. She could hem pants and alter clothes for family members and friends. Many times, we would bring clothes to her to "fix" – even bring clothes from friends of friends! She made a beautiful prom dress for her daughter and baby blanket for her first grandchild. Florence lived her life to the fullest and her bright smile engaged each person she encountered. She loved her family and always sent birthday cards and Christmas cards to every extended family member, friend, and church member. She loved to joke with family and friends in order to get a laugh out of them. She was the biggest University of Kentucky Basketball fan! She never missed watching a game and tried to go to at least one home game at Rupp Arena every season. She cheered loudly from the stands or at home and everyone who knew her enjoyed her excitement when UK was winning! She also enjoyed traveling and family trips to Myrtle Beach, Pigeon Forge, Nashville, Niagara Falls, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Florida, and many more places. Her and her husband were thankful to take a cruise to Alaska and a bus tour of western states about

	ten years ago. Florence began showing signs of Alzheimer's Disease about eleven years ago at age 67. She struggled with short term memory loss and received home health assistance until age 73 when she was hospitalized for possible stroke. Then she was admitted to the nursing home where she continued to struggle with memory loss as well as loss of all of her physical abilities. Throughout her struggle and slow decline, we were amazed by her strength. She will be dearly missed by all who knew her and remembered as a beloved wife, mother, grandma, sister, aunt, and friend. Visitation will be from 5:00PM to 8:00PM on Thursday, December 1, and the Funeral will be at 11:00AM on Friday, December 2, 2022, with Pastors Tom Pitney and Eddie Lester officiating at Scobee Funeral Home in Winchester, KY. Burial will follow in the Lexington Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Kevin Reed, Hunter Reed, Lenville Martin, Tyler Martin, Andrew Martin, and Jacob Martin. The Winchester Sun November 29 &amp; December 2-4, 2022 + Scobee Funeral Home

The Winchester Democrat, Tue., March 28, 1899 Squire Reed, by will dated February 1, 1896, left two tracts of land containing seventy-eight acres to his children, Sarah E. Reed and John W. Reed, Mary E. Reed in equal shares. He gave as a reason that the land was purchased with money that came from the sale of land which their mother inherited. He names Wm. Reed Jr. as executor.

	The Winchester Democrat, Fri., March 31, 1899 Licensed To Wed License was issued Wednesday for the marriage of William J. Risk, of Madison county, and Mrs. Eugenia Reed of Georgia. The groom is sixty-two and the bride thirty-six years of age and it is the second marriage of each. The bride is the widow of the late Squire Sam Reed, and formerly lived at Schollsville, this county. According to an ante-nuptial contract, neither is to claim any interest in the property of the other after the death of either. If the groom dies in twelve months, the widow is to get $500 from the groom's life insurance, and if he lives longer than that she is to get $1,000. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Nov. 28, 1902
Reed, Shelton B.	Beattyville Shelton B. Reed died at his father's home here Friday morning at 8 o'clock. He was a brother of Dr. M. F. Reed and Miss Kate Reed, our postmaster here. Shelton had been sick for some time with consumption, that dreaded disease, for which no doctor, save the Great Physician can cure. The burial services were held at the Christian church at two p. m. today. Reverend Irvine and Patterson presided. Mr. Reed had many friends and relatives to mourn his loss. The Winchester Sentinel, Wed., Jan. 14, 1903

Reed, Thomas L.	Committed suicide Thos. L. Reed shot himself through the head while dividing property – A most distressing affair Family troubles which led to a divorce suit, and finally culminated in suicide, brought to an untimely end the life of Thomas L. Reed Friday afternoon at his home on East Broadway. Mr. Reed was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reed and was raised in the southern part of the county not far from Boonesboro. Some years ago he married Miss Elgie Thomas, then a teacher in the country schools, and moved to St. Louis, Mo., where they lived a few years and came back to Winchester where they have since resided. Several years ago Mr. Reed acquired the habit of drinking too much and on such occasions got along very badly with his wife. Matters got worse and finally Mrs. Reed brought suit for divorce and alimony. The case was to have been submitted to Judge Benton at a special term of court Friday but for some reason it was not. The court had ordered a division of the personal property and at the request of Mrs. Reed, Deputy Sheriff Geo. Hart was sent to assist. Matters had progressed until afternoon. Mr. Reed went into a room alone and in a few moments a shot was heard and it was found that he had shot himself in the right temple, the ball lodging under the skin on the other side. Coroner Nunnelley held an inquest without a jury and rendered a verdict of suicide by shooting. The body was removed to the residence of his sister, Mrs. R.W. Hampton, in South Park, where short funeral services were held Sunday morning by Eld. J.H. MacNeill and the body was taken to the old burying ground in the country where it was interred under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias of which order he was a member. He leaves a wife, one son, Russell, and two daughters, Gladys and Emma. He is also survived by three brothers, Will and Stuart, of California, and Jerry, of Cincinnati, and three sisters, Mrs. Charlie Baker, of Lexington, and Mrs. R.W. Hampton, of this city. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 8, 1910

Reeder, William		At Barbourville, Thursday, Police Judge Jones and town marshal Bowman, were held over in $2,500 bail each for the killing of William Reeder last week. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 31, 1894  At Barbourville the murder case against Police Judge Jones and Chief of Police Bauman, which occupied the whole of last week in court, was concluded Saturday morning with a verdict sentencing Policeman Bauman for life. Bauman alone was on trial. The indictment charged them with the murder of William Reeder there in January last. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 8, 1894  THE Court of Appeals has reversed the decision of the Knox County Court in the case of Marshal Bowman, who was given 1 years for killing a man he was trying to arrest. The higher court holds where an officer attempting to execute a warrant of arrest, whether for a misdemeanor or a felony is met with a deadly weapon in the hands of the defendant in the warrant, and believes, and has reasonable grounds to believe, that the defendant will shoot him if he attempts to make the arrest he has the right to make the arrest, he has the right to use his own weapon, even to the taking of the life of the defendant, if necessary to enable him to execute the warrant.-Stanford Journal. Rees, Chester E.		Death of Judge C. E. Rees The many friends of Judge Chester E. Rees, will learn with deep regret of his death, which occurred at Washington D. C. about six o'clock Saturday evening. He had been a sufferer for some time from a malignant cancer of the stomach, and his death had been expected for some days. The remains will reach here to-day and the funeral will take place from the residence of his brother, Dr. C. H. Rees at two o'clock this afternoon, the services being conducted by Revs. J. J. Chisholm and H. G. Henderson. The burial in the cemetery will be under the auspices of Winchester Lodge, No. 20, F. & A. M. of which he had been a member. He had also been a member of the local lodges of Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias but had suffered his membership in these orders to lapse. He was born in this city forty years ago and had lived here all his life. He was known and liked by everybody, and his genial, cheery manner made him the life of every crowd. He had always been a Democrat but with the exception of a term as police Judge of this city, he held no office until he was appointed by President Cleveland as chief of the Miscellaneous Division of the Treasury Department, a position which he held at the time of his death. He made a splendid official and his death was much regretted at the Capital. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday March 16, 1897  Resolutions of Respect At a called meeting, Winchester Lodge, No. 20 F. & A. M., adopted the following: Your committee to whom was referred the preparation of resolutions upon the death of our brother, Chester E. Rees, beg leave to report as follows: Whereas, It has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe to remove from us to His Lodge above our beloved brother, now be it Resolved, That in the death of brother Rees we have suffered the loss of a true mason—one whose manly traits endeared him to all who came in close relationship with him, and whose love for the tenets of our order was shown by deeds, of unostentatious charity. Those who knew him best loved him most, and knew that underneath a harsh exterior was concealed a heart as kind and gentle as a woman's. He was a lover of humanity in its broadest sense, and was always ready with open hand and sympathetic heart, to hear the call of the distressed, and relieve the wants of the needy. Brave and

	courageous in defense of the right he was, always generous to the vanquished, and lived without enmity, leaving hosts to mourn his untimely death. Resolved, That we tender to the family of our brother our warmest sympathy in their bereavement, and trust that they may find comfort in remembering his kind and gentle deeds, as well as in the hope of a glorious immortality for him and them. Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, and that a copy be given to the family of brother Reese, and also to the newspapers for publication, and that each member of this lodge wear the customary badge of mourning for thirty days. J. Rees, Winchester Elhanan	PASSED AWAY Maj. Winchester Elhanan Rees Joins the Silent Majority. At the residence of his son, John S. Rees, on south Maple street at an early hour Wednesday night, Maj. Winchester Elhanan Rees, passed over the dark river. For more than a third of a century he has been a familiar figure to the people of Winchester and the visitors to our town. Eighty-five years ago he was born in Mason county, near the old Shannon church, which was built by his father. He went to Maysville when about fourteen years of age, and grew up there where he was in business for many years. He was afterwards in business in New York City for four years. In 1856 he removed to this county and engaged in farming for a years. He then moved to this city; was in the grocery business for eight years. He quit this to take charge of the National House, afterward the Rees House, which for years has justly considered the best hotel in Central Kentucky. He continued in the hotel business until the beginning of the present year. In 1849 he was married to Miss Anna Vanmeter Hutchcraft, of Bourbon county, who survives him. Four of the five children born to them also survive; John S. and Dr. Chas. H. of this city, Judge C. E., now of Washington City; and Dr. B. G., of Louisville. Two sisters of the deceased still survive; Mrs. Marcus Browning and Miss Eva Rees, both of Jacksonville, Ill. Maj. Rees come of a long-lived family; his grand-mother lived to be 113 years old; his mother nearly 100 and his brothers all lived to be over 90. The funeral was preached at the residence yesterday afternoon by Rev. Chisolm and Bolling, and the remains interred in the cemetery. Judge Chester Rees was unable to get here from Washington; Dr. B. G. Rees and wife, of Louisville, was present; Mrs. Mary B.

The remainder of his property is to be equally divided among his four sons. Reese, John B.	John B. Reese Expires Suddenly at Kansas city While on His Way Home to Die The many friends of John B. Reese will be pained to learn of his sudden death, which occurred Wednesday morning, at the early age of 27 years. The first intimation of it was a dispatch received by Dr. Logan, president of the Young Men's Christian Association, from Henry Reese, at Peoria, Ill. Mr. Reese came here about a year ago from Nashville, Tenn., to take charge of the Y. M. C. A. work at this point. He was an earnest, Christian worker, and the association at once took high rank and its power for good in the community was greatly increased. He was a great favorite with our people and made many friends for the institution over which he presided. A disease of the throat, which had been preying upon him for a long time became more deeply seated, and about two weeks ago he left here for Colorado Springs, Col. He grew worse and started to his home in Nashville and got as far as Kansas City, Mo., where he died. His remains were taken to Nashville, where the funeral will occur tomorrow. Kinsey J. Hampton, as representative of the local association, met the burial party at Louisville and attended the funeral.. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 27, 1894 Resolutions of Respect. A called meeting of the directors of the local Young Men's Christian Association was held at their rooms Thursday to take action concerning the death of John B. Reese, late Secretary of the Association, which occurred the previous day at Kansas City, Mo., Kinsey J. Hampton was appointed to attend the burial, at Nashville, Tenn., Saturday, as the representative of the Association, and W. B. Logan, R. O. Fitch and C. H. Rees were appointed a committee to draft appropriate resolutions. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted: Whereas, It has pleased the Great Ruler of the Universe to remove from the scene of his earthly labors, our brother, John B. Reese. Be it Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Reese this association has lost a leader under whose care and instruction it rose to a period of prosperity and usefulness never excelled in its history. 2nd, That the church has lost a useful and exemplary member and the community a citizen whose life is worthy of the imitation of our young men. 3rd, That we believe his life and actions have had an influence for good in this and other communities in which he has lived and the world is better for having lived in it. 4th. That we extend our sympathy to the family of our deceased brother, and will ever cherish his memory.. 5th. That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Association; that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and that the Winchester Democrat and Winchester Sun be requested to publish them.

	W. B. Logan, R. O. Fitch, C. H. Rees. Committee Memorial At a meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor the following memorial was read and adopted. "On behalf of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, of which our deceased brother was a member, I wish to express the feeling of deep loss which our Society has sustained in the death of Jno. B. Reese. He was a true and faithful member of our Society, ready at all times and under all circumstances to discharge duty. He was ready with his words or advice and encouragement, his prayers, his time, his efforts and his money. He was liberal to a fault in the giving of his means and seemed to have no regard for money when the church, society or charity called for aid. His life seemed to be a constant effort to put into daily practice the motto of our society, "For Christ and The Church and to try to live up to his pledge to "Do whatsoever the Master would like to have him do." While we shall miss him greatly, yet we acknowledge the superior wisdom and goodness of God who called him up higher, and may we press forward and try to fill up the breach made when he fell out of the ranks. We shall miss him in our monthly roll call of members for he has answered the roll call on high. "Peace eternal and happiness unending, be his, is the prayer of his brethren and sisters of the Christian Endeavor Society." W. F. Hilton Cor. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Oct. 16, 1900 The funeral of Mrs. Lou Ann Reese, whose death was recorded in our last issue was preached at the family residence by Eld. J. W. Harding and the remains were buried in the old Watts graveyard. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Oct. 19, 1900 In Memory. Mrs. Luan Reese, after a brief illness, died at her home October 15, 1900. Her funeral was preached at her home on the 17th by Eld. James W. Harding, after which her remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground by the side of her first husband. She was born in Clark county January 6, 1811, was a daughter of Merideth and Nancy Lawrence, who preceded her years ago. She also had six brothers and four sisters, gone on before her. She leaves one brother, James M. Lawrence, to survive her. She had no bodily heirs. She leaves a stepson, a niece and great niece, whom she reared and loved dearly. Besides many other near relatives and friends to mourn her demise. We weep not as those who have no hope, for we fully realize our loss is her great gain. She confessed her Savior in 1824, and united with the Christian church, and lived a life of consecration to her Master. She was ever ready to help hold up the Gospel at home and also to help sent it abroad. It seemed that no one could have greater faith than she did. She was united in marriage to Mr. Green Baxter October 16, 1834. They lived devoted companions as long as he lived. In 1878 the Lord thought best to take him. She remained his widow until November 17, 1879, when she was married to Mr. William Reese. They lived very happy together in their old age, until the death angel summoned him in 1888. She remained his widow until God in his wisdom thought best to take her to a home He has prepared for her, a home not made with bands, eternally in heaven. Dear Aunt Luan, we sadly miss thee, In our lonely home so dear; Since thy loving voice is stilled in death. And we can not hear thy loving words to cheer. From our childhood we have loved her;

	In our hearts we love her still; But the Lord thought it best to take her, We must submit to His Holy will. Since our loved one has departed, How our hearts doth ache with pain; Since we have been made to realize We can never see thy loving face on earth again. But we hope to meet her in heaven, Where there will be no sad farewell, There with God and holy angels For ever more to dwell. Lo, these many years she has labored In the vineyard of the Lord. Day by day she fully trusted In the Savior's holy word. God has seen fit to take her; In His wisdom he knows best, And we trust him to keep her Safe upon His loving breast. With thy eye of faith we see her By the gate that stands ajar Beckon loved ones to come to Her from afar. Oh how glad we will be to meet her, With that great angelic throng, Where we all can mingle voices In a happy, happy song. Reeves, Boyd	Sad Accident Late Friday afternoon Boyd Reeves, aged eleven years, was found dead at his home at Doylesville. He had returned home from school and when his parents came home from church a short time afterward he was found on the floor dead with a bullet in his brain. As there was no motive for suicide his death is supposed to be the result of an accident. He was a stepson of Walter Brock, and a grand son of Jack Eades who married Miss Oliver, of this county. The little fellow was a bright lad and had many friends. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday March 16, 1897

Reeves, Ella Frances	Ella Frances Reeves, 100, was born in Montgomery County to John and Mattie Myers on June 20, 1909 and died March 9, 2010 in Largo, FL. She lived most of her life in Winchester, where she married and raised her family. She married Thomas Ray Reeves in 1930 and had three sons, Ray Lee, Thomas Leslie, and Robert Ed. She and her husband were members of First Baptist Church in Winchester, where she was active in a number of capacities, including teaching Sunday school. Frances and Ray owned the Winchester Monument Company and a Dairy Queen on Lexington Avenue. Frances attended the University of Kentucky during the 1930s and earned her degree in education. Upon graduation, she began her teaching career at Trapp School in Clark County. After retiring, she and her husband moved to Islamorada in the Florida keys, where he enjoyed fishing and she continued her service to the church. Upon Ray's death in 1989, she moved to Largo, FL, to be near her oldest son and grandchildren. She was active in Indian Rocks Baptist Church in Largo. She was active and kept a sharp inquiring mind into her 100 th year and especially enjoyed quilting, cooking, and watching teaching videos in various fields of science and religion. Survivors include two sons, Ray Lee Reeves (wife Dana) of Largo, FL, and Thomas Leslie Reeves (wife Margie) of Bozeman, MT; a daughter-in-law, Joan Reeves of Largo, FL; eight grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband and parents, Mrs. Reeves was preceded in death by a son, Robert Ed Reeves. Services will be conducted at 7 p.m. Friday, March 26, at Scobee Funeral Home by Dr. Art Beasley. Reid, J. Davis	Death Of J. Davis Reid J. Davis Reid, a prominent farmer of Montgomery county, died Friday after a long illness of Bright's disease. He was a very successful farmer leaving an estate of a quarter of a million dollars, including two thousand acres of land. He represented his county in the legislature during the famous Williams-Blackburn race for the Senate, but declined further political preferment. He was an elder in the Christian Church of which denomination he was a devout member. The funeral was preached at the family residence Sunday and the remains were brought to this city for burial. He was a very useful and influential man and was related to many of our best citizens. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., July 3, 1906 Will of J. Davis Reid was offered for probate in County Court Tuesday. The will was written in his own hand and is of date October 4, 1905. After directing that all of his debts be paid, he disposes of his property as follows: To J. Coleman Reid absolutely the Jones farm and enough of the Games land, including improvements, to make him equal with other heirs. To Henry P. Reid the Buford place, part of Congleton farm, the balance of the Games farm, the Wamsley place, the Reid tract and enough of the land

	devised by N. Prewitt to make him equal. This land is entailed. To Carolyn G. Reid the home place, except the 5 acres allotted to H.P. Reid, and enough of the land in front of the house to make her equal. This land includes the residence of the deceased, and is entailed. To W.H. Reid a tract of land lying on Prewitt and Thompson Station pike, and part of the Chorn and Davis tracts, absolutely. To Elizabeth D. Chenault, wife of D.M. Chenault, the southern portion of the home farm known as the Treadway place, the Bean land, and portion of the lands purchased from J. D. Gay and others to make him equal. Entailed. To Walker P. Reid part of the Chorn land, including improvements, and enough of the Chorn and Davis lands to make him equal. Entailed. He directs that all of his personal property be sold as soon as convenient after his death, and that an equal division be made among his children. All the children are charged with advancements. He concludes with this admonition. "Let everything be done without contention and let peace and love reign in your lives forever". J. Coleman Reid, W.H. Reid and D.M. Chenault were named as Executors without bond. On account of the fact that W.H. Reid is a non-resident, he was disqualified, and at his request the other two executors will carry out the terms of the will. M.A. Prewitt, Caswell Prewitt and D.G. Reid, Richard	No section of the State can show a sadder official record than death has made in Eastern Kentucky within less than twenty years. First, Judge John M. Elliott, of the Court of Appeals, fell dead on our streets at the hands of an assassin, afterwards sentenced to death and later declared insane. Judge Richard Reid, of Mt. Sterling, of the Superior Court, died by his own hand. Senators Joseph Garder, R. M. Pieratt and James S. Hargis died while in the performance of their official duties. Congressman W. P. Taulbee was killed in Washington; Judge Van B. Young, of the Superior Court, was scarcely at rest in the grave before Congressman J. W. Kendall followed him. It is a mournful record, which all will hope may never be repeated elsewhere.----Frankfort Capital. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday March 16, 1892 Death of J. J. Cornelison. John J. Cornelison died Tuesday at Lexington and his remains were carried through here Wednesday for Mt. Sterling for interment. Some fifteen years ago Cornelison walked into the office of Judge Richard Reid, of Mt. Sterling, and cowhided him into a state of collapse. Cornelison claimed that Reid was responsible for an adverse decision given him in the Superior Court of Kentucky. Public opinion demanded that Judge Reid slay the man that had thus publicly mistreated him, but he was a Christian gentleman that could not stain his hand with the blood of his fellow man. He made a public speech at Mt. Sterling in which he explained his views, but many of his friends thought that the blood of Cornelison could alone atone for this insult. The proud spirit of Reid could not endure the imputation of cowardice, and in less than a week he was dead by his own hand. Cornelison was arrested and his case was kept before the public mind for a long time by a series of habeas corpus proceedings. After spending five years in jail, Cornelison was released. Public opinion was so strongly against him that his career as a lawyer was virtually closed and his life work ended. He has lived in comparative seclusion and his death will carry his case to a higher court than public opinion, or any other earthly tribunal. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 17, 1899

Reigart, J. T.	The American Accident Company has lost a suit at Maysville, Ky., which involved curious facts. About a year ago J. T. Reigart, a pension examiner came home to Maysville on a visit. He was wined and dined extensively, being a man of popular address and one evening at a "stag" banquet he threw his head back to laugh at a story being told. He had a large bit of beefsteak in his mouth at the moment and it slipped into his throat and choked him to death. Then, after his death the company received notice that his premium on the accident policy which was due about the same time had been paid. There were some suspicious proceedings about this, but as the local agent had given a receipt there was nothing for the company to do but stand the racket, though notice of the payment which had lapsed by the record was not posted of received until after the death. The company resisted on the ground that Reigart was a drunk at the time of the accident. His companions seem to have come to his rescue, however, and the jury sympathized with the widow, for a verdict $5,000 was given against the company,--Insurance Herald. Renaker, Mrs. Hattie		Shockingly sudden death Mrs. Ewell Renaker passes away at Torrent Saturday morning after an illness of a few hours When information reached Winchester Saturday morning that Mrs. Ewell Renaker, of this city, had passes away at Torrent during the early morning hours, universal was the deep and profound regret, and surprise, for no one here, not even her closest friends, knew that she was seriously ill, and her death was a great shock to the whole community. Some days go Mr. and Mrs. Renaker and children went to Torrent, as has been their custom for several seasons. Mrs. Renaker had been a sufferer from hay fever and asthma for several years and a few weeks at this resort each season seemed to alleviate her suffering. She was getting along as well as usual until Friday evening, when she suffered an acute attack of asthma. A physician was called and administered to her when she felt relieved. About eight o'clock the physician was again summoned, and when he left she was resting quietly. Mr. Renaker going to her bedside later found her unconscious and she soon passed away. And, so another-one beloved and known to nearly every one in the community – has passed from earth to the home beyond and entered into rest. A gracious, tender, loving wife, a devoted mother, mistress of a kindly hospitable home, her joyous, sunny temperament impressed everyone. Self-sacrificing and generous, her highest happiness was found in the home circle, where she always had the open hand of hospitality extended, and where she lavished the sweet earnestness of a generous nature. She was formerly Miss Hattie Gulick, of Pendleton county, near Falmouth, and ever since her marriage to Mr. Renaker, has resided in this city. Beside her husband she is survived by two daughters, Misses Mary and Lucile, and one son Wharton, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, services being conducted by Eld. J.H. MacNeill, of the Christian church, and the interment was in the Winchester cemetery, Messrs. J.K. Allen, David S. Gay, J.N. Hisle, N.K. Foster, Edw. Sutherland and Dr. H.B. Stubblefield acting as pall bearers. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 8, 1908

Renick, Abram Sr.	The Court of Appeals this week decided the Renick's administrator case from this county. In this case B. F. Vanmeter sued for $ 25,000 for winding up the estate of the late Abram Renick. Judge Scott, of the Common Pleas Court, decided that he was only entitled to the legal per cent on the personality, which with other allowances made the amount about $ 3,750. The heirs made a cross petition to have this still further reduced, but by the decision of the higher Court the amount stands as fixed by Judge Scott. The Democrat, Friday, December 11, 1891.  THE case of the Citizen's National Bank vs. Renick from this county was this week affirmed by the Court of appeals. This is a suite growing out of the settlement of the Abram Renick estate by B. F. Vanmeter, and virtually changes the voluntary assignment by law. This decision makes Renick Bros. And Judge James Flanagan, who hold a claim from the estate of the late Julia McGee, preferred creditors, and they will get most of the property assigned. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 3, 1892.  Monday, B. F. Vanmeter through his attorney, Capt. Hathaway, filed suit against Abram Renick for $25,000 for services as executor of the estate of the late Abram Renick Sr. In his petition he states that the estate of Mr. Renick was about $300,000, all of which passed through his hands in one form or another; that in January 1888, his work had been approved by the Master Commissioner and that he wanted to wind up his trust and resign, but that Abram Renick knowing how successfully Mr. Vanmeter had conducted a long lawsuit to sustain the will of Mr. Vanmeter's father and his experience in such matters, induced him to retain the position. The petition further states the Master Commissioner had recommended an allowance of $10,000 and the defendant promised to use his influence to have it allowed and urged that $6,000 then in the hands of the plaintiff be retained as part payment. He alleges that at this request and relying on his promise, he did not resign, but fought the suit to a successful termination, and the will being sustained, Mr. Renick got $75,000; that the latter failed to keep his promise, etc., and on this, the suit is brought. It will be remembered that Mr. Vanmeter brought a suit some years ago for his services and, being carried to the Court of Appeals, he was finally allowed $3,728.57. Retic, Belle	TUESDAY afternoon, Poindexter Bush, or "Deck" as his is usually called, the fourteen-year-old son of Will H. Bush, of Mt. Sterling, shot and instantly killed Belle Retic, a girl about the same age, who was raised in the family. Both Mr. Bush and his wife are Clark county people. Mr. Bush being a brother of Mrs. L. E. Redmon, of this city, and his wife a sister of Dock Eubank, of Ford. The Sentinel-Democrat has the following account of the unfortunate affair. "The facts in the case are as follow: Deck was in a bed room that adjoins the kitchen and opened a bureau drawer to find a collar button. He discovered a Smith & Wesson 38-calibre self-acting pistol that one of his older brothers had placed in there. He took it out and was looking at it then the girl glanced through the window and saw him. She tapped on the window, held up her hand and told him he could not hit it. Deck, little thinking of the terrible result, aimed the pistol and pulled the trigger, not understanding the workings of a self-acting pistol, and sent a bullet crashing through the poor girl's brain." The Democrat, Wednesday, January 25, 1893.

Revel, J. P.		A Fatal Accident. A fatal accident occurred near Allen, Texas, Friday, August 4 th , in which J. P. Revel lost his life. He was helping a neighbor put up hay. He was driving the rake when some of the harness gave away. He was thrown forward under the rake and was dragged some distance by the team running away. When extricated he was unconscious and died in a few hours without regaining consciousness. He was well known here where he had lived for some time prior to his going to Texas a year or two ago. He was quite popular both here and in his new home. He was a member of Onequa Tribe, No. 2, Improved Order of Red Men, of this city, but like too many members of fraternal societies, he had suffered his dues to accumulate until he had forfeited the death benefits his family would otherwise received. The Sun-Sentinel will take pleasure in publishing accounts of others, with descriptions of their graves and their services if known. Please write us what you know about such things or come and tell us. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 14, 1905  Letter From Q. Hyattsville, Md., Sept. 16, 1905 Messrs. Perry & Beckner: Dear Friends:--In this week's Sun-Sentinel, you re-publish from Collins, Ky., a list of names of 6 or 8 Revolutionary soldiers who were living in Clark county in 1840, and ask that the names of others be sent you by those who know of them. In the Winchester Sun of Jan. 31, 1895, (Bosley & Hampton, editors), I published a list of 89 Revolutionary soldiers who either lived in Clark county, or have descendants living there now. If you have files of The Sun you can easily find this list. In 1896 the Ky. Society of the Sons of the American Revolution published (Jno. P. Morton & Co., Louisville) a Year Book 286 pages, the greater part of which was compiled by me from original sources in Washington, which contained a roll of the Officers of the Virginia Line who received land bounties; a Roll of the Revolutionary Pensioners in Kentucky, a list of "the Illinois Regiment" who served under Geo. Rogers Clark in the Northwest Campaign, and a Roster of the Virginia Navy in the Revolution. In each of these rolls or rosters are the names of men who afterwards settled in Clark county, but they are not "divided off" in the lists so as to show in what counties of Kentucky they settled, except in the "Roll of Pensioners," which shows that, first and last, 59 men lived in Clark county, who received pensions as Revolutionary soldiers. The list gives in each case the date on which the pension was granted, its amount, the age of the pensioner on that date, and the name of the State from which he served. As no Revolutionary pensions were granted until 1818, and then only to a very limited class and as the first "service" pensions were not granted until 1832—or about 50 years after the close of the war, you will see that there must have been a grant many

		Revolutionary soldiers who lived in Clark county, and died there, without ever getting on the pension rolls. "Joel Hickman, private of the Virginia Line, pensioned ($80 a year) on May 7, 1833, at the age of 73," is on the list. So also, is Stephen Holliday-another one of the junior editor's kinsmen- and several of the others may be his kindred also. If I had a spare copy of the Year Book I would gladly send it to you. But if you want a copy (and it is well worth having, if I do say so myself), I think John P. Morton &amp; Co. sell them at $2. Anderson county had 18 Revolutionary pensioners, John Penny (which may be a misprint for Perry), among them, admitted Nov. 28, 1832, age 75—Va. State Troops. Benjamin Perry, of Henry county., and John Perry, of Pulaski county, are also on this list. I am laid up with the grip and can hardly write. "May the Lord be with you till we meet again." Yours faithfully, A. C. Quisenberry. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 21, 1905
Reynold, William	AA	William Reynold, a colored man who came here from Virginia when the K.C. railroad was being built, and has lived around Elkin ever since, died last week. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, February 28, 1907
Reynolds, _____		Another victim Among those who escaped from the burning building when the Court View Hotel was burned recently was Mr. Reynolds, of College Hill, who was an attache of the Burley Tobacco Society. Word was received here Thursday night that he had died the previous night from injuries received from jumping from the third story window of the hotel. The day after the fire he resumed his position in the Burley office and, while complaining a great deal of his injuries, did not resign his position until a few days ago, when he became so weak he had to give up. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 2, 1909

Reynolds, Dudley		A GREWSOME COINCIDENCE. John McAtee the Last of a Quartette to Commit Suicide. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.-Mrs. Julia Long, the mother of John McAtee, the Kansas City southern clerk who is reported to have committed suicide in Kansas City Sunday because of an accusation of attempted robbery, rejects the story of theft as the motive. She says John McAtee is an only son and could have had financial assistance had he asked for it. A grewsome coincidence comes to light in connection with the death of McAtee. When he was a young man he was intimate with three other well known young men-Irvin Gillis, Dudley Reynolds and Will Coker. Each of these men has since died by his own hand and McAtee is the last of the quartette to take his life. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 14, 1902.

Reynolds, Harlan	Murder And Suicide At a dance in Madison county Friday night Harlan Reynolds shot and killed Raws Underwood and then killed himself. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Feb. 17, 1903 Double Tragedy A Murder And A Suicide At A Dance Near Edenton, Ky. Richmond, Ky., Feb. 17 At a dance given near Edenton, this county, Raws Underwood and Harlan Reynolds, two of the participants in the dance, became involved in a difficulty, when the latter drew a pistol and shot the former through the heart, killing him instantly. Reynolds then turned the weapon to his own breast and fired, the ball also penetrating his heart, which caused instant death. The double tragedy caused a panic among the women, and several ran screaming from the scene, while others fainted. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Feb. 20, 1903

Reynolds, Horace	John Hawkins, who murdered Horace Reynolds near Hope in this county, on Saturday, August 3, has not yet been captured. It is understood he is in hiding in the neighborhood of his crime. Hawkins' friends claim that Reynolds enticed his (Hawkins) wife away from him and having taken her off to another county, came back and boasted of what he had done, till he exasperated the husband beyond endurance. – Mt. Sterling Advocate. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday August 16, 1895 After many years About thirteen years ago, a young man, Horace Reynolds was shot from ambush and killed in Montgomery county. John Hawkins was accused of the crime and fearing mob violence he fled from the county and went to West Virginia. An indictment was returned but with several others, it was stolen from the Clerk's office several years ago. During this time a reward of $250 for his arrest has been outstanding and the past week he was arrested at the home of this father in Estill county and was lodged in jail in Mt. Sterling. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 14, 1908 Some Mt. Sterling cases Fifteen years ago John Hawkins killed a man named Reynolds. He escaped but was caught last fall in Estill county and his trial is also set for this term. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 4, 1908 After many years Byrd &amp; Davis, of this city, were in Mt. Sterling last week being counsel in the case of the State against John Hawkins charged with murder. The killing occurred more than a dozen years ago and Hawkins tired of being a fugitive from justice, finally surrendered. The case was postponed until the April term. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 26, 1909 After many years In the Circuit court at Mt. Sterling the trial of John Hawkins for killing Horace Reynolds fourteen years ago, was concluded, Friday, the jury giving him two years in the penitentiary for manslaughter. A.F. Byrd, of this city, made a speech for the defense. The verdict was a compromise, some of the jury being in favor of an acquittal. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 20, 1909

Rhodes, Ben	The first hanging that had taken place in Meade county was that of Jim Ross, Thursday, for the murder of Ben Rhodes. The murder was a most brutal one, the victim being an aged and inoffensive old man who lived alone, and whom Ross knocked on the head with an ax while he was sleeping. The motive was robbery, it being generally believed that Rhodes kept a considerable sum of money in his house. If this was true the murderer failed to find it, as he secured only $1.75 and a silver watch. He denied the crime at first but afterward confessed his guilt and tried to implicate others. Ross was a native of Virginia, but lived in this city for several years, where he carried on a colored barber shop. A year or two ago, Lee Baldwin carried a lot of laborers from here to

	Brandenburg to work on the railroad at that point, and Ross was among the number. Being quick and intelligent he was quite a favorite with the officers of the party and was entrusted with the care of their lodgings. Before his death Ross joined the Catholic church and gave his body to a young medical student. The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 2-13-1889

Rhodes, George	The Winchester Sun Mon., 2-19-1968
Rhodes, Kay	On Sunday January 17, 2021, Kay Rhodes, loving wife, mother and Nana passed away at age 70. Kay was an only child, born March 15, 1950 in Lexington, KY to Nick and Dollie (Colosimo) Domino. She grew up in Winchester, KY and attended Saint Agatha Academy. Kay went on to receive her Bachelor of Arts in Education (English) from the University of Kentucky. She was a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority where she served as Rush Chairman and Vice President. On January 8, 1972 she married Tom Rhodes. They had 2 children, Nikki (Rob) Kehres and Brad (Renchell) Rhodes. She had 5 grandchildren: Tatum, Ryder, Mason, Kellan and Ashlyn. She taught at Conkwright Middle School in Winchester, Smith Middle School in Chillicothe and retired from Edgewood Middle School in Wooster, where she taught 7th grade Language Arts.. Kay was a lifelong Kentucky Basketball fan. Her kids knew if they had friends over during a game there would be lots of screaming at the tv happening. She was an amazing cook, and always made enough for a small army. You never left her house hungry or without "to go" bags. She cherished the role of Nana more than anything. She loved every one of them so much and enjoyed attending their sports and plays. Kay was a planner, a trait her family joked about because her children didn't inherit that at all. She always had presents bought and wrapped before anyone else even thought about shopping. Kay loved starting traditions with her grandkids. Every Halloween and Christmas the kids got matching pajamas (before matching pajamas were even a thing!). Her local grandkids went on outings to Baylor Beach and out on the Pontoon Boat, while her California grandkids had lots of Facetimes and vacations with her.. She was a huge dog lover, and her "grand-dogs" could do no wrong. Kay was preceded in death by her father Nick and her mother Dollie. She is survived by her loving husband Tom of 49 years, who stood by her side throughout her almost 5 year battle with cancer, her two children and 5 grandchildren who will all miss her beautiful smile dearly. Calling hours will be Thursday, January 21, 2020 from 5-8:00 p.m. at the McIntire, Bradham &amp; Sleek Funeral Home, 216 E. Larwill St., Wooster. Masks are required and social distancing will be observed. A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated on Friday, January 22, 2021 at 10:00 a.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church, 527 Beall Ave., Wooster with Rev. Stephen Moran officiating. It will be livestreamed on our funeral home facebook page at 10:00 a.m. Burial will follow in the Wooster Cemetery. Kay asked that donations be made to Tracy's Paws Rescue, PO Box 849, Hondo, Texas, 78861. She enjoyed watching all of the stories of rescued pets shared on Facebook. She also wanted to extend a special thank you to all of her oncology doctors and nurses at the Cleveland Clinic in Wooster, especially Dr. Paul Masci. Online condolences may be left for the family at www.mcintirebradhamsleek.com. The Winchester Sun January 19, 2021 + McIntire, Brandham &amp; Sleek Funeral Home

Rice, Lena		Obituary, Died, At Log Lick, Clark County, Kentucky, on the 4 th day of June 1890, of brain fever, Lena, daughter of A. M. Rice, aged 11 years. At the time when least expected it seems the grim destroyer came and snatched from the home and embrace of an idolizing father, loving aunts and little sister, this bright, young bud, Lena, was a bright beautiful, little girl, a favorite with all who knew her, and the idol of father and aunts. Who can, who will attempt to describe the feelings of that father in his sad hour of affliction? But we can only say, dear bereaved friends, weep not! Mourn not for Lena! While she is separated from you she has gone to join her mother in that Heavenly land where parting is o'er and you can truly say that you have a treasure in Heaven. Loving ones there, who are beckoning you onward and upward. A precious one has gone; A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our house That never can be filled! God in his wisdom hath recalled The boon His love had given; Yet while the body moulders here, The soul is safe in Heaven. M.E.E. W.H.F. The Democrat, Wednesday June 25, 1890

Rice, Mrs. Margaret	Died Mrs. Margaret Rice died at her home near Rabbittown Friday of pneumonia and paralysis. The remains were buried in the family graveyard, funeral services by Rev. Jas. Prather of Madison county. She was originally Miss Williams and was quite popular with those who knew her. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., June 18, 1901  Wades Mill Dr. Snowden and wife attended the burial of Mrs. Margaret Rice, at Rabbittown, Sunday. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., June 18, 1901  Sunday in company with our better half we attended the funeral and burial of our dear old friend and sister, "Aunt" Margaret, wife of Bro. John W. Rice, Eld. James Prather, of Valley View, preached an excellent discourse to a large audience. "Aunt" Margaret had lived for many years a consistent member of the Christian church at Log Lick. Nearly twenty-eight years ago, Bro. And Sister Rice buried their only child, Jim Tommie, as everybody called him. He was an unusually bright and promising boy. He was the writer's schoolmate and boyhood boon companion and when he died it seemed like losing a real brother. The untimely death of this dear boy made a sad and painful void that nothing on this side of eternity could fill. Time in most instances will heal over the torn and bleeding wounds of earth's greatest sorrows, but this will always remain a scar on memories envious tablet. So in after years "Aunt" Margaret seemed to find solace in trying to comfort and console others in the dark hours of affliction and a great portion of her life was thus spent in visiting and nursing the sick, helping the poor and needy and speaking words of cheer and comfort to the sad and distressed. Her life was indeed and in truth a benediction to her many friends, relatives and neighbors. After the frail and worn out old body had been placed beside the dear boy she loved so well and the little mound had been covered by loving hands with beautiful flowers, the poor grief stricken husband and father sat down between the two graves and wept aloud. His grief was truly, pitiable and as we stood by the side of our dear old friend and brother and listened to his sorrowful lamentation our mind wandered back to the once happy home of Bro. And Sister Rice. How many happy boyhood hours have we spent in their home. For many years Jim Tommie and I were inseparable companions, and when we came in late from the creek with tired limbs, muddy clothes, and dripping hair unmistakable signs of where we had been and what we had been doing, "Aunt" Margaret did not meet us with a frowning look or chide us for our tardy coming. She seemed to realize a fact that some mothers overlook that a certain portion of every boy's life must be spent in the delightful sport of swimming. A smile would over-spread her countenance as she went about fixing our dinner. How much pleasure there is in building up a "home." We watch with delight our innocent little children as they grow into happy, joyous manhood or womanhood, but the sad time comes when we see our home begin to disintegrate. The children either die, marry or go out from the old home to seek their fortunes elsewhere. And in the evening of life quite frequently the old father and mother bent with the cares and toils of many years are left alone to "husband out life's taper to the close." A word of comfort to the heart-broken old brother who is now left all alone to battle with the turbulent current of human existence. He who spake as never man spake, said, "In my Father's house are many mansions," and in the city of New Jerusalem, God shall wipe away our tears and there will be no death there, neither sorrow nor crying, no pain, but all will be joy and happiness supreme. No Bro. Rice, you are not left alone in this cruel and cheerless

	world, for the blessed Master has said, "I will never leave or forsake those who put their trust in me." Only live right here and the time will soon come when you will enjoy a happy reunion with the dear wife and precious boy in that blissful region beyond the star-lit skies. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 18, 1901

Rice, son	AA	Child Burned To Death An old house, formerly known as the Road House owned by Col. Ike Cary, colored, formerly of this city, but now a Democratic politician in Covington and the Road House situated on the north end of Angel street was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday at 10:45 a. m. It was so far out that the fire department could not render any services. It was occupied by Will and Dixie Rice, who were both away at the time. Will left early that morning for his work in the county. Dixie had gone to town a short while before the fire and left two small children, whom

	she was raising, one about six and the other three. The older left the house and when he returned found the house was on fire and tried to get his younger brother out but was unable, as the fire was all over the house, and the child was burned to death. Rice, Tony	Wants To Hang Samuel Crabtree Repeats the Confession of His Two Murders Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 9.—Samuel Crabtree, the Lawrence county convict, who startled the prison authorities Tuesday night by making a confession of the murder of his two cousins, Wm. Short and Tony Rice, was taken before Warden Hancock Wednesday morning. He reiterated all of the statements made in his confession Tuesday night, even minor details conforming to those of his first story. He continues apparently to suffer grim mental agony, and the prison authorities suspect that his mind is about to give way. He also shows signs of physical collapse. He said to the warden "I have told all there is to tell about the murder and I feel better since I have made my confession. Of course, I regret this, but the suicide of my father worries me most. I can never get over that. Yes, I guess they will hang me, but I don't care if they do. I hope they will." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 14, 1897 Convict Crabtree Confesses That He Killed Two Rivals—Others Implicated Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 8.—Samuel Crabtree, aged 20, a convict from Lawrence county, made a confession to the penitentiary authorities Tuesday night to a double murder, which he says he committed four years ago. He implicates David Dean, David Wellman and Dollie Frazier, all of whom were tried for the murder at the time and acquitted. Crabtree is now serving a three-year term for housebreaking and previously served one year for the same offense. He was a constant attendant at the prison chapel religious revival recently, and is believed to have been converted. Tuesday night he sent for Warden Hancock. Prison Surgeon Bronner went to Crabtree's cell and the latter detailed to him the murder of his two cousins, William Short and Tony Rice, in Lawrence county, nearly four years ago. They were returning from a dance, and all were drinking. They quarreled over Miss Frazier, and in the fight that followed Crabtree says he cut the throats of both Rice and Short, killing them almost instantly. He, with the assistance of Miss Frazier and Wellman and Dean, buried the bodies under some brush near a railroad trestle. Crabtree was never charged with the murder. His father, he says, became insane by brooding over the wickedness of his son, and committed suicide as he was being conveyed to the Lexington asylum. Rice, William	Dan Caudill, who shot Bill Rice in Fleming county last fall, has surrendered himself. Rice had stolen some cattle and Caudill attempted to arrest him, although not an officer, and killed him while trying to escape. Rice was a member of the Craig Tolliver gang and was captain of the squad that killed John Martin, who was taken from jail in this city on a forged order and murdered before reaching Morehead. Rice was a bad man and met the fate he deserved. The Democrat, Wednesday, April 9, 1890  David Caudell was on Wednesday acquitted at Flemingsburg of the killing of Wm. Rice some months ago. Rice had stolen a lot of cattle and was pursued by a posse; when they demanded his surrender he ran, and was shot and killed by Caudill. Rice was one of the most desperate of the old Craig Tolliver gang and was in command of the squad that took John Martin from jail at this place on a forged order and shot him to death while a manacled prisoner on the train between here and Morehead. His house was afterward surrounded by a sheriff's posse, but barefoot and in his night clothes he fought his way out, and although he was tracked for several miles by his bloody footprints in the snow, secured sufficient help to defy the officers by the time they caught up with him. Richardson, John B.	J. B. Richardson, who a few months ago taught school in the eastern part of the county, and who shot himself accidentally or with suicidal intent, was this week sent to the insane asylum from Powell county where he resided. The Winchester Democrat, Friday October 22, 1897  Suicide. At the Lexington Lunatic Asylum Saturday morning John B. Richardson committed suicide by hanging himself with a towel, which he wound around his neck and tied to the iron bar of a window. He was raised in the eastern part of this county where he has numerous relatives, but has been living in Powell county for several years. Last year he was engaged to teach the Pine Ridge school in this county and taught several weeks. While alone one afternoon he was badly shot in the stomach. He said it was an accident, but it was thought at that time by many that it was an attempt at suicide. The children became afraid of him and he gave up the school which was finished by Miss Pattie Wilson, of College Hill, Madison county. Mr. Richardson was taken to his home in Powell county but grew worse rapidly and was shortly after sent to the asylum. He leaves a family in Powell county in destitute circumstances. Richardson, Mrs. James	On Monday Mrs. James Richardson was struck by an engine on the bridge which spans the Kentucky river from the Jessamine to the Madison county side, and hurled to death upon the river bank 60 feet below. Mrs. Richardson was crossing the bridge, with two children, aged 6 and 8 years, and a younger one of only 4 years, when the approaches the engine bearing Judge A. E. Richards, President of the Ohio Valley Improvement Company, rushed around a curve at a high rate of speed. The mother saw the impending danger and gathered her children around her at the most extreme outward point of the walk. The step of the tender struck the little party, knocking the mother and

	two of the children to the ground below and leaving the other unharmed on the walk. The mother fell upon her head and was so seriously injured that death ensued in a short time. The children will recover , being only bruised and stunned by the fall. The bridge has been used to cross the river instead of the ferry, which led to this unfortunate occurrence. – Richmond Register. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 9, 1891.

Richardson, sons	Some marked peculiarities appear in connection with the drowning of persons in the Kentucky river from Boonesborough up to the Mouth of Red river. The drowning at Ford last week brings forth these remarks. From the settlement of this locality, 1775 to about 1885, a period of eighty years, it is believed nobody was drowned. About the latter year Capt. Turnbull, of Winchester was drowned at the mouth of Bear Run. Probably three years later, Pen Coe, another Clark county man was drowned just below the mouth of Four Mile. In 1882, a dozen negro men and a white woman were washed out of a railroad camp on Two Mile creek into the river and drowned near Ford during a sudden rise. A few years later, several boys from Clark were drowned at the Mouth of Upper Howard's creek. Since that time the number of drownings especially at Ford, have been too great to be recalled, but perhaps every instance except that of John Sewell, several years ago and the boy East a year ago and a colored boy the past Spring that were from Clark. Thus it spans that for nearly a century and a quarter only four or five Madison county people have been drowned along about fifteen miles of river and those within the brief period of less than six years, while Clark has been unfortunate for nearly forty years and the extent of dozens. But our Madison people on the North side never had any great love for water except for farming purposes.—Richmond Register. This is only a partial list of those drowned near Ford is even the last generation: Rufus Emerson was drowned at Boonesboro; a man named Tillet near the Mouth of Otter

	Creek; John Atkinson some where near the same place; two sons of Commodore Richardson at the mouth of Two Mile, and a negro boy in the big eddy above the Mouth of Four Mile. Zach Hukill drowned himself on account of ill health near Riverside; Bennie Butler was drowned in Two Mile creek and his body was afterward found in the river. Quite a number of other drownings have occurred, the names of the victims having escaped our memory. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 2, 1897

Richardson, Valentine Pieratt	BY HIS OWN HAND V.P. Richardson Seeks to Penetrate the Mysteries of the future Life. At midnight, strong, vigorous, and with every indication of a long life: an hour later the body a mass of pulseless clay, the soul gone unshriven into the Great Beyond and all the direct work of his own hand, the indirect work of his own unbridled passions or a woman's perjury. Who can fathom, the mysteries of life and death be so rashly and so suddenly defied? Our people were startled Tuesday morning by the news that Valentine Pieratt Richardson had committed suicide during the night, which was found to be true. He had retired in a room separated from the one in which his wife was sleeping. About one o'clock his wife was aroused by a pistol shot which she thought was fired from without. She called her husband and upon receiving no answer proceeded to investigate. Her screams soon brought a number of the neighbors who found that while lying in bed he had fired a bullet into his brain. The ball entered behind one ear and passed out behind the other and was found in the bed. Death was instantaneous and he evidently had not moved after firing the fatal shot. He came here from Morgan county about 1889 and bought the place now owned by Dock Flynn near the city. His domestic relations were not pleasant and he, with apparent good reason, accused his wife of being untrue to him. He left her and went West some time in 1890. His wife remained here for a while and was quite notorious. She afterward moved away and married. Richardson's father bought his son's property here and the dead man purchased land in Kansas, which he owned at the time of his death. A couple of years later he came back and was for a while engaged in business at Ford. About that time James Osborne, who was in business in this city, failed, and Richardson purchased his stock of goods and again went into business here. About that time he married Miss Ettie Lamberson, a lady less than half his age, he then being about forty. One child, a boy, aged about eighteen months, is the fruit of this marriage. He also had one son by his first wife, but the lad mysteriously disappeared several years ago and the father had heard from him only once since, when he incidentally learned that the lad, then some twelve or fourteen years old, was living some where in Virginia. His wife's older sister, Miss Margaret Lamberson, lived with Richardson and his wife for quite a while, but some time last fall she left and went to her father's in Powell. There a child was born to her January 6th. She ascribed it paternity to her brother-in-law Richardson, and some time last week he was arrested on a charge of bastardy. He gave bond for his appearance at Stanton February 6th, and through a friend tried strenuously to compromise the matter. Miss Lamberson refused, alleging that he was the author of her rain and that he had used force to accomplish it. This preyed upon his mind to such an extent as to bring about the suicide. He left a note declaring his innocence of the charge, though declaring that he would rather be dead and at rest than live a life of shame. He urged his wife to bring their boy up right. Coroner Crim was notified of the act shortly after it was discovered and in a short time he held an inquest with the following jury: R. M. Scobee, J. A. Tanner, Shelby Walden, Rice Jones, Jas. T. Ecton and L. T. Hagan, who brought in a verdict that he died from a pistol shot by his own hand and that the cause of the act was unknown. Richardson's remains were carried to Mt. Sterling for interment. He was a brother of J. C. Richardson, formerly Sheriff of that county. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 1, 1895.

Richert, Geraldine	Geraldine May Richert was born August 21, 1927 in Winchester, Kentucky and died December 4, 2017 in Indianapolis, Indiana. Geri, as she was known, was a good student in high school and college, completing both in three and a half years each. As a dedicated student in high school, she was also a cheerleader. At the University of Kentucky, she played softball as a freshman while majoring and graduating with a degree in Home Economics. She later went on to earn her Master's Degree in Counseling & Supervision from the University of Louisville. Her teaching jobs included high schools in Madison, Indiana; Erlanger, Kentucky; Cross Plains, Indiana and Austin, Indiana where she ended her career after 24 years. She taught girls not only sewing, cooking and other domestic duties but also about budgeting and how to spend money wisely. She was highly respected by students and colleagues throughout her teaching career. She lived in Madison, Indiana her entire adult life.  In 1986, Geri was elected Woman of the Year by the Historic Madison Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) and also became its president. Members of the ABWA are selected based on their achievements in business, education, community activities and their participation in the Association. She also served as bulletin chairman and vice-president prior to 1986. The association's mission is to promote educational, cultural and social advancement of business women achieved through scholarship awards to local women and fundraising to a national scholarship fund.  After retirement, she remained active working at the Paris Style Shop, as a hostess on the floating restaurant on the Ohio River, docent for the City of Madison Tourism Center and as a nursing home activities assistant.  Geri was also very involved with the John Paul Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Madison and at various times was President and revitalizer of the local chapter helping to bring it back into prominence. She also was an avid gardener and developed her backyard into an English-style flower garden that she loved to work in. Her garden was a stop on the Annual Madison Garden Tour several times over the years. She was an active member of the local Madison Garden Club and enjoyed many activities the club engaged in over the years.  Geri was a member of the First Christian Church, Disciples of Christ and also attended the North Madison Christian Church, and was active in both churches as well as bible study groups.  She is survived by her two sons John W. Richert and Charles L.F. Richert MD., their respective wives, four grandchildren, one great grandchild, two nieces and a nephew.  A graveside service is planned for the family in Winchester, Kentucky. A future celebration of life event will be planned in Madison, Indiana.  The Winchester Sun December 7, 2017

	Three men were killed and several wounded Monday in a battle with Winchesters at a camp meeting at Mt. Victory, 12 miles east of Somerset. Services were in progress when William Bolton, a constable, attempted to arrest two men named Richmond. A fight followed, in which Bolton, though wounded killed both the Richmonds and was himself killed by Columbus Garrison. Several persons were wounded by stray shots. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Sept. 11, 1902
Richmond, Milt	A TERRIBLE tragedy occurred in Breathitt county Thursday. Ned Strong, ex-County Judge, has a beautiful sixteen year old grand-daughter, Lydia Strong, who became enamored of a burly negro named Milt Richmond, and an elopement was planned. Judge Strong and a few friends pursued them and overtook the fugitives. A demand for surrender was answered by a shot from the negro's pistol which pierced Judge Strong's hand. A volley from the other side and the black villain was dead, pierced by fourteen bullets. The girl was taken back to her home and when her father, Pearl Strong, heard of it, he drew his pistol and tried to kill her. A friend struck his hand and the bullet cut a lock of hair from her head, but did no other harm. Crazy with the thought of shame that was thus brought upon the family, he turned the pistol to his own head and pulled the trigger. His aim was not true and the ball ploughed under the scalp without penetrating the brain. It is thought his eye was destroyed by being powder burned. He is being closely watched to prevent his committing suicide. The family is one of the wealthiest and most influential in that section of the State. The Democrat, Wednesday May 22, 1889

Ricken, John	The trial of William Smith for the murder of John Ricken, at the Proctor mines, occupied the Whitley Circuit Court for several days last week, and resulted in a verdict of manslaughter, his punishment being fixed at eleven years in the penitentiary. He was defended by Capt. Hathaway of this city, to whose exertions the comparatively light sentence is to be attributed. The sentence was a great surprise to the public as the death penalty or a life sentence was generally expected. The prisoner formerly lived in this county and is a son of Paul R. Smith who lived on the Ruckerville pike several years ago. The parents of the prisoner are well known to many of our readers as hard working, exemplary people and deserving of our sympathy. Ricketts, L.M.	DEATHS In this city Friday afternoon of paralysis, Capt. L. M. Ricketts, aged about 56 years. He has for some time been engaged in the grocery business on N. Main Street. He was stricken with paralysis Tuesday and lingered until Friday. He was a veteran in the late war, being Quartermaster and 1st Lieutenant in the 14th Kentucky Federal Calvary. He was a member of the Masonic order and of the Grand Army of the republic. The remains were carried to Camargo, Montgomery county, for interment. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 8, 1891.
Ricketts, Lee	Lee William Ricketts, 85, of Lexington, Kentucky passed away on Saturday, December 9, 2017. Lee was born April 17, 1932 in Manchester, Ky. to the late Clarence T. and Daisy (Wagers) Ricketts. He graduated from Clay County High School and then Berea College. He married Lois Van Hook on June 5, 1960 and later went on to graduate from the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy. After working briefly at Rosemont Pharmacy in Lexington, he went on to own and operate Corner Drug Store in Winchester, KY for the remainder of his career. His pharmacy was known for its personal service as well as its hamburgers. It's hard to meet someone originally from Winchester that had not frequented the Corner Drug and remarked about how great the hamburgers and milkshakes were. In addition to running his pharmacy, he enjoyed fishing and attending basketball and football games at UK. He was a Master Mason and also served as a member of the Oleika Shrine Temple in Lexington. In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his only sibling Clarence C. Ricketts (Lake Worth, FL). He is survived by his wife Lois of 57 years, his son Lee II and daughter Lisa. A celebration of his life will be from 12 until 2 pm Wednesday, December 13, 2017 at Milward Funeral Directors on Southland Drive in Lexington, KY. Funeral services will immediately follow with burial in the Lexington Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations can be made to Hospice of the Bluegrass and the Oleika Shrine Temple of Lexington. The family would like to extend a special "Thank You" for the excellent care provided at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. Riddle, Thomas	The Parents and Three Children Cremated Louisville, Ky., May 20.—A special to the Post from Monticello, Ky., says: News has reached here of the cremation of a farmer named Thomas Riddle, his wife and three children, living on White Oak creek, across the line in Tennessee, on Monday night. Some tramps had asked permission of Riddle to build a fire in his barn to keep them warm during the night. Riddle refused to allow them to do this and ordered them to leave. The same night Riddle's house was destroyed by fire and he and his wife and three children were roasted alive. It is supposed the tramps applied the torch to the house out of revenge. Riffe, John M.	Died—Dr. John Riffe, died Saturday at his home in Covington, aged 76 years. He was twenty-five years a prominent physician of this city and for many years an elder in the Christian church here. For the past twenty years or more he had lived in Covington. His wife died some years, and his daughter Cordelia, died about a year ago. He leaves two sons, John and Hugh, and two daughters, Maggie and _____. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 27, 1899  Wades Mill. Our brother, Tom, writing from Covington says: “We buried our good old family Doctor Riffe today. He had been a member of the church 61 years and an Elder 45 years, 15 years at Winchester and 30 years here. It was one of the largest and saddest funerals I have ever attended. It was a pathetic scene indeed when his two old servants came into the church and stood by the coffin to take one last look at the lifeless remains of their dear old master. There was not a dry eye in the house.” Some ten years ago the grim reaper entered the home of our brother and it did seem with ruthless hands took away his eldest son, Dr. E. B. Snowden, the family’s cherished idol, and who was just entering upon a course of usefulness and happiness. It was at this time we formed the acquaintance of Dr. Riffe, which soon grew into a warm and trusting friendship. He was indeed and in truth one of nature’s noblemen, competent, careful and pains taking physician and a gentleman and Christian in the fullest sense of the terms. And this leads us to remark that no one is so sadly missed when he dies as the old family Doctor. A loving wife or an idolized child lies for weeks perhaps very near the cold chamber of death. The Doctor is constant and unremitting in his attention to the sick, and finally the home which has been shadowed in gloom and sadness is made bright and happy by the returning health of the dear sick inmate. And thus it is that the Doctor has such a warm place in the hearts and homes of the people. Friendship grown in times of prosperity and happiness is some times evanescent, but when formed mid the chilling blasts of sorrow and adversity is much stronger and more endearing. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 3, 1899

Riley, Arch.	A Tragedy at Church At Troy, Woodford county, Sunday, a terrible tragedy was enacted. Arch. Riley and George Montgomery, brothers-in-law, met at church and at once began shooting at each other. When the firing was over, Riley was dead and Montgomery fatally wounded. The trouble began three years ago when a sister of Montgomery was seduced but denied it and left the State. The girl sued his father as Riley was not of age, and to save his father the young man returned and married the girl but left at once. He returned lately and went into the horse business at Nicholasville. The killing was the result of a casual meeting. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 31, 1895

Ritchie, Joseph	From the Chronicles of Winchester and Clark County. Joseph Ritchie There was a young man named Joseph Ritchie, who assisted the physicians and the nurses in their tireless rounds in time of cholera in Winchester in 1833. It would be well for the people of a town who aspire to be prophets and whose patron saint is the author of the phrase, "I told you so," to peer a little way into the future before they become too confident. Joseph Ritchie came to Winchester sometime before the year '33 and became a clerk in his brother's store, which was situated just across from the Courthouse. He was poorly clad; he wore a bed ticking jacket and other garments to match, but was modest and sensitive and conscious of his defects in dress and manner—a certain sign of a youth of a nature susceptible of receiving the highest culture. He had learned his lessons of beauty and grandeur among the Tennessee mountains, and from lessons taught by the beauties of nature he had been led to study the beauties of the spiritual law and to love the truth and to keep step in the narrow path of duty. Who was it said that, "To know ourselves diseased is half a cure." I do not know but he told the truth. Ritchie knew his faults and straightway began to improve himself. He looked about among the citizens of Winchester for a model and one day mistook the counterfeit for the true and was awed before it. Early one morning he took a bucket and started across to fill it at the public well which was where the fountain now stands. By the well stood a man whom I shall call J., who thought himself magnificent and whom Ritchie thought so too. J. fixed Ritchie with his piercing black eyes until he fascinated him—he stood still in the road. Presently J., opened his mouth, as did Balaam's friend of old and spake: "Do you belong to the human species?" "No sir," said Ritchie, "I came from East Tennessee." When cholera came to Winchester, J., fled like a wild goose, but Ritchie remained in the shadow of death to do his duty. There were few loungers on the streets of Winchester in June '33. Six or eight men, Ritchie among them, would meet in the morning to learn where their services were wanted, to nurse the sick and dying and to bury the dead, etc. One morning when these brave men were gathered before the court house, a man rode into town and inquired of Ritchie if the cholera were not raging in Winchester. "No," said Ritchie, "We had nineteen cases yesterday and twenty-seven today". The man laid whip to his horse, which was a good one and spurred him out of town and never was heard of afterward. Ritchie became a man of mark in the county and was sent to the Legislature from Clark. In 1835 Texas declared her independence and was fighting for it and Ritchie enlisted under Shanon and went to help her. The Mexicans took him prisoner and compelled him to work in the mines. His friends tried to rescue him but failed and he died in darkness and captivity, and no man knows his sepulcher. One there is who would gladly find his grave and place a stone above it and carve thereon, if power were given her, an epitaph that would cause his deeds to glow in the praises of men forever. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 8, 1894

Roark, Joyce Ann Hunt	Joyce Ann Hunt Roark, 79, of Winchester, wife of Lowell D. Roark since June 1984, passed away Monday at The Willows at Hamburg after battling with pancreatic cancer since January 2015. She was born July 11, 1936, in the rural community of Greenmount in Laurel County, the daughter of the late James Hunt and Marie Bowling Hunt. She graduated from Hazel Green High School in 1954 and Sue Bennett Junior College in 1956. She was a church secretary at First Baptist Church of London from 1956-1958. She then attended Georgetown College, graduating in 1960 with a Bachelor's degree in Business Education. Joyce then returned to Laurel County and taught at her home high school, Hazel Green, from 1960-1964. She then moved to Williamsburg, KY, where she served as secretary to the president of the Cumberland College, Dr. J.M. Boswell. From there, she attended the University of Kentucky, graduating with a Master's degree in Educational Guidance Counseling. Joyce's journey then took her to employment in Fayette County Schools where she spent 20 years as a guidance counselor at Bryan Station Senior High in Lexington. After retirement in 1993, Joyce spent several years doing volunteer work at Meals on Wheels and Hospice. Joyce married Lowell after planning a trip with Trinity Baptist Church to the Holy Land and Mediterranean Cruise, so this became their honeymoon. They enjoyed many trips and travels together over the next 30 years. Funeral services will be Friday, Jan. 8, at 12 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 32 E. Lexington Ave, with Rev. Rick Landon presiding. The family will receive friends on Friday from 10 a.m. until the hour of service at the church. Burial will be in the A.R. Roberts, _____ AA	At Sparta., KY., Jerry Constantine, a hotel proprietor, shot and killed a colored man named Roberts. Several weeks ago Roberts asked Constantine to pay a debt of $40 for him, promising to pay Constantine on thanksgiving Day. Constantine agreed to pay the debt and added that he would kill Roberts if he did not repay him on thanksgiving. On that day Constantine met Roberts at the railroad station and asked him for the $40. Roberts said he did not have the money, and Constantine said: "Well, I told you I would kill you if you did not pay it." "That's right, boss." Replied Roberts. With this Constantine drew his pistol and shot the man through the head, killing him instantly. Constantine has not been arrested. The Democrat, Wednesday, November 30, 1892.

Roberts, Jack	Trouble at Jackson. A press dispatch from Jackson dated Monday, says: "While four officers were trying to make some arrests Saturday night Deputy Jailer Jack Roberts was shot through his liver and his doctors say he is mortally wounded. "Col." and Josh Miller, Mose Feltner, Rob Vermillion, Sam Fields, all white and Dave Combs, colored, are in jail for the crime. "Col. Miller and Jesse Fields, of the famous French-Eversole war, who is now on trial at Barbourville for the murder of Judge Combs, were indicted at the last term of court for the murder of Alfred Little, a few weeks ago and are each under a $3,000 bond for the same. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 14, 1899  Cal Miller was sentenced to ten years imprisonment in the Circuit Court at Jackson for the murder of Deputy Marshal Jack Roberts. Miller is a beardless youth, but has always been inclined to be wayward, and especially after he had been a member of the Fourth Kentucky Regiment for a while in the Spanish war. Robertson, Alexander	The recent cold weather has caused many of the oldest inhabitants to put on their studying caps and conjure up recollections of the previous hard winters. Some interesting data of this sort are furnished by the Harrodsburg Sayings, which says: "The winter of 1779 and 1780, known as the hard winter began the middle of November and continued until the middle of February, without a single day being warm enough for the snow to melt in the least. Many cattle froze to death, and numbers of buffaloes, bears and deer, wolves, beavers and otter also perished from the severity of the weather. Wild animals, almost famished, were known to come up to the cabins with the tame cattle in search of food. The scarcity of food was so great that it is said a single jonny cake would be divided into a dozen parts, each recipient making his part serve for two meals. Quantities of wild turkeys were caught in pens during this early part of winter and stored away, and on these and buffalo meat they had to depend for food before spring opened. Early in the spring some of the men from Harrodsburg went to the Falls of the Ohio, now Louisville where they paid $60, continental money for a bushel of corn. The coldest day was in January and dominated cold Friday. It was so intensely cold that water thrown up into the air would fall in solid ice to the ground. Alexander Robertson, his wife and three little daughters were among a company of emigrants from Virginia in the year 1779. Robertson, who was the first Sheriff of Mercer county, settled four miles from Harrodsburg, where Burgin now is, and lived there until his death in 1802. His widow who survived him forty-four years, dying when ninety-two years of age in speaking of the cold year, said that her frozen breath often made the hairs on her head stand out as so many icicles, and that the mildest day during the winter was to her feelings, the coldest she ever felt before or since in any other winter. The warmest winter that has been enjoyed by the people of Kentucky was that of 1825 and 1826. 'The beautiful snow' was not seen and mother earth was carpeted in green. There was no ice of any thickness and the ground was never frozen. The winter of 1836 was remarkably mild but not quite so balmy as was the winter ten years before. For these facts we are indebted to Mr. J. D. Marimon, deceased and Rev. S. S. Deering, now a resident of Nicholasville. The third warmest winter on record was that of 1889 and 1890. Grass was green during the entire winter and in February peach trees were in bloom and many flowers in the yards. But on March 1 a cold spell set in that lasted ten days and ice two or three inches thick was formed. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 10, 1899

Robertson, George	JUDGE GEO. ROBERTSON Death of the Distinguished Jurist Last Night Hon. George Robertson died at his residence on High Street, corner of Mill, last night at ten o’clock. Members of his family and kind friends, who have faithfully attended him during his long and painful illness, were with him at the closing hour of life, and ministered to his suffering in every way that warm affection, could suggest. In the summer of 1872 the venerable jurist was stricken with paralysis. The lingering disease with varying phase weighed down the strong frame and keeping him an invalid did its work slowly but so surely, that those who knew and loved him so well were prepared for the sad event which has lost the nation a master mind. His last relapse occurred on Monday, when he was attacked with something like cramp colic. Every day succeeding he suffered from chills, and on yesterday morning about four o’clock began to yield to the dread summons. During the forenoon he was visited by Rev. Mr. Dinwiddie who held religious services with him. In conversation with Mr. Dinwiddie, he expressed himself as perfectly at peace and fully prepared to die. During the entire day the work of dissolution continued. The sufferer endured at times intense and almost unbearable agony of body, such was the struggle between giant strength and the King of Terrors. By the advice of his physicians opiates were administered, but they served little purpose. At nine o’clock he asked for water. It was given him by spoon, and he asked for the glass. Soon after drinking it he began to sink, and he did not speak again. About fifteen minutes after he had taken water, Mrs. Judge Alex Robertson went to his side and asked him if he recognized her. His answer was a pressure of the hand. Three times the previous question repeated but the power of the speech was gone, and only that gentle clasp told the sorrowing ones that he was yet conscious. Slowly the hand of death rested upon him, and just as the clock sounded the hour of ten, the heart ceased it’s throbbing, and the great brain was at rest. Two years ago Judge Robertson, with several members of his family united themselves with the church. From that to the end of his life he was an earnest, devoted follower of the Meek and Lowly One. For nearly two years he was almost totally blind, but so desirous was he to know “the ways of pleasantness and paths of peace,” he would have his friends to sing and pray and read from God’s Holy Word to him and from its teachings he seemed to derive consolation. The great mind, which had so long been accustomed to view all questions from a purely philosophical standpoint, accepted the simple laws of Holy Writ, even as a little child accepts the parent teachings. The man, who for nearly a quarter of a century was the expounder of human law, was himself a humble listener to the lessons of the Judge of the Universe. In death, as in life, the face of Judge Robertson bore the impress of that intellect which placed him in the ranks with those _____ of the nation in the years gone by. The countenance, when viewed by the writer last night, wore a calm and peaceful expression. The massive forehead, broad and smooth betrayed no sign of the suffering through which the body had passed. From the face alone could be detected aught of the pain endured. The body was resting upon the extension chair which he had occupied during his illness and in which he was resting when he died. In the room, at the time we visited it, was a little granddaughter quietly sleeping. She was not aware that the Death Angel had swept over her family and called a loved and revered one, and those who were there did not awaken her. Lexington Press The Clark County Democrat, Thur., 5-21-1874  Hon. Geo. Robertson, a touching account of whose death we copy from the Lexington Press, was one of the most gifted and distinguished men Kentucky, or even the nation

	has ever produced. During the whole of a public life extending over sixty years, he never performed an act which now reflects discredit upon either his integrity or capacity. He was a good and faithful servant, as is attested by the grief over his death, manifested by the people whom he served. In the memorable struggle in Congress, in 1820-21, over the question known as the Missouri Compromise, he was an active participant, and was the last survivor of that body. But in all the positions he filled, his genius beamed more brightly in conjunction with his incorruptibility, when he wore the ermine. His name is known wherever the reputation of the groups of American jurists has extended. In his public and private life he exhibited admirable traits of character, and gave evidence of the possession of such qualities as are calculated to win private esteem and captivate the popular will. The Clark County Democrat, Thur., 5-21-1874

Robertson, Matthew 'Doc'	The world lost a kind, clever soul with the passing of Matthew "Doc" Robertson of Winchester on June 18, 2020 at age 75. An ever-amiable family man with a big heart and a quick wit, Doc enjoyed over 51 years of marriage with his beloved Eileen, together raising two treasured children and becoming proud grandparents. Doc graduated from Lafayette High School in Lexington and studied at UK before serving with the U.S. Army Reserve and becoming a plant manager at Southern States Cooperative in a career spanning 43 years. Doc enjoyed golfing with friends, relaxing with his wife at home, and traveling with her on fun weekend getaways or on family vacations to the mountains or coast. A strong proponent of progressive values, Doc was boldly outspoken but respectfully good-humored in all of his conversations. Doc is survived by his wife Eileen, children Bo and Christianne; grandsons, John and Lucas, and numerous other cherished relatives and friends. He will be deeply missed. A celebration of Doc's life will be scheduled at a time to be determined. The Winchester Sun June 23, 2020

Robinson, Christopher Todd		Man found Dead in Jail Cell. A Clark County Jail inmate arrested on drunken driving charges was found dead in his cell yesterday morning, Winchester police said. Christopher Robinson, of Winchester, was charged with driving under the influence at around 4 a.m., Sgt. Donald Skinner said late last night. Jailers were unable to take his blood alcohol level because of an equipment malfunction at the jail, so Robinson was taken to the Clark Regional Medical Center for blood tests, whose results have been sent to a lab for analysis. Skinner did not know whether nurses examined Robinson but said that Robinson was coherent before entering jail. After being transported back to jail, Robinson was found unresponsive in his cell. Ambulances were dispatched at 10:58 a.m. There were no apparent traumatic injuries, and foul play is not suspected, Skinner said. Relatives told police that Robinson had health problems, Skinner said. The Lexington Herald-Leader Sunday 9-10-2006. LOCAL MAN DIES WHILE IN CUSTODY A Winchester man died after being found unresponsive in his jail cell Saturday morning, hours after he was arrested for driving under the influence. Christopher Robinson, 35, of 228 Silverton Way, was arrested at around 4a.m. Saturday morning and was taken to the Clark County Detention Center. After the arrest, employees at the jail were unable to take his blood alcohol level, so he was taken to the Clark Regional Medical Center to be evaluated.

		After testing, Robinson was returned to the jail and lodged into a detox room, where jailer Bobby Stone said he was sleeping and was checked every 20 minutes. When employees went to Robinson's cell to transport him to a meeting with his pretrial officer, he was not breathing. Stone said Robinson had been checked 22 minutes before and was fine. An ambulance was called at 10:59 a.m. and he was pronounced dead at Clark Regional Medical Center upon arrival. Stone said that Robinson's wife said he had sleep apnea, which caused him to have difficulty breathing while sleeping. An autopsy was scheduled for today. Services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Rolan G. Taylor Funeral Home by the Rev. Ike Sams, the Rev. Harvey B. Robinson Jr. And Gale Price. Robinson, Hubbard Taylor	Committed Suicide. Hubbard Taylor Robinson, of Georgetown, committed suicide Monday night at the Leland Hotel, Lexington, by taking carbolic acid. He went to the hotel Monday afternoon and the porter says he seemed to be under the influence of liquor. Nothing more was seen of him until the next day when the chambermaid found him dead. He was in the employ of the Brooks-Mead Furniture Company and had been for the past five years. They regarded him as a competent man. The Coroner's inquest elicited nothing of interest and the verdict was suicide by taking carbolic acid. From letters in his pocket from his wife, his domestic affairs seemed all right. No motive is known for the act but the Lexington Democrat says: "It is alleged that while Robinson was perfectly square with the books of the Brooks, Mead Co.'s office in this city, he had made a number of collections at Ford which he had not turned in. It is also said that he had been gambling and drinking a good deal of late, which combined, may have resulted in his rash act." Robinson was raised in this county, being a son of the late John Robinson. His first wife was Miss King, of this county, a sister of Mrs. John D. Reese. She left two bright little boys who were taken into the Orphan's Home of this city and were finally adopted by a family in Virginia, where they have a good home and are doing well. He later married Miss Craig, of Georgetown, who with one child survives him. The remains were first taken to Georgetown for burial, but for some reason they were returned to this city where they were buried yesterday in the lot of John D. Reese who married a sister of the first wife. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 28, 1903  J. J. Champs, wife, daughter, and son, Thos. Champ of Georgetown, Thos. Griese, of Lexington, W. E. Waits, of Midway and Mrs. Link, of Paris, attended the funeral of H. T. Robinson. The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Sept. 4, 1903  A Correction In the account of the suicide of H. T. Robinson in a recent issue, it was stated that his first wife was a sister of Mrs. J. D. Reese. Mrs. Reese was a sister of the deceased and not of his wife, and we make this correction at her request. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., Sept. 8, 1903

Robinson, Israel Grant	I. G. Robinson Dead At Williamstown, yesterday, after a short illness, of pneumonia, Israel Grant Robinson died aged about thirty-eight years. He was a man of high and noble impulses and those who knew him best loved him most. He began teaching in the common schools of this county when quite young and soon rose to a very prominent place in the profession. He was for a number of years principal of the public schools of this city and went from here to Williamstown where he had charge of the city schools for some years. He was for a while School Commissioner of this county, and at the time of his death a member of the Board of Examiners of this county. Some years ago he married Miss Mollie Haggard, of this county, who survives him. At the request of Centurian Lodge I. O. O. F. of Williamsburg, to which he belonged the remains will be interred here today with the honors of the order by Hickman Lodge of this place. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, December 27, 1893  PROF. I. G. ROBINSON (Williamstown Courier) Prof. I. G. Robinson, Principal of the Williamstown Graded Free School, is dead. Last Thursday he was in his usual place as teacher and Principal at the school building: today after the lapse of but one short week, his body is resting in the bosom of the earth. His death was sudden and to many of his friends unexpected. Thursday he taught his regular class and while not well was not very much indisposed. Friday he was too sick to go to the school building and called Dr. Violette who pronounced his ailment pneumonia. From the first the most dangerous symptoms manifested themselves and the disease made rapid strides on his system. After a sickness of but little more than four days he died Tuesday morning at one o'clock. Prof. Robinson came among the people of Williamstown three years ago when the school was first put in operation in the new building. He was placed in the responsible position of Principal of the school. Since that time he has passed in and out among the people of Williamstown and has become endeared to them as a man of sterling

	integrity, the highest sense of honor, rare culture and refinement. He has made a great success of the school and had become greatly loved by pupils, teachers, and patrons alike. Prof. Robinson was born in Clark county, Ky., May 28, 1856. He was the eldest of three children born to Butler and Emma Jackson Robinson. Their ancestors were natives of Virginia and were of Scotch-Irish decent. There was no royal road to education for Prof. Robinson. After obtaining a good common school education he commenced teaching, and taught five months in each year until he had spent parts of four years at the Kentucky University, and parts of two years at the Kentucky Classical and Business College at North Middletown, Kentucky, where he finished the nautical sciences, mathematics, English, Latin and Greek to the senior year. Since 1878 he has been continuously engaged in teaching. He was first assistant of the Winchester Graded Public School when he was placed in the Principal's chair and held that position six years. For a number of years he was a member of the Board of County Examiners and later for two terms was County School Commissioner of Clark county. October 23, 1884, he was united in marriage to Miss Mollie Haggard, of Clark, who survives him. The funeral services were conducted by the Odd-fellows of this place of which organization the deceased was a devoted member. Wednesday morning they were taken in charge by the lodge and conveyed to Winchester and interred in the cemetery there. Besides the relatives of the deceased a large body of Odd-fellows from this place accompanied the body to Winchester and where present at final interment. Handsome floral tributes were contributed and sent in charge of the committee to Winchester. The assistant teachers gave a floral harp with these words, "From the Teachers." The tribute from the school children was a broken column three feet high with these words "We loved him" The tribute from the Trustees was the gates ajar, three feet high, with the words, "From the Board of Trustees." Prof. Robinson will be greatly missed by the people of Williamstown. His place in the school will be difficult to supply. In every sense of the word he was one of nature's noblemen, kind and courteous to fault, a gentleman at all times and places; to know him was to love and admire him. In build he was almost a giant, standing six feet two inches and weighing near 265 pounds; his heart was as big in proportion as his body. He was in every sense a Christian gentleman. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 3, 1894 Prof. J. H. Dickey, principal of Bethel Academy, has been chosen to fill the vacancy in the Williamstown Graded School caused by the death of Prof. Robinson. There were fourteen applicants for the place. Prof. Dickey married Miss Eddie Shields, of this city and is a splendid man for the place. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 10, 1894

Robinson, James F.	Gen. Jas. F. Robinson died at his home in Lexington Friday. He was a son of Governor Robinson who was Governor of the State during the war. Gen. Robinson was for a while Adjutant-General of the State and for years was one of the city officials of Lexington. He married Miss Mary Wheeler, of this city and consequently was brother-in-law of Capt. J. L. Wheeler and Mrs. L. Hathaway. He was one of the most prominent turfmen in the State. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 10, 1892 Narrow Escape Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, widow of the late General James F. Robinson, of Lexington, narrowly escaped drowning Monday evening while attending a fish fry at the reservoir. She slipped from a pier into thirty feet of water, and was rescued with difficulty by Harry Brower, a sixteen-year-old son of C. F. Brower. She sent home for dry clothing and had quite as much fun as any of the younger people at the fish fry. The Winchester Democrat, Tue., May 28, 1901 Deaths The engagement is announced of Miss Lillie W. Robinson, of Lexington, and Mr. Henry T. Oliver, of Allegheny, Pa. The bride is a daughter of the late Gen. James Robinson and is a woman of unusual attraction and great personal popularity. Robinson, Jared	Dr. P.T. Rhodes, a leading physician of near Owensboro, has been arrested, charged with the murder of Jared Robinson, who died suddenly and mysteriously last July. Robinson was a prominent farmer and Rhodes was his family physician. Robinson had $5,000 insurance on his life, and three months after his death, his widow and Dr. Rhodes were secretly married in Jeffersonville. It is believed that Rhodes poisoned Robinson in order to secure his wife and property. It is believed also that Rhodes poisoned his first wife, who died suddenly last April. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 31, 1896

Robinson, Joe K.	Robinson Joe K. Robinson, aged forty-two years, died at his home Friday afternoon after a long illness of Bright's disease. He was a native of Clark county where he had spent the greater part of his life. For a number of years he engaged in the dry goods business but for several years he had traveled for Arnold Coustable &amp; Co. of New York and is said to have received a very high salary. He was an expert judge of dry goods. He leaves a wife, nee Lillie Gordon, and a small son, Jesse Gordon. He has a brother, Otie, of Kansas City, Mo., and a sister Mrs. Elma Peebles, of Omaha, Nebraska. Deceased was a member of the Baptist church and was also an Elk and Odd Fellow. The funeral was held at his home on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Wm. Cummins, of the Presbyterian church and Rev. Richard French, Baptist, jointly conducted the service. For several months, Mr. Robinson had realized that his malady was necessarily fatal but he met the situation with a courage and calmness that was very marked. About the middle of the week he visited "the Elks" Hall and to some friends he said on leaving that it would be his last visit. He expressed himself as resigned to go but said that he had hoped to live to see his boy grown. An intimate friend said to us: "He was the bravest soul I ever knew." The Winchester Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, August 8, 1907

Robinson, Thomas	Mr. Thos. Robinson, a farmer of the Grassy Lick neighborhood, while getting over a fence some two months since jumped on the stub end of an elder, penetrating his foot to the ankle. Mr. Robinson had the elder promptly extracted, and thought that his foot was entirely well, but after he had been walking on it for a week or two, it began to pain him again. A doctor was summoned and upon examination reported to Mr. Robinson the direful news that there was danger of blood poison, and that he would probably have to have his foot amputated. Mr. Robinson certainly has been unfortunate having within a few months lost his tobacco crop by frost, his wife by death and now his own life is hanging as by a thread. – Mt. Col. Rodenbaugh Better.

Versailles, Ky., Aug. 19, Drs. Welch and Neet held a consultation and expressed the opinion that Col. W. C. Rodenbaugh, who was thought to have been fatally wounded by W. Newton Lane last week, will recover. Lane will have an examining trial here next Friday, August 23, for the murder of James Rodenbaugh.

Rodenbaugh Dead

The Second Victim of Newton Lane's Murderous Weapon

Versailles, Ky., Sept. 2.—Col. Henry C. Rodenbaugh, who was shot and wounded and his son James Rodenbaugh instantly killed by Newton Lane, of Mt. Sterling, in the office of Hotel Woodford August 5, died shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning. He was unconscious for some hours before his death. His remains will be taken to Nicholasville, Sunday for burial. The funeral will be the largest that has taken place in Central Kentucky in years. The whole city was in mourning Saturday, and business was almost suspended.

A telephone message from Frankfort says that Lane was very much agitated when told of Rodenbaugh's death and was removed from the jail to the penitentiary for safe keeping.

Lane Is Safe

There Never Was Danger of the Slayer of Rodenbaugh Being Lynched.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 2.—The friends of Newton Lane in this city, which has been his home for the past two years have been much worried over the reports of the danger of his being lynched at Versailles, and on this account a correspondent has made a careful investigation of the matter. It is found that there is no danger of Lane being lynched, nor has there ever been. The people of Nicholasville feel very much aggrieved because Lane killed Jim Rodenbaugh, but they also feel that the law ought to take its course. A gentleman from Mt. Sterling, where Lane was reared, put it: "Lane no doubt shot too quick but the Kentucky idea is not to convict a man until all proof is in. I know nothing about the case, but I believe it will come out in the proof that Newt thought he had to shoot when he did."

Rodenbaugh's Funeral

Nicholasville, Ky., Sept. 2.—The funeral of Col. Henry C. Rodenbaugh, W. N. Lane's second victim, will take place at Maple Grove cemetery here Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Col. Rodenbaugh was shot four weeks ago and died last Friday night from the effects of the wound. The largest crowd ever present at a funeral is expected to be here.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 3, 1895

At Versailles Judge Cantrill has set the trial of Newton Lane, slayer of the Rodenbaughs, for tomorrow the 13th. Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge is attorney for Lane.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 12, 1895

Newton Lane, who was tried last week for the murder of H.C. Rodenbaugh and son J.C. Rodenbaugh, hotel proprietors at Versailles, the result of which trial was a hung jury, was admitted to bail in the sum of $7,500 Wednesday. This he promptly gave with Dr. Geo. O. Graves, of this city, S.P. Lane, of Mt. Sterling, and Robt. McConnell, of Versailles, as bondsmen.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 10, 1896

The trial of Newt. Lane for the killing of the Rodenbaugh's in August, 1895, will come up for trial in the Woodford Circuit court which begins this week. Lane is related to some of the best people of this county.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 27, 1896

The trial of Newton Lane for the murder of the Rodenbaughs comes up to-morrow in the Woodford Circuit Court.

Acquitted of Murder

Newton Lane was acquitted Monday of the murder of the Rodenbaughs father and son, at Versailles a year or so ago. At first everybody thought him guilty and it was found necessary to carry him to Lexington to prevent a lynching. The Rodenbaughs kept a hotel and Lane went there drunk. Trouble ensued and both the proprietors were killed. Lane's plea was self defense and he all the time contended that it was a ball from the son's pistol which killed the older Rodenbaugh, and this view of it seems to have been sustained by the verdict of the jury. Lane was closely connected to some of our best Winchester people.

	Voluntarily Surrendered.  A Prisoner in Jail in Lexington Feared Violence From His Victim's Family and Asks For Protection.  Lexington, Ky., Aug. 31.—W. N. Lane is in jail here to serve a ten days' sentence passed by the Jessamine county court. Lane was convicted of carrying concealed weapons and was refused pardon by Gov. Bradley. A stay of sentence for 60 days and a transfer to the Fayette county jail was granted. Tuesday Lane voluntarily surrendered to Jailer Gentry here. Lane is the man who killed W. H. Rodenbaugh and his son in an encounter in Rodenbaugh's hotel in Versailles, and since Nicholasville was the home of the Rodenbaughs, Lane pleaded that he could not be safe in the Jessamine county jail. Rodenbaugh, James	Lane Consults Breckinridge  Lexington, Ky., Aug. 8.—W. N. Lane, the slayer of James Rodenbaugh, slept well in the Lexington jail Tuesday night. At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning he was visited by Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge and his son, Desha, and they held a long consultation with him. Turnkey Elmore refused to allow Lane to leave his cell, and although Desha requested him to allow the prisoner to come into the vestibule all talking had to be done through the bars. Rodenbaugh, who was shot and wounded and his son James Rodenbaugh instantly killed by Newton Lane, of Mt. Sterling, in the office of Hotel Woodford August 5, died shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning. He was unconscious for some hours before his death. His remains will be taken to Nicholasville, Sunday for burial. The funeral will be the largest that has taken place in Central Kentucky in years. The whole city was in mourning Saturday, and business was almost suspended.  A telephone message from Frankfort says that Lane was very much agitated when told of Rodenbaugh's death and was removed from the jail to the penitentiary for safe keeping. Rogers, Hiram P.	Struck by The Cars. H. P. Rogers Accidentally Killed in West Virginia. The friends of Hiram P. Rogers were shocked by a telegram Friday morning stating that he had been accidentally killed and that the remains would reach here the following morning. The C. and O. railroad is putting in a double track near Ronceverte, West Virginia., and Mr. Rogers had charge of a steam shovel at that point. The road curves sharply at that point and as he was standing on the ends of a tie, a passenger train rounded the curve without warning and killed him instantly. The remains were brought here Saturday morning by his brother, Thomas Rogers. The funeral services were held at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church Sunday morning by Revs. J. a. Francis and C. B. Clark, and the remains were buried in the cemetery here under the auspices of W. H. Cunningham Lodge F. and A. M. He was a member of Onequa Tribe, No. 2, Imp. O. R. M., until recently, when he allowed his membership to lapse. Mr. Rogers was about thirty-six of age and was born in Virginia near the Tennessee line, and came here with Munday and Co., to build the L. and E. road. He was afterward in the coal business in this city and subsequently moved to Powell county where his family now reside. Several years ago he married Miss Irma Stevenson, of this city, who, with two little girls, survives him. He was a man of quiet, reserved habits but was quite popular with all who knew him. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 20, 1899

Rogers, Hugh		HUGH ROGERS, of Lexington, and well known here, died Sunday night. He was deputy marshal during Cleveland's administration and did more to destroy moonshine distilling in the mountains than any other man in Kentucky. Six years ago while at Harlan Curt House he was shot through a window, the ball going through the lungs, from the effects of which he at last died. It was supposed that William Howard, a noted desperado did the work, but it could not be proved. Mr. Rogers joined Morgan's command when only sixteen years of age. He was only in the army four days, but was in three hard battles, had his arm shattered and was captured and sent to Camp Chase where he was kept until the war closed. His many friends in this county will learn of his death with much sorrow. The Democrat, Wednesday, November 11, 1891.

Rogers, Wallace		Wallace, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Kate Rogers, of Sixth Street Lexington, died last week of blood poisoning caused by a kick in the groin, inflicted by Frank Scarce, son of a prominent citizen of Lexington. Investigation showed that about two weeks ago young Scarce became very angry with the Rogers boy because he refused to play to suit him, and gave the boy a severe flogging. After getting him down, Scarce kicked him near the groin, and although the wounded boy attended school for several days after the whipping, he took his bed ten days ago. On last Saturday week the family physician was called, and there other leading doctors were employed as consulting physicians, but medical skill was unavailing, and the little sufferer died a horrible death. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 28, 1891.

Rogers, William H.	Deaths Dr. William Rogers, a very prominent physician, died at Lexington this week. He was born in the Athens precinct of Fayette county, near the Clark line and has numerous relatives in this county, among them a brother, John Rogers. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 22, 1897 Dr. Rogers Will The will of Dr. W. H. Rogers under dates of January 13, 1891, and January 18, 1897, were left for probate with the County Clerk yesterday. The Security Trust and Safety Vault Company is made executor and trustee of the same. His estate amounts to about $50,000, of which he bequeaths $45,000 to his brother, James P. Rogers, and to the children of his brother, Robert C. Rogers, $18,000 to be held in trust; to his brother, John C. Rogers, $2,500 and the testator's undivided half interest in a lot of land located partly in Fayette and Clark counties, owned with said John Rogers; to his sister, Mary Rogers, $12,000. In the codicil, the portion of the estate devised to John C. Rogers is bequeathed to his children and at their death goes to the father. If his estate turns out more than sufficient to satisfy the legacies made, the testator's watch and chain and $1,000 are to be given to his nephew, John C. Rogers.—Lexington Gazette The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 23, 1897

Rompf, Elizabeth Lewis		Dr. Elizabeth Lewis Rompf passed away peacefully on November 12 at the University of Kentucky Medical Center with her husband of 47 years, John H. Rompf, Jr., by her side.  Beth was born August 14, 1951, in Lancaster, PA, the eldest child of Leonard Lawrence Lewis, Jr. and Elizabeth Myers Lewis. She was a proud graduate of St. Mary's College of Notre Dame, Indiana, where she met her husband, John. She later received her Master of Social Work degree and Doctorate of Higher Education from the University of Kentucky. She was a professor at the College of Social Work at the University of Kentucky for over 30 years where she chaired many committees and served on the Faculty Senate. She was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Winchester, KY, and Holy Spirit Parish, the Newman Center, at the University of Kentucky, in Lexington, KY.  In addition to her husband, Beth is survived by four loving children: Elizabeth Bruen (Sean), Laura Soldato (Dan), John Patrick Rompf (Erica) and David Rompf (Cori); eleven grandchildren "Mimi" adored: Addison, Patrick, Catherine, Elise, Michael, Meredith, Jack, Madeline, Charlie, Benjamin, and Henry; her brother Leonard L. Lewis,

	III (Barbara) and an extended family she cherished. She was preceded in death by her parents and her sister, Cathy Snell, wife of James A. Snell of Lebanon, PA. Beth was a life-long learner and instilled the importance of education in all her children and grandchildren. She served as PTA president of Saint Agatha Academy; a member of the Board of Directors at Lexington Catholic High School; and President of the Lexington Diocesan Board of Education. She also exhibited a strong commitment to faith and service. She began her career at Catholic Social Services in Lancaster, PA, and upon moving to Lexington, worked as the Director of the Catholic Social Service Bureau. She was the co-founder and director of the Winchester, KY Childbirth Education Association, conducting group sessions on childbirth and parent education. She also served on the Parish Council of both St. Joseph Catholic Church and the Newman Center. Beth was past President of the UK Chapter of Toastmasters International, past President of the Winchester Lioness Club, and a former big sister in the Big Brother Big Sister Program. Beth lived life to the fullest. Her bright smile engaged each person she encountered. She enjoyed watching sports including the PGA Tour with her son David; Reds baseball with her husband John; and Notre Dame football with all her family and friends. Beth also loved spending time at the shore including many trips with her Pennsylvania family to Ocean City, NJ and MD, and for the past 20 years in Oak Island, NC, where she and John hosted their children and grandchildren for a week each summer. Beth was a devoted friend to many, and she cherished the frequent leisurely lunches they spent together which always included a decadent desert, light-hearted stories, and her infectious laugh. Visitation will be from 5:00 pm to 8:00 pm on Monday, November 21, 2022, at the Leon Pace Memorial Chapel by Scobee Funeral Home in Winchester, KY. Ronan, John	AT Doylesville Friday, John and Jonah Ronan, father and son, became involved in a difficulty with Shelby Jett, concerning an account. The Ronan's went away and armed themselves as did Jett. When they met again the quarrel was renewed and young Ronan fired at Jett, the ball string him in the hand, while the elder Ronan fired at him with a shotgun, the load cutting the waistband of his pants. Jett then fired twice, killing the younger Ronan and it is thought, fatally wounding the father. After the killing Mr. Jett went to Richmond and surrendered himself. Public opinion seems to justify Mr. Jett. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 16, 1891. Shelby Jett, who shot the Ronan's father and son, at Doylesville, killing one and wounding the other was tried before Judge Chenault and acquitted. The living Ronan was then stressed, charged with conspiracy to kill but waived examination and bail was fixed at $ 400. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 16, 1891.

Rose, Fount	Shot to death While on his way home near Rabbittown, Friday, about noon, Fount Rose was shot and instantly killed by James Morton. After the shooting Morton went to the home of Jack Kimbrell and telephoned to officers in the city, who left to arrest him. Coroner Brinegar held an inquest whose jury brought in a verdict that Rose was killed by a pistol wound inflicted by James Morton, and that they believed the killing to be deliberate murder. Both men are from Powell county and had been in trouble with each other previously. Yesterday the case was called for the examining trial in Judge Evans' court, but the defense not being ready for trial, it was set for Monday. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, April 25, 1907  Case goes over The case of Jas. Morton for killing Fount Rose at Rabbittown April 19 th , was called in Judge Evans court yesterday morning. The defendant answered not ready, and the case was set for September 11 th , and the prisoner remanded to jail. This action really means that the case goes to the grand jury as Circuit court convenes on September 9 th . The Winchester Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, August 1, 1907  The following indictment was returned yesterday: James Morton for the murder of Fount Rose. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September, 12, 1907  Morton murder case The case of the Commonwealth vs. Morton for the murder of Fount Rose on the 19 th of April, went to trial on Tuesday and the evidence was completed yesterday afternoon. Rose, John A. (Rose-Hall Feud)	John Rose, a prominent farmer of Powell county, was shot from ambush on Monday morning by unknown parties and fatally wounded. About a year ago Rose shot and killed his father-in-law, Dick Hall, another prominent citizen of that county. Much excitement prevailed at the time and at the trial the judge ordered a special panel of 100 jurors to be summoned from this county. His trial would have come off in a short time. All parties were wealthy, and additional trouble will probably result from these killings. The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 7-24-1889  The brother of John A. Rose (who was assassinated in Powell last week), was in town yesterday. He thinks that the assassins will be captured. A clew to them has been found. There is no doubt but that his murderers were hired to do the dreadful deed. The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 7-31-1889

The man, Harry Farrell, who was arrested at Ford and taken to Stanton last week, suspected of being one of the murderers of John A. Rose, was examined and discharged, it being conclusively proven that he was innocent.

MURDER WILL OUT

Jim Combs and Jess Barnett, of Breathitt, Confess Their Guilt

Of the Murder of John A. Rose, of Powell County—Six Were to be Disposed Of.

The killing of John A. Rose near Stanton in Powell county on the 22nd day of last month, promises to be the starting point of another feud as murderous as any that have disgraced the annals of Kentucky. As is usual in such cases, women have much to do with the trouble, whiskey gets in its work, and at the bottom of it all, illiteracy and a want of contact with the outside world are the foundation stones.

The Roses and the Halls are among the wealthiest people of Powell county. They own many acres of the rich lands lying in the valley of the Red River. On both sides, they are vigorous and strong-willed. They differed in politics and have not been on the most cordial terms for a long time past. The Halls are Republicans and the Roses Democrats. "Dock" Hall (as he was known) courted the daughter of John A. Rose, and much against her father's wishes they were married. "Dock" was a frolicking fellow who loved whiskey and was continually getting into scrapes. He and his father-in-law were on bad terms, and finally an old lady living near Stanton named Mrs. Emily Boling was, in a mad freak of some drunken men, driven from her home and horribly treated. She was related to John A. Rose, and "Dock" Hall was believed to have been a participant in the scrape. All these difficulties culminated in an encounter between "Dock" Hall and John A. Rose on July 16, 1888, when the latter shot the former to death. Rose was indicted at the September term of the Powell Circuit Court for murder, but the case continued until March when the trial was begun and the jury in part selected. A very curious state of affairs with reference to the jury was discovered or at least sworn to by the defendant, whereupon Judge Lily again continued the case and ordered a jury to be summoned from Clark for the next term of Court which will be in September.

Many persons have all along felt that more blood would be shed over the affair, and the killing of John A. Rose, although it caused a thrill of horror, was not altogether a surprise. On the fourth Monday in last month he was on his way to Clay City to take the train to Winchester, when he was accosted by two men both armed with Winchester rifles. They asked a few ordinary questions and passed on but just after leaving him, turned and fired, both balls taking effect. He lived until Tuesday evening when he died. He did not know his assassins and nobody could recognize them from the description. All trace was lost and an effort was made to create the impression that as Rose was known to be a rich man the purpose of his assailants was robbery. There was a feeling, however, that this was not the true solution of the mystery.

On Thursday of last week, Steve Rose, the son of the murdered man, came to Winchester and had arrested at Ford a man named Harry Farrell, who was believed to know something about the tragedy.

Jim Hall (brother of "Dock") came down at once, and with one or two friends stayed here until Wednesday at noon, evidently for the purpose of seeing what might be going on at this end of the line. People were slow to believe that Jim Hall, who is one of the leading men of Powell, could have had anything to do with Rose's assassination, but a chain of circumstances has connected him with it in the most serious way. That murder will out was never more clearly proven than in this case.

It turns out that "Buck" Combs, of Breathitt, had been hired by Jim Hall to kill Rose for $1,000 last spring, but he got into a difficulty at Jackson and was killed by George Spencer of Montgomery county, with the very gun in his hands which had been furnished him by Hall to be used in shooting John A. Rose. J. Goodloe Combs, a brother of Buck", then took the contract in hand to finish Rose, and employed Jesse Barnett, one of French' men, to do the deed. On the Thursday preceding the killing, Goodloe Combs, in company with Barnett and a man by the name of Chas. Wall came to Hall's house, where Wall, who had come down from Breathitt with the impression that he was to help arrest a man by the name Childers who was wanted for the murder of one Puckett, was told the real nature of the job. Wall flatly refused to take a hand in it, and on Saturday afternoon the three started back for Breathitt. Arriving at the end of the K. U. railroad, at Orlando station, they put up for the night at the house of Wilson Combs, a cousin of Goodloe's.

On Sunday morning, Jim Combs and Jesse Barnett returned to Stanton and Goodloe went on to Breathitt. Leaving Wall, who was engaged to marry Wilson Combs daughter at his house. Jim Combs and Barnett went to Jim Hall's house where they received instructions to go to Chalyboate spring on Rose's place and lay in wait for Rose who was in the habit of coming to the spring each day to drink. They lay in the cornfield by the spring all day, and when Mr. Rose came, their hearts failed them and they could not shoot. Staying at Hall's house that night they were instructed to lie in wait for Mr. Rose next morning, who, it seems, they knew was going to Winchester on the early train, and committed the deed as above mentioned.

Wall informed Wilson Combs, during Sunday, what they had wanted him to do, telling the entire story, and on Monday morning Wilson Combs and Wall came to Stanton for the purpose of warning Rose, but arrived too late, the shooting having occurred about an hour previous to their arrival at Mr. Rose's house. Since the deed had been done they kept their counsel and returned to Orlando.

Some days afterward, a man by the name of Boone who lives near Stanton, and is a friend of Rose intercepted a note in the hands of a boy, from Goodloe Combs who was then at Wilson Combs house, to Jim Hall, which asked for all the money Hall could spare, as he was going after those men. Boone who is a very intelligent, law-abiding citizen, and was anxious that the murderer's should be brought to justice, putting the facts of Rose's assassination, Goodloe's visit and the demand for money together, struck a clue he concluded to follow, and going to Steve, the son of John A. Rose, and telling him of his suspicion, was furnished money to make the trip to Breathitt and investigate the matter. He started on his way, and fell in with Goodloe who had gotten the money and was on his return home. They traveled together as far as Campton, Boone playing the role of detective to great perfection. They could not get horses in Campton to pursue their journey, and Combs went to his brother's house a few miles from that place to secure a horse to continue his journey. As soon as Combs had gone, Boone went to the jailer of Wolf county and told his tale, and the jailer immediately secured horses and accompanied Boone to Jackson, arriving there before Combs. They found Barnett sitting upon the Court House fence, and after a fierce struggle he was arrested and locked up, until Jim Combs, who was in another portion of the county, could be caught. After locating Jim they hired a friend of his to bring him to a designated point, telling this friend they just wanted Jim on a bench warrant, and at the same time paying him $15 for his services. Jim was captured without a serious struggle, and in the dead of night, the two murderers were hustled off with a strong guard around them in the direction of Stanton, arriving at Campton about daylight. Coming past Orlando they stopped and secured Wall who was still at Wilson Combs, and took the trio to Stanton and locked them up for the night.

On Thursday morning the jury was selected to give them a preliminary hearing, Barnett being placed upon the stand first. He lied from beginning to end, and when an attempt was made to cross-question him; he refused to say a word. He was taken from the stand and Combs was brought in, and sworn and began telling a story entirely different from Barnett's and finally stopped and would talk no more. After a moment he asked to say something to the men who had arrested him, given permission, and after about a minutes conversation with them jumped up saying: "Well, my trial is going to be d—d short; me and Barnett killed Rode, and Wall there had nothing to do with it, Jim Hall was to give us a $1,000 for the job, but he ain't paid us yet." Then Barnett jumped up and started to help Combs along in the telling of it, saying, " that pistol there you took from me belongs to Jim Hall; you all know it; I got it at his house. Me and Jim both fired at the same time, and I don't know which us hit him; but we killed him and Jim Hall was to pay us." They then proceeded with their story, each helping the other, while their listeners sat spell-bound. They told of Goodloe Combs hiring them to do the job, and about Wall backing out, and how they went to Hall's house, describing every room and the members of the family accurately, told of the instructions Hall gave them, about their lying in wait at the springs and how they finally accomplished their purpose, making such complete net of testimony that even Hall's stanches friends could not help believe that he had hired the deed done. Excitement ran very high, but it seemed to be the disposition of the people to let the law take its course. After the two murderers had unburdened their minds, they seemed like two school boys just out of school, and laughed and talked and danced around in being taken back to jail.

On Thursday evening, the sheriff with a guard of twelve men took Combs, Barnett and Wall-the latter being held as an accessory to the crime-to Mt. Sterling for safe keeping, where they now are, and will undoubtedly be given the full penalty of the law.

On Friday morning the deputy sheriff of Powell county went to Hall's house in search of him, but he was not at home. That evening Hall sent word to the authorities that he would not be taken, but would stay there and come in and stand trial if his followers would be permitted to accompany him; or he would go to Mt. Sterling to be tried, unarmed. These two propositions will be entirely ignored, and it is safe to say that Jim Hall, the main instigator of this horrible affair will soon be in the clutches of the law where he will get his just due.

Jesse Barnett is a member of French's paid army, having been through the French-Eversole feud, and is only 19 years of age. He acknowledges to the killing of five men. His father was a moonshiner, and was killed some years ago in resisting arrest. French has moved his camp into Breathitt county, and the people of Powell are fearful that he will come on down and protect Hall; and with the following that Hall can command, it will be necessitate fully 1,000 soldiers who are inexperienced in mountain warfare to subdue the combined forces of these two factions. and restore peace and order in the community.

Jim Combs, who is 24 years old, is a cousin of "Buck" Combs, who was one of the terrors of Breathitt county, and was also in the employ of French at the time of his arrest.

Barnett and Combs also state that they were to put Steve Rose, son of John A., George Spencer, of Montgomery county, G. W. Sewell and J. H. Hargis, of Jackson, and James Hamins , of Powell county, all out of the way.

The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 8-7-1889

A number of people were here from Powell Monday and report the county as quite as it ever was. Jim Hall has not yet been arrested and it is not known where he is although it is generally thought that he has not left the county and will give himself up when the excitement with reference to the killing of John A. Rose dies out. It is hard to believe that as plucky, manly a fellow as Jim Hall has always shown himself to be would have engaged in the cowardly scheme of assassination with which he is connected by the stories of Combs and Barnett. Our reporter made a mistake in his narrative of the murder a few weeks ago when he said that Doe Hall was connected with the frolic at Wm. Bolling's. It was one of the Rose boys who were charged with being there. We hope that the law will be allowed to take its course and that there will be no more bloodshed in Powell.

The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 8-28-1889

Jas. Combs, now in our county jail charged with the murder of Jno. A. Rose, of Powell, has been acting very strangely of late. He imagines he sees Rose in the jail and tries to hide from the phantom of his imagination, frequently covering his face with a quilt or blanket. Mr. Punch, the jailer, thinks Combs is fast losing his mind.

The trial of Charles Wall, James Combs and Jesse Barnett for the murder of John Rose, occupied the attention of the Stanton Circuit Court last week. A venire of fifty jurors from this county were summoned but only three jurors were obtained from them, viz: A. G. McCauley, D. G. Epperson and J. T. Luman. The case was finally continued until next term, and the sheriff was ordered to summon 150 jurors from Wolfe county. F. Matt Bush, of this county was the leading counsel for the defense, and associated with him were J. C. Lykins and V. P. Smith, county attorneys respectively of Wolfe and Estill counties.

The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 9-25-1889

In the Powell Circuit Court this week, Jas. Combs, aged 21 years and Jesse Barnett, aged 15 were sentenced to the penitentiary for life for the killing of James Rose near Clay City last year. Rose was on his way to this city and was waylaid and killed. Barnett and Combs were arrested on suspicion and confessed the killing, and that one, Hall, father-in-law of the dead man had offered them a thousand dollars to commit the deed. The latter has never been arrested.

The Democrat, Wednesday, March 26, 1890

A year ago last July, John Rose was shot from ambush and killed in Powell county while on his way to this city. At the recent meeting of the Powell Circuit Court, James Hall, one of the wealthiest citizens of the county, was indicted for complicity. Thursday, Senator Haggard, as his counsel, procured his release on ten thousand dollars bond which was readily given.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 1, 1890

Another case that has attracted much attention from wealth and prominence of the parties, is the trial of James Hall for complicity in the murder of John Rose about a year ago. Rose shot and killed Dock Hall in a private quarrel. Hall was Rose's son-in-law, having married his daughter much against the wishes of her father. Bad blood was thus engendered and quarrels were frequent, in one of which Hall was killed. Several months after this he started from his home above Clay City to attend Court here. As he lived some distance from the depot it was necessary for him to start very early to catch the morning train. On his way to the station he was joined by two unknown men who engaged him in conversation. At a given signal the strangers drew their pistols and began shooting at Rose, who fell mortally wounded, the assassins escaping. They proved to be Jesse Barnett and one of the Combs', and were apprehended shortly after. Upon trial they were convicted, and are now serving out a life sentence in the penitentiary. When first arrested they said James Hall, who was a kinsman of the murdered Dock Hall, had hired them to kill Rose, but afterward they retracted this confession. Hall was indicted by the grand jury and some months afterward surrendered and was released on bail. He is the wealthiest and most influential man in Powell county, and will make a desperate effort for acquittal. Senator Haggard of this city is the lead counsel for the defense.

Later—We learn that owing to the illness of Judge Lilly, the special term was adjourned.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 28, 1891

Goodloe Combs, charged with being an accessory in the murder of John Rose, of Powell county and who was never caught, surrendered recently and was granted bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 18, 1891

Powell Circuit Court adjourned last week, and but little progress was made in its big murder docket. Wm. Smith was convicted of the murder of Andrew Gibbs last August, and was sentenced to be hung May 12th. This is the first sentence ever passed in the county. The cases of Jas. Hall and Goodloe Combs who were under $10,000 bonds each, for complicity in the murder of Rose; of Simpson Bush for the murder of his wife; of Thos. Baker for the murder of Spencer; and other cases went over to the next term.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 27, 1891

An attempt was made a few nights ago to assassinate Stephen Rose, of Powell county. A number of shots were fired through the window, three of which penetrated the bed in which Rose and his wife were sleeping. Rose is the son of John Rose who was assassinated a year or two ago while on his way to this city and for which Jesse Barnett and Jas. Combs are now in the penitentiary.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 13, 1891

The trial of James Hall for complicity in the murder of John Rose, was continued and he was again released on $ 10,000 bail.

The Democrat, Wednesday, September 30, 1891.

CIRCUIT Court was in session in Powell county last week. Owing to the shortness of the session but little was done. The cases of James Hall and Goodloe Combs, charged with being accessories to the murder of John Rose, a few years ago, were continued by the Commonwealth.

The Democrat, Wednesday, September 28, 1892.

Jailer Alvin Folkner and Deputy Sheriff Albert Welch, of Powell county, passed through here Saturday in charge of Jesse Barnett, James Combs and Chas. Waugh, three prisoners from the Eddyville penitentiary, who were on their way to Stanton to appear as commonwealth's witnesses against J. H. Hall and Goodloe Combs, who are to be tried this week in the Powell County Circuit Court for the murder John Rose in the fall of 1887.

The three prisoners were sentenced were sentenced to imprisonment for life for the murder of the same man at the February term, 1890, of the same court.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 14, 1893

The Sheriff of Powell county passed through here Thursday with Charles Waugh, James Combs and Jesse Barnett. These were being taken to Stanton to testify against Goodloe Combs for the murder of John Rose some years ago. Waugh, Combs and Barnett are now under a sentence of life imprisonment for this crime. Jas. Hall one of the most prominent citizens of the county, was tried last year for complicity and acquitted.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 15, 1893

In the Powell Circuit Court Wednesday, Goodloe Combs was sentenced to the penitentiary for life for complicity in the murder of John Rose three years ago. Jesse Barnett, Chas. Waugh and Jim Combs are already serving life sentences for the same offense. James Hall, probably the wealthiest man in the county was tried last fall for employing these men to commit the murder, but was acquitted.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 29, 1893

Jesse Barnett, Chas. Waugh and Jas. Combs who are serving a life sentence for the murder of John Rose of Powell county were used as witnesses against Goodloe Combs who last week received a life sentence for complicity in the same crime. An appeal will be taken on the grounds that the law allowing convicts to testify is illegal.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 29, 1893

At Stanton Judge Scott overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of Goodloe Combs, sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in the murder of John A. Rose. The case will go to the Court of Appeals.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, December 13, 1893

THE case of Goodloe Combs, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life in the Powell Circuit Court, for complicity in the murder of John Rose a few years ago, has been reversed by the Court of Appeals.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 13, 1894.

A special from Stanton of the 28th, has the following in which the plaintiffs are closely related to the families of Capt. Hathaway, Capt. Wheeler and others. John C. Mason, mentioned herein, was formerly Congressman from this district, and Capt. Wheeler was at one time engaged in the iron business in the section referred to. "One of the largest land suits ever brought in the Powell County Circuit was filed here today, styled R. A. Mason, Lizzie F. Mason, of Texas; Chess O. Mason and George Mason of Bath county, Ky., children and heirs of the John C. Mason, who died in Texas in 1865, against J. R. Hardwick, John W. Williams, John A. Rose, Green H. Hall and O. V. Forkner, of Powell county, for the possession of 3000 acres of land, lying near Stanton, and $10,000 damages. The land sued for was sold for taxes by the sheriff of Powell county in 1877, and was knocked off to the parties named for $39 and in lawful time afterward the purchasers received a deed for the same from the Sheriff; since which time they have had undisputed possession of, and have sold off several tracts to other parties who have greatly improved the lands. The heirs were then minors, but now have become of age and set up their claim. They are descendants of a prominent family. Mr. R. A. Mason is at this time the United States Marshal of the State of Texas. His father, John C. Mason, was once a prominent Kentuckian, and owned a large tract of land in this section of the State, but had sold off the greater part of it before and since his removal to Texas, and after his death in 1865 the unsold lands here were narrow strips of several miles in length, mainly on the mountain range on each side of Red river, covered with timber, but was neglected and unnoticed until the development of this part of the State by the building of the Kentucky Union railroad and the erection of many saw mills and other industries. Two of the defendants to the suit, John A. Rose and O. V. Forkner, died a few years ago, and the several children have been made party defendants. Judge B. F. Day, of Mt. Sterling and the Hon. John D. Atkinson, of this place filed the petition and of course, there will be a hard fought battle on both sides, and the bringing of this action creates quite a sensation."

Circuit Court is in session at Stanton this week. Judge Scott is presiding and is said to be looking well, notwithstanding his close confinement and the fact that his courts succeed each other with little intermission. Among the principal cases set for this week was that of Goodloe Combs for complicity in the killing of Rose. He was tried once and got a life sentence but the case was reversed on some technicality and sent back. Dock

In the Stanton Circuit Court John Kimbrell was given two years in the pen for horse stealing; The case of the Commonwealth against Goodloe Combs, of Breathitt, for being accessory to the murder of John A. Rose and who at the February term received a life sentence, which was reversed by the court of Appeals was continued until the November term of the Powell Circuit Court, and he was released on bail of $7,500. The White will case of which we made mention in our last issue, was continued until this morning.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday June 26, 1894

During the last few days Goodloe Combs has been on trial for his life at Stanton, for complicity in the murder of John Rose, who was killed about five years ago while on his way to attend court in this city. James Hall, the wealthiest man in Powell county, was tried for complicity but was acquitted. Charles Waugh, Jesse Barnett and Jas. Combs were convicted and received life sentences. Combs died in prison, and the other two passed through here Wednesday on their way from Eddyville prison to be witnesses in the case. Goodloe Combs was tried about a year ago and was sentenced to the pen for life, but this was reversed by the Court of Appeals and a new trial granted. Dock Eubank, of this county, is a witness in the case, and has been at Stanton this week for the purpose.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, Nov. 20, 1894

The trial of Goodloe Combs, which had engaged the attention of the Stanton Circuit Court for a week was concluded Wednesday by the jury returning a verdict of confinement in the penitentiary for life. At a previous trial he received the same sentence, which was reversed by the Court of Appeals.
The Winchester Democrat, Friday, Nov. 23, 1894

The case of Goodloe Combs, who appeals from a life sentence, imposed by the Powell Circuit Court for the murder of John Rose was set for Saturday.
The Winchester Democrat, January 22, 1895.

CITY, COUNTY, STATE-THE case of Goodloe Combs on an appeal from a life sentence to the penitentiary imposed by the Powell Circuit Court for the murder of John Rose comes up today in the Court of Appeals.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 12, 1895.

The case of Goodloe Combs, of Clay City, was affirmed in the Court of Appeals Tuesday. Combs entered into a conspiracy with his brother, James Combs, Charles Waugh and Jessie Barnett, to murder John Rose in 1889 and was convicted and given a sentence of life imprisonment. The case has been twice tried in the lower courts and twice appealed, the same verdict being reached each time.
The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 1, 1895

The Sheriff of Powell county had Goodloe Combs, who for the third time got a life sentence for the murder of John Rose, who was waylaid and shot while on his way to attend court in this city. Charles Waugh and Jesse Barnett are also serving life sentences for the same crime.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 5, 1895

Another case growing out of the killing of John Rose some years ago, was decided. Mrs. Rose sued Jas. Hall for $ 30,000 damages for his connection with the killing, but as Hall had been tried and acquitted, the Judge gave preemptory instructions for him and the jury returned a verdict in accordance.
The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 29, 1895.

Floyd Barnett, who was arrested by Marshall G. W. Drake last week for robbing the mail near Jackson and who this week was carried through here en route to Louisville, is a half brother of Jesse Barnett, who is now serving a life sentence for the murder of John Rose, of Powell county, some years ago. Drake will get $500, the standing reward offered by the government for the conviction of train robbers.

Goodloe Combs Pardoned
In 1894 John Rose, an old man living in Powell county, started to Winchester Court but was brutally murdered near his home. Goodloe Combs was tried for the crime and the evidence, though circumstantial, was convincing and he was sent up for life, going to the pen in June 1895. Gov. Beckham pardoned him this week. The petition for his pardon was signed by Commonwealth's Attorney Crutcher, Maj. A. T. Wood of Mt. Sterling, Judge John E. Cooper of Mt. Sterling, T. P. Cardwell, Jr. and fifty others from Powell and Breathitt counties.

Paroled
Ten or twelve years ago John Rose, of Powell county, was waylaid and murdered while on his way to Winchester court. Several men were sentenced to the penitentiary for life, one of them being Jesse Barnett. He has become almost or entirely blind, and last week he was pardoned and returned to his home.

	The Winchester Democrat, Tue., April 16, 1901 Has been Paroled A number of years ago John Rose, a prominent citizen of Powell county while returning home from Winchester court was waylaid and shot to death, the crime being committed in Powell county. Owing to the prominence of the murdered man and that of another whose name was connected by rumor with his murder, the crime attracted wide spread attention. Charles Waugh, John Barnett and Goodloe Combs were tried and convicted of the crime, but the wealthy man, whom they alleged was to pay fifteen hundred dollars to them for its consummation was not convicted. The three assassins were each given life sentences. One died in prison; Goodloe Combs was pardoned but Waugh, who was the least guilty and who it is said, tried to warn Rose after it was too late, was left in prison. Mayor Thos. Combs, of Lexington, who is a mountain man, became interested recently and by his efforts, Waugh was paroled Tuesday and passed up on the L &amp; E road that afternoon on his way home. He had been in the penitentiary since 1900. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 17, 1906

Rose, Jr., James	James Alexander Rose, Jr., Louisville, passed away Friday, October 13, 2017, surrounded by family. Born May 25, 1938, in Clark County, Kentucky, he was the eldest son of James A. Rose and Margaret Leona Coldiron. He was married to Betty Louise Pace of Clark Co., Ky. His love for agriculture never waived, beginning as a young boy working on his family's farm in Winchester, Kentucky. He bought his first farm when he was 19 years old, and received the American Farmer Degree from the Future Farmers of America. He was named as one of the top young farmers in the state by the Kentucky Young Farmer Association, of which he was President. He was Supervisor of the Clark County Conservation District from 1964-1966. He served his country when his Army Reserve unit was called to active duty at Ft Chaffee Arkansas. He and Betty would eventually settle on his father's land in Shelbyville, Kentucky, enlarging it to a 1,000-acre operation, where he raised his family and became a champion of farmers, land preservation and the rural way of life. A tireless community servant, his record of engagement includes serving more than 20 years on the Kentucky State Board of Agriculture appointed by four governors. He received the Distinguished Service Award presented by the Shelby County Conservation District for his 25 years of service from 1967-1992, of which he served as Chairman. He was director and Chairman of the Federal Land Bank of Shelbyville and was Vice Chairman of the Farm Credit Bank of Louisville. His was politicly engaged, serving as co-campaign manager of Brereton Jones's successful Lieutenant Governor campaign. In 2003, when he retired from active farming, he realized his dream of owning land in Central Illinois and continued his tutelage of young farmers. He also returned to his love of riding cutting horses, hunting with his brothers and friends, and enjoyed time spent with his grandchildren. Jim is survived by his wife of 55 years, Betty Pace Rose, his son, James A. Rose III (Susann), of Louisville, daughter Melissa Rose of Lexington, and three grand-children, Emma, Kate and Maddie Rose of Louisville. Brothers John Eck Rose and Robert Lee Rose (Paula), both of Winchester, sisters Rose Marie Ridgway (Bob), Silver Springs, Maryland, and Mary Jane Russell (Tom), Troy, Michigan, and numerous nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his father, mother, and grand-son Jack Rose. Services to be held at First United Methodist Church, 204 South Main Street, Winchester, Ky, 40391. Visitation to be from 10am-12pm on Tuesday, Oct. 17, with a memorial service at 12pm. Burial to follow at Winchester Cemetery. Funeral arrangements will be handled by Scobee Funeral Home, 859-744-2422. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests a donation in his name to a charity of your choice. The Winchester Sun October 16, 2017

Rosecrans, William Stark	Passed Away Gen. W. S. Rosecrans Dies at His Home Near Redondo, Cal.—Brief Sketch of His Life Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—Gen. W. S. Rosecrans died Friday morning at 7 o'clock at his home near Redondo. The old warrior's death was peaceful in the extreme. For several days he had been between life and death, at times unconscious and again in a comatose state. His splendid vitality has kept him alive for days. When it was known that the end was near, all the watchers at the bedside were ready at any time to see the last. At the bedside when the end came were a son and daughter of the general, Carl and Anna Rosecrans and a number of immediate friends of the family, besides the attending physician, Dr. Harris. William Stark Rosecrans was born in Kingston, Delaware county, O. September 6, 1819. His parents were of old Dutch stock. He was raised on a farm and educated at the public schools. He clerked in a store and in 1837 applied to the secretary of war for an appointment to West Point military academy. He was appointed and graduated in 1842. He entered the engineer corps as second lieutenant and reported for duty at Fortress Monroe. In 1843 he went to West Point as assistant professor in the engineering department. Lieutenant Rosecrans resigned from the Army in April 1854 and went to Cincinnati to engage in the coal mining business. At the beginning of the war Gen. Rosecrans was a private citizen. When it became evident that military operations must become necessary to crush the rebellion he offered his services to Gen. Dennison, of Ohio, and he was requested to act as engineer and lay out Fort Dennison. He went to Washington later and was given the position of chief engineer of Ohio, with the rank of Colonel. He was commissioned colonel of the Twenty-Third Ohio Regiment later and entered the field and within three days was commissioned brigadier general. He took the field in West Virginia at once. His first important action was at Rich mountain which he won. Gen. Rosecrans succeeded Gen. McClellan in the department of Ohio. He had commanded the national forces and defeated Gen. John B. Floyd at Carnifax Ferry, September 19, 1861 thwarting Lee's attempt to get a footing in Western Virginia. He participated in the battle of Corinth and afterward took command of the army of the Mississippi. He defeated Gen. Sterling Price and pursued him for 40 miles. He was made commander of the Department of the Cumberland, which position he held from October 27, 1862 to October 19, 1864. He commanded in the battle about Murfreesboro, one of the bloodiest and most decisive of the war. He drove Bragg out of middle Tennessee in 15 days. Gen. Rosecrans commanded at the great battle around Chattanooga and held Chattanooga the objective point. The battle was a victory for the confederates. Gen. Rosecrans was relieved in October 1864 and was assigned to the department of Missouri. He was mustered out of the volunteer service in January 1866 and resigned from the army in March 1867. He had been a brevetted major general. He was appointed minister to Mexico in July 1868 and held the office until June 1869. He mined in Mexico and manufactured powder in San Francisco. He was elected to Congress from California in 1881 and served four years. He then settled on a ranch near Redondo, Los Angeles county Cal. and spent the last years of his life quietly. His wife, the daughter of Judge Hegeman, of New York, died in 1878. Three children, Carl Rosecrans, Mrs. J. K. Toole of Helena Mont., and Miss Anna Rosecrans, survive him. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 15, 1898

Rosenbarger, Emanuel	A Man of Misfortune Emanuel Rosenbarger, an aged and respected farmer of Harrison county, died the other day of cancer, after long and most intense suffering. Mr. Rosenbarger has been one of the most unfortunate men in this county. About twenty years ago he became almost totally deaf, so much so that it was painful to try to converse with him. A few years later he had his right arm ground off in a molasses factory, of which he was the owner. About seventeen years ago a cancer made its appearance on his face, and steadily grew worse until it ate almost his whole face away. For the last three years he has been blind, his eyes both being destroyed, and the lower part of his skull left bare. About the only thing he possessed which resembled a human face was his chin; his nose, cheeks and upper lip all being eaten away by the cancer. During all these misfortunes he never complained, was an honorable man, and the father of fourteen children. For the last two years it was necessary for his family to keep him in the cellar during the summer months, and to keep constant watch over him. Blind, deaf and speechless, his wants could be known only by signals which he could make with his only hand. — Indianapolis Journal. The Winchester Democrat, Wed. 5-11-1887

Rosenthal, Harry	Henry Rosenthal, known to his friends as Bussie or Buzzy, age 75, passed away peacefully on August 8, 2018, at Clark Regional Medical Center. Bussie was born on August 5, 1943 in Winchester, Ky. to Henry Lee Rosenthal, Sr. and Ada (Boone) Rosenthal. As a boy, he loved sports, especially baseball, in which he excelled. For instance, in a 1961 game pitching for Clark County High School, Bussie pitched a no-hitter striking out nineteen of the twenty-one batters he faced. Bussie played softball into his mid-60s and basketball until he was 70 years old. Bussie was a graduate of Clark County High School, the University of Kentucky, and the University of Kentucky College of Law. While at the University of Kentucky, he was the sports editor of the Kentucky Kernel, the school newspaper. Bussie liked to show off the letter he received from Adolph Rupp which stated in part, "we enjoyed having you on our southern trip and I want to thank you and the Kernel for the nice coverage you gave basketball this year." If Bussie had written his own obituary, it would have been more clever and better written. Bussie practiced law in Winchester for 48 years. For a least 35 of those years he was the attorney for the Clark County Board of Education, a position he enjoyed greatly. He also represented the Planning and Zoning Committee and was instrumental in building the new Clark County Library. Bussie enjoyed playing baseball, basketball, golf, and cheering on the University of Kentucky Wildcat basketball team. He also loved antiquing with his brother and best friend, Vincent, and discussing the history of his hometown, Winchester, of which he was very proud. He loved traveling with his wife and family to places like Hilton Head, Santa Fe and Naples. Bussie is survived by his wife of 46 years, Pat; daughter Melissa (Jim) Lintner; son Lee (Cassidy ) Rosenthal; grandchildren, Emmalee Lintner, Hallie Lintner, Will Lintner, Hope Lintner, Lydia Rosenthal, Webb Rosenthal and Elliott Rosenthal; mother Ada Rosenthal; brother Vincent (Zella) Rosenthal; brother-in-law Richard (Kim) Webb; and nieces Andra (Travis) Sewalls and children Harper and Connley and Sarah Beth (Alex) Smith and daughter Vivian. Bussie was preceded in death by his father Henry L. Rosenthal, Sr. and brother David Lynn Rosenthal. Visitation will be at Rolan G. Taylor Funeral Home located on 289 South Main St, Winchester, Ky. 40391, on August 11, 2018 from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Funeral services will immediately follow the visitation with Rev. Alvin Farris, Retired Pastor, and Rev. Jerry Johns officiating. Pallbearers will be Charlie Blair, Bill Dykeman, Willie Hodgkin, Eddie Mastrean Kim McCrary, Hunt Rogers, Dudley Taylor and Tommy Thompson. Honorary Pall Bearers include Virgil Boler, Putney Guerrant, Phil Humble, Steve Humble, Bart Mahan, Paul Richardson, Michael Rowady, Wallace Williams, Dan Yates and the many teammates he played basketball with on Wednesday and Sunday nights at

	Belmont and Clark Middle School over the last 30 years. The Rosenthal Family would like to extend our gratitude to all the staff at The Willows at Hamburg who compassionately provided him with the care (and bourbon) he needed. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be given in Bussie's name to the Clark County Public Library or Hospice East. The Winchester Sun August 10, 2018

Ross, Jim	The first hanging that had taken place in Meade county was that of Jim Ross, Thursday, for the murder of Ben Rhodes. The murder was a most brutal one, the victim being an aged and inoffensive old man who lived alone, and whom Ross knocked on the head with an ax while he was sleeping. The motive was robbery, it being generally believed that Rhodes kept a considerable sum of money in his house. If this was true the murderer failed to find it, as he secured only $1.75 and a silver watch. He denied the crime at first but afterward confessed his guilt and tried to implicate others. Ross was a native of Virginia, but lived in this city for several years, where he carried on a colored barber shop. A year or two ago, Lee Baldwin carried a lot of laborers from here to Brandenburg to work on the railroad at that point, and Ross was among the number. Being quick and intelligent he was quite a favorite with the officers of the party and was entrusted with the care of their lodgings. Before his death Ross joined the Catholic church and gave his body to a young medical student. The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 2-13-1889

Ross, Robert	A complicated case is agitating the higher legal circles of Alabama. Several months ago Robt. Ross, a banker of Scottsboro, seduced Miss Skelton, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, and fled. Her four brothers gathered shotguns and pursued him. A friend telegraphed Ross that the men were after him. Circuit Judge Talley, a brother-in-law of the wronged woman saw this telegram and at once sent one to the operator requesting that the first telegram be not delivered promptly. The latter telegram was obeyed and the Skelton boys caught Ross and shot him to death. They are in jail charged with murder. Judge Talley has been impeached by the Supreme Court and will be tried for complicity. The relatives of the murdered man have sued the Western Union Telegraph Company for fifty thousand dollars damages for not delivering the warning message by which the life of Ross would have been saved. Rourke, James	Disastrous wreck At White Station, Madison county two freight trains met head on, each going about forty miles per hour. The operator at Berea had been notified to hold one train until the other had passed, but forgot his orders and allowed the trains to meet. Both trains were wrecked and a number were killed and wounded. Those who were killed outright were: Geo. Devore, fireman, of Richmond; John Russell, brakeman, of Paris, and Buster Sanford, of Paris, engineer. James Rourke, a fireman from Paris, is so badly scalded that he will die. Those seriously injured are W.C. Hamilton, of Covington, Ollie Pike, of Paris, and W.C. Justice, of Scathe, Ky. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 25, 1910

Order Book 11; P. 350; May Court 1845

Settlement with Samuel Hodgkin executor of James Rout dec. being filed at last court was again produced in court approved of and ordered to be recorded.

Order Book 11; P. 355; June Court 1845

It is considered and adjudged by the court that the plaintiff recover of the defendants in these three cases respectively her costs expended.

The plaintiff by his attorney produced a bill of exceptions herein to the opinion of this court session which being signed and sealed by the court is ordered to be entered of record and sealed in the words and figures following to wit “Haggard vs. Rout __3 cases –

Be it remembered that upon the trial of these motions the plaintiff read in evidence to the court, the will of James Rout dec., he also read in evidence to the court a deed of Coupey, and made by Samuel Hodgkin to Pleasant Haggard he also read in evidence to the court a deed to Martin Haggard, the plaintiff there called Samuel Hodgkin as a witness who being sworn proved that at the death of said testator James Rout he left a widow named Eleanor and four children to wit Martha Ann Rout, Rebecca Jane Rout, Benjamin Rout and James D. Rout which were the only children the said Martha Rout V. James the testator had that some years after the death of the testator James Rout his widow Martha Rout intermarried with the plaintiff William Haggard and afterwards in the year 1843 Benjamin Rout a son of said testator departed this life in Clarke County in this state under the age of twenty-one years without ever having married and without having made any last will, and afterwards in the year 1844 Niv Haggard who was then the wife of the plaintiff departed this life, said witness also proved that the said plaintiff and his aforesaid wife Eleanor had 3 children all of whom are now infants and reside in said county of Clarke, said witnesses also proved that he received from the witnesses Pleasant and Martin Haggard $1,300 as named in said deeds by him made to them as read in evidence to this court and after the intermarriage of the plaintiff William Haggard, he said witnesses paid the on said $1,300 over to said William Haggard and his aforesaid wife Eleanor and took their receipt for said interest said witness Hodgkin also proved that in the lifetime of the said Mrs. Eleanor Haggard and whilst she was the wife of the said William Haggard he paid over to the said William Haggard said sum of $1,300 and which payment was made by him before the death of said Benjamin Rout, the plaintiff then read in evidence to the court a receipt from the plaintiff William Haggard his self that testator personal estate was insufficient for the payment of his debts and that after he sold the land testator widow and children lived on witnesses’ land until she was married to said William Haggard and that until he paid the principal sum of $1,300 to said William Haggard he regularly paid the interest to her or appropriated it to the use of her and her children until after she was married and then he in like measure paid said interest to said William Haggard until he paid him the whole of said $1,300. The plaintiff then introduced Dr. Anderson Hood as a witness that he proved that he attended as physician in conjunction with his son Dr. James M. Hood to the said wards of the said plaintiff in the year 1843 that said wards were sick one or the other of them needy constantly for about four months, Benjamin Rout died of sickness after he lay about 20 days, that said wards of said plaintiff were all sick at the house of said plaintiff and that said plaintiff took great pains in nursing of them and he thinks that said plaintiff ought to receive $60 for his personal attention to said wards, that said plaintiff very often came after witness to go and see said wards as their doctor and that the plaintiff had and did sit up and nurse said wards during all the time they were sick as aforesaid and that he was compelled to devote nearly the whole of his time in nursing of his said wards, he further proved that he was a witness before the county commissioners who made the settlements in these cases and he thought that $50 was a

	reasonable compensation for said plaintiff Haggard to receive for nursing said wards but upon examining his books and refreshing his recollection as to the length of time that said wards were sick in 1843 he now believes that $60 would be a reasonable compensation for said plaintiff to receive. It was admitted and proved on the bearing of these motions that said William Haggard was appointed by this court the guardian of said infant children after his intermarriage with said Eleanor Rout. The plaintiff then introduced Dr. James M. Hood who proved that he as physician attended to the wards of said plaintiff in 1843, he stated that Ben Rout died after being sick about 20 days that the aforesaid wards were sick one or some of them nearly constantly for about 4 months and that the plaintiff attended to them during said sickness that he the said plaintiff attended to them well and had to quit other business to nurse them. The plaintiff then read to the court the papers referred to in said reports of said commissioners which being all the evidence upon the trial of these three cases the court rendered the judgment as entered upon the record and refused to sustain the exceptions to the records of the commissioners except as in named upon the record to which opinion of the court is not sustaining said exceptions and each of them the plaintiff Haggard by his counsel then accepted and now praise this his bill of exceptions to be signed sealed and made a trust of the record herein which is done. 	was born in Winchester, Kentucky, Aug. 11, 1917, to Alex E. and Rose J. Rowady, the first of their seven children. Julia was a graduate of Winchester High School class of 1934. In 1938 she received a degree from the University of Kentucky College of Commerce and then was employed a few months with the Kentucky Department of Revenue until she moved to Washington D.C. to work for the government. She remained there until her retirement in 1979 as a community mental health program administrator for the National Institutes of Health. She volunteered as a docent at the Washington Cathedral, being knowledgeable of its history and architecture. She attended St. John's Episcopal Church near her home in Bethesda, Maryland, where funeral services will be June 27, 2015. Rowady, Michael A.	Michael A. Rowady of Winchester, Kentucky passed away on Thursday, February 27, 2020 at the Clark Regional Medical Center at the age of 101. He was the widower of Alma Clarkson Rowady of Maysville, Kentucky, his companion in marriage for over 50 years and to whom he was unconditionally devoted. Mr. Rowady was born in Winchester on November 20, 1918. His youth involved learning about life on the often-rough-and-tumble streets of its downtown, usually but not always emerging unscathed from the disagreements which seemed to occur on a regular basis. He and his six siblings spent their time after school and in the summer months in their father's store on North Main Street, which numbered among its customers the general population of the county, and the Jews, Greeks and other Europeans who emigrated to Winchester in search of employment provided by the railroads. Many times, Rowady recalled the melting pot that was Winchester before and during the Great Depression. As he told it, very few Saturday nights on its crowded streets passed without the rapport of gunfire. He graduated from Winchester High School in 1935 and went on to become its oldest living alumnus. While it may come as a surprise to many, Rowady played football for the high school whose mascot was the Shawnees. The Shawnees did battle in those days with Mt. Sterling City High. That may have marked the beginning of the rivalry between the two communities that seems to persist today, albeit in a more constructive manner. Mike was always proud of Winchester in general but in particular he was grateful for the outstanding education he received in its schools. His instructors at the Hickman Street School and Winchester High School made such an impression on him that he was able to quote verbatim the works of Shakespeare and other classic authors he learned there into his 101st year. One of his favorite things about his wife Alma was her commitment to education as a teacher in the Clark County Public School system for many years. Merely 16 years of age, Mr. Rowady enrolled at the University of Kentucky in the fall of 1935 to pursue combined Bachelor of Arts and Law degrees. He received the former in 1939. While attending law school Rowady passed the Kentucky Bar examination but remained in UK until his graduation in 1941. His Bachelor of Law Degree was later converted to a Juris Doctor, the common degree bestowed upon law school graduates. Soon after he graduated World War II began. Rowady waived physical disability and was inducted in the U.S. Army Air Corps in May 1942. During service on four continents his military duties were primarily with the staff Judge Advocate Departments at each base he was assigned. Mr. Rowady returned to Winchester in 1946 with an honorable military discharge. Shortly thereafter he became Winchester Police Judge until 1950. In January 1950 he lived in New York and enrolled in courses involving trial procedures, estates and trusts taught by noted New York attorneys, Amile Zola Berman and others equally qualified. This training was the equivalent of modern-day continuing legal education, except these courses were a college semester in length. Thereafter, he returned to Winchester and opened a law office. At that time banks in Winchester did not have sufficient capitalization to meet some of his clients' financial needs. This required joint loans with Louisville banks where he went several times a month. During that period, he became an adjunct member of the Jefferson County Bar Association. In 1954 Rowady was appointed to a standing committee of the Kentucky Bar Association with instruction to develop a minimum fee system to help get Kentucky law businesses out of the financial depression that started in October 1929 and continued to

	linger for years. Other members of the committee were William Johnstone of Princeton, Kentucky and Sam Milner of Lexington. Rowady prepared a rule preventing lawyers from advertising and suggesting hourly charges for legal services. The schedule set a minimum of $15.00 per hour for legal services. The fee schedule and advertising bar were struck down by the United States Supreme Court, nevertheless the hourly rate caught on and helped law office earnings. Mr. Rowady served as Master Commissioner of the Clark Circuit Court for 13 years during which time he was a named hearing officer in domestic relation cases and at numerous times, as requested by the Circuit Judge or the attorneys involved, heard non-jury cases and made findings of fact, conclusions of law and final judgments which were approved by the presiding Circuit Judge. Mr. Rowady had a varied law practice in both state and federal judicial systems, including before the U.S. Supreme Court. He represented a group that purchased over 1,100 acres in the neighborhood of Henry Clay High School in Fayette County where affluent subdivisions now exist. In some instances, he was permitted to invest in several business enterprises with clients, including the emerging cable television service. Several franchises throughout the state were obtained, a business organization was formed, and the physical system was constructed. These were operated for about a year and sold. With profits from these ventures he was able to establish a Charitable Remainder Trust at the University of Kentucky to help students buy books or use for other educational needs. Rowady maintained a law practice until he retired at the end of 2005. He spent his retirement years performing pro-bono legal services, mentoring elementary school children and as advisor to Blair &amp; Rowady, PSC and Rowady-Hendricks-Law, PSC, which took over his former practice. Along with his wife Alma, Mr. Rowady was preceded in death by his parents Lewis Alexander Rowady and Rose Jabbour Rowady, both of whom came to the United States from the country of Lebanon. He was also preceded in death by his sisters Julia Rowady of Chevy Chase, Maryland and Helen Courie of Silver Springs, Maryland and brothers John Rowady of Lexington, Kentucky and Lewis Rowady of Detroit, Michigan, and by his faithful companion Cecil Thomas of Winchester. He is survived by his children Jane Rowady of Lexington and Michael A. Rowady, II "Alex" (Rita) of Winchester; grandchildren Jackson Wells Rowady of Richmond, Virginia and Davis Michael Rowady of Lexington, Virginia, numerous nieces and nephews, and friend and caretaker Anna Thomas of Winchester. Mike loved his family with great passion and was very proud of their accomplishments. He loved his parish family at St. Joseph Catholic Church where he attended regularly for many years and was a member of the Knights of Columbus. He also loved the Winchester-Clark County community and called it home his entire life. Most specifically, he loved its citizens, few of whom have not been regaled with one (or a dozen) of his slightly embellished stories about its history. He also loved his alma mater the University of Kentucky, its sports teams and academic endeavors, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and the country for which he served during World War II. He enjoyed his more than 50 years of service in the Kiwanis Club of Winchester and the Clark County Bar Association, traveling around the world with Alma, the English language and its usage and origins, the Opera, old Western movies, and attending social gatherings of every sort. Undoubtedly, he enjoyed life to the fullest with Alma and then among his many friends in Winchester and elsewhere. He would want each of us to do the same. Mike's family would like to take this opportunity to thank the wonderful staff in the Transitional Care Unit of Clark Regional Medical Center where he lived for almost two years at life's end. Rowe, William	A Romantic History The Parsons, Kansas Daily Eclipse notes the death at that place of William Rowe, aged sixty-five years, of paralysis. His life was like a romance and shows that truth is stranger than fiction. In 1833 he was born in Bath county. His mother was a young white woman of respectable parentage, his father, a negro slave. When but a few days old he was brought to this county by the girl's brother and left with a prominent citizen and slaveholder of this county with the understanding that he should be set free when he had attained his majority, as by birth he was legally free. This was not done and Rowe, learning by accident the circumstances of his birth, brought suit here for his freedom and gained it. He was totally uneducated but was a man of much natural ability and after the war was a leader among the negroes, but sometimes voted independently. He acquired some property and at one time a house on North Main street owned by him was burned, it is supposed on account of Democratic votes cast by him. He rebuilt at once but the house was again burned about the time it was finished. He then moved West and for some time has been living in Kansas. He was elected Coroner of his county last fall and was serving at the time of his death. His religious ideas were somewhat peculiar. He belonged to no church but was a believer in the doctrine of Christian Scientists. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 11, 1898

Royce, Hiram	Cold-Blooded Murder Last Saturday evening a horrible murder was committed at Dooley's Bottom, on the Madison bank of the Kentucky river, just opposite the mouth of Two Mile creek. A large crowd had assembled there that day to witness some quarter races, and it is said that about seventy-five men got pretty drunk during the day. The crowd dispersed at 7 o'clock in the evening, everybody going away except Bose Powell and Hiram Royce, both of whom were too drunk to get away. About 9 o'clock Powell appeared hatless and bloody at the house of Hiram Shearer, who lives near the Bottom, and asked for some clean clothes and some supper, which were furnished him. He told Mr. Shearer that he had killed Hiram Royce in the bottom, and designated the particular spot where the body could be found. He gave Mr. Shearer his bloody knife, and said he had stabbed Royce with it until the latter begged for mercy, which he granted, and started away, leaving his victim weltering on the ground. Before he had gone far, however, he heard Royce groan, and concluded to go back and finish the job, which he did by cutting the unfortunate man's throat from ear to ear. Mr. Shearer summoned a neighbor and went to the Bottom where he found the body of Hiram Royce, just as Powell had stated. He had received 18 wounds, ten of them being individually sufficient to kill a man. Royce was about 30 years old, and somewhat dissipated, but he was clever and intelligent, and everybody liked him well. Powell, the heartless murderer, was arrested Sunday and carried to Richmond to jail, and we have heard it intimated that he would be lynched by indignant citizens. Both parties were residents of Madison, Royce living near Boonesboro, and Powell near Doylesville. The Clark County Democrat, Wed., 10-9-1878 Bose Powell will be tried in Richmond Thursday for murdering Hiram Royse near Boonesboro last summer. It is general opinion that he will be hung. The Semi-Weekly Sun, Tue., 3-25-1879 The jury on the Bose Powell case, in Richmond, stood 7 for hanging and 5 for sending him to the penitentiary, and finally compromised by sentencing him to the penitentiary for 99 years. His offense was the cruel and inhuman murder of Hiram Royce, near Boonesboro, about a year ago. Powell will be toothless by the time he serves his term out, provided Blackburn doesn't pardon him in the interim. The Semi-Weekly Sun, Tue., 9-23-1879 THE Paroling Board met at Frankfort Thursday and paroled four prisoners among them Bose Powell, of Madison county, who was sent up for life for the murder of Hiram Royce, about ten years ago. The crime was committed just above Ford, on the Madison side of the river. For some time it had been customary for the local sports to assemble on what was known as the "Dooley Bottoms" and engage in horse-racing, foot racing and gambling of various kinds. Among those who attended were Bose Powell and his victim, Hi Royce. Whisky was plentiful and Royce drank until completely stupefied and sank into a drunken slumber. In this condition he was literally butchered by Powell, who was also drunk. Eighteen or twenty wounds, nearly every one of them fatal in itself, were inflicted. Powell was not considered a bad man, but was simply a worthless kind of fellow. Since his incarceration in the penitentiary his conduct has been exemplary. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 8, 1891. Geo. Royse Killed George Royse, who formerly lived on the hill above Boonesboro in Madison county, was killed Monday night near Riverside. It was reported here that he had been murdered and robbed, and many still think this is at least partly true. He was here that day with some money and when his body was found only a nickel was in his pockets. Coroner Alexander held an inquest with the following jury; R. L. David, John Cox, R. W. Rue, J. M. Hambrick, W. H. Hise and Henry Richards, who, after a thorough investigation brought in a verdict declaring that he was killed by the midnight passenger train. His side was crushed in and some bad wounds were found on the head. He was a bachelor, aged about 38 years and lived with his mother in Madison county. He was killed very near where John Thomas Ecton was killed by the cars a few years ago. A strange fatality seems to attend the Royse family. Just across the river from where George Royse met his death his brother Hiram was brutally murdered by Bose Powell who is now serving a life sentence for the crime. Jack, another brother who moved to Texas was found on the plains where he had been murdered and robbed. Tacitus, another one, was accidentally killed in a ditch somewhere out West. Two other brothers went West and have not been heard from for several years and are supposed to be dead. Sam, the only remaining son, married Miss Hampton, and is one of Madison county's prosperous business men. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 28, 1894.

Royse, George	Geo. Royse Killed George Royse, who formerly lived on the hill above Boonesboro in Madison county, was killed Monday night near Riverside. It was reported here that he had been murdered and robbed, and many still think this is at least partly true. He was here that day with some money and when his body was found only a nickel was in his pockets. Coroner Alexander held an inquest with the following jury; R. L. David, John Cox, R. W. Rue, J. M. Hambrick, W. H. Hise and Henry Richards, who, after a thorough investigation brought in a verdict declaring that he was killed by the midnight passenger train. His side was crushed in and some bad wounds were found on the head. He was a bachelor, aged about 38 years and lived with his mother in Madison county. He was killed very near where John Thomas Ecton was killed by the cars a few years ago. A strange fatality seems to attend the Royse family. Just across the river from where George Royse met his death his brother Hiram was brutally murdered by Bose Powell who is now serving a life sentence for the crime. Jack, another brother who moved to Texas was found on the plains where he had been murdered and robbed. Tacitus, another one, was accidentally killed in a ditch somewhere out West. Two other brothers went West and have not been heard from for several years and are supposed to be dead. Sam, the only remaining son, married Miss Hampton, and is one of Madison county's prosperous business men. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 28, 1894.  THE way things get mixed up as it gets away from home is shown by the following account of the death of Geo. Royce, which appeared in several of the city papers and which purported to be sent from Boonesboro. The dead body of George Royce ahs been found in a badly decomposed condition, near Riverside which all appearances of foul play, a number of horrible gashes appearing on the body, while the skull was crushed. It is supposed he was robbed and killed, as his pockets were rifled. Royce was a stock dealer" The Winchester Democrat, January 4, 1895.

Rucker, Joseph B.		In Somerset the Coroner's jury found that Editor Rucker came to his death at the hands of ex-Chief of Police John C. Anderson. The citizens held a mass meeting at which it was resolved that the citizens co-operate in the attempt to suppress crime in Pulaski. A fund was started to erect a monument to the dead editor, and $ 500.00 was raised.

	The Democrat, Wednesday, September 28, 1892. SOMERSET and Pulaski county just now are having a very unenviable notoriety for lawlessness and murder. Joseph B. Rucker, editor of the Reporter, had been very bitter in his denunciation of lawlessness and the laxity of the officials in enforcing the laws. As he was going home from his office he was shot by some one in hiding, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. Circumstances pointed strongly to ex-Chief of Police, John Anderson, whom Rucker had frequently scored for not doing his duty. Anderson is gone, but as there is a reward of $ 2,000 for his arrest, he will no doubt be caught soon. The next day David Norfielt was waylaid and killed by Milt Britton. The latter has been arrested and lynching is strongly talked of. Two days later another man, whose name we have forgotten, was hot in the same county. Surely, if Pulaski county citizens do their duty there will be a demand for hemp in that section. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 28, 1892. J. C. Rucker, William B.	The Rucker Assassination At the Southern depot on the outskirts of Danville between 10 and 11 p. m. Thursday W. B. Rucker as assassinated. The purpose was robbery. He was shot in the top of his head while sleeping with his head resting on a table. The perpetrator of the crime has not been found. Mr. Rucker was a young man of noble character. His mother is a sister of Mrs. Lucy Owen, of this county, and a half sister to Miss Mattie Griggs, of the city. The Sun-Sentinel, Thur., Feb. 11, 1904 Mystery clearing Lexington, Ky., - Roger Rucker, of this city, is running down a clew which may divulge the identity of the man who murdered his brother, William, who was the telegraph operator for the Q &amp; C railroad, and while at his key was shot through the head. The murderer rifled the ticket office and disappeared. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 27, 1908 After many years The murderer of W.R. Rucker, a former Clark county man, likely to be apprehended Nearly four years ago, William R. Rucker, a telegraph operator, was in charge of the Queen &amp; Crescent at Danville. He was the regular night operator but that day was doing double duty, the day operator, McKenzie Hatter, having gone to Cincinnati. It was almost midnight and he was tired with the double duties of the day. He had just sent a train out and the train dispatcher told him the next train that was due had been taken off and he could get a little rest before the next came along. Grateful for this opportunity to secure a little repose, he folded his overcoat on the desk before him and, with his hand

	on the key of his instrument he bowed his head on the improvised pillow and entered upon that rest that was never to be disturbed again in life. The murderer was evidently watching and kneeling by the window in front of the sleeping man; he rested his pistol on the window sill and sent a bullet crashing into the brain of his victim. Death was instantaneous and the victim passed from time to eternity without a moment's warning. In a short time a man came to meet the train which was nearly due, and found the operator, as he thought, asleep. He was joined by several traveling men who had been unable to get response to telephone calls from the hotel. A small round hole in the window pane, a corresponding hole in the top of Rucker's head, and a tiny rivulet of blood across the table and on to the floor told the tale as to how the crime was committed. The missing cash drawer which had contained about twenty dollars furnished a motive. The noted bloodhounds, Nick Carter, and Ivy Belle, were soon on hand, but could do nothing. Detectives were hurried from Lexington on a fast freight and other sleuths from various places were put to work without avail. The whole division of the Cincinnati Southern was watched as were connecting lines. The trail had been lost in the cliffs of Kentucky River and the farmers of that vicinity searched and patrolled the section until it seemed none could escape. Various parties were detained but all succeeded in establishing alibis. Among those arrested were two towards whom suspicion pointed strongly, but nothing could be definitely proved. One of these has since died and the other is serving a forty years sentence in the penitentiary for another murder. Rewards aggregating $1,500 were offered and have never been withdrawn. Stimulated by a desire to earn this, detectives worked on the case for a long time. Clue after clue was worked out without result and the public gradually lost sight of the crime. A few days ago, Roger Rucker, of Lexington, a brother of the murdered man, secured a clew which he has not made public, but which he hopes may prove to be a solution of the mystery, and which he will have worked out, and it is to be hoped that the hitherto impenetrable mystery which has hung over this murder may be dispelled. The murdered man was well known in this county. He was a nephew of Mrs. A. Howard Hampton and had numerous other relatives in the county. At the time he was killed, his brother, Jonas Rucker, was telegraph operator at Ford. In view of the interest which was evoked by the murder, and in the interest of justice, it is to be hoped that this latest clue may be the one to secure the arrest and conviction of the murderer. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 27, 1908

Rudolph, Lee	Lee Rudolph, of Pike county, the young man who was accidentally shot through the head a week ago by Miss Ida Jones, died at his home Friday. The young lady is crazed with grief. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 16, 1897.  Indicted for Involuntary Manslaughter. Benton, Ky., June 24.—The grand jury has adjourned after a nine days session. Thirty-two indictments were found, mostly for gaming and misdemeanors. Miss Ida Gaines, the pretty 19-year-old girl who shot and killed Lee Rudolph a few months ago, was indicted by the grand jury for involuntary manslaughter. She was playing with she thought, an empty pistol, when pointing it at the boy. It fired the ball taking effect in the young mans brain. Her trial is set for Friday. Ruff, A. D.	AN original design has been selected for a monument to go over the grave of the late A. D. Ruff at Owingsville. The stone will be rough and undressed, in keeping with the character of the man. It will be four feet square, above the ground, with the L. A. W. emblem on top, which will be of bronze and bell metal, three feet high. The monument will be the first of the kind erected in the United States. Mr. Ruff was one of the oldest and enthusiastic members of the League of American Wheelman, and in his will he bequeathed $ 1,000 to the Ky. Division, L. A. W., and at the Cynthiana meet it was decided to use $ 100 of it for a drinking fountain on some prominent country thoroughfare. Some place on the Maysville and Lexington pike has been proposed for this fountain.-Sharpsburg World. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 13, 1897.

C. Runyan, city marshall, and Alfred Allen, a lumberman, lie dead, as the result of bullet wounds. Runyan was shot by Allen, whom he was attempting to arrest. As he fell he fired two bullets into Allen. Allen died instantly, but Runyan lived several minutes. During the evening several other shots were fired in different parts of the town. The marshal was trying to catch the party doing it. About 8 o'clock some shots were fired at the corner of Broadway and College avenue. Marshal Runyan, being near, ran toward the shooting. It is supposed he met Allen near the corner, and from all appearances, they clinched, and had a struggle. No one knows at what time in the struggle they commenced shooting. Runyan was trying to take Allen's revolver, and had it, together with his own, when he fell. Runyan is from Boyd county, was a fearless officer and a terror to law breakers. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 13, 1898

Runyon, Daniel	Daniel Runyon A Mexican War Veteran of Lexington Passes Away, Lexington, Ky., Jan. 19.—Daniel Runyon, aged 76, was found dead in his bed Tuesday morning by a servant who went to arouse him for breakfast. He was apparently as well as usual Monday afternoon. He was one of the seven Mexican war veterans living in Lexington. In 1876 he became associated with the late B. G. Bruce in the publication of the Live Stock Record. He remained with the paper until the death of Mr. Bruce, when he retired from active business. He leaves one child, Miss Virgie Runyon, who is a trained nurse in the Bellevue hospital, New York city. His son, Asa, died in Kansas city several years ago, in almost the exact manner as the father died Tuesday night. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 25, 1898
Runyon, Fred	Horrible wreck Engine blown from track on C &amp; O Railroad near Colby station FOUR MEN MEET DEATH Three men were instantly killed and another so badly injured that he died while on the way to the hospital at Lexington as a result of a wreck on the C &amp; O road near Colby Station, about five miles from this city at 12:15 Tuesday. The dead are: George Harp, engineer, Lexington; Fred Runyon, fireman, Olive Hill; Claude K. Marshall, fireman, Lexington; George Berry, brakeman, Mt. Savage. The train, a heavy freight, was run as a double header, and was running at the rate of twenty miles and hour, when the boiler of the front engine, No. 232, was blown up and turned in the opposite direction from which it was traveling. The force of the explosion was so great that it shook houses some distance from the wreck, and blew heavy parts of the machinery into adjoining fields, 100 yards away. The cause of the disaster is not known yet, but it is said that the engine had not been in working order for several weeks, and that the injector was not in proper working order. The pony trucks and front drive wheels of the second engine were derailed, but the engineer and fireman escaped injury. The word was at once telephoned to this city, and Drs Shirley, McKinley, Browne and Combs &amp; Combs were immediately sent to the scene, besides a number of people from town drove out. When they arrived Engineer Geo. W. Harp, Fireman Claude Marshall and Brakeman George Berry were dead. Fireman Runyon was placed on a passenger train which backed to Winchester and left over the L &amp; E road with Runyon for the hospital at Lexington. Runyon died on the way. Engineer Harp was blown up in the air, and fell in time for the pony trucks of the somersaulting engine to rest across his horribly torn body, and it was late in the evening before he could be removed. Fireman Claude K. Marshall was found under the debris between the two engines. Brakeman Berry had his body so badly torn that his remains were picked up in a basket. Runyon was found a little distance from the wreck mangled and badly bruised. All the bodies were sent to Lexington that night. The disaster, while not as great from the standpoint of loss as some which have occurred, was the most horrible one that has occurred in this section in years. The letter is from G. W. F. Chapman, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Runyons, and the writer says that Wm. Runyons, a cousin of her husband, has confessed to the murder and robbery of her husband, and also confesses to having murdered Alice Schoolcraft and her baby, whom Harrison Runyons was escorting to their home in Clay county. Rupard, Bessie Lewis	Deaths Slowly but surely consumption carried away the life of Bessie Lewis Rupard. The end came at her father's home in the country the first day of the new year. The burial was at College Hill with service by her beloved Pastor, Rev. Geo. Froh. In the creation it appears that some are made to be loved more than others and Bessie was one of them. Her own mother was dead but she had in her step-mother all that she could have had from her own. All was done that could be done. She spent some time in Colorado and when she returned last spring a year ago she was married to the man that she loved so well, Mr. E. C. Rupard. Again, with her devoted husband, health was sought by travel but without favorable results. Her short life of twenty years is ended but in that short time she was a source of sunshine and joy to all who knew her.

Rupard, William	Eld. William Rupard The above is a very correct likeness of the late Elder Wm. Rupard. He was born in this county in 1825, and died of heart disease at his home eight miles east of this city, February 20th, 1904. The remains were buried in the family burying ground the following day, after funeral services, conducted by Eld. J. J. Gilbert. Mr. Rupard was a minister of the primitive Baptist church. He was pastor of Liberty church in Estill county for fifty-four years, and of Cane Spring, in Madison county, Lulbegrud, in Montgomery county, and Goshen, in this county, for more than fifth years, preaching once a month at each of the churches. He leaves a wife, to whom he had been married fifty years, and six children – Thomas and William Rupard, Mrs. Emma Boone, Mrs. Byrd Rowlett, Mrs. Kate Emmerson and Miss Linule Rupard. Two brothers and two sisters, A. H. and Samuel Rupard, and Mrs. Minerva Pace, of this county, and Mrs. Martha Tribble, of Carlisle, also survive. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, February 25, 1904 The Late Wm. Rupard In all ages, in all counties, and in all sections men have lived, who have by their individuality, so impressed themselves upon their fellows that they are honored and respected to an extent not accorded to the average of men. Such a man was Wm. Rupard. A man among men, a Christian and a gentleman. Many years ago, when I first met Mr. Rupard I was so much impressed with him that I looked for the name in history, but could not find it. I was familiar with the name of Rupert, from Prince Rupert, of England, and the vast territory known as Rupert's Land, which is now part of the Canadian possessions. When I met Mr. Rupard again he told me that Rupert was the real name, but that sometime in the past century the name by mistake was written Rupard in some official documents and was accepted by the family. Mr. Rupard was of the material out of which rulers are made, and in his sphere as shepherd over the good old Baptists of Goshen, Cane Spring, Liberty and Lulbegrud, and in fact, among his people everywhere, he was a ruler indeed. Not in the sense of arbitrary ruling. This would have been the last thing that Brother Rupard would have thought of, or that his brethren would have tolerated. It was his ceasar head, his honesty, his love of God and his fellowmen that gave him the wonderful power he possessed.

	He voted the republican ticket, but held himself aloof from all partisanship, and repeatedly declined political honors that would have been gladly given him. His mission was to preach the gospel. How well he did it, hundreds who read this know far better than I. But of the few sermons that it was my pleasure to hear him preach I indorsed every word that he said. A great and good man has gone to his reward. His place cannot be filled. Others will come and go and fill their missions with credit, but there was but one Wm. Ryan, John J.	KENTUCKY STATE NEWS. FATAL FIGHT In Lexington Between Saloonkeepers Over a disputed Account. LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 17.-Merritt Martin, a saloonkeeper and agent for the Chattanooga Brewing Co., and J. J. Ryan, also a saloonkeeper, had a terrible fight Tuesday night in the latter's place of business on Main street, as a result of which Ryan is dead and Martin is locked up charged with murder. The men had been good friends until recently, they had a dispute over an account owed the Chattanooga Brewing Co., by Ryan. Martin declared they must have had a settlement Tuesday night and had entered Ryan's place and requested the same. After some conversation the men began fighting with their fists. Bystanders interfered and separated them. While Martin was being held away from Ryan, the latter, reaching over the heads of the peacemakers holding Martin, hit him a blow in the face, whereupon the latter drew his pistol and began shooting. The friends became panic stricken and fell fled from the room, leaving the fighters together. Martin's third shot struck Ryan in the left arm and a fourth entered the abdomen. Martin fled from the place and was arrested. Ryan died while being carried to the hospital. Ryan was a single man, aged about thirty- five. Rye, Kathleen "Kate"	The family of Kathleen "Kate" Rye is sad announce that she has passed, just before dawn on Tuesday, February 5, 2019. She died peacefully, with her daughter Barbara and her niece Amy at her side. The cause of death was complications related to a recent fall at her home in Winchester, Kentucky. The family is deeply thankful to those who assisted Kate in her final days. Though she died a month short of her 92nd birthday, Kate was a very independent woman. Her best

	friends and companions were her sister, Betty June Bailey, and her brothers Bill Green and Morris Green. Kate was a member of the Salem Presbyterian Church in Winchester. Her niece, Amy Green Harms, was her dedicated caregiver in recent years. Kate also enjoyed a special relationship with her devoted grandson, Brian Daniel. Kate Green Rye was born in Winchester, Kentucky and spent her entire life there. Her husband, Ira S. Rye, was a Master Carpenter who died 30 years ago. Kate was an accomplished homemaker, cook and seamstress, known for her beautiful hand sewn quilts. For many years Kate lived alone at the family home. Recently, she moved into an apartment near her beloved sister, Betty June Bailey. The sisters continued to enjoy outings with their brothers, and attended church together. Kate was also preceded in death by her beloved son David Rye. In addition to her siblings, Kate is survived by her daughter Barbara (Clark) Whitt, of Key West, Florida, daughter-in-law Cheryl (David) Rye, grandson Brian Clay Daniel, granddaughters Shelly Rye and Stacey Tapp, great grandsons Jaxon and Gavin Carruba, her best friend Hazel Bush, as well as many nieces, nephews, friends and neighbors. Barbara Whitt expresses special thanks to her cousin, Amy Harms, who miraculously managed to fly with her ailing and elderly Aunt Kate from Lexington Kentucky to Key West just days before she died. Dr. Rocky Tingle is much appreciated for his medical and compassionate guidance. Arron Castillo, Key West Mortuary, delivered his services with kindness and respect. Barbara also thanks her special friends, "my angels", who came to her home with love and support for Barbara and Clark. Kate Rye's life will be celebrated with services at her church in Kentucky. The dates will be announced later in the spring. The Winchester Sun February 9-10, 2019
