Mace, Paul Edwin	Paul Edwin Mace, Jr., 73, husband of Judy Raney Mace, was born on January 3, 1948 and passed away on September 13, 2021, after a brief illness. The son of the late Paul and Eleanor Mace, he is also survived by his brother and sister-in-law, Jennings and Ruth Mace; sister; Evelyn Mace; niece, Sarah Mace (Jared Hayes); nephew, Warren Mace and great-niece Supattra Namnon. He is survived locally by a cousin, Jane Chevront and her family, as well as several cousins across the country. He is further survived by Raney brothers- and sisters-in law: Vicki Raney, Linda (Freddie) Lawson, Johnny (Cindy) Raney and Steven (Denise) Raney; nieces and nephews Brigitte Raney McKinley, Cody Raney, Leslie Raney Stump, Collin Raney, Caitlyn Raney and great nieces and nephews, Dylan and Riley McKinley, and Ava, Quincy and Vivienne Stump. In addition to his parents he was preceded in death by a brother in law, Terry Raney. Paul was a 1966 graduate of GRC and a 1970 graduate of UK with a degree in English. For 38 ½ years, he was a lineman for South Central Bell/Bell South/AT&amp;T where he enjoyed driving big trucks and climbing tall poles. In retirement he read widely, taught himself to play the guitar, became a backyard ornithologist and enjoyed the company of Judy, his beloved wife of 36 years. He was a gentle man, unfailingly kind and always willing to help. His sly humor made him a joy to be around and his breadth of knowledge was often surprising. Services will be Friday, September 17 at the Winchester Cemetery, at the Layne Pavillion. Visitation will be from 1-2pm (masks requested please), followed by a service at 2pm with Dr. Ed Mesta will presiding. Donations in Paul's memory may be made to the Clark County Library, the Bluegrass Heritage Museum or the charity of your choice. The Winchester Sun Septmeber 17-19, 2021

Mack, Annie	Burned to Death Sunday night at a house on North Maple street a row arose between Charles Jackson and Ike Cary. The latter threw a lighted lamp at his antagonist which missed him and struck Annie Mack. The lamp exploded and the woman was covered with the burning oil. Before help could reach her, she was so badly burned that she died after lingering in agony until Tuesday. A warrant for manslaughter was sworn out against Carey, but when the officers went to arrest him he had left town and his whereabouts are unknown. He is a persistent law breaker and has been before the courts many times. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 23, 1897 Isaac Carey, a fugitive from justice wanted at Winchester, Ky., for killing a woman, was captured at the baseball game here Wednesday by Officer J. B. Jackson. Carey got into a row with a man at Winchester and threw a lamp at him. The lamp exploded, throwing burning oil upon the clothing of the woman and burning her to death before assistance could be rendered her Officer Jackson came from Winchester and knew Carey. At the game of ball he recognized him among the spectators and promptly put him under arrest. Cary offered no resistance. He will be taken back to Winchester for trial.—Springfield, Ohio, Cor. Chicago Chronicle. Cary will not be brought back for this crime as the Grand Jury filed to indict him on the

		ground that when he threw the lamp at the negro Jackson, he was acting in self defense, and that the killing of Annie Mack was accidental. Word to this effect was sent to the Springfield authorities and Cary was released. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 14, 1897 For Manslaughter. Several months ago Ike Cary, one of the most troublesome negroes with which this city was ever afflicted with, got into a fight and threw a lighted lamp at his antagonist. The lamp set fire to Annie Mack, and she was burned to death. Cary left at once going to Ohio. The Grand Jury did not indict him for this but did find a number of indictments for illegal sale of liquor and other offenses. He finally made arrangements to give bond for these indictments and a short time ago he came back. Notwithstanding the Grand Jury did not indict him for the killing of the woman, he was arrested on a charge of manslaughter and will have his examining trial to-day. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 17, 1897. Discharged. Ike Cary was tried before Judge Haggard Tuesday on a charge of manslaughter and was discharged. He killed Annie Mack, a negro woman, by striking her with a lighted lamp, death ensuing from the burns. The testimony showed that he acted in self defense as his antagonist was advancing on him with an open knife and the striking of the woman was purely accidental. Mack, Ed.		On Tuesday the locomotive of the express train from Huntington to Lexington exploded about twenty miles east of Mt. Sterling, killing the engineer E. A. Hiltbruner, of Huntington and fireman Ed. Mack of Kilgore. The train was thrown from the track and several of the passengers considerably bruised, one lady having her collar bone broken. No cause is known for the explosion. This accident is the culmination of a long series of mishaps that had befallen Engineer Hiltbruner during his services on this road. Although accounted a safe and careful man, no less than twenty-eight persons have been killed by the trains in his charge. A few years ago he ran into a construction train near Ashland and killed eight men. He was in charge of the train that killed Mrs. Modena Curtis near Thomson a year or two ago her little child was also badly hurt but recovered. A few years ago a train in his charge ran into a vehicle near Mt. Sterling in which a of young society men and a couple of negro prostitutes were riding and all four were killed. All these occurrences were accidents and could hardly have been averted by any effort on the part of Hiltbruner. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 14, 1891

Mackay, John M.		Was well known here Rev. John M. Mackay, for nearly fifty years a priest of the Catholic church, died the past week in Cincinnati of paralysis. He was a very learned man and spoke a number of languages fluently. Many years ago when Catholic churches were few in this part of the State, he was a missionary and held services here a number of times. Several persons in Winchester whom he baptized as children, are now middle-aged men and women. During his rectorship of St. Peter's Cathedral at Cincinnati was made a domestic prelate with the title of monsignor by Pope Pius X. Many friends of Father Mackay in this city will learn with sorrow of his death. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 21, 1908
Mackenzie, Peter		Vigorous persuasion Among the many stories which are going the rounds concerning Rev. Peter Mackenzie, who died the other day, is one which shows he was a thorough believer in muscular Christianity. Many years ago, after delivering a lecture in a country village in the north, he was returning to his host's house along a lonely road when he was accosted by a robber. The latter was a believer in the right of might and requested Mr. Mackenzie to turn out all the cash he had got. "Well my dear man," replied Mr. Mackenzie, you know I am big enough to thrash you. If its money you want I'll give you half a crown. The

		robber would not accept this very charitable offer. Mr. Mackenzie “doffed” his coat and gave him what the man is now pleased to call “a dashed good hiding.” That thrashing did the man a great service, for he afterward left the paths of vice and became one of Mr. Mackenzie’s numerous converts. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 3, 1896

Mackey, Bradford	AA	Last Wednesday, Bradford Mackey, a respectable young colored man, went with a fishing party to Stoner Creek. Late in the evening he swam across the creek, and in swimming back, was taken with cramp and sank. He came up quickly to the surface but sank again almost instantly. Two gentlemen immediately went into the creek, but were unable to find him. The creek was then dragged, and after some time the body was found. His untimely death broke up the fishing party, who returned to town with the body that night. Brad was an intelligent, industrious young colored man, and was greatly liked by the people generally. His burial suit and expenses were paid by the Muckletonian Club. Coroner H. S. Parrish summoned a jury yesterday morning which held an inquest upon the body and returned the following Verdict: We the jury find the dead body before us to be that of Brad Mackey, of color and his death was caused by accidental drowning while swimming across Stoner Creek in Clark County, Ky., on the premises of Thos. Sidener, on May 28th 1879. Jacob Saarbach, R. B. Clark, W. N. West, George Richter, R. T. Battson, F. B. Clem The Semi-Weekly Sun Fri., 5-30-1879
Mackey, Douglas “Doug”		Douglas “Doug” Mackey, 89, of Winchester, Kentucky, passed away September 22, 2023, at home with his wife by his side. He was born in Benham, Kentucky to William Steve and Sudie (Slusher) Mackey on February 17, 1934, where he spent his early years growing up with six brothers and three sisters. At age thirteen, following his father’s untimely passing in 1946, his mother moved to Barbourville, Kentucky to be closer to extended family. Doug spent his high school years at Knox Central, where he was involved actively in sports and excelled at basketball. He left Barbourville in January 1952 after his first semester junior year in high school to begin military service in the Navy when he traveled to Camp Elliott, California for his basic training. He became a HM-3 Hospital Corpsman and was aboard the USS EVERETT (PF-8) during the Korean War. After his transition from active duty to the US Navy reserve in February 1955, Doug enrolled at Eastern Kentucky State College (now Eastern Kentucky University) in Richmond, where he completed his Bachelor’s and Master’s Degrees in education. It was at Eastern Kentucky where he met Ada Ruth Taulbee, his wife of 67 years (married December 28, 1955). He moved to California with Ada Ruth in the summer of 1959 where he began his 30+ year teaching career at Corona High School teaching government and economics and serving for several years as a guidance counselor and a department chair. He also coached basketball and was an assistant track coach. He enjoyed the opportunity to instill confidence in students from various backgrounds with the expectation they could succeed in earning a college degree. While in California, Doug was blessed to become a father with the birth of his daughter Lydia Leah in 1965 and his son Morgan Douglas in 1969. He was an avid runner who participated regularly in competitive races and finished the Los Angeles Marathon in 1992 at age 58. While he enjoyed teaching, he was always eager to spend school breaks and long weekends camping with his family throughout the southwestern United States, as well as during longer trips back to Kentucky and the east during summer breaks. His travels with Ada Ruth continued after their retirement and extended to various locations throughout the United States and once to Japan. Several years after his retiring in California, he and Ada Ruth decided to return home closer to their roots and moved to Nicholasville, Kentucky in 2006 to be near siblings, cousins, and nephews and nieces who lived in central and eastern Kentucky. He is survived by his loving wife, Ada Ruth; son, Morgan (Chandra), grandsons Vikash and Jayant, cousins Dr. Robert Edward Mackey of Corbin, Kentucky and Marcia Mackey (Cecil) Crouch of La Grange, Kentucky, his cousin Robert’s children Dr. John D. (Kim) Mackey of Nicholasville, Kentucky, Alan (Kate) Mackey of Lone Tree, Colorado, Dr. Sharon Mackey of Lexington, Kentucky, and Dr. Benjamin (Andrea) Mackey of Barbourville, Kentucky, his wife’s nephew Dennis (Karen) King of Winchester, Kentucky, and many other family members and dear friends. He is preceded in death by his daughter Lydia. Family and friends are welcome to attend a visitation and funeral service which will be held at Scobee Funeral Home, 219 W Lexington Avenue, Winchester, Kentucky from 9:00-11:00 a.m. Saturday, 30 September. Flowers may be sent to Scobee Funeral Home. Visitation will start at 9:00 a.m. with a service beginning at 10:00 a.m. The Winchester Sun September 26, 2023 + Scobee Funeral Home

Mackey, Mrs. James		Fatal Accident Late Sunday afternoon as Mrs. Mackey, of Powell county, was on her way to Estill county to look at a farm with a view of purchasing, the horse attached to the vehicle became frightened on account of the harness breaking, and ran off, seriously injuring Mrs. Mackey. She was carried to the residence of Mrs. David Goolman where she died a few hours later. The remains were carried to Powell county for interment.

	The Winchester Democrat Tue., Nov. 13, 1900 Death Of Mrs. Mackey In our issue of last week we gave a short account of the accident and death of Mrs. Mackey, near Log Lick. The Irvine News gives a detailed account of the accident as follows: "On last Sunday afternoon Oscar H. Mackey and his mother, Mrs. James Mackey, were on their way to a place in Clark county to look at a farm and when they were near Log Lick, going down a very long, steep hill the back strap broke and the horse began running and kicking. Just as they were near the foot of the hill Mr. Mackey was thrown out and bruised up considerably. A Mr. Williams who lived near ran out to catch the runaway animal and when the horse saw Mr. Williams he turned and one side of the buggy struck a stile block, which turned it upon two wheels and after running that way a short distance, the hind axle broke, letting Mrs. Mackey fall out backwards, from which fall she died in about two hours." The Winchester Democrat Fri., Nov. 23, 1900

Recently he had been to California for his health but returned to Kansas City to die. He leaves a wife but no children. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 12, 1895.
Madigan, John	Death Of John Madigan Friends in this city were apprised Saturday of the death that morning of John Madigan, of Frankfort, at Denver, Colorado. Mr. Madigan was born and raised in this city, where his parents resided until a few years ago, when they moved to Frankfort. Shortly after moving to Frankfort John went to Denver to accept a position and also in the hope that his health, which had nearly always been delicate, might be improved. He returned to Kentucky about a year ago, but went back to Denver in a short time. Deceased was twenty-four years of age and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Madigan. Of a gentle, kindly nature, he had no thought but of the purest and noblest, and his uniform courtesy and manly bearing won for him the good will of all who knew him. No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made, but the burial will be at Lexington. The many friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Madigan tender their sympathy to them in their bereavement. Madigan, Matt Jr.	Supposed to be dying A telegram to Mr. Matt Madigan, Assistant Warden of the prison at Frankfort yesterday, reports the fatal illness of his son, Matt, Jr., at St. Bayard, New Mexico. Matt Madigan, Jr., was born and raised in this city, and graduated at our high school. He was appointed to West Point with high honors. Since then he has been in the military service as an officer. Our whole people are filled with sorrow and sympathy. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, May 23, 1907  Madigan Two weeks ago we noted the dangerous illness of Matt Madigan, Jr., at Fort Bayard, Ne Mexico. The end came Monday. Lieutenant Madigan was a Winchester boy of whom we all felt proud. He graduated with high honors at West Point, and was appointed an officer in the regular army. He was sent to Cuba, where he contracted typhoid fever. On being transferred back to this country, his command was sent West. Only a few years ago, his older brother, John, died. To the father, mother and remaining children, we give our heartfelt sympathy. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, June 6, 1907

Magill, Henry Alfred		From the Daily Evening Public of Clinton, Illinois, we copy the following account of the death of H. A. Magill of that place. The deceased has visited here and has many relatives in this section of the State. His mother was Miss Melissa Bowrens, of this city and his father Henry Magill, also lived here. They were married in 1859 and left here shortly afterward. Henry Alfred Magill died at his home in this city at 6:05 o'clock Saturday morning March 2 nd . The cause of his death was tuberculosis. His first serious illness began last April when he suffered a light attack of pneumonia brought about by exposure in rain. From this attack Mr. Magill continued to fail in health and in July went to Colorado Springs at the advice of physicians. After arriving there he was taken worse and for a time was confined in a hospital. He recovered sufficiently to return home the latter part of last October. On November 15 th he was compelled to take to his bed, and has since been lingering between life and death. He seemed to realize that the end was near but rarely spoke of death to the family. At nine o'clock last night he was attacked with a serious sinking spell which was followed by three more, the last one being this morning when death called him. Henry Alfred Magill was born on the site of his late home in Clinton, on April 3 rd , 1811. He attended the Clinton public school and reached the second year of high school, when at age sixteen years he took a clerkship in the dry goods house of Magill Bros., in which his father was interested. He was employed there until 1833, when he resigned to take a position in the banking house of John Warner & Co., where he filled

	many responsible positions for ten years, retiring on account of his health. Mr. Magill was an enthusiastic Republican being always an active worker in state and county politics. He enjoyed an extensive acquaintance with prominent men in the Republican ranks of politics and his influence was instrumental in moving many De Witt county men into upward positions. He seldom thought of his own welfare but was an untiring worker for his prominent friends who are numbered by scores not only over Central Illinois but in the entire State. In municipal affairs, Mr. Magill was an important factor and always took a deep interest in the advancement of the city of Clinton. In 1855 he was elected Mayor which office he held four consecutive terms and it can be truthfully said that he was conscientious and honest in the discharge of his duties. Being possessed of considerable means he was enabled to give his attention to the office thus having time to thoroughly study the needs of the city and investigate the means of other municipalities. Personally Mr. Magill was of a genial and entertaining disposition, and exceedingly popular with all classes. He was as ready and willing to aid a common laborer as the most influential citizen. Deceased was a member of the Lodge Knights of Pythias an honorary member of the Clinton Fire Department, also a member of the order of Elks at Bloomington. Deceased leaves surviving a mother and two sisters, Mrs. Hattie Amsden of this city and Mrs. J. B. Moore, of Decatur. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 12, 1901

Her beautiful daughter and best friend, Kayla (Conley) and family. Husband, Jake and 3 granddaughters, Ella,

	Rylee and Alexie. Three boys that were loved as only moms love and each held their own special spot in her heart. Christopher Gillespie, Jessica Steele, and granddaughter, Carly Gillespie. Bryan Gillespie and wife, Mallory. Grandsons, Luca and Chase. Granddaughter Lainey and Granddaughter, that holds a big piece of her heart, Gracie Gillespie. Justin Gillespie, better known as J-Bird. Her brother, who's defines "brotherly love", Mark Krawczyk Carolyn is also survived by her husband's family. Son, Hunter Maines, Daughter, Ashley and husband, Will Christopher, grandchildren, Callen and Grady. Daughter, Samantha and Jesse Westburgh. And special mother-in-law, Mary Brinegar. Carolyn could be described as loving, forgiving, selfless, fun, and authentic. A heart that was open to anyone that needed momma and Granny love. Carolyn had shared with many in the days before being called home that life for her was in a beautiful, blessed, and peaceful season. Because of her love for the Lord, we all know where she will be waiting and rejoicing. Hearts are broken and shattered, and she will be deeply missed but we praise the beautiful life we had with Carolyn Maines, sister, mother, granny, wife, friend, and coworker. Carolyn's celebration will be held at 3:00PM, Saturday, July 22, 2023, at Christ Church of Winchester, 1879-1947 Ironworks Rd, Winchester, KY 40391. Family will receive friends from 12:00 – 2:30PM. In lieu of flowers memorials are suggested to CC's Closet, P.O. Box 574, Winchester, KY 40391. Maines, Tarsa Sue	Tarsa (Teresa) Borders Maines gained her Heavenly wings November 2nd at 8:30pm at Saint Joseph Main after many battles with cancer, lung problems, and eventually taken quickly as a result of Covid. Tarsa is survived by her husband, John Edward Maines, and two sons, Timothy Nelson Maines (children-Haleigh, Ledger, and Hensley) and son Gary Alexander Maines (wife Shirley and sons Jaden and Kaden). Tarsa was preceded in death by her mother Loretta Lucille Borders and sister Faye Borders. She is survived by two brothers George Edward Borders, John Borders and sister Mary Alice Scauzillo. Eddie Belle Maines (John's mother) referred to Tarsa as 'my brown-eyed baby' and often took her side over any other from a very early point in John and Tarsa's relationship. John and Tarsa met and began a life together when Tarsa was 10 and John was 12. They were married from the ages of 19 and 21 until the day God called Tarsa Home. Tarsa has many nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends that she adored. Tarsa had a special fiend who checked on her and John daily, Phyllis Wilson. John and Tarsa would have celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary in December of this year. Tarsa graduated with a Bachelor's Degree from BCTCS in 2011. She worked at Whiteman's Plumbing for many years, but the true passion of her life was taking care of her children, friends, and loved ones. She will be greatly missed by anyone that had the fortune of knowing Tarsa. Arrangements are set for Thursday, November 9th from 5:30pm until 7pm for a celebration of life at Scobee's followed by a Eulogy delivered by Mary Brinegar at 7pm. Tarsa's burial will be a private event the following day at Camp Nelson where she will be patiently awaiting the love of her life. The Winchester Sun November 11-12, 2023 + Scobee Funeral Home

Major, Mrs. Ellen Dudley		Death of Mrs. Major Mrs. Ellen Dudley Major died Sunday evening, August 22 nd , at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R.C. Auld, at Indianapolis, Indiana. Mrs. Major was eighty years of age and had been in feeble health for some time. The interment was in Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati. She was the mother, of Rev. Thomas S. Major, formerly pastor of St. Joseph's church, this city, but now of Frankfort. Other surviving children are Dr. George Major, of Bellevue, Ky., and Mrs. R.C. Auld, of Indianapolis. Her husband, who died many years ago, was Dr. Frank Major, of Lexington. The Winchester Democrat Friday, August 27, 1909
Major, Thomas		THE SOLDIER PRIEST – The current issue of the Illustrated Kentuckian contains the following article, with an excellent "portrait of the subject: Rev. Father Thomas Major, the soldier priest, so widely known and beloved in Kentucky, has a varied career. His father, Dr. Major, was a former distinguished physician of Lexington. Thomas was born in Paris, this State, in 1844. His ancestors who settled in Virginia in 1660, were of English and French extraction. His grand father came to Kentucky in the early days of its settlement. The breaking out of the War of the Rebellion found Thomas a student at old Transylvania University. Being of ardent temperament and a strong Southerner, he quit college and was the first recruit to join General John Morgan when he entered Lexington for the first time. He served with General John Morgan until the surrender of that command in Ohio. He was wounded in the last charge before the surrender, and was sent to prison where he remained eight months. He escaped, joined the Catholic church and was sent to Canada on secret service. He returned to the field service again, going to Texas where the close of the war found him. After the surrender he crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico and remained their awhile under the Maximilian dynasty. From thence he made his way to Nova Scotia and Canada. He then returned to the United States, studied medicine awhile and not liking the profession decide to enter the priesthood. For several years he pursued his studies at Cincinnati and at Mobile. He passed the final examination and received the highest possible note. He was ordained a priest by Bishop Toebe and assigned to Cynthiana (where only a few years before he rode in battle with Morgan.) He was also chaplain of the Kentucky Central railroad. He was afterward assigned to Lexington as Assistant Priest and had full charge of the church during the long illness and after the death of Father Bekkers, until the arrival of Father Brossart. Shortly after he left the diocese of Lexington, with permission, and was thirteen years in Texas, Illinois and Ohio. He was finally ordered home by Right Reverend Bishop Maes and assigned to Winchester last April. Within six months after he built a handsome rectory. Father Major is pleased with Winchester and her people. Probably no Catholic priest in the country is more popular with those who know him, especially among Protestants. He is an honorary member of the Confederate Veteran Association and old Morgan raiders say, "No better or braver soldier ever wore a sword." The Democrat, Wednesday, February 22, 1893.

Malloy, _____	ON Monday night a freight train on the Kentucky Central road ran over a man near the K. U. crossing. The train was stopped and the unfortunate man was carried to the depot, where he soon breathed his last. An examination showed that one leg had been cut off below the knee and also near the thigh, the other cut off near the knee and internal injuries inflicted. Coroner Alexander, summoned a jury and from the evidence it appears that the deceased was named Malloy. He was a native of Ireland and came to this city from Pittsburgh a short time ago. He was employed as a section hand on the Kentucky Union road. The supposition is that he sat down on the track and went to sleep and was thus run over. The Democrat, Wednesday, August 5, 1891.

Mann, Ella Mae	Ella Mae Mann, wife of Randolph Mann, of Winchester, died on July 21, 2018, in Winchester. She was the daughter of Vernon W. and Lillian M. Koontz of Jetmore, Kansas. Ella was born January 20, 1934 in Jetmore and grew up in rural western Kansas. She graduated from Sterling College in Sterling, Kansas, and shortly thereafter came to Kentucky to teach in a Presbyterian Mission School, the Frenchburg School of Menifee County. She remained in Kentucky for the rest of her life, and was a devoted teacher in Kentucky schools for over 30 years, molding and inspiring hundreds of youth. She and Mr. Mann met at the Frenchburg school and were married in 1958. They would have celebrated their 60th anniversary on July 28th of this year. Ella was a longtime member of the Corbin Presbyterian Church, Corbin, Kentucky, and more recently, Grace Baptist Church of Winchester. She loved to sing in the Church choir. Survivors include her husband, Randolph Mann; one son, Kevin Mann (Gian Claudia Sciarra) of Austin, Tex.; two grandchildren, Violet and Rosalind Mann, also of Austin; one sister, Ms. Eva Koontz of Kansas City, Mo.; and one half-sister, Ms. Bonnie Steele of Fort Collins, Colo. She was preceded in death by one son, Dr. Rodney M. Mann of Lexington. There will be a Memorial service celebrating her life and legacy at Grace Baptist Church, 5990 Lexington Road in Winchester, on Sunday, July 29th at 6 p.m. All are welcome to attend. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to the Grace Baptist Church Youth Club in "Miss Ella"s name. www.clarklegacycenter.com The Winchester Sun July 24, 2018

Manna, Whitaker	One Dead The Other Dying. Two Kentucky Farmers Fight a Duel with Knives—They Quarreled Over a Settlement of Tobacco Crop. Ballardsville, Ky., Feb. 1.—Whitaker Manna and Howard Harlan fought a terrible duel with Barlow knives in McWilliams blacksmith shop here Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The men quarreled over the settlement of a crop of tobacco, and at a meeting Monday morning agreed to settle it. They sprang at each other, and in a few minutes were bleeding and exhausted from stabs and cuts. But their fury was unabated. They waited a moment and then resumed the combat. The second one was to death. When it ended Manna was dead. Harlan will die. Both were respected farmers and lived on adjoining farms. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 7, 1899

Frank Lykins was shot in the abdomen. After reaching the house Frisbee and his friends stationed themselves at the windows and began firing rapidly at their enemies when the Howard-Mans faction retreated. An hour later they returned reinforced by several friends and riddled the hotel with bullets. In the meantime Lykins and Frisbee had escaped to the mountains on horseback to alarm the neighborhood. Both sides are heavily armed. Frank Lykins will die and Kelley Mans is dangerously wounded. Both factions include men prominent in the affairs of the county. Manse, Thornton		ABOUT a year ago a white man named Thornton Manse was waylaid and killed in South Carolina. The evidence was wholly circumstantial, but ten negroes were convicted and sentenced to be hung in October last. Pending an appeal the Governor gave them a short respite, and now another negro, who had not been under suspicion, confesses the murder. He says he could not stand to have ten men hung for his crime. The others have been released. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 23, 1891.

Mansfield, Richard Clifton	The grim reaper Calls for one of Winchester's most prominent citizens – Death of R.C. Mansfield Richard Clifton Mansfield died at his home in this city Tuesday, aged sixty-six years. He was stricken with paralysis Sunday morning and lingered without recovering consciousness until relieved by death Tuesday. He was a native of this county, but when a child moved with the family to Fayette county. About the time of attaining manhood he moved to Powell county where he lived for thirty years. At Roslyn on the L.E. railroad he established a flouring mill and built up a big trade. About four years ago he moved his mill to this city on account of the increased shipping facilities and had built up a big trade, under the firm name of Mansfield & Son. The junior member of the firm died of fever some time ago. R.C. Mansfield is survived by his wife, who, before her marriage, was Miss Armina Cole, of Estill county, one son, Dr. C.D. Mansfield, of Stanton, and two daughters, Mrs. Ollie G. Woodward and Mrs. Helen Hunter, both of this city. The remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery yesterday with services at the grave by Rev. O.J. Chandler. The deceased was a fine business man, a good citizen, whose death is a loss to the community. The following officiated as pall bearers: Active – Geo. Tomlinson, Geo. Rice, Geo. Hon. Ollie G. Hadden and J.H. Burgher. Honorary – J.W. Williams, W.O. Hoskins, W.A. Bush, Green Garrett, N.H. Witherspoon, P.Y. Drake, J.W. Crone, and John Tanner. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 15, 1910  Will probated R.C. Mansfield directs that his estate be wound up without unnecessary delay or cost. All his debts and those of the firm of Mansfield & Son be paid. His home is left to his wife for life and at her death to his daughter, Emily Hunter, and if she is dead to his other heirs. The net proceeds of five thousand dollars is to be paid his wife for life and at her death the principal is to be divided among his heirs. The cottage and grove at Sea Breeze, Florida, is left to his wife and Mrs. Woodward for life and at their death to be equally divided. The mill is to run until the stock on hand is worked up and sold. The mill is then to be sold and the proceeds divided. By a codicil eleven thousand dollars is to be placed in a safety deposit bank for his grandson, Reuben Linwood Mansfield, as his father's share of the milling business. Hubert Hunter and M.L. Thomas were named as executors without bond. The will was in the hand writing of the testator. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 29, 1910

Mansfield, William A. T.	Death claims Mr. William Mansfield after many weeks patient suffering of typhoid fever Mr. William Mansfield died yesterday afternoon at the home of his parents on Pendleton street, of typhoid fever, aged thirty-two years. Mr. Mansfield had been ill for many weeks, and everything that medical skill or trained service could do was done to save his life, but to no avail, and the end came at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was a very popular, clever young man, and was associated with his father, Mr. R.C. Mansfield, in the flour manufacturing business near the L & E depot. Besides his parents he leaves a wife, formerly Miss Williams, of this county, and one child, a son. Up to the time of our going to press no arrangements for the funeral had been made. The Winchester Democrat Friday, August 21, 1908

	Funeral of Wm. Mansfield The funeral of William Mansfield, who died Thursday afternoon was preached the following afternoon at the residence of his father, R.C. Mansfield, on Pendleton Street, by Eld. J.H. MacNeill and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. The active pall bearers were: George Hon, George Tomlinson, Marcus Thomas, Harry Tanner, Lambert Salander and J. B. Cornett. The honorary pall bearers were: R.S. Scobee, Asa Kidd, B.R. Jouett, William Judy, John Bedford and Will Sphar. Mr. Mansfield came here from Rosslyn several years ago and soon became identified with the business interests of this city, conducting a large flouring mill in connection with his father. He was a fine business man and took a lively interest in everything pertaining to the good of his adopted city. He was extremely popular with all who knew him and the sympathy of all our people goes out to his bereaved parents and devoted wife. #### THE JACKSON MURDER.

A detailed account of the murder of Hon. J. B. Marcum at Jackson is found on our first page. Mrs. Marcum says that Ned Strong, an old and well known man of the county, heard four of his enemies discussing the murder Sunday while drunk at a "blind tiger" about three miles from town. He was too old to come to town, but sent a neighbor, Henry Back, to warn Marcum. Back came to town next morning but did not find Marcum until just as he was shot. He was about a minute too late to warn him. Gov. Beckham, as soon as he heard of the murder, wrote to the County Judge saying he desired to offer the largest reward the law allows for the murderer, but said he could not do so until requested by the local officials, and urged Judge Hargis to ask for the reward, which was done. Sheriff Callahan is reported to have said that he saw the murder, but was afraid to go out for fear of his own life. Nothing has been done and people there are afraid to talk.

An Attorney Killed.

J. B. Marcum Assassinated at the Jackson, Ky., Courthouse.

The Person Who Did the Shooting is Unknown, and Made His Escape During the Excitement That Followed the Tragedy.

Lexington, Ky., May 5.—Just after he had finished filing papers re-opening the contested election cases of Breathitt county, Hon. James B. Marcum was shot and killed by an assassin. He fell in his tracks in the front entrance of the courthouse at Jackson and never spoke, death being almost instantaneous. He fell within a few yards of where Town Marshall James Cockrell was shot down in July, the assassin being stationed in the court house in each instance.

Marcum was counsel for the fusionists, who are contesting for the offices of county judge, sheriff and other places. As a result of his efforts and his sympathy with the Cockrell faction in a feud he had for a year been regarded as a marked man.

Various plots to assassinate him have been reported. The bitterness of the feud somewhat abated, however, and the election cases were allowed to sleep until Monday. Despite warnings Marcum felt safe in resuming his interrupted practice some time ago and felt secure in filing a motion to re-open the cases which had imperiled his life months before. At 8 o'clock Monday morning he went to the court house at Jackson and the papers were filed. He walked from the clerk's office to the front door of the court house and facing the street, engaged in conversation with Ben Ewing, a friend. The corridor stretching out to his back was full of men. The men had been talking about three minutes when a shot rang out in the rear of the corridor. Marcum staggered and as he sank to the floor another shot was fired. The first bullet entered the back to the right of the spinal column and passing through the breast and body struck the door facing. The next passed through the top of his head and was aimed as he reeled. The shots appeared to come from a doorway or possibly from behind a door in the corridor, but as the passage was quickly cleared amid great confusion on one seemed able to state accurately where the shots came from.

A dispatch from County Judge Hargis received at 8:30 o'clock Monday night states that the assassin is still unknown after a diligent search and no arrests have been made.

Marcum's body lay for ten minutes untouched. Men feared to approach the body. It was finally picked up by friends and carried to a drug store opposite and from there taken home.

Some say that the assassin ran out of the rear door and it seems certain that he made his escape that way during the confusion. It is believed that he was recognized by some but no one has thus far had the courage to name him, though this question is on every one's lips.

Marcum was a trustee of the Kentucky state college, United States commissioner of his district and represented the J. & E. railroad and other large corporations. He had practiced in Breathitt county for 17 years. He had avoided feuds and until he took charge of the election cases had been a friend of all factions. For three months, beginning last July, he did not leave his home and after that for months was always accompanied by his wife and women friends or carried one of his children for protection. The funeral will take place in Mt. Sterling.

Reward Offered.

Gov. Beckham has offered a reward of five hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of the assassin of J. B. Marcum. Let us hope that the cowardly, assassin will be quickly apprehended and punished.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 8, 1903.

THE HARGIS SIDE.

In an interview at Jackson Judge James Hargis declares that there is not a family in Breathitt county some one of whose members has not been slain by Marcum blood. Judge Hargis asserts that politics is at the bottom of the existing troubles in Breathitt. He declares he has been persecuted and violated, and that Republican leaders have endeavored to run him out of the county. He says he is a business man and has been too busy to mix up in feudal troubles, but that the late James B. Marcum was reared in an atmosphere of feuds. He bitterly describes the reputation of the dead man and says that Marcum was generally unpopular in the county. Judge Hargis makes a sweeping denial of charges that he has been connected in any way with the assassinations in Breathitt county and states that his own life has been threatened on numerous occasions. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 12, 1903.

Curt Jett Arrested.

Curt Jett came down from Jackson Saturday afternoon and at once went to the home of his step-father, J. L. Hagin who lives in Madison county, near Jackson Ferry. Judge J. J. C. Bach, of Jackson, was in Lexington and telephoned to Sam Jett, of this city, that five persons, including himself, would testify that Curt Jett had killed J. Marcum, who was assassinated at Jackson recently. Sam Jett swore out a warrant and Officers McCord and Stokely, Harry and Herbert Scrivener, Charlie Derrickson, W.A. Adams and Landers Hoskins went after him, starting about midnight. They found him there in bed; he submitted quietly and was brought here and lodged in jail where he now is. He refused to be interviewed vowing with many and bitter oaths that he knew nothing and cared nothing of the murder. When he went to his mother's Saturday night he drew a pistol on his step-father, threatening his life and drove him away. Hagin went to Richmond to get a warrant for his arrest but before it could be served Jett was in jail here. He is also alleged to have shot B. J. Ewing at Jackson before he left. Ewing was only slightly hurt. Jett will probably be taken to Jackson to-day. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 12, 1903.

Declines To Surrender Jett.

Hearing of the Case Postponed Until June 4th.

The hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Curtis Jett to compel Jailer Boone to deliver him to the authorities of Breathitt county, was continued Wednesday by Judge J. M. Benton until June 4th.

Judge Benton overruled the motion of John M. Stevenson, attorney for Jett, holding that it was his duty to hear proof on the question whether an offense had been committed in Jackson or not.

The case was called at ten o'clock and sheriff McCord read a list of witnesses for whom subpoenas had been issued. Only five witnesses answered the summons, W. M. Combs, B. J. Ewen, S. S. Taulbee, J. E. Patrick and W. H. Blanton.

Commonwealth's Attorney Crutcher announced that owing to absent witnesses the respondent desired a continuance and asked for a day to be fixed for the investigation when all witnesses could be present.

Attorney Stevenson objected, citing various authorities, and he moved that his client be discharged or that the Sheriff be directed to deliver him to the authorities of Breathitt county.

Judge Benton delivered an oral opinion, and ordered that the hearing of the proceedings be continued until Thursday June 4th.

The five witnesses present were recognized in the sum of $500 to be present at the hearing on June 4th.

Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge.

He Declines to Prosecute Jett, Charged With Marcum's Murder.

Lexington, Ky., May 16.—Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge Friday declined to appear in the prosecution of Curtis Jett, but he promised Mrs. Marcum, the widow of the murdered man, that he would advise with any attorney whom she might engage and aid her in that way.

Mrs. Marcum next called upon Chas. J. Bronson and requested that he accept the prosecution, but he also declined for the present, on the ground that he was under the care of his family physician and unable to attend to his duties. He promised her, however, that if he was able to appear in the case later, and she still needed him, he would be glad to assist her.

To Prosecute Jett.

Lexington, Ky., May 18.—It is practically settled that Charles J. Bronston will prosecute Curtis Jett for the alleged murder of James B. Marcum. The widow of the murdered man said: "I am satisfied with my visit and when Jett is tried it is time to know who will prosecute him."

Marcum's Successor.

Covington, Ky., May 19.—Richard Hurst, a well known attorney at Jackson, Ky., will be the successor of the late James B. Marcum, United States commissioner, who was assassinated May 4. The matter was practically settled at London, Ky., last week, where Federal Judge Cochran convened court.

Suspiciously Active.

The Breathitt county authorities are now taking an active interest in the Curtis Jett case. Marcum was shot down at the Courthouse door in Jackson in the presence of a score of persons, half of whom were county officials, on the 4th day of May, and no warrant was issued and no steps taken in Breathitt county to arrest the assassin. It was generally understood by the outside world that Curtis Jett, a deputy Sheriff, or at least until very recently, a deputy Sheriff of Breathitt county, fired one, if not both, of the shots that struck Marcum.

On Saturday the 9th day of May, Curtis Jett came to Winchester, and went that night to his mother's in Madison county. That night Sheriff McCord arrested Jett and placed him in the jail of Clark county. On Monday May 11th, Jett applied to Judge Benton for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted and made returnable on Tuesday the 12th day of May. When the case was called on Tuesday, it was passed until Wednesday to secure the attendance of certain witnesses. Some of these witnesses appeared on Wednesday, and they furnished the names of other persons whose testimony is important. One of these persons is I. I. C. Bach, who is temporarily in California, but who is expected to return to Kentucky by June 1st. Upon that statement Judge Benton continued the case until June 4th. This order was made on Wednesday, May 13th. On Friday May 15th, Judge Redwine called a special term of the Breathitt Circuit Court to meet Monday, May 25th, for the purpose of empanelling a special grand jury to investigate the murders of Doctor Cox, James Cockrell and J. B. Marcum. On May 19th, Curtis Jett asked Judge Benton to dismiss his petition for a writ of habeas corpus and this Judge Benton refused to do, upon the ground that Jett is being held now solely upon the authority of the Judge of the Clark Circuit court and that if the petition should be dismissed the jailer would be holding Jett without authority and would be justified in releasing him. This action was taken Tuesday morning and late Tuesday afternoon Jett's attorney delivered to Sheriff McCord a warrant for the arrest of Jett, charging him with the murder of Marcum, which warrant was issued on Saturday, the 16th of May by James Edwards, a Justice of the Peace of Breathitt county. When this warrant was exhibited to Judge Benton he notified Jailer Boone to say to the Sheriff or to any other person who might demand Jett of him that he is holding Jett under the orders of the Circuit Judge, and to refuse to give him up. After this was done Jett's attorney filed an amendment to his petition for a writ of habeas corpus in which he set out the fact that Marcum was killed, that a warrant had been issued by Edwards charging him, Jett, with the murder, and that the warrant was in the hands of Sheriff McCord, and requested that an order be made directing Sheriff McCord to take Jett to Breathitt county under that warrant. Judge Benton declined to make that order at this time.

This is a correct statement of what has transpired. It will be noticed that the special term of the Breathitt court was not called until after the papers had announced that Judge Benton would hold a preliminary investigation here on June 4th, and that it was not until after the special term was called that Magistrate Edwards issued the warrant which now is in the hands of Sheriff McCord, and was placed in his hands by Jett's attorney. The question naturally arises, Why have the Breathitt county authorities so suddenly become so active in the matter? Do they fear that the interest of the commonwealth will suffer if an investigation is held here? Their future course will answer this question.

Will Not Let Him Go.

A Warrant charging Curt Jett with murder was issued from the office of Squire Edwards, of Jackson, and directing that Jett be brought before him, was placed in the hands of Sheriff McCord for execution. Judge Benton has ordered Jailer Boone not to let the sheriff have Jett for that purpose.

All A Fake.

The daily papers have been filled with accounts of attempts to poison Curt Jett, every one of which is a rank fake and entirely without foundation. The only color of truth is that a strange man was very curious as to who carried Jett's meals to him and his questions alarmed the negro woman to whom they were addressed. We have no doubt that some of Jett's fellow conspirators would gladly hear of his sudden death, but there no effort to poison him.

The Jett Case Again.

Curtis Jett is still in jail here, although strenuous efforts have been made to get him out. Another effort was made Tuesday morning when his attorney, John M. Stevenson, moved Judge Benton to dismiss the habeas corpus writs that were pending. As Judge Benton had decided that the warrant under which he was arrested was not good, the dismissal of the habeas corpus proceedings would have left the Jailer with no right to confine Jett and he would have been free. Judge Benton decided that Jett was not before the court on the warrant of arrest issued from the Police Court, but that he was being held by the Circuit Court to determine whether or not there was a reasonable probability that he had committed the crime of murder in Breathitt county, and that June 4th had been fixed to hear proof of that question. He therefore refused to dismiss the writ, but said he would hear arguments on the matter on June 4th, thus hearing the whole case that day.

It is probable, however, that he will not hear it. Judge Redwine has called a special term of the Breathitt Circuit court to meet Monday. If Jett is indicted and the trial fixed for Jackson, Judge Benton will send him there at once. If the trial is fixed for some other county he will be sent to that county.

Senator Hargis Talks.

Senator Alex Hargis, of this county, has given a letter to the press in which he takes to ask Thomas Marcum for the letter written by him in regard to the troubles in Breathitt county. After asking Marcum for his war record he wants to know of Marcum for his war record he wants to know of Marcum who killed the following men in cold blood: Jack Chaney, Jesse Spencer, Ambrose Tolen, Bill South, Jerry South, Lake Woods, John Pence, Dump Chaney, Bill Overbee, Sunny Little, William Callahan, John Amey, Al Amey, Thomas Sizemore, Bill Moore, Mace Combs, Bill Tharp, Pat Howard, William Taulbee, Wayne Taulbee, Thomas Little and John Malone and who shot and wounded Nathan B. Day and John Green.

In view of the fact that Judge Hargis has said that the Marcum blood was responsible for the killing of some member of nearly every prominent family in Breathitt county, Marcum's friends believe that Alex. Hargis intimates that the Marcums were responsible for the killing of all of the above men. Hargis says that he had befriended Jim Marcum in many ways and at the beginning of troubles in Breathitt county he told him to go to his (Hargis') home and stay there free of cost until the excitement and troubles were over.

Hargis says that he regrets the fate of J. B. Marcum as much as any man in Breathitt county, and the happiest moment of his life will be when law and order is restored in that county.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 22, 1903

Troops For Jackson.

Gov. Beckham, at the request of Judge Redwine or other interested parties, on Friday decided to send troops to Jackson to keep order and protect witnesses at the special term of Circuit Court now going on. The detail will consist of a battalion of infantry comprising Company A. of Frankfort, under Capt. Gordon; Company C, of Lexington, under Capt. Calhoun, and Company K, of Shelbyville under Capt. Burton; also Battery A, Light Artillery, of Louisville commanded by Capt. Griffiths, Col. Roger Williams, of Lexington, is in command. The troops gathered at Lexington and went to Jackson in a body Sunday.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 26, 1903.

Did Not Go To Jackson.

The troops ordered to Jackson to protect Judge Redwine's court, which was called to meet yesterday, passed through here Sunday afternoon. It was part of the program to take Curt Jett along with them, but Judge Benton has him in charge and his consent was necessary before this program could be carried out. Judge Benton has so far thwarted every effort to get Jett back to Breathitt county, and the prisoner is still in the Winchester jail where he will stay until he is indicted and the time and the place of his trial fixed. Then, and not till then, will Judge Benton have him transferred from Winchester to the proper point. The conduct of Judge Benton in this matter has, met with universal commendation from the people and press of the state.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 26, 1903.

The Cause Of It.

We are pleased that something has stirred the Circuit Judge of Breathitt county and other officials to at least appear to have some desire to execute the laws. To us it appears that the same indifference would have continued as in the past had not the Circuit Judge, taken hold of the Jett matter like men. Mt. Sterling Advocate.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 2, 1903

The Trouble At Jackson.

The Government still lives and all is quiet at Jackson. On Thursday afternoon it was reported that the jail would be attacked that night and soldiers were looking for trouble. Night came dark and stormy with thunder and lightening and a perfect storm of wind and rain. During the flashes of lightening the guards saw or thought they did, several bodies of armed men and shots were exchanged and the soldiers called from their beds to repel an attack. Notwithstanding the storm they fell in ranks like veterans, but there was no need of their service. Back of the jail the guard saw a dark body approaching and ordered a halt. The order was not obeyed and the guard fired—and killed a cow.

The soldiers had so many points to guard that more were thought necessary and Saturday a detachment from Danville passed through here on the way to Jackson.

B. J. Ewen, the principal witness against Jett, left Jackson hidden in a baggage car and came to this city Friday from here he went to Berea to visit relatives but says he will return when wanted.

An effort was made to have Elison Little removed, but as his duties expired with the special session Saturday. Judge Redwine refused to take action.

It was found impossible to try Jett and White at the special term for want of time, and the case was assigned for yesterday. It is probable however, it will go over until next week.

All was quiet at Jackson when last heard from. The special term ended Saturday and Jett was indicted for the murder of James Cockrill. His trial for the murder of Marcum was set for yesterday, but it will probably be continued until next week. The statement of Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd, that he would not ask for a change of venue and various other facts are shaking the confidence of those who desire justice, and the opinion is growing that the whole thing will result in a farce. If this be true, when the soldiers are withdrawn, those testifying against Jett and White will have to leave or there will be an uprising similar to that which wiped out the Toliver gang at Morehead some years ago.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 2, 1903

A Strange Coincidence.

A dispatch from Frankfort says: "A strange coincidence has developed in connection with the Breathitt troubles. In February, 1902, Curtis Jett was pardoned by Gov. Beckham for the offense of malicious shooting and cutting, his sentence being six months in jail and $200 fine. He had served nearly three months of his sentence. The man who brought the petition and letters to Governor Beckham and asked the pardon in person, was James B. Marcum, the man who was assassinated a few weeks ago, and Curtis Jett is accused of being the assassin. Marcum's name is signed to the petition along with James Hargis, Sheriff Callahan, Elison Little and others.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 2, 1903

At Jackson.

Contrary to expectations, Commonwealth's Attorney Floyd Byrd asked for a change of venue in the Curt Jett and Tom white murder cases at Jackson and Judge Redwine promptly named Morgan county as the place for trial. Morgan is one of the best counties in the mountains and its people are quiet and law abiding. Judge Kinner, who presides over the circuit court, is a fine lawyer and fearless man. But West Liberty is way off from a railroad and hard to get to. The change did not seem to suit anybody and Wednesday Judge Redwine rescinded his order and the trial will take place at Jackson. Troops will be kept there and the jury will be summoned from another county. It is probable that the trial will begin next week, but it is by no means certain that it may not go over until next term.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 5, 1903

The Jury Selected.

Twelve Men Who Will Decide the Fate of Jett and White.

Jackson, Ky., June 10.—The jury to try Curtis Jett and Tom White, charged with one of the foulest assassinations in the history of bloody Breathitt, the shooting of J. B. Marcum in the back as he stood in the courthouse door, was completed shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday night. The 13 men placed under the charge of the elisor and his deputies and will be sworn, and the opening statements made Wednesday morning. Present indications are that the testimony will be commenced before noon. The jury are all Magoffin county farmers who said they had not read newspaper accounts of the tragedy and knew no details of it. They were accepted after an afternoon and evening of arguments, challenges and the filing of numerous affidavits. Their names are Burns Fitzpatrick, James Allen, Dick Miller, Levi Hacker, R. May, W. Reid, Jasper Wallace, Estill Reid, N. B. Salyer, James Bondy, Ham Prather and J. H. Rudd.

Both sides seem satisfied with the body. The defense exhausted its 15 preemptory challenges and the prosecution used three of its five. The extra veniremen did not arrive from Magoffin county until 3 o'clock. They were secured after strenuous efforts on the part of the elisor, who rode all night through the hills. Shortly before midnight he was held up in a wild portion of the country, a man springing from behind a tree and seizing his bridle. Jones fired full in the parties face. He said the man reeled and then made off through the bushes.

Among the affidavits filed Tuesday afternoon was one by S. H. C. Hurst, in which he alleged that money was offered men in Magoffin county if they could get to be veniremen. Hurst alleges that one S. H. G. Arnett told one man that he could get $100 and another $40 if they could become members of the special venire. It has before been alleged that a powerful faction which by some is accredited with keeping a large number of men on its payroll for service somewhat similar to the militiamen, had agents in the counties bordering Breathitt. The man cited in the affidavit referred to was excused by Judge Redwine.

In an affidavit, the defense alleged that S. E. L. Noble, an absent witness, would testify that from his position Jett could not have fired the shot which killed Marcum. On ground of his absence, the defense asked postponement, but the prosecution admitted that if present Noble would so testify and the preliminaries proceeded.

The names of all veniremen were written on slips of paper, placed in a box, shaken and the slips were then drawn one at a time, by the judge. Ninety percent had not read newspaper accounts of the killing of Marcum, and the rigid examination was directed as to their kinship to and relations with people in Breathitt county, of their friends or relatives in Magoffin county. In some instances what to the casual observer seemed no barmean a great disqualification to some whose knowledge of feuds enabled them to trace a friendship or a kinship through several families to one or the other factions in Breathitt, or possibly go back several generations and find a tie that might have a bearing on the present state of affairs in Jackson. An extra guard will attend Jett and White during the trial.

The Jackson Trials.

When the trials of Jett and White were called at Jackson Monday only about forty of the hundred men summoned from Magoffin county to act as jurors were on hand and the State attorney objected to going into trial until the rest were secured. Elisor Junes went back to Magoffin county and by Tuesday night eighty-five were on hand and the jury was chosen. The defense exhausted all of its fifteen challenges and the commonwealth used three of its five. The defense tried hard to get a continuance but Judge Redwine ordered the case to begin.

A sensation was caused by the charge that Jett's friends had told some of the Magoffin county people that they could make from $80 to $100 each if they would get on the jury.

One important link of evidence is missing. That is the revolver with which Jett is supposed to have shot Marcum. A bullet after it had crushed through the victim's brain lay spent upon the floor. It was picked up and is now in possession of the commonwealth. When Jett was arrested, he requested Sheriff McCord and his posse to let his mother keep his revolver. This request was granted. Now she says she does not know where the revolver is.

Sheriff McCord went up Tuesday to testify in the case. It is reported that a witness from this city will testify that Jett had a roll of money as big as his leg when he came from Jackson.
Wednesday morning Jett's attorneys moved to set aside the jury alleging irregular methods in its selection. Judge Redwine overruled the objection and the trial commenced.
Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd opened the case. In his statement he said:
"We will prove Marcum and Ewen were standing in the front door. Tom White passed and attracted Marcum's attention. Marcum remarked that White was a bad man. Just then a shot rang out from behind and went through Marcum's body. Ewen turned and saw and recognized Jett with a pistol in both hands. Ewen jumped outside and a second shot was fired. Ewen went to the well and saw Dillard Hadden. No one else was there. Ewen walked back and saw Jett emerge from the side door of the Courthouse and escape. We will prove by twenty witnesses that Jett was inside the Courthouse when Marcum was killed."
Capt. B. J. Ewen was the first witness and his testimony occupied most of the day. He testified substantially as Byrd had stated. On cross examination he acknowledged that he had told Hargis, Callahan and others that he did not see Jett, but said he did so because he was afraid to tell what he saw and knew.
The defense made no statement at the beginning of the trial and has not shown its hand.

Taking Testimony.

Ewen Swore That He Saw Jett Kill Marcum.

A Provost Marshal is Now in Charge of Jackson, Ky., Under the Order of Col. Williams in Command of the Troops.

Jackson, Ky., June 11.—The trial of Curtis Jett and Tom White for the murder of Attorney Marcum began Wednesday morning. Capt. B. F. Ewen was the first witness called. He said:

"Marcum and I were in conversation. I was looking toward him, with my back to the west doorjamb of the courthouse. When the shot was fired I saw dimly in the smoke the form of a man approaching. I ran when Marcum fell, but I looked back and saw Curtis Jett approach him with his revolver in both hands. He came up to within six feet, I thought, of the man lying on the floor and deliberately shot him in the head. I feared he would also try to shoot me and I ran further away. After he fired the second shot he stood a second as if to make certain of the deed and then turned. While running away I kept looking in his direction to be certain of his movements as in the event he had tried to shoot me I would have drawn my revolver."

It was 3 o'clock when the cross examination of Ewen was concluded and he was excused with the understanding that he might be recalled by the defense. His testimony in response to Attorney Golden's rapid-fire of questions was quite as strong and damaging to the defendants as on direct examination. The defense failed in effort to lay grounds for impeaching his testimony by questions as to his memory, his uninterrupted sanity, etc.

Five minutes before Marcum was assassinated, Attorney John Patrick, who followed Bach, said he saw Jett and White conversing in front of the courthouse. He saw Jett go into the courthouse several minutes before the shooting. A minute or so after Marcum fell, he saw Jett leave the courthouse by a side door. Later he saw Jett and White walk to the bridge and there saw them talking with Mrs. Marcus Johnson, Marcum's sister. Wednesday night Mrs. Mary Johnson, sister of the murdered attorney, made a statement which is even more startling than Ewen's admission. In his statement Wednesday morning Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd said that it would be proved that Jett admitted to Mrs. Johnson that he killed Marcum. In the evidence Wednesday afternoon it was stated that Jett and White were seen talking to Mrs. Johnson at the bridge.

A provost marshal Wednesday night was in charge of Jackson. Under the order of Commander Williams, who is in command of the troops, provost guards are to patrol the streets day and night and make arrests for any infractions of the law, including drunkenness, firing pistols, or disorderly conduct of any character.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 16, 1903

Jackson, Ky., June 12.—The statement of B. J. Ewen that in the presence of two witnesses five one thousand dollar bills were tendered him on condition that he would repudiate what he had testified to regarding the assassination of James B. Marcum that death was the alternative threatened and the testimony of Mrs. Johnson, sister of the murdered man, were the features of special interest Thursday affecting the trial of Curtis Jett and Tom White on the charge of murdering J. B. Marcum. Mrs. Johnson reiterated on the stand what she had related Wednesday night in substance that Jett had admitted to her that he killed her brother, using the language "Hargis' money did it. I fixed the shot."

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 16, 1903

Jackson Ky., June 13.—The feature of the Jett-White trial Friday was the drift of evidence towards a conspiracy implicating county officials and others and tending to show that Jett and White had no such motives as the conspirators but were simply hired to kill J. B. Marcum, who was the attorney for parties contesting the election of county officials. The defense during the forenoon attempted to have the case continued on account of the absence of witnesses and a gain in the afternoon on account of the illness of one of the attorneys for the defense in both instances Judge Redwine ordered the trial to proceed.

The prosecution rested its case Saturday. A guard of soldiers have been commissioned to secure the presence of several reluctant witnesses whose testimony will be heard when court reconvenes. The parties wanted are said to be hiding in the woods and some attribute their attitude to fear or intimidation. The defense will attempt to establish an alibi for Jett and prove that White had no connection with the killing. Over 70 witnesses have been summoned. The testimony of Judge Hargis and several other witnesses called by the defense is awaited with much interest in Jackson.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 16, 1903

At Jackson.

The trial of Jett and White at Jackson is still attracting much attention. The testimony of Capt. Ewen positively identifying Curt Jett as the man who did the shooting was corroborated in a greater or less degree by numerous other witnesses. Mrs. Johnson, sister of the murdered man, testified that Curt Jett told her he killed Marcum but, it was caused by Hargis' money.

The prosecution closed its side Saturday morning and Judge Redwine continued the case until Monday at allow the defense to get its side ready.

Much excitement was caused Sunday by the burning of Capt. Ewen's house. After his testimony he was threatened with death and destruction of his property, and it is alleged by him that he was offered five thousand dollars to say his testimony was false.

The burned building was a hotel of nearly fifty rooms and was valued at ten thousand dollars. A policy of insurance for five thousand dollars which he had carried for years was cancelled Monday by the company on account of the threats made and his loss was total. Joe Crawford and Ed. Tharp, wagoners for Hargis Bros., were arrested, charged with the crime, and are now held.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 16, 1903

A Great Difference.

It was reported that a Winchester barber would swear that Curt Jett had a roll of money as big as his leg when he came down from Jackson, and it was at once concluded that this was what he got for killing Marcum. Sam Burch, the colored barber, was put on the stand and testified that he saw Jett with a two dollar bill in his possession.

Gone To The Jury.

Trial of Jett and White For Marcum Murder Nearing the End.

Those Who Have Closely Watched the Case and Are Acquainted With Conditions Forecast That a Hung Jury Will Result.

Jackson, Ky., June 16.—The trials of Curt Jett and Tom White were delayed Monday because of the hearing of the cases of the alleged incendiaries.

Attorney Golden outlined the defense in a speech before the grand jury prior to calling Jett. He said the defense would show that White alone had entered the courthouse prior to the killing of Marcum, and that Jett was near the post office.

Jett, in his testimony, named persons he said he saw while standing near the post office when the shots were fired. He said he saw Mrs. Mary Johnson, Marcum's sister, and said to her "Guess you want to lay this on me. I get blamed for every murder committed here." Mrs. Johnson testified that Jett said to her: "Hargis money killed him. I fired the shots." Jett said at the time of the killing his right hand was so badly swollen that he could not pull a trigger. He said he had a finger cut off two weeks before, and could not use his hand. He said he and White slept at the home of Jim Hargis' mother that night. He said he went to Winchester on Saturday and then to his mother's home, where he was arrested. He denied saying anything to Henry Freeman about Marcum. Jett was deliberate, and at times his memory was defective.

Tom White was the next witness and corroborated the testimony of Jett in many particulars.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 19, 1903

Jackson Ky., June 17.—Among the witnesses examined in the Marcum murder case Tuesday were Judge Jas. Hargis uncle of Curt Jett and Sheriff Callahan. Neither knew who killed Attorney Marcum. They were in Hargis' store but could not see who fired the shots. Testified they did not see Ewen look in the hall of the courthouse when the first shot was fired.

There was much comment Tuesday night upon the testimony offered by the defense especially that of Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan, who were standing across the street when Marcum was killed in the courthouse. While the witnesses of the defense Monday consisted of the defendants themselves and their friends, those Tuesday consisted of the relatives, employees and close friends and leaders of the dominant faction and the drift of all was for the purpose of proving an alibi for the prisoners.

The defense closed its case Tuesday afternoon. The prosecution did not offer rebuttal testimony. Prosecutor Byrd seemed satisfied with the rigid cross examination under which the witnesses for the defense who were so peculiarly unanimous in their testimony, had been put. It is the popular opinion that the exactness with which Jett was located on a corner by witnesses for the defense who saw little else to relate was damaging to his case. An acquittal would be a surprise, but the general belief of those who have watched the case and are acquainted with conditions that a hung jury is the most reasonable forecast. If either life imprisonment or death should be awarded it is considered that White will break down and if he confesses implicate the men who instigated the assassination.

With the arguments of counsel Wednesday morning the case of Curtis Jett and Tom White will go to the jury which late Tuesday was instructed to impose the death sentence, life imprisonment or acquit the defendants.

Ewen's Great Loss.

His Hotel at Jackson, Ky., Burned and He is Penniless.

Insurance on the Property Had Been Cancelled Last Week, Lawlessness Making Insurance Companies Unwilling to Carry It.

Lexington, Ky., June 15.—The City hotel at Jackson, Ky., a three-story building owned by Capt. B. J. Ewen, the main witness against Jett and White now on trial for the assassination of Lawyer J. B. Marcum, was burned to the ground early Sunday morning. There were 15 guests in the hotel, but all escaped without injury.

The hotel, together with its furnishings and the effects of the guests is a total loss. The origin of the fire is unknown, but the belief is generally that the fire was of incendiary origin.

The insurance on Ewen's property had been cancelled last week, the state of lawlessness making insurance companies unwilling to longer hold the risk. The building had recently been completed and his loss of $10,000 represents his all.

Two cloth balls dipped in tar and kerosene were found near the ruins of the hotel.

He and his wife and nine children are left homeless and almost penniless. The disaster struck terror to his heart and he has feared to leave the protection of the court, believing that his assassination will be attempted if opportunity is offered. His family are with neighbors.

Capt. Ewen had recently put up an addition to the hotel. This was just completed and was yet unoccupied. It was in this part of the hotel that the fire was discovered. The town of Jackson has no fire department and when its citizens were aroused by the firing of pistols and guns much excitement prevailed. A detachment of militia came on the double quick from their camp across the river and rendered valuable aid in assisting the guests to escape and preventing the flames from spreading.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 19, 1903

Jackson, Ky., June 15.—Gray Haddix, a near neighbor to Ewen, said he saw two men leave the hotel a moment before the fire, but said he did not know them. He is a defense witness in the trials now in progress and it was decided by the soldiers to retain him in the belief that he may know more than he has told. Thorp and Crawford, the men under arrest are teamsters who work for judge Hargis.

Maj. Allen was informed that they were seen crossing the bridge near Ewen's home just about the time the fire was discovered. They were arrested at noon. On close questioning they made conflicting statements but denied having crossed the bridge until after the fire was in progress. Oneal and Golden, counsel for Jett and White demanded the immediate release of the men. They were held for preliminary trial under $3,000 bond each.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 19, 1903

Jackson, Ky., June 17.—Just before noon Tuesday the grand jury filed into the court room and made its report to Judge Redwine. The foreman said no evidence was found against Joe Crawford and Ed Thorp and it has been decided to order their release. Judge Redwine sent an order to Maj. Allen in charge of the jail and prisoners, Crawford and Thorp were liberated. It is believed that no one will be indicted for burning Ewen's home.

Tuesday afternoon an assault was made on Gray Haddocks, who testified that he saw men running from Ewen's burning hotel one of whom he thought was Joe Crawford, Hargis teamster. Haddocks was on the bridge when attacked by three men who threatened to throw him in the water. A provost guard was attracted to the scene and just as he arrived one of the men who was on horse back drew his pistol. Seeing the guard he hastily rode away and escaped. His two companions Lee Gay and Louis Johnson from Perry county, were arrested. Gay was charged with carrying concealed weapons and Johnson with assault. They refused to talk.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 19, 1903

Jackson, Ky., June 17.—The secret departure of part of the Ewen family and arrangements for the rest to get away indicates the feeling that his life was not considered safe even after all of his property had been destroyed. The general comment is that those who were charged with arson for burning the hotel on Sunday were not as culpable as those who were lying in wait to kill Capt. Ewen when he ran to the fire and that only hired agents have been apprehended in any of the events.

In addition to the subscriptions from different parts of Kentucky and other states, Mrs. Mary Shreve Ransom, of Louisville, offered the Ewen family a house in her city for a year free of rent. A petition was circulated at Lancaster, Ky., for Gov. Beckham to recommend a legislative appropriation to reimburse Capt. Ewen and Lexington has offered him inducements to locate in that city.

No Verdict Reached.

The Jett-White Jury Discharged by Judge Redwine.

The Next Trial will Be Held at Cynthiana, Ky.—The Prisoners Were Removed to Lexington and Placed in Jail.
 Jackson, Ky., June 20.—But for one juror Curtis Jett would have become convicted here Friday for the murder of Marcum and a majority of the jury favored the conviction of Thomas White also. Both are now almost 100 miles from here in the jail at Lexington and their next trial will be at Cynthiana, over 100 miles from Jackson, away from the mountains and in the blue grass region under very different conditions from those existing in Breathitt county.
 With such general confidence in the surroundings of the next trial there is a general belief here that “everything is for the best after all.” If the verdict had been one of conviction the residents here are sure that violence would have followed and that it would have extended to others than witnesses, jurors and those who had taken part in the prosecution. It is thought now that after the trials of Jett and White in Harrison county, that the cases of other assassins who are known here and who have never been arrested, will be taken up with some assurances of justice on a change of venue. The next case on the docket here was that of Curtis Jett for killing own Marshal James Cockrill, but it will be postponed until after the trials at Cynthiana.
 The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 23, 1903

Lexington, Ky., Jun 20.—When Jett and White arrived in Lexington on an L. & E. train at 6:18 Friday night there were fully 500 people gathered at the station and along the route to the jail. The crowd was orderly, silent and serious. There was no demonstration of violence. The prisoners were taken immediately to steel cages on the third floor of the jail.
 The two men were placed in separate cells despite their requests to be placed together. Jett was drunk. He had been exceedingly unruly and insulting all afternoon, evidently being under the influence of liquor. When he was taken from his cell to be put on the train at Jackson, he shook his fist in Maj. Allen’s face and cursed him, called him every vile name he could think of and said: “I’d like to smash you between those glasses.” Maj. Allen responded: “You are a prisoner, Jett, and I can not afford to resent your insults.” On the train Jett endeavored to pursue the same tactics and would not be quieted until Maj. Allen told him he would have him gagged if he did not behave himself.
 At the jail he said he wanted something to eat and drink and had the money to pay for it. When asked what he wanted he said: “beefsteak, eggs and coffee.” He pulled out a five dollar bill to pay for his supper. White was exceedingly surly. He paced the narrow limits of his cell like a caged lion. He was as nervous as could be and was evidently much worried that he and Jett were separated.
 He resented the imputation of one of those present that he was afraid and nervous, saying that he did not know the meaning of fear and had no nerves.
 County Judge James Hargis of Breathitt, came down on the same train with Jett and White, as did their attorneys, Oneal and French. Hargis refused to be interviewed Friday night. He sent for Jailor Wallace to come to his hotel and there said to him: “Mr. Wallace, I want you to take good care of those men. Anything they want in the way of food and drinks, let them have and send me the bill and I will pay for it. I want you to treat them right.”
 Jailor Wallace replied: “Judge Hargis, the people of Fayette county have elected me jailer and I am responsible to them and to them alone. As long as they behave themselves, all the people in my jail will be treated right and all will be treated alike. I am amply able to take care of them and of attending to my duties with out suggestion from you or any other individual. If the prisoners want extras and have the money to pay for them, they can get them just as could any other prisoners.”
 The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 23, 1903

Jackson, Ky., June 20.—There is still much apprehension in this community for the future, and many here share in the movement in different parts of Kentucky to have Breathitt county parceled out for annexation to other counties, although it would depreciate valuations after Jackson lost its prestige as a county seat.

Assassins—Not Democrats.
 The editor of the Glasgow Times has been asked: “Do you not know that the Hargis faction in Breathitt county is democratic?”
 The editor of the Glasgow Times does know that the Hargis faction in the Breathitt county feud is democratic.
 The editor of The Times does know that Judge James Hargis, the leader of one of the Breathitt county factions, is a Democrat and a member of the democratic State Central Committee—a position which he should at once resign or be forced out of.
 The editor of The Times does know that J. B. Marcum was assassinated just after he filed notice of contest for an office in Breathitt county, and that Jett, a nephew of Judge Hargis is on trial for the murder.
 But what has any of this, or all of this, to do with the present condition of affairs in Breathitt? No Democrat has any more right to assassinate a Republican than has a Republican to shoot a Democrat in the back. The assassin belongs to no party. He is an outlaw, a blood thirsty beast whose extermination is the duty of every brave, honest man. If it is true that the murderers and ambushes of Breathitt county are democrats, then so much the more and stronger reason why they should be relentlessly hunted down and brought to justice. Democracy is not the party of assassination. The outlaws who are murdering citizens and burning homes in Breathitt county are assassins—not Democrats.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 23, 1903

Joseph Folk, of St. Louis, was unknown when elected to office, and Byrd, of Breathitt, was merely a name when the trials of Curtis Jett and Thomas White were begun. Now it is but a question how far each of them will go. Both have won their spurs in the hardest kind of fighting, and both have shown that they have within themselves those qualities that make a man to be followed, trusted and honored, in St. Louis, Mr. Folk has successfully fought the power of great wealth and still greater corruption. In Breathitt, Mr. Byrd has opposed the stronger power of fear. Polk staked his political future; Byrd has played each move in the game with his life as a forfeit. Men of broader reputation and higher authority have yielded, but he, knowing that his action meant the ending of his career, the loss of his home, and the more than probable sacrifice of his life itself, has chosen to oppose the men who could make him if they would, assassinate him if challenged to it. Apparently he had nothing to lose by surrender, everything by opposition. The admiration of the outside world doesn't cure a bullet wound in the back from a 44 Colt of a 45-90 Winchester. The situation was clearly defined, the choice open. Mr. Byrd chose and chose rightly. From the beginning until the close of the case his prosecution has been as vigorous as was ever shown in a criminal case in Kentucky. At no stage of the fight has he faltered. His closing speech for the Commonwealth was a calm and judicial summing up of the evidence, a clear and convincing presentation of facts, an argument ably and logically set forth and a blow full in the face of the men who have made Breathitt county what it is. With the guarantee of full protection and the knowledge that he stood with and for the popular cause, Mr. Byrd's conduct of the case would have commanded the admiration due to vigor of intellect, clearness of purpose and force of personality. As it is, he has proven himself a man where men are few and a Kentuckian of the stamp that makes the title so well worth the having.—Louisville Times.

We Welcome Him.

Hon. A. F. Byrd has earned the commendation and esteem of all good men by his conduct during the Jackson trial in the face of local pressure danger and many other influences, he has been true to his trust and the interest and dignity of the State has, at all times been safe in his hands. He has purchased property and built a house here where he expects to reside. We welcome him and will feel honored by the presence of such a man in our midst.

The Crime Of Arson.

Special Term of the Breathitt Circuit Court to Be Called.

The Present Force of Troops Will Remain and More will Be Sent If Deemed Necessary When Court Convenes.

Lexington, Ky., June 23.—The arrival of Gov. Beckham and Inspector Hines here at 8:45 o'clock fulfilled the prediction that as important conference affecting Breathitt county affairs was to take place here Monday night. At 11:35 o'clock Gov. Beckham sent through Inspector Hines the following verbal statement to the waiting newspaper men: "As a result of the conference Monday night Gov. Beckham has decided to call a special term of the Breathitt circuit court, when a special grand jury will consider the crimes of arson attempt to bribe Capt. B. J. Ewen and such other conditions in Breathitt as may require investigation."

"Will the trials be held in Breathitt?" was asked.

"This has not been determined; the grand jury will have to be impaneled in Breathitt."

"Will a special judge be appointed?" was asked.

"That has not been determined."

"Will more troops be sent at the present time or later?"

"The present force is expected to suffice and remain for the present. When the special term is convened the governor will send whatever additional troops he may deem necessary to protect the court, the grand jury and the witnesses."

The conference adjourned at midnight after a lunch served in Governor Beckham's room. Judge Redwine and Attorney Byrd returning to the saylum by carriage. Adj. Gen. Murray and Col. Williams were dismissed at about 10 o'clock. Neither would discuss the conference or admit that any had been held. Col. Williams will go to Jackson Tuesday. The statement that no more troops will be sent at present indicates that no arrests will be made in the arson or bribery cases pending the special session. Attorney Thomas Marcum was not in conference with the governor and Capt. Ewen was not called in. It is known that Judge Hines' report giving the name of the men who Ewen says offered him $5,000 to change his testimony and the names of the men whom he claimed to represent was the basis of the deliberations Monday night. Adj. Gen. Murray will go to Jackson Saturday morning, he says, to pay the troops now there. The meeting between Thos. Marcum and Capt. B. J. Ewen, at the Phoenix hotel, was a pathetic one.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 26, 1903

The Situation In Breathitt And The Remedy.

The people of the State are thoroughly and righteously aroused to the conditions that exist in Breathitt county. The bloody occurrences there during the last twelve months and the apparent indifference of the local authorities have caused the entire State to imperatively demand that prompt and effective measures be taken to stop the bloodshed and to bring to deserved punishment all who are responsible in any degree for the horrible crimes that have occurred in that county.

Within twelve months three men of prominence were assassinated in Jackson, under circumstances that raised at least a strong presumption that the same influence secured each assassination. No warrants were issued and three terms of the Circuit court passed without an effort to secure indictments. It was generally understood that there were persons in Jackson who knew who committed these murders, but that of those who had this knowledge, the ones who desired to see the guilty parties punished were afraid to tell what they knew.

It has been the history of all Kentucky feuds that the local authorities have been members of the feud or were under the domination and influence of the feud leaders. This is believed by the people of the State to be true of many of the officials of Breathitt county. Certainly for some reason there has been a conspicuous failure on the part of these officials to do their duty. In this dilemma the law abiding people have looked to the Governor, but while the Constitution requires him to see that the laws are faithfully executed, an examination of his power in the premises will show that it is limited and wholly inadequate to meet such conditions as exist in Breathitt county.

He has not the power to remove a single county or district officer. He can not appoint a special judge until the regular judge declines to sit. The law provides for a change of venue after an indictment is found, but the application must be made to the Circuit Judge and the Governor can not control his action. When the governor sends soldiers to a county he must place them under the civil authorities of that county. No original investigation of an offense nor an indictment for it can be had in any county other than the one in which the offense was committed. This shows how absolutely powerless the Governor is when the local authorities fail in the discharge of their duty.

Every power vested in Governor Beckham by the constitution and the law has been used by him in an earnest effort to stamp out lawlessness and punish crime and restore order in Breathitt county.

He was elected on a platform which declared that "law and order must and shall prevail in Kentucky." Under the most trying conditions he made good that pledge and brought peace to the State, and if the people will give him proper support he will make the law supreme in Breathitt county.

The work there is far from finished. The assassins of Doctor Cox must be indicted. The other men engaged in the assassination of James Cockrill must be identified. The attempt to bribe Captain Ewen must be thoroughly sifted. The men who burned Ewen's hotel must be punished and if there were lack of these acts men who were not active participants, but who were criminally responsible for them, they must be indicted and promptly punished.

The all important question is how can these results be best accomplished. Two feasible plans have been suggested, one in the resolution adopted by the State Baptist Association which met here last week, which was in effect that a special session of the Legislature be called to amend the law so as to provide for an investigation of crime by a grand jury out of the county where it is committed and for the easier removal of cases for trial; the other by providing for the law abiding people of Breathitt county to work out the salvation of the county.

The plan proposed by the Baptist Association would be an effective one but it involves the uncertainty of satisfactory action by, and the necessary enormous cost of a Legislative session. For that plan to be effective the governor should be given absolute control over the changes of venue both for original investigation and final trial of offenses committed in a county where a state of lawlessness exists. This would be a radical departure from the settled law of this State, and of every other State, and would be placing a dangerous power in the hands of the governor, and it is extremely doubtful if the Legislature could be induced to give the governor such power, and a serious question exists as to the Constitutional right of the Legislature to take such action. The people of Kentucky are devoted to the principle of local self government and will jealously guard against any infringement of that right.

Governor is manifestly endorsing the other plan, and earnestly endeavoring to put it into immediate execution. He believes that by affording the law abiding people of Breathitt county ample protection they can secure the indictment of all criminals and restore respect for the law without resorting to any new departure of questionable Constitutional right.

His plan is to have a special term of court called for Breathitt, to be held next month by a special judge, who will appoint a fearless and honest elisor to summon a fearless and impartial grand jury from the men of Breathitt county who want to see the law enforced, and in that way secure indictments against those offenders who have thus far escaped, and then have their cases sent to suitable counties for trial.

We believe Governor Beckham's plan will work successfully and that the people of the State will give him cordial support in his effort to see that "the laws are faithfully executed."

Some of the newspapers have stated that Judge Redwine has not consented to vacate the bench and thus enable Governor Beckham to appoint a special judge to hold this court. We are unwilling to believe that Judge Redwine will hold out against the expressed desire of the Governor to let an outside judge hold this special term of court. We write this in a spirit of sincere friendliness toward Judge Redwine, and with no intention or purpose of detracting in the slightest from the credit he is justly entitled to receive for the independence displayed by him in the Jett and White trial, and the prompt action and sound judgement evinced by him in sending cases to Harrison county for next trial. We hope that Judge Redwine will accede to the Governor's request. He can not afford to stubbornly assert his judgement against that of the governor when the latter is supported by the judgement of the people of the entire State. Judge Redwine must not hamper the Governor in his efforts "to see the laws are faithfully executed," and if Judge Redwine will yield to the governor on this point we predict that the Governor's plan will prove to be an effective one and that before frost falls all the guilty ones will be in the clutches of the law, and the people will be convinced that one governor of Kentucky has been able to give a deadly blow to feuds without departing from either the letter or the spirit of the law.

The Cynthiana Trial.

Judge Osborne will hold a special term of Circuit court July 27th for the trial of Jett and white. He will appoint some Breathitt county man as special bailiff to summon witnesses. No man has been legally hung in Harrison county since 1847 when a man was hung for killing his wife. Many years afterward another man while on his death bed, confessed that he had killed the woman while the husband was in a drunken sleep, and since that Harrison county jurors have been slow to affix the death penalty.

Special Term Of Court At Jackson.

An important conference in regard to Breathitt county affairs was held Monday night in Lexington. Those who took part in it were Gov. Beckham, Adj. Gen. Murray, Col. Roger Williams, Judge D. B. Redwine and Commonwealth's Attorney A. F. Byrd. It was settled that a special term of the Breathitt Circuit Court will be called about July 26th, for the purpose of investigating the burning of Ewen's hotel, the attempt to bribe B. J. Ewen and other infractions of the law. About forty of the 100 militiamen now at Jackson will continue in service at that place, while the remainder will be ordered home.

All Insurance Not Cancelled.

F. A. Lyon, of Beattyville, was in Jackson Monday, where he went by order of his companies to cancel all policies held on residences in that town. He says that two thousand dollars of insurance that Capt. Ewen held in his companies was still in force when the place was burned and that Ewen would get the money. Capt. Ewen says he was informed by Mr. Head, through whom he insured, that all the policies had been cancelled and that he was very glad to find these policies in force.

A Plucky Woman.

Mrs. Ewen did not join her husband Capt. Ewen, at Lexington as was expected. He has large contracts with Hargis Bros., and with Day Bros., for hauling logs, ties, etc., involving several thousand dollars, and some of them are partially completed. It is said the boarding houses of Jackson have refused to board the men employed by Capt. Ewen, because the owners of the boarding houses are afraid to do so, and Mrs. Ewen will secure a house and board them herself. She will also superintend the completion of the contract.

A Faulty Memory Or A Willful Lie.

The Lexington Leader (Republican) in a recent issue in which it was discussing the Breathitt situation, made the following most unfortunate allusion to what was done at Frankfort when Senator Goebel was assassinated:

"When Senator Goebel was shot to death in the streets of Frankfort during that memorable struggle of 1900, the machinery of the law was set in motion before his prostrate body had been lifted from the street, and every avenue of escape by which the cowardly assassins could flee was damned up so effectually that almost every suspect was behind bars very soon after the shot had been fired."

We want everybody to understand that we have not a word to say in extenuation of the Breathitt county officials, who have so utterly failed in the discharge of their duty, but we do insist that when a Republican editor attempts to make political capital by claiming that the Republican party did anything towards setting in motion the machinery of the law to secure the capture of the foul assassins who killed Goebel and those who advised and counseled the killing, that editor is either afflicted with a most faulty memory or sets out to deceive the people by putting in circulation a deliberate lie. Lest others have forgotten, we desire to state that when William Goebel was shot down in front of the State capitol every State office was in the hands of a Republican. The shot was fired from the private office of the Secretary of State and Caleb Powers claimed to be holding that office. W. S. Taylor was in an office not forty feet away in the same building. Instead of every avenue of escape by which the cowardly assassins could flee being damned up, the truth is that every avenue of approach to the building that contained the cowardly assassins "was damned up so effectually" by soldiers and mountain outlaws, that the law officers of Franklin County could not enter and search the building.

It is true that "the machinery of the law was set in motion before the prostrate body and been lifted from the street." This was true in a double sense. The peace officers of Franklin county and the city of Frankfort exhausted every effort to enter and search the executive building and capture the assassins, but the machinery of the law that was under the control of W. S. Taylor and his political adherents was promptly used by them to effectually dam up any investigation and block every effort to locate the assassins. It is possible that the editor of The Leader has forgotten that peace officers were met with Winchesters and 44's when they attempted to reach the assassins? Is it possible that the people have forgotten that the entire military force of the State was promptly called into service to prevent the discovery and arrest of the assassins? Have they forgotten that "before the prostrate body had been lifted from the street," the military guard at the arsenal, which had for hours been held in waiting, was under march to prevent the peace officers from even entering the capitol grounds. Have they forgotten that men high in the councils of the Republican party "before his prostrate body had been lifted from the street," were flooding the State with telegrams begging for armed partisans to be rushed to Frankfort for the sole purpose of shielding the assassins and protecting them from arrest. Have they forgotten that the suspects instead of being delivered to the civil authorities to be placed behind the bars, were supplied by W. S. Taylor with bogus pardons and furnished a strong military escort and advised to make their escape? Have they forgotten that so effectually did the occupants of the executive building conceal the identity of the man who fired the fatal shot that five months elapsed before Jim Howard was in the clutches of the law? Have they forgotten that Chas. Finley and John Powers, two of "the suspects," made good their escape with Taylor pardons folded closely to their breasts? Have they forgotten that Taylor himself, after he was indicted for the murder of William Goebel, and after he had declared to the people of the State, "I am a citizen of the State, amenable to its laws, I am not a criminal, neither shall I ever be a fugitive from justice. Whenever indicted I shall appear for trial," fled to the shores of Indiana and placed himself under the protection of the Republican Governor of that Republican State, who has from that day to this, in flagrant violation of the supreme law of the land, protected Taylor from the consequences of his crime and received the plaudits of every Republican in Kentucky for his perfidy? We hope that the people of Kentucky have not forgotten these and many other like acts of the Republicans, who were in authority at Frankfort when Goebel was killed, and we hope that they will burn into the memory of the people of this good State forever, and that the people will know that the Democratic party is the only party in this State that stands for law and order.

We are glad to note that The Leader refers to the men who killed Goebel as cowardly assassins, using the plural of the word, but when it attempts to claim credit for the Republican party for any act that any Republican official or any individual Republican did in setting the machinery of the law in motion when Goebel was killed, we want to register a most emphatic protest.

Governor Beckham's Statement.

Governor Beckham last Saturday issued a public statement concerning the Breathitt county trouble in which he shows clearly that he has exercised and will continue to exercise all the power that has been conferred upon the Governor to put an end to the horrible conditions that exist in Breathitt.

The Governor makes a frank and open statement in which he shows that he intends to play no favorites, and makes it perfectly clear that he has not the power to do many things that have been suggested. He makes public the fact that he requested Judge Redwine to let him appoint a special judge to try Jett and white in the first place and that he has requested Judge Redwine to step aside and thus enable the Governor to appoint a special judge to hold the special term of court which has been called for July 20th.

The Governor's statement is a plain straightforward one, and shows that the criticism that has been heaped upon him has been inspired by his political enemies for political effect. The statement draws a rather striking contrast between the attitude of the Republican press and Republican leaders now and what it was when Goebel was assassinated. This part of the statement is unpleasant to the editors of the Lexington Morning Herald, the Louisville Evening Post, the Louisville Herald and other Republican papers and to Jim Howard and some of his friends and fellow conspirators. This is not at all strange, for doubtless Governor Beckham did not attempt to please that class, and besides such comparisons are necessarily odious to that crowd. They reach to close to the marrow.

Jim Howard has made the governor's reference to him, and his connection with the assassination of Goebel a pretext for giving out a scandalous letter which the Republican papers gleefully publish, in which he attempts to draw the Governor of the State into a newspaper quarrel with him. This letter may be excusable in Jim Howard for when he was last tried for killing old man George Baker his defense was insanity, and his letter may therefore be treated as the ravings of a maniac.

Redwine Will Preside.

In an interview at Jackson Circuit Judge Redwine said he would not vacate the bench at the special term of court to begin in Breathitt county on July 20. He said he regarded it as his duty to preside and he would not shirk the responsibility. As Gov. Beckham has publicly declared his desire that Judge Redwine should decline to sit, it shows bad taste, to say the least, in his persisting to do so.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 3, 1903

Redwine's Mistake.

Judge Redwine is laboring under a mistaken sense of duty. Granting that his motives are of the best, the Governor, the people, and the press of the State have made known in unmistakable terms their belief that it is better for him to yield the conduct of the special investigation into Breathitt affairs to some other Judge. Under that the people are right and Judge Redwine wrong. The suggestion that Callahan is to serve as Sheriff at a term of court called largely for the purpose of inquiring in to acts against the law committed by him is not to be entertained.—Louisville Times.

Was Always In Trouble.

Looking Over the Ground.

It is reported on good authority that two men representing themselves as mule buyers, are traversing Harrison county, in which Jett and White will be tried, and leading farmers who may be summoned for jury service to express opinions on the guilt or innocence of the alleged murderers of J. B. Marcum. They invariably find some excuses for not making purchases, but engage the farmer in conversation, during the course of which he is led to discuss the cases. The purpose of these agents is said to be first learn men who it might be of advantage to the accused to have on the jury and second, to have the means of disqualifying every man to whom they talk, for expressions of an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of a person to be tried is a bar to jury service.—

Lexington, Ky., July 4.—The report comes here from Salyersville that Burns Fitzpatrick, the man who hung the jury that tried Curtis Jett and Tom White at Jackson, has left Magoffin county and returned to his former home on Jennie's creek, in Johnson county. It is said Fitzpatrick's neighbors cut him, and the talk was so against him that he was forced to leave. Before leaving he states he did not think he would ever come back.

The Men Indicted.

Tharp and Crawford Held For Arson at Jackson, Ky.

Indictment Returned Against Plummer For Attempting to Bribe a Witness—Other Capitol Offenses May Be Investigated in Breathitt.

Jackson, Ky., July 22.—The grand jury Tuesday night returned indictments against Edward Tharp and Joseph Crawford, teamsters for the Hargis brothers. They were already held on the charge of setting fire to Ewen's hotel last month.

An indictment was also returned against Gardner Plummer for attempting to bribe a witness. It is charged that he offered B. J. Ewen $5,000 to leave town so that he could not testify in the trial of Curtis Jett and Thomas White. It is currently reported that L. T. Bolin, who is well known here as well as Ewen testified before the grand jury Tuesday as to who was to furnish the money that was offered to Ewen by Plummer, and that two well known county officials were named in the grand jury room.

As the grand jury is continuing its sessions after returning true bills in the arson and bribery cases, it is generally believed that the investigation is extending into other capitol offenses in connection with the feud. It is known that witnesses were called to testify regarding the assassination of Dr. Cox, and it is thought that the other cases that never received official notice heretofore will now be taken up.

There is much talk over an alleged quarrel between County Judge James Hargis and Sheriff Edward Callahan. It is said that the former was angry because the sheriff refused to insist on his rights to draw the present grand jury and that the latter replied that Judge Redwine would have appointed an elisor in his place if he had not declined to serve.

According to common report these county officials after a passage of words were about to come to blows when bystanders interfered. It is also reported that there have been differences between these two gentlemen since the transfer of Jett and White to the jail at Lexington, and that the trouble started with Callahan refusing to pay any part of the expenses of the Marcum murder trial here.

The Jackson Grand Jury.

The special grand jury at Jackson Tuesday returned an indictment against Gardner Plummer charging him with attempting to bribe B. J. Ewen to leave the county or swear falsely to the Jett-White case. Indictments also were returned against Joe Crawford and Ed. Tharp, charging them with burning Ewen's hotel. An effort was made to implicate Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan in the bribery case, but the evidence against them was not sufficient, in the judgement of the jurors, to justify an indictment. A small house in Jackson was destroyed by fire Monday night, but it has not been established that the blaze was of incendiary origin.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 24, 1903

The Jackson Special Term.

Some of the Winchester contingent of the Breathitt county emigrants have been prominent during the last few days of the Jackson Circuit Court. The murder of Jim Cockrell was being investigated and Chas. Greene, a witness who had left the country and who was arrested in Lexington was brought before the Grand Jury. He recognized Curt Jett as one of three men he saw with smoky guns in their hands when Cockrell was killed. He said he saw two other men whom he did not know but whom he would recognize could see them.

Greene was dismissed and the case was considered closed when young McKinley Cockrell, of this city, appeared before Judge Redwine and insisted that Greene be held until the men who it was thought assisted in the work could be brought before him. Cockrell then swore out warrants for Bill Britton and Asbury Spicer charging them with the crime. Britton was deputy Sheriff and was arrested at once. A file of soldiers went to the country and arrested Spicer who at first showed fight but succumbed when he saw the uniforms of the troop. When brought before Greene, the latter was badly frightened but said positively that Britton and Spicer were not the men and Judge Redwine ordered their release. Riley Coldiron, of this city, was another witness, he swore positively that Britton was one of the men he saw with Jett when the shots that killed Cockrell were fired. Britton swore out a warrant for perjury against Coldiron and the latter was arrested. Senator Alex Hargis, of this county, went before the Grand Jury and asked that Coldiron be indicted but it was not done and he was released.

Jett and White Are on Trial at Cynthiana, Ky.
The People of Cynthiana Express Themselves as Satisfied That a Fair Trial Could Be Obtained—No Trouble Anticipated.
Cynthiana, Ky., July 28.—The first day of the famous trial of Curt Jett and Tom White for the murder of Jas. B. Marcum was over Monday afternoon at 3:20 o'clock. Many witnesses are in attendance at the trial and the city is unusually quiet. The 30 jurors were called Monday morning and 24 answered present and of them six were excused. For the prosecution is Commonwealth Attorney L. P. Fryer and County Attorney J. S. Webster, and they are assisted by A. F. Byrd, who was the attorney for the prosecution of this case a month ago in Breathitt county. For the defense Messrs. J. I. Blanton, Lafferty and King, of this city, and R. F. French of Winchester, and James D. Black, of Barbourville, and B. R. Golden, of Barbourville, Ky.
Jett's mother sits close by him and watches the proceedings with great care and earnestness.
At the afternoon session the attorneys were slow about coming in and they did not arrive until 2:15, when an affidavit of Jett and White was filed saying that they could not try their case in this term of the court on account of absent witnesses which had been summoned and which were not present Monday at the calling of their names. The affidavit further stated that on account of the present inflamed condition of the public mind and on account of the presence of soldiers here they did not believe that a fair trial was obtainable. The prosecution then retired to consult and came in and objected to the filing of the affidavit and Judge Osborne permitted it to be filed and overruled same and ordered an attachment to issue at once to Breathitt county for the absent witnesses, saying that they could give bail for their forthwith appearance at the sum of $200. There is no immediate signs of danger of a conflict and the people all express themselves as saying that a fair trial could be obtained here.
Col. Roger Williams stated Monday afternoon that the differences between him and Judge Osborne had been entirely healed over; that they were working together now in perfect harmony and understanding about the trial and the protection of the prisoners. Capt. J. B. Ewen, the main witness for the prosecution, in the Jett-White trial returned to Cynthiana on the 4 p. m. train from Lexington. He was met at the train by Sergt. Swinford and two men and escorted to Camp Licking, where he will remain under protection of the guards until after he testifies in the case.

Cynthiana, Ky., July 29.—In the trial of Curt Jett and Tom White charged with the murder of Attorney Marcum, at 4:35 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the following jury was accepted on both sides. Thomas Northcutt, Berry McNees, Jasper King, J. W. Slade, D. E. McEauley, Walter Jennings, Patton Kitchen, W. F. Berry, John Reneker, D. E. Fisher, Martin Van Hook, Benj. Pate. All are farmers except Northcutt, who is a book-keeper. The defense filed a demurrer to the indictment that was overruled. The defendants then waived formal arraignments and pleaded not guilty. Attempted Assassination.

On Saturday evening he left Jackson to visit a friend in the country, on the way he says he was fired on from ambush, the bullet piercing the brim of his hat.

The Marcum Murder.
His Father-in-Law and Two Sisters Gave Their Testimony.
Members of the Family Knew of a Conspiracy to Murder the Attorney For Over a Year Before His Assassination.
Cynthiana, Ky., July 30.—Nearly all the witnesses in the Jett and White case answered to their names Wednesday, and all were excluded from the courtroom and cautioned not to talk to each other concerning the case or their testimony.
The opening statement for the prosecution was made by Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd, of Jackson. B. B. Golden, of Barbourville, made the defense's statement. Capt. B. J. Ewen brought to the courthouse by militia company, then took the stand.
Ewen said he lived in Jackson ten years. He was talking to Marcum when the latter was shot, and turned, he said, and saw Jett advancing with a pistol in both hands. He ran around the post office, and returning, he testified, saw Jett then coming up to where Marcum lay. He said Jett was visibly excited, and that White passed and looked at Marcum. The defense objected to the remark made by Marcum at the time being repeated. He said he helped take Marcum to Dr. Kash's office, where he died. He said one of the bullets had entered the back, passing through his body, and the other lodged in his head. Marcum's face was powdered burnt, and smokeless powder was used he said.
Cynthiana, Ky., July 31.—In the trial of the cases of the Kentucky feudists court opened at 8:30 Thursday morning. S. S. Taulbee, county clerk of Breathitt county, was placed on the stand and testified that he was standing on the corner by Hargis' store, looking toward the courthouse and saw J. B. Marcum and B. Ewen standing in the door of the courthouse.
The next witness called was Hezekiah Combs, who is a new witness introduced by the prosecution. He made a strong witness for the prosecution testifying that he saw John Noble, Curt Jett and Tom white together a short time before the shooting. He engaged in a short conversation with Noble; saw White beckon Jett and they went toward the side door of the courthouse. He went on down the street and in a few minutes heard a shot and someone cry, "Oh, Lordy." He looked back and saw Ewen run, looking back as he ran. On being cross-examined he was not confused in his testimony.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 1.—When court convened Friday afternoon Judge Osborne sent the jury to its room and stated that he had heard that weapons had been drawn on witnesses on the street and he wanted anyone having information regarding such incidents report the same to him.

Alexander H. Smith, another new witness, testified to seeing Jett, White, Ewen, Marcum and others at the time of the shooting, corroborating the testimony of Ewen and others.

Marcum's father-in-law and his two sisters testified during the afternoon. Mr. Hurst, the father-in-law, testified that Jett came to him the afternoon of the murder and wanted to talk with him. White was with Jett at all times on the three occasions that they met after the death of Marcum. Hurst testified that members of the family knew of a conspiracy to murder Marcum for over a year before his death.

Mrs. Hord, a sister of J. B. Marcum testified that when her brother came into her house on the Sunday afternoon previous to his murder that both Jett and White followed him into the house and walked about in the different rooms of her home. She finally insisted that they leave and they did so.

Mrs. Mary Johnson another sister of Marcum, testified that armed men were frequently seen about the house where her brother lived. She had lived at her brother's home for a year previous to his murder, and the family was frequently warned that Marcum was to be murdered. She testified that she saw Thomas White and three other men in a stone quarry about 200 yards from her brother's house; that her brother intended taking a train and sent her out to see if anyone was lying in wait for him. When she returned and told her brother about White and three others being in the stone quarry he did not go to the depot. She testified that she saw both Jett and White after her brother was killed and that she asked Jett directly about it and accused him of it and that he replied, "Hargis money killed him, but I fired the shot." Mrs. Johnson testified that she also asked Tom White about the shooting, and accused him of helping to kill her brother, to which he replied, "Go and ask Ewen, who killed him. He saw who did it, and will tell you, he knows who did it."

The Cynthiana Trials.

An epitome of the testimony up to Saturday is given on our first page. The Commonwealth was to have finished its testimony last night or will this morning. The case is much stronger than was made out at Jackson and conviction seems almost sure, at least for Jett.

Goodloe Combs died at Cynthiana suddenly Saturday, either from acute stomach trouble or an overdose of morphine taken to relieve pain. He was a bad man and one of the chief Hargis henchmen. He was sent to the penitentiary for killing John Rose some years ago, but was pardoned. Since then he has kept a "blind tiger" at Jackson.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 4, 1903

Prosecution Rest.

Jett and White For the Defense Gave their Testimony.

They Corroborated Several Witnesses For the State—White Was Rigidly Cross Examined By the Brother of the Murdered Man.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 4.—The commonwealth rested in their testimony Monday morning at 10:10 in the famous case of Curt Jett and Thomas White charged with the assassination of J. B. Marcum at Jackson, Ky., May 4 last, and time was given them by Judge Osborne to study their case until 1:30 Monday afternoon at which time on the convening of court Curtis Jett, one of the defendants was placed on the stand and interrogated by Judge James D. Black, one of his counsel. He said that he was friendly to J. B. Marcum, and with the exception of a few words with him some four years ago, they had always been friendly. His testimony corroborates Barney Schiff, who testified for the prosecution, in which he said that Jett was talking to Joe Moore and himself before the killing. Jett said after two shots were fired he walked into the courthouse and looked about, but seeing nothing, returned by the side door the way he came and came across the street, and that he did not aid in helping Marcum, who was then dying and around whose body others were rushing to give aid, except that toward the last he went on the edge of the crowd and there talked to some of the people there.

Jett corroborates Ewen in saying that he was running around the court house. He a few minutes after that saw Tom White on the street and with him went down the town to a place near the depot where they crossed the river and visited his grandmother, Hargis, mother of Judge Hargis and there had dinner.

He corroborated Mrs. Mary Johnson in saying that he had a talk with her after the killing that morning. He and White both came back that evening to town and went to Frapman's saloon and there called for beer, and having none, they left. Before he left town that morning he bought a bottle of whisky at Goodloe Combs and took a part of it to his grandmother. Jett's testimony corroborated many other witnesses who have testified for the prosecution as to his actions on that fatal day. While conversations with several witnesses were denied, the fact that he had had conversations with them is undenied. He gave a full account of his actions up to the time of his arrest. The main feature of the day was the terrific cross-examination of Thomas White, who was next placed on the stand by the defense by Tom D. Marcum. Marcum is one of the attorneys for the prosecution and is a brother of the dead man and resides at Muscogee, I. T. It was a merciless fire of questions rapidly put by that attorney and the effect upon the jury as well as upon the audience was telling. White came from a place 15 miles from Jackson looking for work, according to his testimony, and did not get it, although he had tried for two days. His testimony corroborates several other witnesses for the prosecution who said that he had gone into the side door of the courthouse and had come out the front door.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 5.—In the case of the commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Curtis Jett and Thomas White, now on trial here for the assassination of J. B. Marcum, Asbury Spicer was put on the witness stand by the defense and his testimony corroborated that of Jett, John Abner, John and Newt Bowling. Bowling testified to coming in town on the morning of the killing and getting there at 5 o'clock from his home in the country ten miles distant, as also the last witness Tuesday evening. A. C. Adams, testified that he came into town from the country 12 miles distant. Both happened to get in town immediately before the killing of Marcum, and both corroborated Jett in seeing him on the sidewalk near the courthouse after the shooting and both corroborate him in his movements after the killing of Marcum. Bowling and Spicer and A. C. Adams were thoroughly and rigorously cross examined by Attorney Byrd.

All their movements immediately after the killing and some of their movements before the killing tended towards Hargis Bros. Store which is situated immediately across the street from the courthouse. Both witnesses saw Ewen running from the court house immediately after the time of the first shot but say Jett did not go to the court house until the firing of the last shot. Neither Spicer, Adams or bowling went to the relief of Marcum, although he lay across the pike or street at the courthouse steps. All say that they went into Hargis Bros. Store. Alfred Tharpe, a boy about 14 years old corroborated Ewen's testimony, and also says Jett was near the courthouse when the shots were fired, and he does not place Jett at the court-house until after both shots were fired.

Testimony Is All In.
The Defense in the Marcum Murder Trial Rested.
Eight Arguments Will Be Made—Four For The Prosecution and Four For the Defense—Case Will Go to the Jury in a Few Days.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 7.—Thursday afternoon Capt. B. B. Golden, one of the attorneys for the defense, announced that their side rested as to evidence in chief.

In the case of commonwealth of Kentucky against Curtis Jett and Tom White, on trial here for the killing of James B. Marcum, the day was principally taken up in the impeaching of the morality and truthfulness of Capt. B. J. Ewen, one of the main witnesses for the prosecution. Some 25 witnesses from his own county and other witnesses from Powell county, where he resided until he moved to Jackson some ten years ago, testified that his morality was bad as well as his reputation for truthfulness. At the same time some of them testified that he was a church goer, a constant attendant on Sunday-school, that he never drank whisky or gambled at all.

Many of them were confused on cross-examination, especially those from Breathitt county, by the fact of their being strongly allied in the Hargis faction in Breathitt county, and attempting to prove what was said to them about Ewen's character by men who had a criminal record. The best impeaching evidence was offered by a number of citizens of Powell county, including among their number the county judge, the sheriff and others who had the appearance of being well to do men who testified to Ewen's bad reputation as to morality and truthfulness among his neighbors although each of those witnesses as far as their personal opinion was concerned testified without exception that he paid his debts promptly, never drank, never gambled and attended church regularly while residing among them.

"Tickle" Jim Bach, who testified several days ago for the defense, was contradicted by the witnesses Russell for the prosecution and also by Cy Holland. Tickle swore he had seen the killing several days ago and these witnesses say that Tickle told them that he did not see the killing and that he was glad he did not see it.

The commonwealth is making preparations to swear out a warrant for the arrest of Tickle Bach and John I. Noble, called "Rat Ankle." They will be charged with false swearing.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 8.—In the famous case of the commonwealth of Kentucky against Curtis Jett and Thomas White, after 11 days trial of the case and in which all points were hotly contested by able attorneys representing both sides, the commonwealth rested its case on rebuttal at 4:01 Friday afternoon. The defense at 4:30 announced that they were through with their side of the case.

The day was entirely taken up in introducing witnesses on rebuttal by both sides and at times very acrimonious debates were had by the opposing counsel on disputed points of law.

Robert Davidson, Abner Eversole, James B. Little, Abe Short, L. T. Bolin, Robert Fulkerson, Hardin Childers, Wiley Combs, N. E. Combs, J. H. Blanton and M. Forbes, witnesses for the rebuttal on prosecution all of whom presented a very respectable appearance, testified in the good character and truthfulness of B. J. Ewen the leading witness for the prosecution, and the only one who testified that he saw the man who fired the shot that killed Marcum. They were rigidly cross examined but stood their examination well.

Joe Moore was placed on the stand by the defense to prove that on the morning of the killing Jett was holding his hand in such a manner to his front side as to indicate that the right hand was crippled. One of the grounds of the defense is that Jett's hand was so crippled by being mashed by a log a few weeks before the killing of Marcum that it was a physical impossibility for him to use a pistol.

Eight arguments will be made in the case, four on each side. Messers. J. J. Blanton, W. T. Lafferty, B. B. Golden and James D. Black will speak for the defense. Messers. Thomas D. Marcum, brother of the dead man and a criminal lawyer of some note in Muscogee, I. T. and County Attorney J. Stanley Webster, Col. A. P. Byrd and Commonwealths Attorney Fryer will address the jury for the prosecution. The arguments will begin in the case Saturday morning at 8:30. Instructions were not given to the jury Friday morning, but will be read to them immediately upon the convening of court Saturday morning and before the first argument.

Arguing Feud Cases.

Atty. Golden Maliciously Scores Witness Ewen.

The Brother of the Murdered Man, Who Resides in Indian Territory, Spoke Several Hours For the Prosecution.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 11.—In the case of the commonwealth of Kentucky versus Curtis Jett and Thomas White, now on trial in this place for alleged assassination of J. B. Marcum at Jackson, Breathitt county, Ky., on the 4th day of May last. Judge Lafferty, who finished his speech Monday morning, made a telling one. He referred to instances in the history of crimes where numerous where innocent men have been executed. He pleaded with the jury not to inflict the death sentence as it was not in consonance with the highest principles of Christianity as taught in the Scriptures. He referred to a case which happened in this county in 1848, where an innocent man was hung within a quarter of a mile of town for the alleged killing of his wife, and in which after years on his death bed a neighbor confessed his guilt of the crime.

Thomas D. Marcum at present a member of the national democratic committee from Indian Territory spoke for about three quarters of an hour until dinner hour when court was adjourned. Mr. Marcum started his speech again at 1:30 and at 3 p. m. finished. His morning effort was a fierce denunciation of the criminals and of the crime of assassination and he spoke with telling effect in answer to Lafferty's argument that the infliction of the death penalty was wrong in principle. Marcum referred to the Bible where he claimed God himself had declared that "Who so sheds man's blood by man shall have his own blood shed." His speech was a magnificent effort for his side of the case, but at the afternoon session he seemed drowsy and hardly spoke above a whisper to the jury so that none of the audience could hear him. He spoke slowly and quit at 3 p. m. At this hour Capt. Ben B. golden started his argument and he has made a good impression on the jury. The effort of J. S. Webster of Saturday for the defense seems to rankle in the hearts of the defense, as all of the attorneys who have spoken since that time on the opposite side to Webster have taken great pains to answer him. Golden was merciless to Ewen, the man witness of the prosecution, whom it was proven on the stand had been talked of in connection with a lady of his hometown. Golden in a moment of great passion said he wanted the gentlemen of the papers to tell to the world on the morrow that a new word was coined in Kentucky by this infamous scoundrel of a witness and that the word was Ewenism which signified everything dirty, low and which signified everything dirty, low and which main object was the debauchment of women and the destruction of happy homes, in a dramatic moment he crossed the side of the room and holding Curtis Jett's hands said to him, "They charge that you have bloody hands that you are a bloody murderer and a red-handed assassin."

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 12.—In the Jett-White trial Tuesday was taken up in the concluding of the speech of Capt. B. B. golden for the defense and of A. F. Byrd. The prosecuting attorney for the district in which Breathitt county is situated. The main feature of the day was the speech of Byrd of the prosecution. Byrd got down to hard facts at first and from the first to last he closely followed the evidence and summed up his case in a masterly way at the close demanding for the commonwealth of Kentucky that the defendants be hanged.

Mr. Byrd spoke for 25 minutes Tuesday morning and the whole of the afternoon session consuming in all about 4 hours and 25 minutes.

Wednesday morning James D. Black, lately a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky will address the jury and at the close of Black's speech Hon. L. P. Fryer will address the jury when it will be given to the jury, it is thought that the jury will get the case some time in the afternoon Wednesday.

The Cynthiana Cases.

All this week has been occupied with speeches in the Jett-White cases at Cynthiana. Prosecution Attorney Fryer, who was the last speaker, closed yesterday and the case was given to the jury.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 14, 1903

The speeches in the Jett-White cases at Cynthiana are the bitterest we have ever read at times they amount almost to profanity and the word's "devil" and "hell" are found all too frequently. It may be that the crimes are such as to stir the emotions deeply, and to call for strong language with which to express emotions, but we do not believe the occasion justifies the attorneys in taking such liberties as they do in many cases. Capt. Ewen has been called all the vile names in the category and Hargis and Callahan against whom there is no indictment, have been abused just as roundly. We believe in great latitude, but we also believe that witnesses have some rights and should be protected by the courts from this foul mouthed abuse which cannot possibly do any good to the ends of justice.

Life Imprisonment.
Curt Jett and Tom White Convicted of Murder.
The Application For a New Trial was Made—The Prosecution May Not Oppose the Motion as to Jett's Case.
Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 15.—Curt Jett and tom white, the Jackson feudists, were both found guilty of the Marcum assassination by the jury Friday and sentenced to life terms in the penitentiary.
White flushed as the jurors handed the verdict to the judge and tears came to his eyes and the blood seemed to leave his face as he heard the fateful words. Jett, with clinched jaws, listened to the sentence and still tried to keep up his air of braggadocio.
The defense filed grounds and motion for a new trial at 11 o'clock Friday morning and Judge Osborne set 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning for the hearing of the motion. The motion and grounds consist entirely of objections to the evidence ruled in by the court, and the attempted introduction of evidence by the defense, and which was ruled out and also to certain affidavits made by the defendants saying that a fair and impartial trial could not be had here on account of military display being made which inflamed the public mind so that a fair trial could not be had. It is almost certain that the judge will overrule the motion for this new trial.
The attorneys for the prosecution were in consultation all Friday afternoon as to whether or not they will oppose the motion as to Jett, as they say if they can get a new trial in this case they will have enough evidence in the case at the next trial to convict him. However, Prosecution Attorney Byrd said that if they concluded to oppose the new trial that at the next term of the Harrison circuit court before Judge Osborne, which begins three weeks from Monday, they will put forward the case of the commonwealth against Curtis Jett, one of the defendants, for the murder of Jim Cockrell, to which murder there were some six eye witnesses thereby succeeding in hanging Jett, which has been the ultimate aim of the prosecution in the case just tried.
The main features in the case at bar Friday have been the charges against Juror Jasper King, who lives in this city, and who was until two years ago a deputy sheriff of the county and a man who had been highly esteemed. Jurors McNees, Northcut and Tate all said Friday morning that King did attempt to influence them to decide for Jett and White in this case by saying that there was nothing against the defendants. Judge Osborne in his admonition to the jury, told them not to talk about the case among each other until it was finally given to them to decide. This seems and it is said by attorneys here to be contempt of court and though Judge Osborne has not taken cognizance of this yet, County Prosecuting Attorney Webster stated Friday afternoon that he would bring this matter to the court's attention Saturday.
The prisoners are still at the jail and guarded by soldiers in relay of tens. When asked by newspaper men Friday afternoon as to what they had to say about their verdict, Jett, with an oath, said the newspaper men had not said a kind word about him since the trial and that was all he would say about his case.
No movements have been made as yet as to the soldiers and Col. Williams, the officer in command of the situation, said Friday afternoon that no movements as to the soldiers were yet decided on and would not be decided on until Saturday after the grounds and motion for a new trial had been passed on by the court and that the matter of the movements of the soldiers were in the hands of himself and Judge Osborne.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

He Didn't Say It.
It was reported the past week in various papers that J. T. Hagin, Curt Jett's stepfather, in a conversation with Taylor Maupin said that the night Jett was arrested by sheriff McCord, he told Mr. and Mrs. Hagin that he had killed Marcum. Mr. Hagin was here Saturday and says the whole thing is false; that he and his wife knew nothing of the killing save what they had seen in the papers or had heard from others.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

Witness the difference. Jas. B. Marcum, a Republican, was killed by Curt Jett, a Democrat, and it is more than suspected that the murder was instigated by other Democrats high in authority. Yet every Democratic paper has clamored for the conviction and execution of the murderer. A few years ago Gov. Goebel, a prominent Democrat, was killed by a Republican, and as the result of a Republican conspiracy. Yet every Republican paper has been moving heaven and earth to secure the release of those charged with the crime and have thrown every possible obstacle in the way of the prosecution.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

The Verdict.
The people here were much disappointed at the verdict of the Cynthiana jury which brought in a verdict of life imprisonment for Jett and White. In Jett's case the jury was hung by Jasper King. The other eleven jurors were for hanging Jett. Seven stood for hanging White. About ten ballots in all were taken. The first ballot stood eleven guilty for both men, one not voting. King refused to vote. The second ballot stood twelve for guilty. The question of punishment was then taken up. Eleven voted to hang Jett and King held out for a penitentiary sentence throughout the balloting until the eleven came to him. After the eleven had agreed with King for a life sentence, it is said King wanted to back out and declare Jett not guilty. On White's case seven stood for hanging and five for penitentiary for life. The last ballot was taken at 9:30 Friday morning.

Application was at once made for a new trial. The attorneys for the Commonwealth were at first inclined to join in this request as they felt sure of hanging Jett next time, but after deliberation they thought best to oppose the motion and proceed to try him for the murder of Cockrell. While less noise has been made about this, it is said the evidence is stronger against Jett than in the Marcum case, and they will have a chance to hang him in the Cockrell case, and if they fail will still have the life sentence to fall back on. He will be tried in September for the murder of Cockrell.
The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

The Cynthiana Trial.

The Jett-White trial at Cynthiana is now a thing of the past. A motion was made Saturday for a new trial, by the defense. It was at first thought that the prosecution would not object as they believe they could hang Jett next time. They believe, however, that the State can hang him for the murder of Jim Cockrell, and will endeavor to hold the life sentence over him for the murder of Marcum, if they fail to hang him for the killing of Cockrell.

Jett was sent to Lexington and white to Covington for safe keeping. The sentence of life imprisonment was held for sixty days, to enable the defense to file a bill of exception and take the case to the Court of appeals. Jett seems to be in fine spirits and says he will never be hung or wear stripes. White is sullen and downcast.

The cost of J. B. Marcum's assassination to the State of Kentucky has exceeded $20,000 so far, exclusive of the regular salaries which go on and attorney fees and incidental court expenses of hunting up evidence. The pay, transportation and subsistence of the soldiers amounted to $15,000 in round numbers, the mileage and fees of the witnesses for both the prosecution and the defense will amount to $3,500. The jurors fees, extra Deputy Sheriffs, etc., will amount to $1,000 more. The trial at Jackson cost the state about $1,000 more. This trial consumed eighteen working days. The trial consumed eighteen working days. The arguments for the attorneys for both sides consumed twenty-seven hours all told.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

Will Be Tried at Cynthiana.

If Jett is tried for the murder of James Cockrell, this trial will also be held at Cynthiana. When an indictment was returned against him for the Cockrell murder the case was also transferred but on account of the interests manifested in the Marcum trial the fact was generally overlooked.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 18, 1903

If Jett hadn't been pardoned out of the penitentiary two or three years ago, Marcum might be alive today.—Louisville Herald.

Jett wasn't pardoned out of the penitentiary but out of jail, where he had served most of his sentence. But if J. B. Marcum had not personally urged Jett's pardon, Marcum might be yet alive, and if Jim Howard had been hung for former murders, Gov. Goebel might not have been killed.

WITH A RAZOR.

Niece of J. B. Marcum Committed Suicide near Jackson.

Jackson, Ky., Oct. 27.—Miss Belle Little, 24, committed suicide at Elktown, this county, by almost severing her head from the body with a razor. Her mother and sisters were in the adjoining room and, hearing a groan rushed in to find the pretty young suicide writhing in the agonies of death. A note pinned carefully in her hand told the tale of her unhappiness and gave her reasons for ending her life. Miss Little was a niece of the late feud leader, J. B. Marcum, who was killed last May in the courthouse here while standing in the door with Capt. Ewen. Her father, Jack Little was killed four years ago in a fight by John Wilson, the latter being convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary. He was recently released. During his confinement his wife obtained a divorce and was married to George Spencer, a son of Jailer William Spencer, of Breathitt county.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 30, 1903.

Attempt to Assassinate Capt. Ewen.

An attempt was made to assassinate Capt. B. J. Ewen at Lexington Tuesday night. He was returning home about 9:30 o'clock and while passing the mouth of a dark alley someone fired several shots at him. One bullet went through his hat and another through his coat. Capt. Ewen returned the fire and as a bloody handkerchief was found at the other end of the alley he thinks his assailant was hit.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 6, 1903.

Says A Winchester Man Did It.

Capt. B. J. Ewen now thinks he will not be safe even in Lexington and thinks of locating in Cincinnati. An interview published in the Enquirer of that city says of the recent attempt to assassinate him: "Capt. Ewen does not know who fired upon him, but he exhibited a letter last night which he had just received from his wife, in which she says she is almost certain a man at Winchester is the guilty party, and Ewen says he has a strong suspicion that she is right, but he will not divulge the name of the man he suspects.

A BIG RECORD.

The record in the Curt Jett and Tom White trials were held in the Court of Appeals Tuesday. It comprises eleven hundred type written pages.

White May Tell All.

The Enquirer's Covington correspondent says: "Tom White, who is confined in the Covington Jail under conviction for the alleged assassination of Attorney James B. Marcum, at Jackson, Ky., is one of the quietest prisoners in Jailer Brosmore's custody. White is growing fallow from the seven months close confinement. He stated yesterday that he was only slightly acquainted with A. C. Adams, who pleaded guilty to a charge of perjury at Cynthiana a few days ago in having testified on behalf of Curtis Jett, another of Marcum's alleged assassins. White is confident that he will be granted a new trial in his case by the Court of Appeals. Parties who are intimate with him declare that in case the upper Court refuses him a rehearing he, will break down and tell all he knows about the killing of Marcum"

Commendable Enterprise.

As a means of support for herself and children Mrs. Marcum, widow of the late J. B. Marcum, has arranged to carry on the business of sewing and dress making at her home on South Highland street, this city, and through a card in this paper offers her services in that capacity. We commend her enterprise and bespeak for her a liberal patronage.

Mrs. Johnson.

The story of Mrs. J. B. Marcum is pathetic, but in some respects that of Mrs. Mary Johnson is even more so. Mrs. Johnson is a sister to the late J. B. Marcum. She inherited, with her brother, a considerable portion of mountain land which is located some ten miles above Jackson, the county seat of Breathitt county. A few years since, with her husband and children, she moved to Jackson where they opened a store. Over a year ago the store was burned. How, and why, no one knows. She was devoted to her brother and many times while the assassins were lying in wait to fire the fatal shot, she walked with him. Her presence with that of Mr. Marcum and the child that Mr. Marcum carried in his arms prevented the tragedy for a time. After the death of her brother, Mrs. Johnson, with her family, moved back to her old home on the river, but she was not free from the avengers. The Spicers, relatives of Sheriff Ed Callahan, began cutting timber from her land. She tried by every lawful means to prevent it but without avail. When she swore out injunctions and gave bonds, no officer would serve the papers. She then went before the grand jury, but without effect. This jury was selected by commissioners appointed by Judge D. B. Redwine before he went out of office. In the meantime there was a pretended arrest of her husband. A crowd came at night and took him away. Feeling sure that it was their purpose to kill him he made a desperate effort to escape and succeeded. He could not go back to his home, so he left the county and is afraid to return. The looting of timber continued. When the Spring tides came Mrs. Johnson sent her son to protest against her property being carried away. The Spicers were there, in force. Old man Spicer told Johnson to go away, that the boys might hurt him. Johnson started and had gone fifty yards when Bummer Spicer shot him in the back. He died that night.

This is the story of Mrs. Mary Johnson; alone in the world; her brother and son dead by the assassin's bullet; her husband driven from home, and her property being taken, with no remedy under the law as it is enforced in Breathitt county to save it.

In truth or fiction there never was a more pathetic story than this one to date, and the end is not yet.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, April 28, 1904

In a case appealed from the Mason Circuit Court the Court of Appeals decided that previous conviction is not a bar to further prosecution. This was one of Curt Jett's pleas in the trial for the murder of James Cockrill for which he was sentenced to be hanged. He had previously been sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary for the murder of J. B. Marcum

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, May 5, 1904

In the Court of appeals, on motion of the attorneys for Curtis Jett, the appeal from the sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of James B. Marcum, was dismissed. It was a move to prevent the carrying out of the death sentence imposed for the murder of James Cockrill.

Must Have A Fair Trial.

It is pretty definitely settled that the Marcum suit against Senator Alex. H. Hargis, Judge James Hargis, B. F. French and Ed Callahan will be tried at the September term of the Clark Circuit Court. This suit involves a very large sum of money, and necessarily involves the character of the defendants, two of whom now reside in Clark County. One of the others is the County Judge, while the other is sheriff of Breathitt County. The business interests of Clark county are very intimately connected with those of Breathitt, the home of two of the defendants in this case.

Our acquaintance with these men in a business or commercial sense is most favorable, and they are known to be thoroughly reliable. We have at times copied articles written by other correspondents, and have at other times written editorials without being called upon to an unreasonable extent to prove their accuracy. Then there has, perhaps, been from time to time too much politics in this matter, in as much as the parties are now to be tried here. We have tried to hold the Democratic party responsible in many of the statements published in The Sun-Sentinel for the state of affairs in Breathitt county, not intending thereby to deprive the parties sued a fair hearing before the public.

We wish to announce here, if we have done any of the parties any injustice at any time in any article published in this paper, that it is withdrawn, as it has never been the purpose of our heart to do them any personal injustice, and from this time on they shall receive fair treatment at the hands of The Sun-Sentinel. It is to be hoped the people of Clark county will give them a fair and impartial trial. The defendants are represented by attorneys, Judge John Hager, of Ashland, Ky., Senator Jefferson Hanna, of Elliott county, Ky., Judge J. H. Hazelrigg, of Frankfort and J. M. Stevenson and J. Smith Hays, both of this city, which is a sufficient guarantee of itself that this trial will be conducted upon high _____ the defendants.

Granted Change of Venue.

Special Judge John E. Cooper, appointed by Gov. Beckham to try the perjury cases against Ed. Callahan, B. F. French and James Bach, granted a change of venue from Cynthiana to Mt. Sterling. The cases against George Bolling may also be tried at Mt. Sterling. The case against Adams was postponed.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, June 2, 1904

The Perjury Cases.

Judge John E. Cooper, who was appointed by Gov. Beckham to try the case of alleged perjury against James Back and the cases for subordination of perjury against Ed Callahan and B. F. French, has granted a change of venue from Harrison county to Montgomery county. We presume that the cases will be tried before the Circuit Judge of that district, Allie W. Young.

These men are entitled to fair and impartial trials—no more no less. The wisdom of Gov. Beckham in appointing Judge Cooper as special judge to try the cases is questioned. The fact that Judge Young is remotely connected with some of the parties prominent in the Breathitt county troubles will make him the subject of criticism. If the cases had been tried in Judge Fryer's court at Cynthiana, no more than the usual attention would have been given them by the general public. Their transfer to Judge Young's court will cause them to be watched with more than ordinary interest.

Within the next twelve months Judge Young will establish himself as a judge in the minds of the people. It is not the duty of the judge to assume that the accused are guilty and organize the court to convict, as has been done in some of the courts in this State. Neither is it his duty to shield the guilty as has been done in other courts. Every citizen is entitled to have a fair hearing and no one is entitled to anything more, nor should be given anything less.

Marcum-Flanery Wedding

At the home of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum on Highland street at two o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Nellie Marcum, daughter of the late James B. Marcum, and Mr. James Flanery, stepson of Capt. John Tarp of this city, were married by the Rev. J. R. Savage, of the Methodist church. The wedding was a quiet and beautiful home affair witnessed by relatives and intimate friends of the happy couple. The bride, the first born to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marcum, and now in her twentieth year, is a lovely young woman who may safely count among her friends all who have the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Mr. Flanery has for several years been living in the west. His strong personalty and indomitable energy were promptly recognized, and he prospered in his new field even beyond his expectations. After the ceremony yesterday the happy couple left for their future home at Fargo, North Dakota, where Mr. Flanery has a responsible and lucrative position.

South Carolina's Presumption.

"Mrs. J. B. Marcum, whose husband was assassinated in Breathitt county, Kentucky, a year or so ago, because as prosecuting attorney of the Commonwealth, he had been very active in procuring the punishment of certain murders in that county, brought suit against County Judge James Hargis and sheriff Edward Callahan, of Breathitt county, for $100,000 damages. The jury at Winchester rendered a verdict in the case last Monday, giving Mrs. Marcum $8,000 damages. It is said that Callahan and Hargis will now be indicted for instigating the murder of Marcum. To secure money damages for murder in Kentucky must be regarded as an evidence of progress for that State. The damages awarded are small, but it was hardly to be expected that in a community of murderers any judgement whatever would have been obtained against those charged with the taking of human life."—Charleston (S. C.) Daily News.

There may be some things that South Carolina could call us to account for, but murder is not one of them. It is the State where a Lieutenant Governor, named Tillman, shot down in cold blood, his political adversary on one of the main streets of Columbia, and we have not yet heard of him hanging therefore, we did hear of lots of shenanigans by (what some of the newspapers called) the "better classes," to enable him to prove self-defense against his unarmed victim. Whenever the Daily News can report an $8,000 verdict against the slayer of Editor Gonzales we will admit their right to comment on us, even though they do "use shot-guns to keep niggers from voting" as the other Sought Carolina Tillman testifies. First pick the beam out of your own eye, and your Senator and Lieutenant-Governor out of the seats they occupy, before you go gouging after other people's motes.

Cold Out There.

A letter from Mr. James Flanery, of Fargo, N. D., who married Miss Nellie Marcum says: "We are keeping house and getting along fine. My wife likes the west. It is a little cold—fifty below zero today. If you ever come this way, stop and see us in our little Kentucky home out west."

Breathitt County.

The More You Hear the Worse It Gets.—Mose Feltner and Sam Fields Now Giving Depositions in this City.—What Next.

The name of Breathitt county is so significant of wrong doing that nothing else is thought of when the name is mentioned and there are certain names that come readily to mind at the name of Breathitt. We will keep our readers informed as best we can of Breathitt's doings.

Following the action of the higher court at Frankfort granting a temporary stay of proceedings against the Breathitt county gentlemen indicted in Fayette county. Col. John R. Allen, attorney for the Fayette court, filed a motion and the Court of Appeals issued an order for James W. Edwards, Magistrate of Breathitt county, to appear before it tomorrow, February 10th, and produce all records, warrants, bonds, memoranda, etc., in the Hargis-Callahan cases. It is the purpose of Col. Allen to show that they are forgeries; that Edwards was in collusion with the Hargises and did not act in good faith. On the rules issued by the Clark court, Sheriff McCord and Deputy Stokely went to Perry county last week and arrested Mose Feltner and Sam Fields. These are two of the witnesses that are alleged to have been spirited away from here during the Marcum damage trial. They were brought before the Court Saturday morning and failing to give bond they were placed in charge of officer Dock Pigg.

Senator Hargis came down from Jackson Saturday afternoon and gave bond in the sum of $2,000 for an appearance. The rule and warrants of arrest for Judge Hargis and Sheriff Ed. Callahan were sent to Jackson. They will be served by Coroner M. C.

Bailey. Mr. Bailey executed the bonds and returned them to the Sheriff of this county yesterday. James Hargis, in the sum of $1,000, signed by A. P. Crawford, Steven Cundiff, W. H. Blanton and Jacob E. Lane. Ed. Callahan's bond for $4,000 was signed by the same parties.

For satisfactory reasons, the depositions of Mose Feltner and Sam Fields have been taken; that of Feltner, occupying the day Tuesday, and until late yesterday afternoon. A letter was given to Feltner since he has been a prisoner here in which dire consequences were threatened in case he gave his deposition. He denies being in contempt saying he left the state through fear. Feltner says that he had been employed to kill Marcum and implicates Alex. Hargis, Jim Hargis, Ed Callahan, and B. F. French. He implicates the first three in the killing of Cockrill. His reward for killing Marcum was to be an acquittal on the charge of killing Jesse Fields, who was one of French's lieutenants in the French-Eversole feud or, if convicted, a pardon would be obtained for him. If, on the other hand, he refused to carry out the orders, he would be sentenced and hanged. The deposition of Sam Fields will be taken in connection with that of Feltner. #### Breathitt.

More and More Of It.—It Looks Like the Beginning of the End..

We referred to the affidavit of Mose Feltner that was then being taken, last week. Later, that of Sam Fields was given. These affidavits reveal in detail the plans that were formed to assassinate James Cockrill and J. B. Marcum; they also throw some light on the assassination of Dr. Cox.

James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Elbert Hargis, B. F. French and Ed. Callahan are the men implicated by the testimony of Feltner and Fields. B. F. French appears to have been the leading spirit in enticing the witnesses to leave this city during the Marcum damage trial, though James and Alex Hargis and Callahan appear in the same connection.

It would be difficult to believe the horrible story told by these witnesses were it not for the fact that nearly all of it is corroborated by witnesses that have testified in former trials.

The stenographic report of Feltner's testimony was printed in the leading papers Sunday. It would occupy four solid pages of this paper which is much more space than we can give to it. It is a story of crime unparalleled in our history.

The threatening letter that we referred to last week was given to Feltner by Lewis Hays of Jackson, who suddenly disappeared. It was feared that the lives of Feltner and Fields were in danger and Judge Benton ordered that they be placed in the jail where they are at the present time.

The efforts made by the Breathitt authorities to have Feltner returned to Jackson on a bench warrant failed.

It is held that being a prisoner under the jurisdiction of this court he cannot be turned over to another until his case is disposed of. Before the Court of Appeals, the injunction proceedings have been continued until Saturday next. A number of witnesses have been summoned to testify.

It is a question of jurisdiction between Fayette county, where James, Alex, Elbert Hargis and Ed Callahan are under indictment for killing James Cockrill and Breathitt county, where it is alleged, warrants were sworn out for their arrest before the indictments were made in Fayette county. Cockrill was shot from the Courthouse in Jackson, but died in a hospital at Lexington.

Not New To Us.

Before the assassination of J. B. Marcum and before the affidavit of Mose Feltner was filed at the November term of the Breathitt Circuit Court in 1902, we had from the lips of Marcum in person, all of what has appeared in the affidavit of Feltner in so far as it pertains to Marcum up to that time. Marcum did not give us Feltner's name nor allow us to publish the information that he had given for the reason as he said if it was known the man would be assassinated.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, February 16, 1905

Breathitt. There is no lack of interest in incidents growing out of the Breathitt county condition. Judge Riddle, on Jailer Boone's refusal to deliver the prisoners, Feltner and Fields, from the jail here to the Breathitt bailiff, had Boone tried by a jury at Jackson in his absence and fined $500. In the meantime, Boone went, with his attorney, D. L. Pendleton, before the Court of Appeals and had a writ of prohibition issued against Judge Riddle.

The Breathitt Grand jury made no effort to indict the murderers of Dr. Cox and J. B. Marcum but did indict Sam Jett of this city, for arson. It is alleged he burned his own house in Breathitt county in 1889. They also indicted Mose Feltner on two counts; one charges him with murdering a peddler a number of years ago, the other with confederating with the late J. B. Marcum to kill James Hargis. Sam Fields was also indicted. We noted the indictment of Riley Coldiron last week. All four of these men have been strong in the prosecution of the Hargises.

Friday morning on the grounds of fraudulent proceedings in Breathitt county the Appellate Court, Judge Orear writing the opinion and other Judges concurring, rendered a decision giving Fayette county jurisdiction on the indictments for killing James Cockrill, against A. H. Hargis and Elbert Hargis, and Ed. Callahan. Their attorney at Jackson, J. J. C. Back wired that they would come to Lexington at once. Later they requested that a special bailiff be sent to arrest them naming Chief Reagan, of the Lexington Police force as the man preferred. Reagan went to Jackson Saturday morning and was expected to return with the prisoners the same evening but did not. Saturday evening he sent the following dispatch to the Lexington Circuit Judge.

“The three Hargises are in my custody. I am waiting for Callahan to come in from the country. Will be down Monday morning.”
Monday morning Reagan with Alex and James Hargis arrived in Lexington. Elbert Hargis came to Lexington on the afternoon train. All three of the brothers were placed in the custody of the Fayette county Jailer and were locked up in the hospital ward. Various reasons were assigned as to why Callahan did not come; one that living twenty miles from Jackson he did not know of the Court of Appeals decision; another that he was on the river rafting logs, and another that he was sick. It does not appear that Mr. Reagan made any effort to find him.
Sheriff Callahan came down from Jackson Tuesday and surrendered. The defendants applied for bail before Judge Parker Tuesday. Commonwealth’s Attorney objected. Col. Allen said that if a motion for bail was to be made he wanted to produce evidence to the court to show why the defendants were not entitled to bail. He said that the Hargises was much stronger than that produced by the Commonwealth against William Britton, who had been found guilty and given a life sentence. He said that in this case the evidence and presumption were great, and he did not think the Hargises entitled to bail.
Judge Morton for the defense contended that the purpose of bail was to bring the accused before the court and that there could be no doubt of their presence at the proper time and that the introduction of evidence was unnecessary.
After a conference between the attorneys and the court it was decided to begin hearing evidence on the application for bail Monday next March 20.
The evidence will be in substance the same as was presented in the Britton trial.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 16, 1905

Stop It.
The efforts of certain Democratic politicians to inject politics into the trials of the Hargis brothers and Callahan, should be frowned upon by every honest citizen. The fact that Judge James Hargis is chairman of the 10th District Democratic Committee should cut no figure one way or the other. The troubles in Breathitt county are but remotely connected with politics. Dr. Cox and James Cockrill were Democrats, J. B. Marcum was a Republican.
There is a stigma resting on the State now because of a belief that partisan trials have been held.
Let us have no more of it.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 16, 1905

Hargises and Callahan.
Testimony on the application for bail by the Hargis brothers and Callahan was begun at Lexington Monday. The court decided that the burden of proof was on the Commonwealth. Mrs. J. B. Marcum, Mose Feltner and a number of other witnesses testified in substance the same as given in former trials.
A. C. Bowman, foreman of the grand jury, that was said to have been “busted up” was a witness. He said Alex Hargis came to the grand jury room during investigation and told him and the other grand jurors that Riley Coldiron must be indicted for perjury. Witness said Alex Hargis was mad and demanded the indictment, claiming that Coldiron had testified to a lie against William Britton.
Witness said that B. F. French, Judge Redwine and Judge Fleener were with Alex Hargis when he came to the grand jury room. Witness said other members of the grand jury told him that unless he dismissed them they would adjourn themselves, and the grand jury broke up in a hurry.
Yesterday morning Anse White, a brother of Tom White, was on the stand. His testimony was new and sensational. It was to the effect that Judge James Hargis had arranged with himself and others to kill Dr. Cox, James, Tom and McKinley Cockrill and attorney Vaughn. This work was to be done in the Courthouse during the trial of Tom Cockrill for bail for killing one of the Hargises.
Testimony for the defense was begun. It is probable that the question will be decided this week.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 23, 1905

Breathitt
Following the decision of the high court affirming the decision of the lower court sentencing Tom White to life imprisonment for killing J. B. Marcum, came the decision reversing the case of Curt Jett sentenced to hang for killing James Cockrill. Jett is now serving a life sentence for killing Marcum.
On the application for bail of Aleck, James and Elbert Hargis and Ed Callahan, Judge Parker at Lexington, granted Aleck Hargis bail in the sum of $15,000 but held the others without bail. They are charged with being parties to the assassination of James Cockrill.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 30, 1905

The Hargis Trial.
The trial of Judge James Hargis at Lexington is going on. The Jury was completed last week. As usual, in all of those cases, there has been some sensational features. A Mr. Bacon was accepted on the jury who stated after his acceptance that he had been active in the interest of the accused and had suggested to the attorneys for the defense the name of a man to accept on the jury who would be favorable to the defense. On motion of the Commonwealth, Bacon was excused. It is openly charged that Deputy Sheriffs during the selection of the jury were active in the interest of the accused.
The action of the city authorities of Lexington from the Mayor down is a subject of criticism.

The examination of witnesses began Monday.

Five witnesses testified Monday.

With the exception of Charles Robbins, all had testified in the Britton trial in January and gave substantially the same testimony here.

Robbins testified in the Jett trial at Cynthiana, but when wanted in Lexington failed to appear and was located in Cincinnati with B. F. French. On the stand yesterday he admitted his friendliness with the defendant but his testimony was very strong against Jett and Britton. The Commonwealth was not allowed to prove why he failed to appear in the Britton case.

Dr. A. H. Barkley, the physician who attended James Cockrill at the Good Samaritan Hospital after the wounded man was brought from Jackson to Lexington testified to the nature of the wounds which caused death.

Riley Coldiron, of this city, testified the same as in the Britton trial. Miss Sue Williams, of Jackson, on the day Cockrill was shot, was upstairs in the Day Bros. Store. She heard the shooting, or at least three of the shots and reached the front store window as the last shot was fired.

She saw Curt Jett come out of the Courthouse and cross toward the Hargis store about two minutes after the shooting. He could hardly have had time to enter the store before he turned back to the Courthouse.

Harrison Blanton was on the Crawford corner opposite the side of the Courthouse from which the shots were fired. He saw two men at the window nearest the corner on the second floor of the courthouse, but could not say who they were and heard about six shots. He saw Cockrill running down the street.

Witness then went to the front door of the Courthouse and saw Curt Jett and Jesse Spicer. Jett had a pistol by his side. Britton was coming down the steps on the left, that is from the side where the shooting came from.

Sebastian Williams, a Breathitt county farmer, testified that he went to Jackson with his brother Cash Williams, a school teacher, the day of the shooting. When the shots were fired, witness and his brother were in Judge Fleenor's office in the courthouse.

The firing sounded at first like planks being thrown down. People ran down the street. The two Williams stayed in the office only a short time and went into the hall. Curt Jett was at the front door.

Looking out the front door, witnesses saw James Hargis in the second floor window of his store on the opposite side of the street. He was standing up and it looked like he had a gun in his hand. Hargis called to Jett, "You'll get shot," or "Who's shot," and Jett replied something.

A number of witnesses were introduced by the commonwealth apparently for no other purpose than to establish the killing of Cockrill.

On Tuesday and yesterday some very damaging testimony against Judge Hargis was given. Anse White testified that he was in the court room when the application for bail for Tom Cockrill for killing Ben Hargis was made.

Judge Hargis at that time, he said, gave him a 45-calibre revolver with instructions that when trouble occurred to shoot Jim Cockrill, Attorney Vaughn, who was Tom Cockrill's attorney; McKinley Cockrill, Dr. Cox and another man whom he now believes was Marcum.

A large number of Democratic politicians are active in the interest of Judge Hargis and there is a suspicion that it will be a hung jury, regardless of the testimony. It is probable the trial will last for several weeks.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, April 20, 1905

The Hargis Trial.

The trial of James Hargis, County Judge of Breathitt county, at Lexington, continues with unabated interest. The testimony of Mose Feltner was given since our last report. He gave in detail the plans that were laid to kill Cockrill and Marcum. It was in substance the same as the affidavit that was published several weeks ago.

S. S. Taulbee, the County Clerk of Breathitt, told of a conversation in which Judge Hargis declared that "while he would not have Jim Cockrill killed himself, he would employ lawyers to defend the man who did." Taulbee also read from the county records, orders of Judge Hargis appointing Jett, Britton and Spicer, Deputy Sheriffs and testified that Hargis refused to accept bond from James Cockrill from office about two weeks before the killing.

M. J. Peters declared that when Hargis and Callahan were at the Hargis store window, both had guns. This is the first intimation that both were armed.

J. B. Little said that Hargis threatened to kill him and kicked him in getting off the train, pointing gun at him and cursing him because of his testimony in the Curt Jett trial at Cynthiana.

Sam Hays testified to seeing Hargis at the front door of his store after the shooting and hearing him tell Jett to go back and guard the court house and Jett's reply that "nobody was bothering the court house now."

A light was also thrown upon the alleged movements of Elbert Hargis at the time of the shooting. M. W. Carter and J. B. Little saw Bill Jett and Hargis coming toward the court house from the direction of Jett's whisky house, where witnesses in the Britton trial located them, and saw them go back after looking in the alley where Cockrill lay.

Hacket Combs said he saw Elbert Hargis some minutes afterward coming toward the court house by the way of the back street.

A witness that was recalled, stated the reason he did not answer the summons of the court, was fear; that Breck Combs, the acting County Judge of Breathitt, threatened to shoot his damned head off for testifying against the Hargises.

The testimony of County Clerk Taulbee was sensational. He swore he had heard Judge

Hargis say: "I would not kill Cockrill myself, or have it done, but I would like to sit in court by the side of the man who would do it, and I would pay the fee of the best lawyer in the State to defend him."

It was also shown by Taulbee's records that Jim Hargis, as County Judge had made orders appointing Curtis Jett, Bill Britton and Jesse Spicer deputies under Sheriff Callahan, and that an order reappointing Britton had been made after the killing of Cockrill.

The records of Clerk Taulbee also showed that an order had been entered by Hargis, as county Judge, July 14, 1902, in which he declared the office of Town Marshall vacant. This was while Cockrill was filling the office, and was just one week before he was shot.

Monday morning a surprise was sprung by the Commonwealth introducing as its own witness, Felix Feltner, the cousin of Mose Feltner, and the man who is claimed by the latter to have assisted Judge Hargis, B. F. French and Callahan in intimidating or buying him so that he would leave the State and not testify in any of the trials growing out of the Marcum and Cockrill murders.

Feltner was discovered on a train coming from Winchester to Lexington and was summoned as a witness by Deputy sheriff Kit Wilkerson.

He corroborated Mose Feltner in every detail as to the trip made by the two Feltners, Hargis, Callahan, French and others between Leslie county, Jackson and Winchester and in the afternoon he admitted that the purpose of these trips was that Hargis and Mose Feltner might agree "not to prosecute each other."

He further admitted receiving $1,000 from Hargis for the purpose of defending his cousin Mose, but declared he had borrowed the money of Hargis. The manner in which he transferred this amount to the Winchester Bank corresponded with Mose Feltner's account.

As to the $1,000, Mose Feltner said had been entrusted to his cousin for him, the witness' account also tallied with that of Mose, but he declared a stranger, he did not know who, had given him this money. His description of the man leads many to believe that he is a Clark citizen.

William Smith, a former deputy of Sheriff Callahan, testified that before Cockrill was killed, Judge Hargis had declared the doomed man must die and that if witness would not kill him Curt Jett and George Smith would.

The testimony for the Commonwealth closed Monday.

Tuesday morning the defense entered a motion which was argued briefly by Judge Morton, that the testimony of Felix Feltner, the alleged accomplice of B. F. French and Judge Hargis in bribing Mose Feltner to leave the State, be excluded from consideration of the jury. This motion was overruled and Judge Hargis was then placed of the stand as the first witness in his own defense. He made sweeping denials of the statements made by "Anse" White, Mose Feltner, Dan Bush, S. S. Taulbee, Jeff Smith, Hardin Childers, J. B. Little, Sherman Cope and other witnesses for the Commonwealth, as to conversations and plots with him in which the murder of Cockrill was alleged to have been either planned or discussed.

Judge Hargis was on the stand during the day and was being cross-examined by Mr. Bronston when court adjourned.

As we went to press Wednesday, Hargis was still on the stand.

Tuesday the contempt cases against Alec and James Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French were called, but owing to one of the defendants being of trial at Lexington, they were continued to a special term to be held May 29th.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, April 27, 1905

Hargis Trial.

Judge Hargis in leaving the stand at the close of his testimony and against the protest of attorneys on both sides, make a dramatic statement to the effect that he was innocent of any crime. King Ford was the most important witness for the defense.

All of the witnesses introduced by the defense were for the purpose of contradicting the commonwealth witnesses. Considerable importance is given to the money transactions between Judge Hargis and Mose and Felix Feltner. Hargises version of it is different from that of the Feltners. Sheriff McCord, of this county, was a witness. He was shown a note by Judge Hargis that was different from the one presented in court. Hon. J. F. Winn was summoned yesterday, it is alleged for the purpose of contradicting McCord. Curt Jett and Tom White, both under life sentence for killing J. B. Marcum, were brought from the penitentiary as witnesses.

The testimony of Jett did not amount to anything, as he declined to answer all pertinent questions, the Court telling him that he could decline any question which might tend to incriminate him. White was not placed on the stand.

Rufus Lisle, of the Winchester Bank, this city, was a witness in regard to the alleged notes, but could give no information.

The testimony, subject to conditions, was concluded at noon yesterday. Arguments before the jury will consume the remainder of the week, there will be six speeches. For the Commonwealth Bronston, Allen and Byrd. For the defense, Lee, Morton and one other.

The opinion prevails that it will be a hung jury regardless of the evidence.

Arrested.

At six o'clock yesterday afternoon James Hargis and B. F. French were arrested in this city charged with the murder of J. B. Marcum on warrants sworn out by Mrs. Abrelia Marcum before T. P. Cardwell, Jr., Police Judge of Jackson, Ky. Alex Hargis and Ed. Callahan are included in the warrants. Alex. Hargis, who is at his farm three miles north of the city, answered by telephone that he would come in and surrender to be in Jackson.

Breathitt.
The regular term of the Breathitt Circuit court began at Jackson Monday. Mose Feltner last week wrote to the Governor and to Judge Riddle, asking for a guard. The Governor referred the matter to Judge Riddle who stayed the proceedings against Feltner until Monday. Feltner filed Tuesday an affidavit setting forth the reasons why he was afraid to go to Jackson. He cites that J. B. Marcum and James Cockrill were assassinated when they had given less cause for offense to the powers that be than he has. What action Judge Riddle will take remains to be seen. James P. Adams is now the Commonwealth's Attorney.

Mose Feltner.
The epithets applied to Mose Feltner by the attorneys for the defense during the late trials were the strongest that we ever heard applied to anyone. They seemed to have a kind of "Feltmania." The mention of Mose Feltner would throw them into a terrible state of mind and some of the loose political adherents of Judge Hargis were in almost as bad condition as the attorneys. We are not advised, but we presume that it is the testimony given by Feltner in the trials that renders him so objectionable. We don't know as to the truth of his testimony but we do know that from the time that he made his first affidavit reciting the plots to kill J. B. Marcum to his testimony in the Felix Feltner contempt case last week. That no witness has been more thoroughly corroborated and vindicated as the people see it, than Moses Feltner. The jury last week said by their verdict that they did not believe what Mose Feltner swore and did not believe witnesses on the other side. In the minds of the people and by the decision of juries. Feltner stands vindicated as a witness, though he may be guilty of every other crime with which he has been charged.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, June 8, 1905

Unusual Petition.
Mrs. J. B. Marcum Fears that Mose Feltner will Be Killed and Seeks to Perpetuate His Testimony.
Mrs. Abrelia Marcum, for herself and as guardian for her children, filed a petition in the Circuit Court Monday asking an order for the taking of Mose Feltner's affidavit in her damage suit against the Hargises and Callahan. The petition intimates a fear that Feltner will be killed, or otherwise prevented from testifying when the case is again heard, and asks that the plaintiff be allowed to take his deposition to perpetuate Feltner's testimony. It was filed by Byrd & Jouett, attorneys for Mrs. Marcum. The material allegations are:
"The plaintiffs say that they expect to be parties in an action in this court, or some other court of this State, in which action they will seek to recover a judgement for $100,000 damages against the defendants herein for the murder of James B. Marcum, the husband of plaintiff, Abrelia Marcum, and the father of the infant plaintiffs herein.
"Plaintiffs say that in said action they expect to prove by M. B. Feltner that these defendants herein on diverse occasions and at different times tried to employ him to kill and murder said James B. Marcum and by said Feltner they expect to prove the various plots and plans laid and devised and instigated by these defendants with Tom White and others to assassinate said James B. Marcum.
"They say that said evidence of M. B. Feltner will be true as they believe, and will be material to these plaintiffs in said action and plaintiffs say that they are unable to commence said action at present for the reason that the same has heretofore been tried in this court and resulted in a verdict and judgement against James Hargis and Ed Callahan in favor of these plaintiffs for $8,000, and a verdict and judgement in favor of Alex Hargis and B. F. French dismissing said action as to them. Plaintiffs say that from the first above mentioned judgement the defendants James Hargis and Ed Callahan have appealed, and from the last mentioned judgement these plaintiffs appealed to the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, and said cases are now pending in said Court of Appeals.
Fear For Feltner's Life.
"Plaintiffs say that when said case was called for trial in this court on December 5, 1904, said Feltner was present, but before the case came to trial, and before any witnesses had been introduced, these defendants, as she is informed and charges, by threats made to said Feltner against his life if he testified in said case, and by intimidation of Feltner, by bribes and other means forced and compelled said Feltner to leave trial of said case and go out of this State and remain out of same until after the trial had been concluded, and in this manner prevented these plaintiffs from having the testimony of said Feltner in the trial of said case and prevented said Feltner from testifying in same.

“Wherefore plaintiffs pray that this court make an order authorizing and permitting these plaintiffs to take the deposition of said Feltner as provided by law, and for the purpose of perpetuating his testimony and for preserving same to be used on the trial of said action which these plaintiff expect to commence, and for all further and proper relief.”

The petition is sworn to by Mrs. Marcum.

Mose Feltner in Breathitt.

Friday night, Sheriff McCord received a subpoena for Moses Feltner to appear before the Breathitt Grand Jury Monday morning. Feltner declined to go on the subpoena, alleging that his life would be endangered by the reason of the fact that the murderers of Marcum could not be convicted without his testimony and that it would be easier to be tried for his assassination than for that of Marcum. He and Mrs. Marcum at once appealed to the Governor and Circuit Judge Riddle for the protection of troops, but the Governor argued that he had no power unless asked to do so by the Circuit or County Judge and Judge Riddle did not answer his appeal. When he did not appear Monday, the Breathitt Court issued a warrant for his arrest and sent it here Monday night, Sheriff McCord wrote on it. “Executed by serving on Mose Feltner and sending him to Jackson.” Then the warrant was put in Feltner’s pocket and he took the morning train to Jackson Tuesday.

Will be tried in Lee

Judge Dorsey, of Henderson, who was appointed to try Hargis, Callahan, French, Smith and Abner at Jackson for the murder of J.B. Marcum, called the cases Tuesday to hear the motion made by the prosecution for a change of venue and by the defendants for bail. The question of a change of venue was first considered. Many witnesses were introduced by the State who testified that a fair trial could not be had in Breathitt; that most of its citizens were favorably impressed with the one side or the other of the feuds that have prevailed there and that it would be hard to get a jury that would not contain men prejudiced against them. The defense presented evidence that all is serene in Breathitt, that no law and order prevails and that no trouble would be experienced in getting a jury that would give both sides a fair and impartial trial. Judge Dorsey finally decided to grant the change of venue and designated Beattyville, Lee county, as the place of trial. It was accordingly assigned to that county and will be called there at the next regular term of cour. He then granted each of the defendants bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars which was promptly given.

Coldiron Acquitted

The trial of Riley Coldiron, of this city, for false swearing, occupied several days at Beattyville this week to which it had been sent on a change of venue, resulted in his acquittal, the jury being out only nine minutes. While the troops were in Jackson, during the summer of 1903, investigating the killing of J. B. Marcum and Jas. Cockrill. Coldiron was brought before the court and testified that he saw Bill Britton at the Courthouse window shooting at Jim Cockrill at the time he was killed. After Coldiron had testified on that occasion it is alleged Senator Hargis entered the grand jury room and demanded that he be indicted for perjury. The grand jury adjourned without indicting either Britton or Coldiron. Britton was afterward indicted and tried in Fayette county for the killing of Cockrill and was given a life sentence. Coldiron being a prominent witness against him. After this Coldiron was indicted in Breathitt county for false swearing in 1903, when he testified before the grand jury. B. R. Jouett, of this city, defended him, while Jas. P. Adams and Jas. K. Roberts prosecuted him.

Quarreled over French's Trial

Near Whitesburg Wednesday Joe Davis killed John Trevitt. The men quarreled during a discussion of the trial of Fult French at Beattyville for the murder of J.B. Marcum. Trevitt snapped his pistol at Davis, when the latter sprang on his enemy with a long knife, killing him instantly.

Special Judge Dorsey has called a term of court for Beattyville, March 4th. This is to try French, Smith and Abner, charged with killing J.B. Marcum. Judge Carnes has called a special term at Jackson on the same date to try Hargis and others, charged with the murder of Dr. B.D. Cox. Judge Riddell is now holding his regular term of court at Jackson and will continue for two weeks or more. It is said to be illegal to hold a special term when the regular term is in season.

The Jett-Hargis damage case transferred to Bourbon

Sam Jett, of this city, sued James and Alex Hargis, B.F. French and Ed Callahan for ten thousand dollars in damages. Jett alleges that the defendants conspired to have him indicted by a Breathitt county grand jury on the charge of burning his own residence some seventeen years ago, and that their purpose was malicious. J.M. Benton, the regular judge for this district, declined to try the case and Attorney W.B. Moody of Henry county was appointed. After two preliminary sessions of the court, the trial was set for Monday, March 11th. The defendants moved for a change of venue, which was resisted by the plaintiff. Witnesses were introduced on both sides. Speeches were made for the plaintiff by Attorneys E.S. Jouett and A.F. Byrd; for the defense by W.A. Young and J.J.C. Bach. At the conclusion of the speeches Judge Moody decided to transfer the case. The defense objected to Powell or Madison counties; the plaintiff to Fayette, Montgomery and Estill. This left Bourbon, the only adjoining county. After a conference, Bourbon was agreed upon. We do not doubt that a fair jury could have been obtained in this county, but we have no disposition to criticize Judge Moody for this action. He impressed our people favorably and no one questions that he acted conscientiously.

Breathitt Cases

News growing out of the Breathitt county assassinations multiply. In the case of B.F. French, charged with conspiracy to have J.B. Marcum assassinated, the Special Judge at Beattyville postponed the case. Cause, illness of attorneys for the defense. As noted in former issues, "Judge Bill Carnes" transferred the case of Judge Hargis and others charged with assassinating Dr. B.D. Cox, from Breathitt to Elliott county.

Commonwealth's Attorney, J.P. Adams, asks the Court of Appeals by madamus proceedings to compel Carnes to reverse his action. The Court of Appeals has refused to grant a new hearing in the case of B.F. French, convicted of spiriting away witnesses during the Marcum damage trial here. His fine was fixed at $5000. The case of Wm. Britton, charged with assassinating James Cockrell is on trial at Lexington. John Smith, one of the assassins, has made a full confession. Cockrell was shot from the courthouse at Jackson. Smith's story connects Judge James Hargis, Ed. Callahan, Elbert Hargis, Wm. Britton, Asbury Spicer, John Abner and himself with the crime. The Hargises, Callahan, Britton and Spicer, he claimed, planned and assisted in the execution of the deed. Smith, Abner and Curt Jett did the shooting.

Byrd on trial

In the trial of Wm. Britton at Lexington, charged with the assassination of James Cockrell, the Hon. A.F. Byrd, of this city, is one of the attorneys for the prosecution. The defense lawyers have tried to turn the case into a prosecution of Byrd. It is alleged that Byrd with malice aforethought and on diverse occasions has within the Commonwealth of Kentucky, brought out testimony, the tendency of which has been to implicate certain gentleman of distinction in the assassination of Dr. B.D. Cox, James Cockrell, and J.B. Marcum against the peace and dignity of the gentlemen aforesaid. To all of which Byrd pleads guilty, but thinks that he is entitled to a separate trial.

Feltner, a case which went up from this county, was filed last week in the office of the Circuit Clerk. This recalls one of the most unique cases in Kentucky courts. During the progress of the big Lexington suit of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum against the Hargeses and Fult French for the killing of her husband, J.B. Marcum, a number of important witnesses left the State and remained away until after the close of the trial. It is claimed that the defendants paid or promised Mose Feltner one thousand dollars for taking away and keeping away all those witnesses. Neither side would trust the other and it is alleged the money was paid to Felix Feltner to be kept for Mose Feltner until he should have performed his part of the bargain and this money was the basis of the suit alluded to above. Felix Feltner afterwards swore in court that a young man whom he did not know placed in his hands at the hotel, one thousand dollars in currency. He never knew who the man was nor for what purpose the money was given to him, so he put the money in the Winchester bank. After the big damage suit was settled Mose Feltner filed suit against Felix Feltner for this money. When the case came before Judge Benton he did not decide as to the ownership of the money, but stated that the whole transaction was illegal and that the court would not be a party to the enforcement of an illegal contract. This decision affirmed by the higher court and the mandate was filed a few days ago. In the meantime we suppose the money is still in the bank. The defendants allege that Mrs. Marcum's petition is defective and deny that they or any of them entered into a conspiracy with Curt Jett and Tom White to kill J. B. Marcum.  The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 17, 1904. Mrs. Marcum.  The following appeared in Monday's issue of the Louisville Herald:  Winchester, Ky., April 17.—Reduced to poverty through the loss of her husband, James B. Marcum, who was assassinated in the door of the Breathitt county Court House last May, Mrs. Abrelia Marcum, who recently removed from Jackson to Winchester, plies her needle night and day to earn bread for herself and six children. Her meager income is added to by the small wages of her son Thomas, fifteen years old, who has secured work in a planing mill, and Nellie, the eldest daughter, performs the household duties and takes care of the younger children. The two objects in Mrs. Marcum's life are to rear her children in comfort and to avenge through the courts, if possible, the murder of her husband. Her civil action for $100,000 damages, in which Judge James Hargis, Alex Hargis and Edward Callahan, of Breathitt county, and B. Fulton French, of Winchester, are made defendants, comes up in the Clark Circuit Court before Judge Benton in May. It has attracted wide attention, as it is believed that much interesting testimony as to the alleged plot which resulted in Mr. Marcum's assassination will be adduced.

Commonwealth's Attorney A. Floyd Byrd, who became widely known through his fearless prosecution of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the Marcum murder, is retained as one of Mrs. Marcum's attorneys, and it is understood that his fee will be a moderate one because of the personal interest he feels in the bereaved woman's affairs, but the expenses of the suit will be heavy, and it is believed that popular feeling will result in contributions being made by persons in various parts of the State in order that the suit may be vigorously prosecuted.

Mrs. Marcum is a decidedly pretty little woman, despite the fact that the tragic death of her husband and the long period of anxiety during which it was known that sooner or later the plot against his life would be executed, have left their impress upon her features. Her complexion was formerly a rich olive, but the suffering through which she has passed has lessened the color in her cheeks and made lines upon her brow. When she talks of the injustice that has been done her, and of the great loss that she has sustained, the spirit of indomitable courage burns in her brown eyes and it is plain that as long as it is possible for her to fight for the conviction of those she believes to have been the principals in the murder plot she will sacrifice everything to bring to justice the men whom she believes were behind the principals responsible for the assassination. All of the children are bright and interesting and have many friends in Winchester since their mother moved here to join the colony of mountain people who have been exiled from the feud sections and whose names recall a dozen so-called "feuds" in which one clan systematically murdered members of another clan weaker in most instances, not for lack of personal bravery of good marksmanship, but because they did not control county politics, while the slayers "owned the courts" and were immune from punishment for murder.

_____ old enough to support themselves, to bring them up to become honest men and women, as their father would have had them be, and to bring to justice the men responsible for the murder of their father."

Discussing her suit, Mrs. Marcum said: "If I can get my witnesses here there can be one result. The trials at Cynthiana fully demonstrated that Jett and White did not conceive the murder themselves, but that they executed the orders of others. If I can assemble my witnesses the plot will be exposed in every detail. Such a ghastly plot as will be proven has never been laid bare. Persons not familiar with affairs at Jackson will find it hard to believe that such a crime could have been committed in a civilized country. The men who planned and plotted and had executed the murder of my husband are nothing more or less than savages—savages educated not only in the use of firearms, but in control of courts, in the manufacture of alibi testimony and in the use of political influence at the State capital to secure the release of such assassins as may be through some mischance convicted of their crimes.

"God will not permit such men to triumph always. I shall never rest until I have proven my case before the world. The witnesses are willing to come, I believe, but it is a hundred miles from Jackson to Winchester, and it will be expensive to bring them here, pay them daily witness fees and send them home again. Most of the witnesses are as poor and many poorer than I am, and I could not allow them to pay their own expenses if they wanted to do so. It is enough to ask them to come here at the risk of their lives and testify. Some of them may, of course, be afraid to come, and the court will have to compel them to do so.

"My lawyers tell me that it will require from $700 to $1,000 for the expenses of witnesses alone. I have saved a little money and I shall most willingly spend every cent of it to expose the men who planned my husband's death.

"I am sure I have not deserved the suffering which has fallen to my lot," said the little woman, and tears gathered in her motherly eyes as they rested for a moment upon a fine chubby-legged boy—James B. Marcum, Jr., two years old—whose baby features recall the handsome face of the tall mountain attorney, who was often seen at Winchester, Lexington, Frankfort and Louisville during the days of his prosperity when business called him from Jackson.

"Many a time I have walked with my husband through the streets of Jackson, hoping that my presence would protect him, but fearing every moment to hear the report of a rifle, which would bring death to both of us. When separated from him for a few hours I have waited and watched, dreading to hear the footsteps of anyone approaching, fearing all the time that someone would come to tell me that they had killed him. We knew it would happen. We knew that the murderers were patient and would wait their opportunity. His sister, Mary Johnson and I tried to shield him. If we could have managed it a little longer he could have arranged his affairs so that we could have left Jackson. I was glad to sacrifice our pretty home for which he had worked and saved so long. I was willing to give up everything, willing to leave Kentucky forever, to leave my relatives and friends of my childhood. But we stayed in Jackson too long."

It is expected that the Marcum suit will be no less interesting than were the trials of Jett and White at Cynthiana and Jackson.

May Term

Of Clark Circuit Court in Session.—The Juries.—Important Cases Continued.

The case of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum vs. James and Alex Hargis, B. F. French and Ed Callahan was among the first to be called. Judge John F. Hager, of Ashland and Senator Jeff Hanna, of Elliott county, attorneys for the defense, were admitted to the bar. An affidavit was filed by the defense alleging personal differences between Judge Benton and Judge James Hargis, the object being to prevent Judge Benton from hearing preliminary motions, but Judge Benton refused to vacate. The defendants entered a demurrer as to the jurisdiction of this court which was overruled. The motion of defendants for a change of venue was then withdrawn, and the case was set for hearing on Monday May 16.

Tuesday the defense in the Marcum-Hargis etc., case moved for continuance on the grounds that previous engagements would prevent Attorney Hager's attendance during this term. The Court granted a continuance to the fourth day of the September term and gave notice that the case would not be further postponed.

Circuit Court

At the opening of the Court plaintiffs in the Marcum damage suits filed an amendment to their petition stating that the exact date of the conspiracy and the names of some of those engaged in it were unknown.

Judge James Hargis, one of the defendants, in an effort to swear Judge Benton off the bench, filed an affidavit purporting to show that Judge Benton was unfriendly to him, the following incidents being cited:

1. That Benton in speaking to B. F. French since the damage case was instituted said: "You are having some of Old Dog Tray's experience" meaning that French had been sued because of his association with Hargis and his friendship for him.
  2. That at the Democratic Convention in June 1904, Hargis was a candidate for member from the Tenth District in the State Central Committee, that Benton was a delegate from Clark; that the night before the Convention met Hargis had a meeting of his friends to arrange for his election to which Benton was not invited and at which he was not present; that when Benton heard of this organization he was very indignant and declared that his election would be an outrage and would disrupt the Democratic party.
  3. That in this opposition Benton was assisted by A. F. Byrd, counsel for plaintiff in this suit, who is a bitter enemy of Hargis and has not spoken to him since the summer of 1903. That this opposition was prompted by a spirit of hostility and by reason of this personal antagonism, Judge Benton cannot and will not give him a fair trial.
- Judge Benton refused to vacate the bench, saying he knew of no reason why he could not give defendants a fair trial.

This trial is set for today and it is expected that both sides when called will answer "ready."

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 15, 1904

The Marcum damage suit was called Thursday, but was continued until December at the cost of defendants.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 22, 1904

Yesterday morning the noted damage case was called. Mrs. Abrelia Marcum sues James and Alex Hargis, B. F. French and Ed Callahan for one hundred thousand dollars. She claims in her petition that they conspired to cause the death of her husband, the late J. B. Marcum, who was assassinated at the court house door at Jackson, Breathitt county. The attorneys for the plaintiff are Byrd and Jouett and C. J. Bronston.

For the defense J. B. Hazlerigg, Louis McQuown, Jeff Hanna, J. M. Stevenson, J. Smith Hayes, and F. B. Haggard. The plaintiff answered ready. The attorneys for the defense retired for consultation.

At 11:30 the defense asked for more time in which to answer. Court adjourned until one o'clock.

At one o'clock the defendants answered ready, and it is expected that the trial will begin this morning.

Mrs. Marcum through her attorneys filed a sensational affidavit at the afternoon session. It was to the effect that three of her most important witnesses were by threats and bribes induced not to appear. The witnesses, Moses Feltner, Sam Fields and Ruck Cottingame were here as late as 12 o'clock Tuesday night, but were not here when they were called Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Marcum states that the testimony of these witnesses would show a conspiracy on the part of the defendants to murder her husband.

Specifications are given as to what their testimony would be. She asks that a special bailiff be appointed to find these witnesses and that the defendants be held for contempt of court, her affidavit created a sensation.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Sensational Testimony in the Damage Case.-

A Good Jury.

The noted damage suit of Mrs. J. B. Marcum against Alex Hargis, James Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French is now being tried before the following jury: D. T.

Railsback, C. C. Fox, Asa Brock, H. C. Domigan, Jas. Monday, H. C. Gillespie, B. T. Fox, C. C. Parrish, Jno. W. Moore, N. A. Golden, J. N. Williams, and W. C. Brock.

Monday morning, Attorney A. F. Byrd stated the case for the plaintiff. In the afternoon

Attorney J. M. Stevenson represented the defendants. Mrs. Marcum took the stand Tuesday morning. She told of warnings her husband received that he would be killed but under the rulings was not allowed to tell who gave the warnings or from whence they came. She testifies that she had six children, ranging in age from a boy of one year to a girl of nineteen. She said the earnings of her husband were from $3,000 to $5,000 per year, except the last year or too, when his activities were cramped by threats of assassination, on account of which he was afraid to leave home. He was aware of these plots and had discussed them with her. She told of a visit of Alex Hargis, during which he told her that Marcum had better leave, that he would not hurt him but that he could not answer for James Hargis and Ed Callahan. She was not cross examined by the defense. Capt. B. J. Ewen was the next witness. He was talking to Marcum when the fatal shot was fired. The witness gave the facts as told in the Jett and White trials. The next witnesses were John E. Patrick and J. J. C. Back. Their testimony was not very important and was apparently given with deliberation. At this point the jury was retired and the attorneys argued as to the admission of certain testimony. The court decided that if a conspiracy was established that the testimony would be admitted. Capt. Ewen was recalled. Witness said that he had been sent on an errand by Judge Hargis at one time prior to the death of Marcum and that while performing this errand he had come across Marcum setting out trees in a lot owned by him. Upon telling James Hargis of what he had seen Marcum doing, he said the defendant replied that Marcum need not bother himself about planting trees, as he would be planting them in the next world. The witness was then cross-examined by the defense. It was the evident purpose of the defense to discredit the witness. He was asked if he had not taken subscriptions from the public for giving his evidence at the trial of Jett and White, and if he was the same Ewen who had claimed to have been shot at in Lexington and if he did not shoot a hole in his own clothes for the purpose of working up sympathy. Attorney for plaintiff objected to all of these questions and was sustained by the court. Witness said he had received $4,161 through the effort of the papers. He was asked if the amount was not nearer $10,000, to which he said it was not. He said the house which burned in Jackson was worth $17,000, and did not know that it had been listed for taxes for $1,200 and that he had verified the list. Witness said he had not burned his house in Stanton for the purpose of collecting the insurance money. Court adjourned with Ewen on the stand. At 9 o'clock Wednesday the cross examination of Ewen was resumed. Henry B. Noble as the next witness. He was a clerk in Hargis Brothers' store at the time Marcum was killed and is now school superintendent for Breathitt county. He saw the second shot which was fired by Tom White. This was about eight o'clock a.m.. Before noon of the same day he went to an upstairs room over Hargis, Brothers' store and found James Hargis, Ed Callahan and Tom White there; heard White say "Ed, what are you and Jim going to do about that money! The next witness was Ruck Cottingame. He gave in detail the account of himself and other witnesses for the defense being induced to leave Winchester on the morning of Dec. 7, by B. F. French, going to Cincinnati and Hamilton, Ohio, and his return Richmond Ky., and his arrest by Sherriff McCord. Wm. B. Johnson was asked as to a visit from Tom White to Ed Callahan. On the same question, as to the validity of the testimony of this witness he was excused to be recalled later. Charles Anderson, of Bath county, a student was the next witness. Saw the smoke from two shot's and saw Marcum fall, when he ran, returned in about fifteen minutes and saw James Hargis at an upper window of Hargis' store with two other men. One of the men had a gun. Mrs. Rebecca Bailey was the last witness examined yesterday. She is the mother of Mose Feltner. She told of B. F. French coming to her house in Leslie county in May or June, 1902 and his efforts to get Mose Feltner to go to Jackson promising that they would get him out of trouble. That no matter what happened the Governor was on his side and was Harris' friend and would do whatever they wanted him to do. Ed Callahan met her on the train beyond Richmond when she was on her way to his trial and told her to come to his house and he would go with her and Mose and have Mose cleared. Mrs. Bailey was by far the most interesting witness, so far. She is a typical mountain mother and gave her testimony in language of her own which impressed everyone that she was honest and telling the truth. Want of time prevented us from giving her testimony in full. The defense declined to cross examine her.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, December 15, 1904.

THE DAMAGE SUIT.

No civil suit in this state has attracted so much attention as the one now before our Circuit Court of Mrs. Marcum Vs. James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French. This is the third week of the trial. The daily papers have given full reports of the testimony. Much of it has been of a sensational nature. To give anything like a full report of the testimony would require more space than we have in this issue of the paper. To give a tabled report would be unjust to the witnesses and possibly to the parties in litigation. Since it was settled that the case would be tried in this county we have carefully refrained from discussing it or allowing out correspondents to do so, for the reason that what we would say might prejudice the case. We have confidence in this court and the jury and believe that they will do the right thing. In this trial of surprised possibly the greatest came Monday when M. Bronston had Ed Callahan and Judge Hargis, two of the defendants, placed on the stand as witnesses for the plaintiff. The law under which this was done was passed in 1808 and this is its first application. It reads as follows: "A party may be examined as if under cross examination at the instance of adverse party, either orally or by deposition as any other witness; but the party calling for such examination shall not be concluded thereby, but may rebut it by counter testimony." At noon Tuesday the testimony for the plaintiff was closed. In the afternoon the jury was discharged until yesterday morning pending a motion by the defense for peremptory instructions. After exhaustive arguments by the attorneys on both sides, Judge Benton, after referring to the evidence which tended to implicate the defendants, severally, and reciting the law, overruled the motion. Ex-Senator, Alex Hargis, was first witness for the defense. Late in the afternoon, he was still under cross-examination by Mr. Bronston, attorney for the plaintiff. The regular term of court closes Saturday, at which time the Judge will have an order issued extending the court to the 1st Saturday in February, 1905.

THE DAMAGE SUIT.

The Grind Goes on.-Interest Unabated.

The damage suit of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum against Alex Hargis, James Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French, alleging that they conspired to bring about the death of her husband, the late J. B. Marcum, is now in the fourth week of trial. All of the defendants have been on the stand each denied any knowledge of a purpose on the part of any one to injure Mr. Marcum in any way. The testimony of Mr. French as reported by those who heard, was picturesque. In combined tragedy, pathos and comedy. If reports be true Mr. French was an interesting witness. A vast number of witnesses are being introduced by the defense. The purpose of the defense appears to be to discredit the testimony of persons who have testified for the plaintiff. From the testimony of witnesses this week it appears that ideal conditions existed in Breathitt county at the time Marcum was assassinated. Much of it is peculiar in view of the fact that everyone except the witnesses had believed that the opposite was true. The following facts are admitted.

1st. That Marcum was assassinated.

2nd. That Curtis Jett and Tom White have been convicted of that crime.

3rd. That each of the defendants in this case did what they could to prevent the conviction of Jett and White.

Marcum Damage Suit.

The Most Interesting Civil Case In The State's History.

Courts Instructions.—Speaking Now Going On.

The testimony in the Marcum damage suit was concluded Saturday morning. The jury was discharged until Monday morning, when instructions were given.

The first speech was made by the Hon. J. Smith Hays for the defense.

It was pronounced by those who heard it to be an able effort. He consumed the day.

The following are the instructions in full as given by the court:

1. If the jury believe from the evidence that the defendants James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French, or any one or more of them, at any time before the death of J. B. Marcum formed or entered in a conspiracy with Curt Jett and Thomas White, or with either of them, to kill J. B. Marcum, and if the jury further believe from evidence that the killing of Marcum by Jett and White was pursuant to such conspiracy and done while such conspiracy existed, the jury should find for the plaintiffs against the defendants, if any, as the jury may believe from the evidence either formed or entered into such conspiracy.

2. Unless the jury believe from the evidence that one or more of the defendants either formed or entered into a conspiracy with Curtis Jett and Thomas White, or with one of them to kill J. B. Marcum and that the killing of Marcum by Jett and White was pursuant to such a conspiracy and done while it existed, the jury should find for all the defendants; and the jury should not find against any defendant unless they believe from the evidence that that defendant either formed or entered into a conspiracy with Curtis Jett and Thomas White, or with one of them, to kill Marcum, and that the killing of Marcum by Jett and White was pursuant to such conspiracy and done while it existed.

3. The jury may find for the plaintiffs against all or against any one or more of the defendants if they believe the evidence warrants them in so doing under the first instruction, or they may find for all or for any one or more of the defendants; and if the jury find against more than one of the defendants the jury may in their discretion assess either several or joint damages against such defendants, but if the jury find against some one or more of the defendants, and find for some one or more of them, the jury should state in their verdict which of the defendants they find for as well as which of them they find against.

4. If the jury find for the plaintiffs against any of the defendants they should fix the damages at such a sum or sums as they believe from the evidence will fairly and reasonably compensate for the destruction of the power of J. B. Marcum to earn money, and the jury may in their discretion, in addition to such compensatory damages allow such further sum or sums as punitive damages as the jury may deem proper, not exceeding in all one hundred thousand dollars, the amount claimed by the plaintiffs in the petition.

5. If the jury believe from the evidence that the defendants or any one or more of them formed or entered into a conspiracy with Curtis Jett and Thomas White, or with either of them, to kill J. B. Marcum the jury are instructed that after the formation of such conspiracy if any, every act and declaration of each of the defendants who the jury may believe from the evidence either formed or entered into such conspiracy, done or made in furtherance of the common design or purpose and before the consumption thereof, became the act or declaration of any one of the defendants done or made before the shooting of Marcum which was not done or made in furtherance of the common design or purpose, and also that any act or declaration done or made after the shooting of Marcum, was the act or declaration of only the defendants, who being at the time a member or members of such conspiracy were present and approved such act or declaration and the jury are instructed that they must not consider any such act or declaration as affecting or as evidence against any other defendant, although the jury may believe from the evidence that the defendant doing such act, or making such declaration, and the defendant or defendants present and approving same were members of such conspiracy as is above defined.

6. The jury are instructed that they cannot and must not consider the reading to them of the indictment for libel read to them as a part of the deposition of W. S. Adams, and in which indictment was copied and alleged statement or affidavit of Mose B. Feltner, nor any other reference to the publication over the signature of J. B. Marcum in the Lexington Morning Herald of November 11, 1902 as proving or even tending to prove the truth of any statement contained in said alleged statement or affidavit of Mose B. Feltner, or as proving or even tending to prove the truth of any statement in said publication in the Lexington Morning Herald, or as proving or even tending to prove what Mose B. Feltner would have stated had he testified in this case.

7. No formal agreement between the parties is necessary to constitute a conspiracy. It is sufficient if the minds of the parties meet understandingly so as to bring about an agreement or mutual understanding to do the act or commit the offense in question and such agreement or understanding need not be manipulated by any formal words. Mere knowledge of acquiescence in, or approval of the act, however, without co-operation or agreement to co-operate is not sufficient to make one a party to conspiracy.

8. Nine jurors can make a valid verdict, but if less than all of the jury agree upon a verdict it must be signed by all who agree to it.

Tuesday morning Mr. A. F. Byrd began his speech for the plaintiff. He spoke for seven hours. The fact that Mr. Byrd has a thorough knowledge of the conditions in Breathitt county made his speech one of more than ordinary interest.

The court room was packed to the limit. A number of ladies were present. His arraignment of the defendants was the most direct and pointed that we have ever heard in a trial.

Expressions from old citizens are to the effect that it was the strongest speech ever made in our court house. At one point in his speech he was applauded by the audience. The court gave a severe reprimand and it was not repeated.

At 9 a. m. yesterday, Mr. J. M. Stevenson for the defense began his address to the jury. Mr. Stevenson is of splendid presence and speaks in a calm and deliberate manner while he does not indulge in flights of oratory his earnest manner and sound logic are effective.

At the conclusion of Mr. Stevenson's argument late in the afternoon court adjourned until 9:00 o'clock this morning. Three more speeches will be made in the following order, B. R. Jouett, for the plaintiff; Louis McQuown, for the defense; and C. J. Bronston, for the plaintiff.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, January 5, 1905

The Verdict.
 $8,000 Against James Hargis and Ed Callahan.
 Nothing Against Alex Hargis and B. F. French.
 The End Not Yet.

At 4:15 p. m. Monday, the jury in the famous Marcum damage suit returned a verdict. Eight thousand dollars against James Hargis and Ed Callahan. Nothing against Alex Hargis and B. F. French.

Following our last report B. R. Jouett spoke to the jury for the plaintiff, Thursday morning.

It is the opinion of many that Mr. Jouett made the most convincing speech of any that were made during the trial. In the afternoon of Thursday. Mr. Louis McQuown began his speech for the defense. He did not conclude until noon Friday. It was the universal opinion that Mr. McQuown made a splendid presentation of the case. At 1 p. m. Friday, Mr. C. J. Bronston began the closing speech for the plaintiff. He finished at noon Saturday.

No such crowds were ever before known to be at the courthouse during a trial. As the end approached the crowds increased. Business was practically suspended. Mr. Bronston sustained the reputation that he has of being one of the ablest lawyers in the State. The jury considered the case all of Saturday afternoon and announced that no agreement had been reached. They were placed in charge of sheriff McCord and detained until Monday. They attended the A. M. service at the Methodist Church Sunday. At night they went to the Presbyterian Church. After the verdict was rendered, the attorneys for both sides stated that the case would be appealed. This indicates that the end is not yet.

No civil suit in the history of the State has created the interest that this one has. J. B. Marcum was assassinated in the Courthouse door at Jackson, Breathitt county, Ky., May 3rd, 1903.

Curtis Jett and Tom White are now under conviction of life imprisonment for firing the shots that killed him. His widow brought suit against James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French for one hundred thousand dollars damages claiming that they had conspired with Curt Jett and Tom White to bring about the death of her husband. The testimony was sensational and developed beyond question that Marcum's life was in danger for many months before he was killed. James Hargis is County Judge of Breathitt county and Ed Callahan is the sheriff. Contempt proceedings will doubtless be entered against one or more of the defendants, charging them with bribery and enticing witnesses for the plaintiff to leave the State. Some sensational testimony was brought out on the trial to that effect.

The Trial.

The conclusion of the trial of the now famous damage suit will be found on the first page. Like all other cases that are tried in the courts, there is a difference of opinion as to what the verdict should have been. There are very few who have heard the evidence that question the justice of the jury in rendering a verdict for the plaintiff. There are some who believe that one or both of the other defendants should have been included in the verdict. It is practically the unanimous opinion that the amount $8,000 against James Hargis and Ed Callahan is a less amount than it should have been. There is in the minds of the people, a detestation of what is openly charged, that some of the defendants used means to prevent witnesses from testifying.

The activity of some of our citizens and one prominent gentleman at least from Montgomery county, is also a subject of remarks.

A verdict has been made and the trial is ended.

We believe that the court was fair in its rulings. We believe also that the jurors to the best of their knowledge and belief according to the evidence, rendered a just verdict, and we accept it without question.

After Felix.

Mr. Felix Feltner, of Leslie county, is wanted by the Clark Circuit Court. During the trial of the Marcum damage suit it was alleged the Mr. Feltner had been paid the sum of $1,500 and the further sum of $1,000 to keep his brother, Mose Feltner, from testifying for the plaintiff. There was evidence tending to show that Mr. Feltner received the money that he is a man who can be relied on, and that he did keep Mose away during the trial. The Court has issued a rule of contempt against Mr. Feltner with an order for his arrest. The papers were sent to the Sheriff of Leslie county. If the steps already taken do not get Felix, others will be taken.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, January 19, 1905.

THE DAMAGE CASE.

Yesterday morning motions by both defendants in the Marcum-Hargis damage suit were taken up. Judge Benton said he had been notified by Byrd & Jouett that plaintiff wished to file additional grounds. Judge J. Smith Hays said that defendants wished to file additional grounds. The court continued the case until nine o'clock Tuesday morning. Byrd & Jouett are assisting in the prosecution at Lexington of William Britton, charged with the murder of James Cockrill and in the prosecution of George Bowling at Mt. Sterling on change of venue from the Harrison Circuit Court, charged with perjury in the Jett-White trial at Cynthiana. This case will be called in the Montgomery Circuit Court to-day. Both the Britton and Bowling cases have important bearing on the Marcum-Hargis case.

Overruled.

Tuesday morning Judge Benton overruled motions for new trials that were by both sides in the Marcum damage suit. Time was given to the third day of the April term for bills of exceptions to be prepared, it is understood that both sides will appeal.

A rule was issued against the Sheriff of Leslie county to answer why he has not arrested Felix Feltner, one of the alleged men who enticed the witnesses for the plaintiff to leave the State and not testify.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, January 26, 1905

For Contempt.

Judge Benton issued rules and orders of arrest against James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Ed Callahan and B. F. French requiring the accused to execute bonds for their appearance in the Circuit Court here on the first day of the next term to answer on the charge of contempt, alleged to have been committed by spiriting and keeping away from the Marcum-Hargis trial Mose Feltner, Sam Fields and other important witnesses for plaintiffs.

There are seven charges in all, one each against James and Alex Hargis, three against Callahan and two against French. French was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Stokely and executed bond--$2,000 in one case and $1,000 in the other.

The other parties are said to be in Breathitt county.

South Carolina's Presumption.

"Mrs. J. B. Marcum, whose husband was assassinated in Breathitt county, Kentucky, a year or so ago, because as prosecuting attorney of the Commonwealth, he had been very active in procuring the punishment of certain murders in that county, brought suit against County Judge James Hargis and sheriff Edward Callahan, of Breathitt county, for $100,000 damages. The jury at Winchester rendered a verdict in the case last Monday, giving Mrs. Marcum $8,000 damages. It is said that Callahan and Hargis will now be indicted for instigating the murder of Marcum. To secure money damages for murder in Kentucky must be regarded as an evidence of progress for that State. The damages awarded are small, but it was hardly to be expected that in a community of murderers any judgement whatever would have been obtained against those charged with the taking of human life."—Charleston (S. C.) Daily News.

There may be some things that South Carolina could call us to account for, but murder is not one of them. It is the State where a Lieutenant Governor, named Tillman, shot down in cold blood, his political adversary on one of the main streets of Columbia, and we have not yet heard of him hanging therefore, we did hear of lots of shenanigans by (what some of the newspapers called) the "better classes," to enable him to prove self-defense against his unarmed victim. Whenever the Daily News can report an $8,000 verdict against the slayer of Editor Gonzales we will admit their right to comment on us, even though they do "use shot-guns to keep niggers from voting" as the other Sought Carolina Tillman testifies. First pick the beam out of your own eye, and your Senator and Lieutenant-Governor out of the seats they occupy, before you go gouging after other people's motes.

Fayette vs. Breathitt

Following the indictments of James Hargis, Alex Hargis, Elbert Hargis, Ed Callahan and Jesse Spicer by the Fayette Grand Jury, an officer was sent to Breathitt county to make the arrests. J. Waller Marshall, chief of the Lexington Bureau of Detectives was the officer sent.

When he arrived he informed the accused of his mission and was told that they were already under arrest and considered themselves under the jurisdiction of the court of a Breathitt magistrate. Sam Jett, a deputy sheriff under Callahan, exhibited a warrant issued by Magistrate J. W. Edwards, Jan. 25, 1905, the same day Marshall arrived for their arrest, and the bailiff was told that the men he was seeking were his prisoners. Marshall later, learned that the records represented that warrants had been issued for Callahan and Alex Hargis December 5, 1904, and for James and Elbert Hargis, Saturday (not Sunday, as reported) Dec. 3, 1904, all the men being admitted to bond on the same day in the sum of $2,000 each.

The records of Justice Edwards' court show that on December 3, 1904, James and Elbert Hargis were arrested on a charge of murder and admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000 each, and E. Callahan and Alex Hargis were arrested and admitted to bail in the same amount, December 3, each of the accused going on the others bond.

The following is the affidavit upon which they are alleged to have been arrested:
Affidavit.

The affiant, Henry Freeman, says that he was in the town of Jackson on the day that James Cockrill was shot and killed, and that while the shooting was going on or about the time said shooting was done, he believes that he saw Elbert Hargis, James Hargis and Ed Callahan and A. H. Hargis in the said court second story of the Courthouse. He says that he did not see any one else in said second story of the Courthouse on that day.
His Henry x Freeman mark

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Henry Freeman, this December, 3, 1904.

Jas. Edwards, J. P. B. C.

A peculiar thing about this affidavit is that it is signed by Freeman whom if his allegations be true could have cleared both Curt Jett and Britton, now under conviction for killing Cockrill. We are inclined to think that Mr. Freeman is mistaken in locating his men. All of the witnesses that have testified about those men have placed Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan on the second floor of Hargis Bros. Store and no one of them said that they saw either Alex or Elbert Hargis on the second floor of the courthouse when the shots were fired.

The magistrate, Edwards, was one of the star witnesses for the defense in the Marcum damage suit.

The whole proceedings in Breathitt county were evidently gotten up for no other purpose than to prevent the accused from being taken to Fayette county.

Judge Parker, of the Fayette court, refused to hear the question of jurisdiction until the accused are brought before him.

Judge J. H. Hazelrigg, Lewis McQuown and J. Smith Hays, representing the accused parties, after a conference with them, went to Frankfort, where on Tuesday they made a motion before the Court of appeals for a stay of proceedings. The Court of Appeals granted a temporary writ of injunction against the Judge of the Fayette Circuit Court. Final hearing of a motion for a permanent writ of prohibition will be had on Friday, February 10th.

Nothing further will be done until the question of jurisdiction is determined by the higher court.

To Our Credit.

The people of Kentucky owe to the citizens of Clark county and to the officers of the county, a debt of gratitude for bringing to light the conditions that have existed in Breathitt county for the several years just past. Curt Jett, who was one of the men who participated in the assassination of James Cockrill and J. B. Marcum, was on his way to leave the State, when he came here. It was well known, to the officers of Breathitt county that he was guilty but instead of prosecuting, they defended him. It was a Clark county man who swore out the warrant for his arrest. It was a Winchester Judge who issued it. It was a Clark county Sheriff who served it. It was our Circuit Judge that held him until a grand jury in Breathitt county indicted him. It was in a Clark court that a jury said in a civil suit that county Judge James Hargis and Sheriff Ed. Callahan were guilty of the murder of J. B. Marcum, by giving his poor widow a verdict for $8,000. It was our Sheriff who brought the witnesses before the court that had been spirited away during the Marcum trial. All honor to Clark county, her honest citizens and faithful officers. A record has been made that history will place to our credit.

Breathitt County.

The More You Hear the Worse It Gets.—Mose Feltner and Sam Fields Now Giving Depositions in this City.—What Next.

The name of Breathitt county is so significant of wrong doing that nothing else is thought of when the name is mentioned and there are certain names that come readily to mind at the name of Breathitt. We will keep our readers informed as best we can of Breathitt's doings.

Following the action of the higher court at Frankfort granting a temporary stay of proceedings against the Breathitt county gentlemen indicted in Fayette county. Col. John R. Allen, attorney for the Fayette court, filed a motion and the Court of Appeals issued an order for James W. Edwards, Magistrate of Breathitt county, to appear before it tomorrow, February 10th, and produce all records, warrants, bonds, memoranda, etc., in the Hargis-Callahan cases. It is the purpose of Col. Allen to show that they are forgeries; that Edwards was in collusion with the Hargises and did not act in good faith. On the rules issued by the Clark court, Sheriff McCord and Deputy Stokely went to Perry county last week and arrested Mose Feltner and Sam Fields. These are two of the witnesses that are alleged to have been spirited away from here during the Marcum damage trial. They were brought before the Court Saturday morning and failing to give bond they were placed in charge of officer Dock Pigg.

Senator Hargis came down from Jackson Saturday afternoon and gave bond in the sum of $2,000 for an appearance. The rule and warrants of arrest for Judge Hargis and Sheriff Ed. Callahan were sent to Jackson. They will be served by Coroner M. C. Bailey. Mr. Bailey executed the bonds and returned them to the Sheriff of this county yesterday. James Hargis, in the sum of $1,000, signed by A. P. Crawford, Steven Cundiff, W. H. Blanton and Jacob E. Lane. Ed. Callahan's bond for $4,000 was signed by the same parties.

For satisfactory reasons, the depositions of Mose Feltner and Sam Fields have been taken; that of Feltner, occupying the day Tuesday, and until late yesterday afternoon. A letter was given to Feltner since he has been a prisoner here in which dire consequences were threatened in case he gave his deposition. He denies being in contempt saying he left the state through fear. Feltner says that he had been employed to kill Marcum and implicates Alex. Hargis, Jim Hargis, Ed Callahan, and B. F. French. He implicates the first three in the killing of Cockrill. His reward for killing Marcum was to be an acquittal on the charge of killing Jesse Fields, who was one of French's lieutenants in the French-Eversole feud or, if convicted, a pardon would be obtained for him. If, on the other hand, he refused to carry out the orders, he would be sentenced and hanged. The deposition of Sam Fields will be taken in connection with that of Feltner. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, February 9, 1905

Governor Implicated.

In the testimony that has been brought out in the Breathitt county investigations more than one witness has testified of statements made to them by Mr. B. F. French, of this city, in which the Governor's name was mentioned.

It was in substance that according to Mr. French there is an understanding between the Governor and certain gentlemen in Breathitt county. A kind of deputy governorship in Breathitt. Mose Feltner in his deposition, referring to an interview with Mr. French in Cincinnati, says French insisted that if Feltner be arrested on any charge from Kentucky he should not return without a requisition. French said that Gov. Beckham had promised not to grant one until after the close of the Marcum damage suit.

If Mr. French correctly represented the Governor, it places him in a very bad light, in view of the fact that the court here, with the case then on trial was doing everything that it could to find Feltner.

Hargises and Callahan.

Testimony on the application for bail by the Hargis brothers and Callahan was begun at Lexington Monday. The court decided that the burden of proof was on the Commonwealth. Mrs. J. B. Marcum, Mose Feltner and a number of other witnesses testified in substance the same as given in former trials.

A. C. Bowman, foreman of the grand jury, that was said to have been “busted up” was a witness. He said Alex Hargis came to the grand jury room during investigation and told him and the other grand jurors that Riley Coldiron must be indicted for perjury. Witness said Alex Hargis was mad and demanded the indictment, claiming that Coldiron had testified to a lie against William Britton.

Witness said that B. F. French, Judge Redwine and Judge Fleener were with Alex Hargis when he came to the grand jury room. Witness said other members of the grand jury told him that unless he dismissed them they would adjourn themselves, and the grand jury broke up in a hurry.

Yesterday morning Anse White, a brother of Tom White, was on the stand. His testimony was new and sensational. It was to the effect that Judge James Hargis had arranged with himself and others to kill Dr. Cox, James, Tom and McKinley Cockrill and attorney Vaughn. This work was to be done in the Courthouse during the trial of Tom Cockrill for bail for killing one of the Hargises.

Testimony for the defense was begun. It is probable that the question will be decided this week.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, March 23, 1905

The trial of Felix Feltner, charged with contempt, was entered into Tuesday morning before the following jury: Jno. M. Wheeler, S. A. Haggard, Robt. Huls, Frank Miller, Joe Rupard, Frank Baber, T. Q. Haggard, Catesby Woodford, Joe C. McClure, James Hornback, W. N. Sewell and R. S. Scobee.

The alleged contempt consisted of enticing witnesses away from the court last December when the trial of Mrs. Marcum against the Hargises and others was in progress. An attempt was made to displace Sheriff McCord. The Judge overruled the motion. The attorneys for Feltner are Cobb, of Richmond, Hays, Stevenson and Ogden, of this city.

Messrs. Crutcher and Jeffries of the commonwealth are assisted by Byrd and Jouett. Feltner was on the stand yesterday. His testimony in his own behalf is not as convincing as would be expected from one who is innocent.

This is a special term of court.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, May 25, 1905

Was It a Fake.

When during the trial last week it was desired to arrest Mose Feltner the warrant was placed in the hands of Jailer Boone in the place of Sheriff McCord, who is not popular with the Breathitt county contingent. Mr. Boone did his duty faithfully and through his deputy sent the prisoner to Leslie county. The warrant charged Feltner with confederating in Leslie county in 1900 and was made returnable to Police Judge B. Steele, of Hyden, Ky.

Yesterday afternoon the following telegram was received from McKinley Cockrill, the deputy having Feltner in charge:

“Hyden, Ky., June 7th.

Police Judge refuses to receive Feltner. What must I do?”

It is the general opinion that the warrant against Feltner was a fake and gotten out for the purpose of influencing the trial then in progress.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, June 8, 1905

The Feltner Case.

The jury in the case of Felix Feltner, charged with contempt returned a verdict of $3,00 fine and two years in jail at hard labor. It is the most severe penalty ever inflicted for contempt of court in the Commonwealth. The contempt charged was spiriting away witnesses for the plaintiff in the damage case of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum against James Hargis, Aleck Hargis, Ed. Callahan and B. F. French for causing the killing of her husband the late J. B. Marcum.

The testimony for the defense of Feltner was weak and while he made a general denial his own testimony did not impress the jury favorably. There is no doubt of Feltner’s guilt but he was no more than the tool of others, and on that account the verdict was less than it otherwise would have been. This verdict will have good effect in the future. It will teach those who would intimidate, bribe or otherwise interfere with witnesses that they must pay the penalty.

The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, June 8, 1905

The Farce.

The Breathitt county farce goes on beautifully. When Sheriff McCord delivered James Hargis, Alex Hargis and B. F. French in Breathitt there was nothing doing. The fact that they are charged with a foul murder, did not affect the distinguished successor of Justice Edwards. The distinguished “alleged prisoners” went about their business as usual.

Yesterday at 11 o’clock Jailer Boone served a summons on sheriff McCord, Ruck Cotingame, Mose Feltner and Mrs. J. B. Marcum to appear at Jackson yesterday, two hours earlier than they were summoned and when it was impossible for them to get there.

They are alleged to be witnesses in the case of the Commonwealth against the gentlemen above referred to. The subpoena is signed by “Breck Combs,” “Justice of the Peace.” Mr. Combs is the gentleman who was appointed by Gov. Beckham on the recommendation of Judge Hargis.

The play will continue under the direction of Manager B. F. French until the people in just indignation say that it must stop.

The Farce Ended.

The Breathitt Farce was concluded Saturday by Magistrate Allen dismissed the warrants against James Hargis, Alex Hargis and B. F. French. The only witnesses examined were Mrs. J. B. Marcum and the defendants. Saturday morning, the third day that Mrs. Marcum had been kept on the stand, County Attorney L. H. Blanton, becoming disgusted with the manner in which, he declared the examination of the Hargises and French on charge of murdering J. B. Marcum was conducted by themselves and Magistrate Allen, arose in his chair and with his form trembling with rage shook his fist in the face of Judge James Hargis and Magistrate Allen and said it was a disgrace to the State and with the words "This court can go to the devil" he left the court room and refused to take further part in the proceedings.

This action of Blanton was taken after the court had refused to prevent James Hargis from trying to force Mrs. Marcum to make answers to questions asked her by Judge Hargis, the answer he wanted, Blanton claims being wholly irrelevant to the point at issue.

The court was dominated by the defendants and did whatever they desired. Sheriff Woodson McCord returned home Saturday morning bringing Mose Feltner with him. Knowing the character of the court, Attorney Blanton tried to have the warrants dismissed, and when Mrs. Marcum was on the point of collapse he plead for a continuance.

French stated that he believed the motion for a continuance was asked for by Blanton in order to allow Mrs. Marcum to leave town and not appear when the case was again called, and he stated that if a postponement was granted and the witnesses were not here Monday, he would ask that an attachment of arrest be issued against Mrs. Marcum. It is to the credit of Aleck Hargis that at this point he arose and repudiated the brutal remarks of French.

Unusual Petition.

Mrs. J. B. Marcum Fears that Mose Feltner will Be Killed and Seeks to Perpetuate His Testimony.

Mrs. Abrelia Marcum, for herself and as guardian for her children, filed a petition in the Circuit Court Monday asking an order for the taking of Mose Feltner's affidavit in her damage suit against the Hargises and Callahan. The petition intimates a fear that Feltner will be killed, or otherwise prevented from testifying when the case is again heard, and asks that the plaintiff be allowed to take his deposition to perpetuate Feltner's testimony. It was filed by Byrd & Jouett, attorneys for Mrs. Marcum. The material allegations are:

"The plaintiffs say that they expect to be parties in an action in this court, or some other court of this State, in which action they will seek to recover a judgement for $100,000 damages against the defendants herein for the murder of James B. Marcum, the husband of plaintiff, Abrelia Marcum, and the father of the infant plaintiffs herein.

"Plaintiffs say that in said action they expect to prove by M. B. Feltner that these defendants herein on diverse occasions and at different times tried to employ him to kill and murder said James B. Marcum and by said Feltner they expect to prove the various plots and plans laid and devised and instigated by these defendants with Tom White and others to assassinate said James B. Marcum.

"They say that said evidence of M. B. Feltner will be true as they believe, and will be material to these plaintiffs in said action and plaintiffs say that they are unable to commence said action at present for the reason that the same has heretofore been tried in this court and resulted in a verdict and judgement against James Hargis and Ed Callahan in favor of these plaintiffs for $8,000, and a verdict and judgement in favor of Alex Hargis and B. F. French dismissing said action as to them. Plaintiffs say that from the first above mentioned judgement the defendants James Hargis and Ed Callahan have appealed, and from the last mentioned judgement these plaintiffs appealed to the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, and said cases are now pending in said Court of Appeals.

Fear For Feltner's Life.

"Plaintiffs say that when said case was called for trial in this court on December 5, 1904, said Feltner was present, but before the case came to trial, and before any witnesses had been introduced, these defendants, as she is informed and charges, by threats made to said Feltner against his life if he testified in said case, and by intimidation of Feltner, by bribes and other means forced and compelled said Feltner to leave trial of said case and go out of this State and remain out of same until after the trial had been concluded, and in this manner prevented these plaintiffs from having the testimony of said Feltner in the trial of said case and prevented said Feltner from testifying in same.

"Wherefore plaintiffs pray that this court make an order authorizing and permitting these plaintiffs to take the deposition of said Feltner as provided by law, and for the purpose of perpetuating his testimony and for preserving same to be used on the trial of said action which these plaintiff expect to commence, and for all further and proper relief."

The petition is sworn to by Mrs. Marcum.

“Deputy Governor.”
Up to the time Mrs. Bailey, the mother of Mose Feltner testified here during the Marcum damage suit, “Deputy governor” was unknown. It has since become current and is now regarded as the best phrase to express conditions that exist in this State. According to Mrs. Bailey, Mr. B. F. French, one of the defendants in the Marcum suit, came to her house in Leslie county and in a conversation told her that Judge James Hargis was a “Deputy Governor.” In fact Mr. French said that he was a “Deputy Governor” himself. It grew out of the proposition to have Mose Feltner pardoned if he would do, or rather not do, certain things in the Marcum suit.
The honor of originating “Deputy Governor” belongs to Mr. French, and there is no sentence so fittingly expresses the relations between the present Governor and some of his friends. Deputy Governor has come to stay as long as the present conditions exist in Kentucky.

B. F. French On Trial.
The Second of the Contempt Cases Growing of the Marcum Damage Case is Now going to the Jury.
Monday morning the special term of the Clark Circuit Court began for the purpose of trying the contempt cases. The case of the Commonwealth vs. Alex Hargis, B. F. French and Ed Callahan was called. The defense filed an affidavit alleging prejudice against them on the part of Judge Benton and Sheriff McCord and asking that Judge Benton vacate the bench and relieve Sheriff McCord and asking that Judge Benton vacate the bench and relieve Sheriff McCord of duty in this trial. Both of which Judge Benton promptly refused to do.
On motions by the defense each defendant was given a separate trial. The defense asked for a continuance because of the silence of certain witnesses. The continuance was refused but attachments without bond were issued for the following: W. H. Blanton, J. J. C. Back, W. D. Back and James Brophy from Breathitt. (these attachments were addressed to the jailer of Breathitt because of Sheriff Callahan’s interest in these trials); and R. O. Davis, D. Y. Combs and S. C. Colwell, of Perry county.
The trial of B. F. French was taken up first. Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning were taken up with the selection of a jury, which was composed as follows: Messrs. Boswell Fox, O. S. Johnson, J. B. Harrison, C. T. Redmon, L. C. Pigg, Thos. F. Bryant, R. E. Fox, L. B. Cockrell, Jas. A. Boone, J. T. Gilkey, G. W. Martin, and Joe Powell, Jr. The prosecution is represented by Commonwealth’s Attorney Ben Crutcher, county Attorney S. R. Jeffries and Byrd & Jouett, the defense by Hon. Tevis Cobb, of Richmond, and Jno. M. Stevenson and Judge Smith Hayes.
Mr. B. R. Jouett stated the case for the prosecution. Moses B. Feltner was called first. He told the same story he has told before in as much as it relates to this case. He related how French with others came to his home in Leslie and offered him acquittal in his case in Breathitt for the killing of Jesse Fields and $1,500 which, he states was to be paid to his little girl in case he was killed, all on condition that he stay away from Marcum damage suit. He agreed, but having cause to believe that they would not carry out their contract in the Breathitt county case, he came to Winchester to the damage case. He stated that French gave him $1,000 in Winchester if he would leave, which he agreed to do, and turned the money over to his cousin, Felix Feltner, for fear French or the Hargises would charge him with getting it unlawfully and arrest him with it on his person. He says that French hired a vehicle in which he and the other missing witnesses and Felix Feltner were driven to Paris where they went to Cincinnati and then traveled around so as to avoid the Clark county officers until they were arrested in Ohio on warrants from Breathitt county and taken to Jackson by way of Mt. Sterling and Indian Fields, thus dodging the Clark county officers. The last move he also credits to French. As he is witness in chief for the prosecution we give this rather full synopsis of his testimony. On cross examination he was not shaken in any essential fact although his memory was not perfect in some of the minor details.
Yesterday Mrs. Bailey was the most interesting witness. She states that French came to see her in Leslie county to get her to urge Moses Feltner not to testify in the Marcum damage case.
W. P. Hampton, cashier of the Winchester Bank and Mr. W. B. Head, cashier of the Jackson bank, were placed on the stand to corroborate the financial transactions as related by Feltner.
It would be obviously unfair to comment on this case while it is being tried, so we have confined ourselves to a mere recital of facts.
Later.—Judge Hargis was placed on the stand but refused to answer most of the questions put to him, but after consultation with his attorney he went back and agreed to answer whereupon the Commonwealth refused to examine him. On cross examination he gave his explanation of the different meetings with Mose Feltner.
The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 7, 1905

French Fined.
Five Thousand Fine Imposed of B. F. French by the Jury Who Decide That he is Guilty. Last Thursday morning B. F. French took the stand and denied in detail the allegations in the charge. He endeavored to explain the circumstances on which the prosecution rested its case. He claimed that the $1,500 note discounted at the Winchester Bank signed by himself, the Hargises and Callahan, was for the purpose of raising money to pay their attorneys in the Marcum damage suit and was signed during that trial at the St.

George Hotel in this city. He claimed that the meeting with the witnesses in Cincinnati was accidental or sought by the witnesses and not desired by himself. He exhibited the check of Felix Feltner which he cashed for Felix on Christmas day, 1904. The check however is dated Dec. 25th, 1905, or one year in advance. Friday the testimony was mainly as to Mose Feltner's character. Sheriff McCord swore that the note executed to Felix Feltner by Judge Hargis was signed with an indelible pencil. Judge J. Smith Hayes and Hon. Jas. F. Winn thought it was signed in ink but they did not appear very positive. Russell Outen came Thursday morning but immediately disappeared. After creating quite a sensation, he turned up Friday morning. His testimony did not have much weight.

Farmer Gilbert, who is serving a life term in the penitentiary from Breathitt county for murder, said Mose had said he would get a swear at French before French did at him. When asked how he said in the contempt case. He had French indicted for contempt, that he was going to break him up and that he was going to break him up and that he had to get rid of French's prosecution in the Jesse Fields case. Feltner denied these statements but said he had talked with Gilbert on the train.

After a few more witness who swore to the bad reputation of Mose Feltner, the defense closed its case.

Judge Benton instructed the jury that if they believed the defendant not guilty they must acquit him but if they found him guilty, then there was no limit in law as to amount of fine or extent of imprisonment.

Mr. Stevenson opened for the defense, followed by County Attorney Jeffries, for the prosecution; then Mr. Tevis Cobb, for the defense. Saturday morning Mr. B. R. Jouett spoke for the prosecution, Judge Hayes for the defense and Commonwealth's Attorney B. A. Crutcher for the prosecution. The jury began its deliberations at 1:45 p.m. and continued until 10p.m. when they returned their verdict of guilty and fixed the punishment at $5,000 fine.

The Hargis Trial.

The case against Judge James Hargis for contempt was called late Monday afternoon. Judge Hargis filed an affidavit alleging that Judge Benton had been his bitter personal enemy for the last five or six years, that they did not speak, that he believed Judge Benton was trying to force the case at this time so as to injure him in his race for re-election as County Judge in Breathitt, and other reasons why he could not get a fair trial and therefore asked Judge Benton to vacate the bench. This Judge Benton declined to do; stating as his reasons that up to the time of the Marcum damage suit Judge Hargis had always been very cordial and if he had stopped speaking it had been for reasons known only to Judge Hargis and if he should vacate for such reason then any litigant by simply stop speaking might swear the judge off the bench; as for the rumored bearing of this case on the Breathitt election, the judge of this court could not be responsible for election lies circulated in Breathitt.

The affidavit also stated that Sheriff McCord was a bitter personal enemy and was keeping and training Mose Feltner to swear against him. On learning that the defendant felt so about him, McCord asked to be excused from service and Mr. A. B. Baldwin was appointed Elisor in his place. Judge Hargis did not ask that McCord be relieved as has been done in the former trials. The jury was selected by noon Tuesday and the statement of the case made by County Attorney Jeffries.

The following compose the jury: C. P. Haggard, Adolphus Cooper, R. D. Ramsey. G. W. Donaldson, Joseph Jones, Sam F. Moore, Taylor Ecton, M. S. Miller, John H. Thompson, W. L. Bush, T. E. Barnes and J. T. McCormick.

The defendant is represented by Attorneys John M. Stevenson, J. Smith Hays, J. J. C. Bach, B. F. French and F. H. Haggard; while Commonwealth's Attorney Crutcher, County Attorney Jeffries and B. R. Jouett represent the Commonwealth.

The first witness called by the Commonwealth was Edward Callahan. He declined to answer most of the questions on the ground on incriminating himself.

B. F. French was the next witness. His testimony was the same as on former trials. Both he and the next witness, Felix Feltner, spent their time telling about the meetings in Leslie and Jackson to arrange for Mose Feltner's leaving the country before the damage suit and both make Judge Hargis the chief negotiator. They also gave different explanations of the 1,500 note. Mose Feltner was called next. He told of the meetings with Judge Hargis and on cross examination went over the record of his past life; how he was a fugitive in the Indian Territory from Breathitt county justice, how he served a short term in the federal prison for conspiring to assault how he had "moonshined," all of which had no bearing on the case except as to his credibility.

Yesterday Mr. Witherspoon and Mr. Hampton were placed on the stand to explain the financial transactions between Judge Hargis and the Feltners. Mr. Joe Head, of the Jackson Deposit Bank was also called but was absent. An attachment was issued for him.

The prosecution rested its case here under an agreement that they might introduce Head later on.

Judge Hargis was placed on the stand first by the defense. He told his version of the Leslie county meeting which is that he understood, don't know how, that Mose was going to sweat a lot of lies against him in the Marcum trial and he went there to arrange with him not to do so. Endeavored to scare him by threats of "rapid prosecution" in the Fields trial if he came to Winchester and swore falsely against him, he said he loaned Felix Feltner $1,500, he don't remember for what, maybe to go into business.

At the conclusion of the testimony for the defense a motion was made for peremptory instructions that is being argued. It is claimed by the attorneys for Judge Hargis that the offense of trying to prevent Mose Feltner from testifying in the Marcum damage suit was committed in Leslie county and not within the jurisdiction of this court. The jury was excused until 9 o'clock this morning.

Tell the Truth.

The grand jury of Breathitt county adjourned without returning indictments against any of those suspected of assassinations in that county. A trick was played on the foreman of the grand jury, Mr. A. C. Bowman. He signed what he supposed was a bond and this is what he signed:

"After a thorough investigation the grand jury failed to indict, the testimony in their opinion not being sufficient, this prosecution is therefore dismissed.—A. C. Bowman, Foreman.

Mr. Bowman states that the above is untrue, and that there was sufficient evidence to indict James Hargis, Ed. Callahan, B. F. French and others.

Sues Hargis and Callahan.

Miss S. M. Templeman, of Richmond, official stenographer of the 25th Judicial District has brought suit against James Hargis and Ed. Callahan.

On Feb. 4th, 1905, she was directed by the Clark Circuit Clerk on the motion of defendants James Hargis and Ed. Callahan to make a transcript in the suit of Marcum vs. Hargis. This she did; the transcript amounting to $1,993 on which the charges are $797.20 and a carbon copy of same for $159.44. On the execution Sheriff McCord returned no property found. Hence the suit. She garnishes the Winchester Bank and the Jackson Deposit Bank for money alleged on deposit in those institutions. Hon Tevis Cobb, of Richmond, is her attorney. Mr. Cobb was the attorney of Judge Hargis in the proceedings against him for contempt in this county.

Cases affirmed

When the big damage suit of Mrs. Marcum against the Hargises and others for one hundred thousand dollars damages for the killing of her husband was in progress. Mose Feltner and other important witnesses for Mrs. Marcum, were spirited away and went to Ohio where they remained until after the trial. It is alleged that B.F. French, of this city, and Felix Feltner, of Leslie county, were instrumental in this work. They were tried in the Circuit court of this county, and French was fined five thousand dollars for contempt of court, while Feltner was fined three thousand dollars and given two years in jail at hard labor for the same offense. An appeal was taken to the Court of appeals and this body, on Wednesday, affirmed the action of the Circuit court. About half of the fines will go to the Commonwealth's Attorney, Ben Crutcher, a large percent of the remainder to the County Attorney, Sam Jeffries, while the Circuit Clerk, Taylor Fox, will get a smaller portion, and what remains will go to the State. In affirming the case, the court says: "The judgement must be treated as conclusive of that question, but while this court cannot retry the question of contempt or no contempt, still it has, in our opinion, power to revise and correct illegal sentences or excessive or cruel punishments. The court says the verdict is not excessive in the light of the testimony before the court, and there is nothing in the record to indicate passion or prejudice on the part of the jury."

The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, June 20, 1907

	Damage verdict confirmed  The court of appeals on Friday affirmed the judgement in the damage case of Hargis vs. Marcum. Judge Hobson wrote the opinion from which Judges Nunn and Lassing dissent, the latter filing a dissenting opinion. This action was brought by Mrs. Abrelia Marcum and her infant children to recover for the death of her husband, James B. Marcum, against James Hargis, Alex Hargis, B.F. French and Edward Callahan under Section 4 of the Kentucky statutes on the ground that they had caused him to be shot and killed three years ago in Jackson, Ky. A verdict of $8,000 was found against James Hargis and Callahan, who appealed on the chief ground of the refusal of Judge J.M. Benton to vacate the bench upon the filing of an affidavit alleging that the defendants could not secure a fair trial owing to his personal hostility toward James Hargis. The suit was for $100,000 damages. In its opinion the court says: It will be observed that the affidavit states in facts showing grounds of objection to the regular trial judge except on the part of James Hargis, and while it is stated in the affidavit that the judge is personally hostile to James Hargis, no facts are stated evidencing such hostility on the part of the judge. The affidavit does not show that the judge said or did anything that would make it improper for him to preside in a case in which James Hargis was interested. "On the whole record we are satisfied that the defendants had a fair trial on the merits of their case. To reverse a judgment in a trial of the magnitude of this where there is no error in the record because the first judge refused to vacate the bench on such an affidavit would, it seems to us not be promotive of the administration of justice." In the dissenting opinion by Judge Lassing it is contended that Judge Benton should have vacated the bench as being disqualified to give the defendants a fair trial.  The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, July 4, 1907 Hargis trial not yet really begun  In the last issue we announced that the famous case had been called. In the beginning, Attorney Byrd, of this city, and Commonwealth's Attorney Waugh began an effort to postpone or get a change of venue. The judge decided venue could not be again changed and announced that he would exhaust the power of the commonwealth to bring the witnesses to the trial and accordingly the subpoenas began to be issued. On Monday, Attorney Byrd moved the court to dismiss the entire jury panel, which was done. The chances now are that a venire will have to be summoned from an adjoining county. In politics, Elliott county is overwhelmingly Democratic. In 1894, the Democratic vote was 1,143. Republican 594. In other words, the county is 62 1/3 percent Democratic. When one remembers that 66 2/3 percent is two-thirds of anything, it will be seen that the probabilities are that the jury will consist of 8 Democrats and 4 Republicans. In the elections of 1903, the Democrats were more than two to one Republican.  The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, July 18, 1907 Hargis acquitted  The Commonwealth Attorney withdrew from the Hargis case at Sandy Hook, stating that he could not convict in the absence of important witnesses. Several of these witnesses could not be found and others were sick in bed.  The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, July 25, 1907 A check for Mrs. Marcum  (From the Courier Journal)  Jim Hargis has sent his check for $5,600 to Mrs. James B. Marcum. This is "on account" He owes her $2,400 additional to discharge the debt which a jury in a civil case said he owed her for the pleasure he go out of the procurement of her husband's murder. The fun was not to be had altogether with out expense, you see. The doughty Judge of Breathitt county just had to have it, even if it cost him a little money. The payment on account calls attention once again to the anomalous situation Hargis holds. When tried on the criminal charge of procuring the death of Mr. Marcum, Hargis, _____curious manipulations of the law and the apparent connivance of certain public officials in high places, went acquit. The courts were made ridiculous. Despite the powerful evidence against Hargis he went free. It was a scandal and a disgrace – but wasn't he Jim Hargis? According to criminal courts, guiltless as a babe and immune from punishment, the widow of his victim, nevertheless, obtained in a civil proceeding damages for the crime which the criminal courts said he did not commit. Hargis thus escapes the noose and a prison cell, but he is compelled to put up some cash for his frolic. As a matter of expediency, he is permitted to go free, although he must pay Mrs. Marcum for the loss of her husband. He is both innocent and guilty, concurrently and simultaneously. In this we are treated to a delectable paradox. Also to one of the most disgusting demonstrations of political corruption and legal knavery a civilized people ever submitted to. Marimon, J. D.	The recent cold weather has caused many of the oldest inhabitants to put on their studying caps and conjure up recollections of the previous hard winters. Some interesting data of this sort are furnished by the Harrodsburg Sayings, which says: "The winter of 1779 and 1780, known as the hard winter began the middle of November and continued until the middle of February, without a single day being warm enough for the snow to melt in the least. Many cattle froze to death, and numbers of buffaloes, bears and deer, wolves, beavers and otter also perished from the severity of the weather. Wild animals, almost famished, were known to come up to the cabins with the tame cattle in search of food. The scarcity of food was so great that it is said a single jonny cake would be divided into a dozen parts, each recipient making his part serve for two meals. Quantities of wild turkeys were caught in pens during this early part of winter and stored away, and on these and buffalo meat they had to depend for food before spring opened. Early in the spring some of the men from Harrodsburg went to the Falls of the Ohio, now Louisville where they paid $60, continental money for a bushel of corn. The coldest day was in January and dominated cold Friday. It was so intensely cold that water thrown up into the air would fall in solid ice to the ground. Alexander Robertson, his wife and three little daughters were among a company of emigrants from Virginia in the year 1779. Robertson, who was the first Sheriff of Mercer county, settled four miles from Harrodsburg, where Burgin now is, and lived there until his death in 1802. His widow who survived him forty-four years, dying when ninety-two years of age in speaking of the cold year, said that her frozen breath often made the hairs on her head stand out as so many icicles, and that the mildest day during the winter was to her feelings, the coldest she ever felt before or since in any other winter. The warmest winter that has been enjoyed by the people of Kentucky was that of 1825 and 1826. 'The beautiful snow' was not seen and mother earth was carpeted in green. There was no ice of any thickness and the ground was never frozen. The winter of 1836 was remarkably mild but not quite so balmy as was the winter ten years before. For these facts we are indebted to Mr. J. D. Marimon, deceased and Rev. S. S. Deering, now a resident of Nicholasville. The third warmest winter on record was that of 1889 and 1890. Grass was green during the entire winter and in February peach trees were in bloom and many flowers in the yards. But on March 1 a cold spell set in that lasted ten days and ice two or three inches thick was formed. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 10, 1899

Marrs, John W.		A Maniac's Deed At Lexington, Saturday morning, John W. Marrs killed his little son, severely wounded his daughter and sister, and wound up the job by killing himself. He was a prominent businessman, a member of the big clothing firm of Kauffman-Wilson Company, and stood high in the estimation of everybody. When the family arose for breakfast his wife and sister went downstairs leaving him, his fifteen year-old daughter and son, five years old, in the room together. A servant took a pitcher of warm water up to the room but came back terrified at the look on Mr. Marrs' face. His wife and sister, Miss Ida Marrs, went at once upstairs, but heard a couple of pistol shots before they got there and Mrs. Marrs fainted. Miss Ida Marrs forced herself into the room when her brother struck her on the head and as she fell he fired at her. When she recovered consciousness she found that her brother had put a bullet into the brain of the sleeping boy and had also cut his throat. He had fired at his daughter Helen, the ball striking near the base of the skull and ranging downward. She will recover. As a last act, the desperate man had cut his own head nearly off with a razor. Miss Ida Marrs was not badly hurt. She is a well-known teacher in the Lexington public schools and has frequently visited here. Mr. Marrs had been in the asylum before and had lately given evidence of mental trouble, but no one expected his desperate purpose. His wife was Miss Emma Davis and is prostrated. Marshall, Claude K.	Horrible wreck Engine blown from track on C & O Railroad near Colby station FOUR MEN MEET DEATH Three men were instantly killed and another so badly injured that he died while on the way to the hospital at Lexington as a result of a wreck on the C & O road near Colby Station, about five miles from this city at 12:15 Tuesday. The dead are: George Harp, engineer, Lexington; Fred Runyon, fireman, Olive Hill; Claude K. Marshall, fireman, Lexington; George Berry, brakeman, Mt. Savage. The train, a heavy freight, was run as a double header, and was running at the rate of twenty miles and hour, when the boiler of the front engine, No. 232, was blown up and turned in the opposite direction from which it was traveling. The force of the explosion was so great that it shook houses some distance from the wreck, and blew heavy parts of the machinery into adjoining fields, 100 yards away. The cause of the disaster is not known yet, but it is said that the engine had not been in working order for several weeks, and that the injector was not in proper working order. The pony trucks and front drive wheels of the second engine were derailed, but the engineer and fireman escaped injury. The word was at once telephoned to this city, and Drs Shirley, McKinley, Browne and Combs & Combs were immediately sent to the scene, besides a number of people from town drove out. When they arrived Engineer Geo. W. Harp, Fireman Claude Marshall and Brakeman George Berry were dead. Fireman Runyon was placed on a passenger train which backed to Winchester and left over the L & E road with Runyon for the hospital at Lexington. Runyon died on the way. Engineer Harp was blown up in the air, and fell in time for the pony trucks of the somersaulting engine to rest across his horribly torn body, and it was late in the evening before he could be removed. Fireman Claude K. Marshall was found under the debris between the two engines. Brakeman Berry had his body so badly torn that his remains were picked up in a basket. Runyon was found a little distance from the wreck mangled and badly bruised. All the bodies were sent to Lexington that night. The disaster, while not as great from the standpoint of loss as some which have occurred, was the most horrible one that has occurred in this section in years. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, February 7, 1907  Big damage suit A suit asking for damages in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars was filed Wednesday against the C & O road by T.B. Marshall as administrator of C.K. Marshall, deceased. Marshall was engineer on the train, the engine of which blew up last February, near Colby, this county, and the petition states the accident was due to the carelessness of the road and its officials. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 17, 1908  Damage cases on trial The consolidated case of Eva D. Harp, Admx., and T.B. Marshall, Admr, and Josephine Runion, Admx., against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, are on trial in the Federal court at Frankfort. The suits are for $25,000 damages each for the loss of the lives of George Harp, C.K. Marshall and Charles Runion who were killed in a railroad accident near Colby, this county, a few years ago. Scott and Hamilton are conducting the cases for the plaintiffs and John T. Shelby for the defendants. The Winchester Democrat Friday, October 8, 1909

Marshall, Ed. C.	Died—Hon. Ed. C. Marshall died at San Francisco, Cal., a few days ago. He was one of the most brilliant men that ever left Kentucky, and was a brother of the noted Thomas F. Marshall, once United States Senator. In 1875 Mr. Marshall made the race from Ashland district for Congress against Hon. J. S. C. Blackburn and after being defeated, moved to California, where he was elected Attorney-General for the State. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, July 26, 1893

Marshall, Hugh	An Awful Crime Miss Zoda Vick, the sixteen year old daughter of a prosperous farmer living near Russellville, was murdered Wednesday, after making an unsuccessful fight against a would-be criminal assailant. The stores were closed and hundreds of men with

	bloodhounds turned out to hunt the criminal. Peculiar foot prints fastened suspicion on a neighbor, Hugh Marshall, a _____man, who was missing. After several days he was found hanging to a rafter in an old barn. He had evidently committed suicide. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Aug. 26, 1902 LITTLE ZODA VICK. Whole Male Population Turned Out to Hunt For Her Murderer. Russellville, Ky., Aug. 21.-Zelda, the 15-year old daughter of C. M. Vick, a prominent farmer of this county, was murdered Wednesday afternoon in sight of her father's house. She had been sent to the spring for milk for dinner and failing to return search was instituted. About 4 o'clock the body with head crushed was found in a fence corner partly covered with leaves. One hundred men with bloodhounds have gone to the scene of the murder and if the guilty person is caught a lynching will follow. The Vick home is about five miles from town, near asphalt mines. Russellville, Ky., Aug. 22.-The murder of pretty little Zoda Vick Wednesday continues to be the absorbing topic. The business houses were all closed Thursday and the whole male population turned out to aid in the hunt for the murderer. A reward of $500 has been offered by the county judge for his capture, and Gov. Beckham has offered an additional reward of $500, making a total of $1,000. Never in the history of the county were the citizens so wrought up. The murder of Miss Vick is the most brutal in Logan county's annals of crime. Hugh Marshall, a former employee of the Vick family, is supposed to have been connected with the murder. On searching Marshall's house he was not to be found and had sent his family to a near-by neighbor. Upon investigation a pair of trousers spattered with blood was found and an attempt had been made to cut out the spots with scissors. Marshall is still at large. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, August 27, 1902.
Marshall, Humphrey	Humphrey Marshall Perhaps no man was more intimately connected with the earlier history of this State than the elder Humphrey Marshall. Born in 1760, he was in the full strength of manhood when Kentucky first took her place in the galaxy of States. He possessed many of the attributes of the late Marshalls, and had he been endowed with more flexible opinions and less physical and moral courage, he would have been more popular. But with a very high order of intelligence and with a physical and moral courage not surpassed in those days, he unfortunately saw things in an unpopular light, and the flattering promises of a most distinguished career were never more wholly fulfilled. His public acts, notably his vote while in the national Senate to ratify the Joy treaty, his intense Federalism, and especially his public and oft repeated attacks on the Christian religion, tended to render him the best hated man in Kentucky. His bitter and sarcastic tongue involved him in many personal conflicts in one of which he shot and severely wounded Henry Clay. Humphrey Marshall has been dead more than fifty years, and looking at his actions from this distance, we can see much to admire in the sturdy integrity and tremendous weight of popular opinion. The material from which to construct this biography have been very scanty, much of it was from the files of hostile newspapers of the day and more from the writings of contemporaries who were seldom prone to say things in his favor. The book was written by Anderson Quisenberry, late of this county, and shows great care in its preparation. Aside from its biographical value, it gives history. It is written in simple, captivating style so familiar to his friends here. It is published from the office of our neighbor, The Sun, and typographically it is a beauty; the paper is of fine quality, the printing clear, and altogether it is a work of which they may well be proud. The book should be in the library of every lover of Kentucky and her great men. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 26, 1893

Marshall, John	ENDED IN A TRAGEDY The Second Chapter in the Marshall Elopement Scandal at Nicholasville. Nicholasville, Ky., Aug. 15.-Chapter II: in the Marshall elopement scandal proved a tragedy. John Marshall, a prominent and wealthy farmer was shot and almost instantly killed by J. E. Higgs, who runs a grocery on South Main Street. The trouble dates back to the time Mrs. Marshall, wife of the dead man, startled her friends by eloping with F. Milton Van Avery, alias E. T. Cainan, to whom she was married at Jeffersonville. Higgs participation in the affair was accomplished in a rather innocent way. Mrs. Marshall according to a statement made by Higgs, sent a note to Van Avery by J. E. Higgs. Of this fact someone informed Mr. Marshall, whereupon he became enraged, soundly abusing Higgs. During the stormy session which occurred at Higgs' place of business Marshall who charged him with being the intermediary through which his wife's affections were alienated. Higgs says Marshall also attempted to shoot his son during the interview. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 20, 1901.

	THE HIGGS BROTHERS. The Judge Finds That They Were Justified in the Killing of John Marshall. Nicholasville, Ky., Aug. 22.-After hearing the testimony in the case of the Commonwealth vs. John and James Higgs, charged with the murder of John Marshall, on Wednesday of last week. Judge Philips, before whom the case was heard, decided John Higgs had a right to shoot Marshall after he (Marshall) had attempted to shoot his brother Jim and while Marshall and Jim were struggling for the possession of Marshall's revolver. Both the Higgs were consequently acquitted. Seven witnesses were examined by the prosecution and five by the defense. The evidence showed Marshall premeditated an attack on the Higgs', alleging they had carried notes from his wife to young Cainan, alias Van Avery. Cainan and Mrs. Marshall were recently arrested together in Louisville. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 27, 1901.

Marshall, Thomas Francis	On Tuesday, Representative Field of Woodford, introduced a bill in the House providing for transferring the remains of the noted orator and statesman. Thomas Francis Marshall, to the cemetery at this place. The Committee on Ways and Means yesterday reported the bill favorably, and it was advanced. The remains now lie buried in the yard of the old Marshall homestead in Woodford county and are marked only by common tombstones. The act proposed by Mr. Field is one due to the memory of the distinguished man who did so much to enhance Kentucky's fame as the home of orators and statesmen.—Frankfort Capital The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 21, 1894 BENCH AND BAR Garrett Davis and Thomas F. Marshall. By Hon. James Flanagan One of the most brilliant political races ever made in Kentucky was that between Garrett Davis and Thomas F. Marshall for a seat in Congress from the famous Ashland district. Mr. Davis was born in 1801, Mr. Marshall in 1800. The contest occurred in the year 1845; which was the year following the defeat of Mr. Clay by Mr. Polk for President. The Whig party survived the defeat of their great leader, who continued to serve his country as a Senator in Congress, until death freed his gallant spirit. Mr. Davis ran as the Whig candidate and Mr. Marshall as an Independent candidate. Mr. Davis had served three consecutive terms, as a Representative in Congress and was running for the fourth term. Mr. Marshall had represented the district one term in Congress. Both champions were in their prime, thorough masters of debate and accurately posted upon the political issues of the day. The meetings between them on the rostrum were marked with courtesy and fairness: neither transcended the proper limits of debate, for each of them possessed superb courage and recognized that important fact. These debates were regarded by competent judges as the most intellectual and spirited that had ever occurred in Kentucky up to that time, save the memorable debates between Mr. Clay and Mr. Pope in 1816. Mr. Clay winning the contest by a meager majority. It is not in the purview of this sketch to comment upon the now dead issues involved in those contests. Time has relegated them to oblivion and there let them rest. It is only the purpose of the writer to call more particularly the attention of those persons who have since come upon the stage of action to the fact that Kentucky had intellectual giants in those days, and none were more so than the distinguished men of whom this article treats. They have left their imperishable impress for ability and statesmanship upon the era in which they were political gladiators and antagonists. The friends of each were enthusiastic and large crowds attended the meetings where they addressed the people. It would be superfluous to write in detail of the great oratorical powers of Mr. Marshall. No man of his day, save Mr. Clay, attracted greater crowds to hear him speak. He lacked Mr. Clay's Greek fire, voice, manner and personal magnetism, but in wit he excelled the great Commoner though in no other attribute. Mr. Clay's voice and eye gave him a magical power and as was said of actor Kemble. "There was a melody in every tone that would charm the towering eagle in her flight and tame a hungry lion" and it can be truthfully said of him that all the gods were present at his christening. Mr. Marshall was not only a rhetorician but a logician as

		well. His wit and jest was infinite and his fancy was so abundant “That he scattered his gems almost as lavishly as nature scatters her garden seeds,” but with all of his gifts there was something lacking in his makeup that at times caused him to appear erratic. Tread lightly upon his ashes ye men of genius for he was your brother. But to return, Mr. Davis won the race by a handsome majority, his own county (Bourbon) giving him double her usual Whig majority. Mr. Davis after serving his fourth term in Congress, voluntarily retired, temporarily, from political life to give attention to his private and professional business. At this time his law practice became extensive and lucrative. He was elected to represent Bourbon county in the Constitutional Convention which met in 1849. The reported debates attest the fact that he displayed marked intellectuality in the proceedings of that convention and was undoubtedly the peer of any member of that memorable body. It is unnecessary to refer to the questions discussed in that Convention as this work which seemed to be intended to last for all time, has been superceded by that unique organism the product of the Convention of 1890. Mr. Davis after a lapse of twelve years was elected in 1861 to succeed John C. Breckenridge in the United States Senate and was reelected as his own successor in 1807. He served nearly twelve years in the Senate which with his eight years in the House, made in all nearly twenty years of arduous and faithful service in Congress. His service in the House demonstrated great aptitude and ability. As Chairman of the Committee on Territories, when Iowa was admitted into the Union, he made a report that was favorable to the admission of the new State, that showed his statesmanship and grasp of such questions. Congress adopted his report and Iowa was given statehood. Iowa honored Mr. Davis by naming one of her first counties “Davis.” Mr. Davis entered the Senate when the civil war had begun between the adhering and seceding States, by which bloody arbitrament the whole country was convulsed. His service in the Senate did not close until peace was declared and the resultant restored Union, which it is said to be hoped may endure forever. Mr. Davis’ career in the Senate was during the most trying period of the country’s existence and the role he filled was exacting and difficult, but he was always equal to the emergencies that arose from time to time. His long public life was never marred by his failure to discharge his duty and to do it with fidelity to the State, which had so highly honored him. Once upon a time a philosopher, who was seen digging in the corner of a fence and on being interrogated as to what he was doing answered that he was trying to find a man. Now if Mr. Davis had been present he would have been spared the search. His manly apology to his colleague, Mr. Powell on the floor of the Senate chamber, should alone entitle his memory to be honored by his native State, in placing his statue in Memorial Hall of the Capital at Washington. His chief characteristics were honesty truth and courage. He was a thorough lawyer and advocate as well as a profound statesman. He represented the State of Kentucky in the Supreme Court of the United States, in the celebrated case between Kentucky and Missouri involving the ownership of Island 10 in the Mississippi river. Kentucky won the case. Mr. Davis’ argument was pronounced by a member of the court to have been the ablest made before that court during his service of twelve years as a justice thereof. His brief in that case is a marvel of research and industry and a monument to his acumen as a jurist. He was a forcible eloquent speaker and possessed rare talents and attainments as was said of him by one of his eulogists, Mr. Sumner, “Amid the perturbations of the times, he trod his way with independent step and won even from opponents the palm of character.” He died at his home in Paris, Kentucky, on the 22nd of September, 1872. Martin, Henry	Drowned in Stoner

	Henry Martin, an umbrella fixer, who was known in this city was drowned in Stoner Creek Friday. His clothing was found on the bank and, on investigation, his body was found. His former home was in Pennsylvania. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 20, 1909 A millionaire's son The body of Henry Martin, the umbrella mender who was drowned Friday in Stoner, was interred in the Paris cemetery Monday with services at the grave by Eld. Carey E. Morgan. Through the efforts of coroner Davis, of Bourbon county, it has been ascertained that the real name of Martin was Harry Hobbs, his father being John Hobbs, a retired millionaire residing at Dorchester, Mass. Mr. Hobbs was informed of the death of his son and ordered the body buried in Paris and full particulars of his death sent to him. Young Martin was quite well known throughout Central Kentucky where he piled his vocation, that of mending umbrellas. His roving disposition and wayward life was due, it is said to the disappointment of an early love affair when a college student in the East and his whereabouts for many years were unknown to his family. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 23, 1909
Martin, Henry	Lexington – Henry Martin, a clerk of the Rock Creek Baptist church in Whitley county, was killed in the structure, according to dispatches received here. He was shot in the back as the result of a business dispute, it is said. The church is the one in which Rev. Isaac Vanever and Rev. Isaac Perry recently fought during an ecclesiastical trial, Vanever being killed. The Winchester Democrat Friday, August 12, 1910

Martin, Mrs. _____		Several Deaths From Typhoid Fever at Athens A representative of The Democrat was this week in the vicinity of Athens and finds typhoid fever almost epidemic there. In the little village of a few hundred people and in the vicinity about thirty-five cases are on hand and several deaths have occurred. Miss Thomson, of Madison county, came over on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Martin, took the disease and died. Mrs. Martin was stricken also and has since died. Woodson Owen, formerly of this city, has five severe cases in his family. The village is full of hog pens, as nearly every family keeps those animals and during the recent hot and dry weather they naturally became very offensive. Many attribute the prevalence of the disease to this fact. Others think the supply of drinking water is the reason. The State Board of Health has been asked to send a representative to investigate the matter. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 6, 1895

Martin, Mrs. Martha McQuinn	Found In Pond The body of Mrs. Martha Martin was found Monday night in a pond at Lexington. About $200, which she was known to have had a short time before was gone. The Coroner's jury decided that she died from violence but not by drowning. James W. Bess, a well known contractor, was arrested for the crime. The Winchester Democrat Fri., March 13, 1903  On Trial For Murder Lexington, Ky., March 28 James W. Bess, the accused murderer of Mrs. Martha Martin, was placed on trial Friday morning. The entire day was consumed in the selection of a jury. Bess entered a plea of not guilty to the charge. The Winchester Democrat Fri., April 3, 1903

	The Death Penalty Wednesday, the jury in the case found contractor James Bess guilty of the murder of Mrs. Martin and fixed his punishment at death. The Governor also on the same day fixed May 15th as the day for the hanging of Wm. McCarty for the murder of his wife. Four murderers are now in Lexington jail under sentence of death. The Winchester Democrat Fri., April 3, 1903 Sentenced To Death Lexington, Ky., April 11 James W. Bess, the stone contractor, who killed Mrs. Martha Martin here March 4, was Friday morning presented before Judge Parker, who fixed the date for his execution on Friday, June 12. Bess was smiling and smoking a cigar. He declared himself to be innocent. Just previous to the passing of the sentence, Judge Parker overruled Bess motion for a new trial. Bess' attorney gave notice of an appeal. The Winchester Democrat Fri., April 17, 1903 Stay Of Execution. The Case of J. W. Bess Will Be Appealed to the Court of Appeals. Lexington, Ky., June 18.—James W. Bess, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Martha Martin here two months ago, was to have been hanged Friday under sentence of the court before who he was tried. However, his attorneys obtained a stay of execution by appeal in the court of appeals and argument for a new trial will be heard in September. The body of Mrs. Martha Martin was found in a pond in the suburbs. She had been strangled to death. Bess was accused, tried and convicted. The theory of the prosecution was that he killed her to obtain $225 which she had concealed in her stocking and which was missed when the body was found. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 19, 1903 The Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of the Fayette Circuit Court in the case of J. W. Bess sentenced to be hung for the murder of Mrs. Martha McQuinn Martin. The Sun-Sentinel Thur., Nov. 3, 1904 Bess Hanged.-Once Lived Here. James W. Bess, the twice convicted murderer of Mrs. Martha McQuinn Martin, was hanged in the jail yard at 1 o'clock at Lexington Friday. This was one of the most atrocious murders ever committed in the State. Bess attempted to hide his crime by sinking the body of the woman in a pond and making away with her effects. Mrs. Martin, with her husband and Bess and his family, lived as neighbors. When her husband died the widow sought Bess' advice regarding the collection of certain insurance policies carried by her husband. Mrs. Martin's house was burned and Bess applied to the fire insurance agent for the collection of policies covering insurance on the furnishings. A portion of the money had been paid when it was discovered by the agent that the furniture had been removed from the house the night prior to the fire. Mrs. Martin had come into possession of about $5,000 in cash. Before committing the murder Bess hired a buggy from a livery stable and took the woman out driving making it a point to go to several places here they would be seen and recognized. He then took her back to his room, where he took her life. After killing the woman he wrapped her up in some old bed quilts and carrying her out the back way he dumped the lifeless form of the woman into the buggy and getting into the seat beside it, drove to the Seventh street pond, which is near where they made their home when their illicit love began. Bess busied himself the following day in disposing of and hiding the effects of the woman. But murder will out. Three days later the body was discovered. Bess was only suspicioned at first, but later developments proved conclusively that he was the murderer. Some thirteen years ago Bess lived here for a short time. From here he went to Bourbon county and later to Lexington. He leaves a wife and five children. The maiden name of his wife was Dodson. She had a brother who lived here for several years. Martin, Oscar	Stricken Students. Two Deaths From Typhoid Fever at the Kentucky University and Many More Are Ill. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 18.—Nearly 40 students of the Kentucky university have typhoid fever, and it has become necessary for the faculty to take decided steps toward checking it. The students have been sent to the Good Samaritan Hospital, but since there is no more room at that institution it has become necessary to care for them at their boardinghouses. Oscar Martin, aged 34, single, a Bible student, died Monday, and Monday night his remains were sent to Plantersville, Ala., in charge of his parents. A week ago another Bible student, J. R. Ford, of Butler, Mo., died. The cause was at first attributed to the water, but now some members of the faculty believe it was due to milk from cows fed on distillery slop. President Cave says that the epidemic has been checked and there is no further cause for alarm, and that every one of the patients is now rapidly improving. The dormitory building is quite old and some believe that the fever germs are in the walls of the building, although it is kept as clean and is as well preserved as it is possible to have it. This is the hundredth session of this famous school which was the first established in the west. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 17, 1899

Martin, Samuel Davis	Dr. Samuel Davis Martin one of the oldest, and in his day most useful citizens of Central Kentucky died at his home in this county last Saturday night between 12 and 1 o'clock. He was born where he died on the 17th day of January 1791, and consequently was in the 91st year of his age. Kentucky, when he came into the world, was a county of Virginia, and after the new Commonwealth was created, this was a part of the county of Fayette. And thus it was that Dr. Martin, although never resident beyond the present bounds of Clark, yet lived in two states and two counties of this State. He was the son of Maj. John Martin, a revolutionary soldier, who came to Kentucky in 1781 from Albemarle County, Virginia. His mother was Elizabeth Lewis, who was an aunt of Lewis, of Lewis &amp; Clark's expedition. His father had eight children, six of whom were son's viz.; Thomas, George, James, John L., Robert and the Doctor. His sisters were Mary, who married Gen. Dick Taylor, of Frankfort, and Eliza the wife of N. P. Taylor, of St. Louis. The Doctor graduated from the Medical Department of the Transylvania University, and it is said rode from home whilst a student there, when there were no fences between his house and Lexington, and never missed a lecture. At the age of 18 he joined the Methodist Church, and ever afterwards led a consistent, pious, Godly life. His membership was always at Ebenezer, and no man during his day took more interest in the prosperity and welfare of his church. With the exception of a few years spent in Winchester, the Doctor passed his life on the farm where he died. His practice was very large so long as he was able to meet its requirements, and extended throughout and beyond the bounds of the county. The poor never called on him in vain, and he did an immense amount of work for charity's sake. Up to a very short time before his death, he continued to go to see some of his sick neighbors, who were anxious to have the benefit of his wisdom and experience. He took such interest in Agricultural matters, and in 1839, together with Hubbard &amp; J. P. Taylor, imported a lot of shorthorn cattle. They were Beauty by Laurel (2181), Jesse by Pienipo (4724); Leonida by Red Simon (2499), Sprightly by Fitz Reslyn (2026), and the calf, Rosalie by Cadet (1770). Shortly after this he began to gather the materials for an American herd book and did much valuable work in preserving pedigrees, but the cares of his profession prevented its completion. The Doctor took much interest in meteorology and for more than forty

years sent reports to the department at Washington. He contributed frequently to the medical journals, and was a close observer and good talker. When 21 years of age, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Jonathan Taylor, of this county. They had 14 children, eleven of whom lived to maturity. His wife has been dead about 17 years, and was a model woman. His funeral was preached Sunday afternoon by Rev. S. S. Pentz at his late home. It is strange to think that one who lived here after Kentucky was a state should have been among us only a few days ago. Few men have lived better or more useful lives than Dr. Martin. Always temperate and industrious just in his dealings with his fellows and peaceably inclined, he had the warmest affection of his family and the most unbounded confidence of all who knew him. The Doctor was never an aspirant for popular honors, but “High worth is elevated place; ‘tis more;

It makes the past stand candidate for thee;
Makes more than monarch, makes an honest man;
The no exchequer it commands, ‘tis wealth;
And tho’ it wears no ribbon, ‘tis renown;
Renown that would not quit thee, the’ disgraced;
Nor leave thee pendant on a Master’s smile.”

Resolutions on the death of Dr. S.D. Martin
Winchester, Ky., May 14th, 1881

To the Clark County Medical Society:

Your committee appointed by called meeting, May 14th, 1881, to prepare resolutions expressive of the great loss sustained by this society in the death of Dr. S.D. Martin, respectfully report the following, viz. Whereas, Dr. Samuel Davis Martin, the oldest physician in Clark County, and the first President of the Clark County Medical Society, having departed this life, on the 7th inst., at his home in Clark County, Ky., in the 91st year of his age, and said society sorrowfully appreciate the loss of its most venerable members, Therefore be it. Resolved, That in the death of Dr. Martin we have lost a good friend, a faithful and true adviser, a member we all loved and were proud of. Resolved, That where high Christian and moral character were above reproach. Nearly 70 years of his life were devoted to the arduous duties of the profession. He regularly kept pace with the advance of the science. Resolved, That Dr. Martin’s life presents a noble example worthy of our imitation. Resolved, That we extend our sympathies to the bereaved family, and that we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days. Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Clark County Democrat and Winchester Sun. – H. Taylor, E.M. Combs, S.W. Willis and James Sympton, Committee

Suit on an Old Bond.

In the Lexington Circuit Court Thursday, a suit was filed by Judge B. F. Beckner, administrator of the estate of S. D. Martin, which is sensational in its reading and means much to the L. and N. railroad system. The suit is to foreclose a mortgage on all the roadbeds, franchises, engines, cars, right of ways, stations, tanks, and all property belonging to the L. & N. Railroad, the L. C. and L. Railroad, the Lexington and Frankfort Railroad.

This bond is one of a large number of similar bonds issued by the companies for the construction of the short line division between La Grange and Cincinnati. They were issued in 1807 and became due in January, 1897. The L. and N. road this week made arrangements for twelve and one half million dollars from August Belmont and associates of New York, and this suit was brought it is said, simply to place the litigants in a proper legal position.

Stanley Prewitt, N. T. Taylor and Frank H. Jackson, trustees of Ebenezer Methodist Church, are also made defendants to the suit.

The bond was given by Mr. Martin, who resided in this county, to the trustees of the Church, the interest to be applied to the payment of the salary of the pastor of the Church so long as services were regularly held in the Church. The petition alleges that services are no longer held regularly at Ebenezer, that the trustees have moved away and that the trust has lapsed.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 15, 1898

A Unique Case.

A case that is now pending in the Fayette Circuit Court, has some unique phases. It was argued Tuesday by Judge B. F. Buckner for the estate, D. L. Pendleton for the Church and Col. R. A. Thornton for the Railroad.

In 1881 Samuel D. Martin died and by his will a bond for $1,000 of the Short Line railroad was left to Ebenezer Presbyterian Church near Pine Grove. The interest was to be used by the church as long as regular services were kept up there. About two years ago suit was brought for the recovery of the bond and interest on the same from the L. & N. railroad which had absorbed the Short Line. The grounds of the suit against the church was that the provisions of the legacy had not been complied with, in that regular services are no longer held at the church. After argument the case was submitted and Judge Parker has the matter under advisement.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 16, 1900

The Church Won

In the case of the administrator of Dr. S. D. Martin (Judge Buckner attorney) vs. the L. & N. Railway Company, (Col. Thornton attorney) and the Ebenezer Church (Mr.

	Pendleton attorney) a decision in favor of the defendants was rendered. The plaintiff sought to recover an L. and N. bond for $1,000, the income from which Dr. Martin had bequeathed to the church for siding in supporting a pastor as long as there should be regular preaching at the church. The defendant maintained that preaching had been irregular, there being none during the winter months and only certain Sundays during other months. The church claimed that the same order of regularity is now in effect as during the life of Dr. Martin. Judge Parker decided in favor of the church and ordered the bond placed in the hands of a trustee. Lexington Herald The Winchester Democrat Fri., June 15, 1900 An Old Suit Revived Master Commissioner George C. Webb asked the court for instructions as to whether or not he should give in for taxation the proceeds of the sale of an L. and N. Railroad bond which he held in his hands. Many years ago a Dr. Martin, of Clark County, left by will a $1,000 first mortgage bond of the L. and N. Railroad to the trustees of the church at Pine Grove, known as Ebenezer Church, the interest on which should be used by the church as long as divine services were celebrated there. For several years no trustees were elected, and Judge B. F. Buckner, having himself appointed as administrator of the estate of Dr. Martin, a relative, brought suit to secure the bond on the ground that the church was no longer in existence. But since that decision the church has still neglected to elect trustees authorizes to take charge of the property. In the meantime, the railroad company, having no interest in the case, reported that the bond was due and paid into court the money for its redemption. This money is in the hands of the Master Commissioner, and it was concerning the assessment of this money that he asked instructions from the court. The court ruled that the money should be listed by the trustees.-Lex. Herald The Winchester Democrat Fri., Nov. 23, 1900

Mason, Chas. L.		A dispatch from New Mexico says C. L. Mason, formerly of Mount Sterling, was shot and instantly killed by J. R. Hiller Saturday. Hiller charged that during his absence, Mason had been unduly intimate with his wife and ordered him to leave. Upon Mason's refusal Hiller shot him. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 27, 1891  Dr. Chas. L. Mason, who was killed in New Mexico, and an account of whose death appeared in our last issue, was a son of J. N. Mason, editor of the Mt. Sterling Advocate and a nephew of Mrs. Henry Judy, of this county. Private advices say the story of the killing in the daily papers was not correct, but the murderer, Hiller, was a drunken desperado who had abandoned his wife, and that jealousy which inspired the act was without foundation. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 3, 1891  HILER, the murderer of Dr. C. L. Mason of Kingston, N.M. was convicted of murder in the second degree. He was under bond for horse stealing and had no testimony against his victim. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 1, 1891.

Mason, Danny Wayne		Danny Wayne Mason, 68, of Winchester, passed away Monday, Jan. 20, 2014, at his residence. Born Feb. 10, 1945, Danny lived most of his life in the Baldwin area of Madison County. He enjoyed the outdoors, especially being able to hunt and fish on the surrounding farms in the Baldwin community with friends and family. Most endearing to Danny was his family and the love he had for each of them. His kindness and compassion will be forever remembered by all who knew him. Danny was a man of great faith and love for the Lord. He was a member of the Mt. Tabor Baptist Church. He loved to sing and listen to the old gospel songs that he grew up hearing while attending church. He was preceded in death by his parents, Malcolm and Dorothy Jones; and Daniel Mason. Mr. Mason is survived by his wife, Gladys Woods Mason; a daughter, Shannyn (Robert) Mason Johnsen, Berea; his sisters: Carolyn (John) Revel, Richmond, Barbara M. (Darrell) Thomas, Richmond and Betty M. Adams, Richmond; a brother, David M. (Kay) Jones, Richmond; his grandchildren, Bridget (Will) Johnsen Rodgers, Michael (Kristen) B. Johnsen, Bailee E. Mason, Garfield	AA	Boy Killed.  Dock Rome Shoots Garfield Mason Yesterday.  Both Colored and Both Under 15 Years of Age.  Yesterday morning Garfield Mason, aged fifteen years, was shot and killed by Dock Rome, aged twelve. Both boys are colored, the victim being the son of Joe Mason and the murderer the son of Dave Rome. The instrument of death was a Bulldog revolver, thirty-eight caliber.  The killing occurred near the C. &amp; O. trestle where several boys were congregated. Some of the usual badinage among boys was passed when suddenly Rome drew his pistol and fired at Mason who was only a few feet distant. The ball struck the latter near the base of the brain shattering the skull and inflicting a wound from which he died in about an hour. The murderer escaped for the time but was subsequently brought in by his father and delivered to the officers. The murder appears to have been entirely unprovoked and the youthful murderer seems wholly unconscious of the enormity of his crime, and really enjoys his prominence.  The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 24, 1898 Hold Over.  Dock Rome, the colored boy who murdered Garfield Mason Thursday, was brought before Judge Evans the next day for examination. Barefoot and in knee pants, the youthful murderer looked even smaller than his twelve years would warrant. He has shown no remorse but seems wholly unconcerned in regard to the enormity of the crime and its consequences. He waived examination and was remanded to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.  Coroner Wills Thursday afternoon impaneled a jury as follows: J. A. Ramsey, I. D. Gravitt, E. G. Baxter, J. L. Whittington, John C. Allan, W. B. Kidd, who returned a verdict that the shooting was done with murderous intent and without provocation. The burial of the victim Friday was attended by a large crowd. Notwithstanding the extreme youth of the murderer, he is considered one of the worst boys in the city and has frequently been before the police court.  The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 28, 1898 Attorney Cliff H. Bush made his debut before a criminal court as attorney for the little negro boy, Oliver Rome, indicted for the murder of another little negro, Garfield Mason. Mr. Bush handled his case with the skill of a veteran, but with his characteristic modesty refused to address the jury. Either through consideration for this favor or on account of some lingering degree of doubt as to the degree of the prisoner's guilt, they gave him only a year in jail, instead of a hanging or a term in the penitentiary. Mason, John C.		A special from Stanton of the 28 th , has the following in which the plaintiffs are closely

	related to the families of Capt. Hathaway, Capt. Wheeler and others. John C. Mason, mentioned herein, was formerly Congressman from this district, and Capt. Wheeler was at one time engaged in the iron business in the section referred to. "One of the largest land suits ever brought in the Powell County Circuit was filed here today, styled R. A. Mason, Lizzie F. Mason, of Texas; Chess O. Mason and George Mason of Bath county, Ky., children and heirs of the John C. Mason, who died in Texas in 1865, against J. R. Hardwick, John W. Williams, John A. Rose, Green H. Hall and O. V. Forkner, of Powell county, for the possession of 3000 acres of land, lying near Stanton, and $10,000 damages. The land sued for was sold for taxes by the sheriff of Powell county in 1877, and was knocked off to the parties named for $39 and in lawful time afterward the purchasers received a deed for the same from the Sheriff; since which time they have had undisputed possession of, and have sold off several tracts to other parties who have greatly improved the lands. The heirs were then minors, but now have become of age and set up their claim. They are descendants of a prominent family. Mr. R. A. Mason is at this time the United States Marshal of the State of Texas. His father, John C. Mason, was once a prominent Kentuckian, and owned a large tract of land in this section of the State, but had sold off the greater part of it before and since his removal to Texas, and after his death in 1865 the unsold lands here were narrow strips of several miles in length, mainly on the mountain range on each side of Red river, covered with timber, but was neglected and unnoticed until the development of this part of the State by the building of the Kentucky Union railroad and the erection of many saw mills and other industries. Two of the defendants to the suit, John A. Rose and O. V. Forkner, died a few years ago, and the several children have been made party defendants. Judge B. F. Day, of Mt. Sterling and the Hon. John D. Atkinson, of this place filed the petition and of course, there will be a hard fought battle on both sides, and the bringing of this action creates quite a sensation." The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 1, 1894

Mason, Low	AA	Fatal Shooting At one o'clock Sunday morning, Policeman John Ballard shot and killed Low Mason, colored. The shooting occurred at a restaurant in what is known as "Buck." The following is the verdict of the Coroner's jury: June 24, 1907 – We the jury, viewed the remains and found the dead body to be that of Low Mason, and his death was caused from three pistol shots passing through his body, in the hands of John Ballard, Deputy Police of Winchester, Clark County, Ky. We the jury, believe from the evidence in the case that it was necessary homicide and we exonerate him from all blame. Signed, J.A. Trumbo, John Seal, John D. King, Warren Elkin, Orra Todd, J.F. McDonald, I. Brinegar, Coroner. There was a row in the restaurant to which Mason was a party. The policeman was near the scene, and when he attempted to make the arrest, Mason seized his club and refused to submit. When ordered to remove his hand from his pocket, he refused and it is said a pistol was in his hand. At this point, fearing a repetition of what occurred when Chief Tarpy was killed, Ballard fired, killing Mason instantly. Four of five shots were fired by the policeman. Ballard believed that an attack was being made on him by others. Bev. Morris was slightly wounded and Bob Mack was grazed by a bullet. Public sentiment is in accord with the verdict of the jury. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, June 27, 1907

Massie, James	AA	A Fatal Accident Thursday a number of colored men went on a fishing trip to Stoner Creek. As they were returning that evening the horse attached to a wagon, in which a number were riding took fright and ran away. As the wagon made the turn from the mouth of the Pretty Run pike into the Paris pike, a wheel broke down and the vehicle was overturned. James Massie, a barber of this city, was crushed about the body and so badly injured that he died in a few minutes. Gano Turner was crushed in the chest and had his collar bone broken. His injuries are very serious and may prove fatal. Jim Gay had an arm broken; Hub Murray had two ribs broken and Will Allen, one. Masters, Harden	Fayette-Wade Soper, some years ago landlord in Nicholasville, killed Harden Masters, and went to the penitentiary for three years, spending all of his $10,000 on the trials. His sweetheart was true to him in all these trials and after recruiting his fortune in the far West he returned, and was to have married her in Lexington. She met him, but discovered whisky on his breath, and although he had the license, she broke of the match. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 9-11-1889
Masters, Joe	A Dispatch from Richmond on Thursday says: “A double tragedy occurred in the eastern portion of this county, at a place called Posey Ridge, on yesterday. A gentleman was passing the house of one Joe Masters when, glancing in at the door he discovered Masters and his wife both lying on the floor. On investigation it was found that both had been poisoned, and the clothes and body of Mrs. Masters were cut in several places with a razor, which was found near her. Mrs. Masters was a bride of only three months, having come from Boone county. The crime is attributed to the husband, who is well known in this county and related to prominent people in this city, being a cousin of Senator Phil Roberts. The deed was probably due to a misunderstanding between the two in regard to money matters.” The Democrat, Wednesday, June 4, 1890 The Semi-Weekly Sun 6-4-1890
Masters, John G.	Nicholasville, Ky., - John G. Masters, retired merchant for 30 years, passed away, aged 80 years. He was known at all fishing places in Florida, and every year he fished with the celebrities at Rock Castle Springs, in the Cumberland river.

Mathis, Allen	AA Quickest On Record At Mayfield Allen Mathis, a negro who assaulted Ethel McClain was tried, convicted and hung in fifty minutes. He had been taken to Louisville to prevent lynching and two companies of Militia were on hand to protect him. Several attempts were made to mob him when he arrived on the train and twice he was seized by the mob and was rescued by the soldiers. A curious fact was that the gallows was erected before the trial under the directions of the Sheriff. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Aug. 3, 1906  Died by Law's edict. Sheriff tied the knot that strangled the Mayfield negro.

	Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 1 – Allen Mathis, the negro who assaulted Miss Ethel McClain last Wednesday night, suffered death on the scaffold for his crime, in the presence of 10,000 infuriated people. Mathis was not lynched in the usual acceptance of the term, but after being found guilty by a jury, was legally hanged by a deputy sheriff on the gallows erected by the mob, in expectation of taking the negro from the troops and lynching him. There was intense excitement and several minor clashes with the troops during which Dr. Rozzell, a prominent physician, had a bayonet run through his side and was very seriously hurt. This helped to incense the crowd and they rushed to the jail yard and literally tore down the enclosure from around the gallows. The negro was brought into the courthouse at precisely 7 o'clock, strongly guarded by the troops. There was no rush for him, as the better counsel of the townspeople prevailed. It was decided that he should be tried and hanged instantly if guilty. The jury was picked and ready in their seats when the negro was brought in. The testimony was produced and without leaving their seats the jury pronounced the verdict which carried with it the death penalty. The Winchester Democrat Friday August 3, 1906

According to the Mason County Sheriff's Office, 67-year-old Joseph Mathis and 62-year-old Donna Mathis, of Winchester, were pronounced dead at the scene near the May's Lick Cemetery in May's Lick. Mason County Sheriff Patrick Boggs told the Maysville Ledger Independent that the accident occurred around 4:15 p.m. Sunday when two pickup trucks were traveling north on U.S. 68. When a Chevrolet pickup truck slowed to turn into the cemetery, the following Ford pickup truck tried to pass and clipped the slowing truck. The Chevrolet was turned into the southbound lane and struck the Mathis' Nissan, Boggs told the newspaper. The driver and passenger from the Chevrolet were both taken to the hospital. No injuries were reported from those in the Ford truck, Boggs said. The Mathises were members of Central Baptist Church in Winchester. Funeral arrangements for the couple are being handled by Rolan Taylor Funeral Home, but have not been announced. The Winchester Sun June 25, 2013

Maury, Joe		Dr. Maury Drowned During a storm at sea recently, Dr. Joe Maury was drowned. He was on his way to the United States from British Honduras in a small vessel loaded with sugar. Of nine men on board seven were drowned, among them Dr. Maury. He was a nephew of Dr. Geo. O. Graves, of this city, and was a highly cultured young physician. He was also an expert mechanic and railroad engineer. He possessed unusual intelligence, but was of a roving disposition and rarely staid long in one place. He lived here for a while and made many friends. The Winchester Democrat Fri., April 7, 1899

Maxie, John	AA	Bullets of a mob

	Avenge crime of fractious negro who wounds white man mortally  Lynchers storm the prison  Prisoner taken from jailer and hung near the State house – body of victim a target for score of marksmen  Frankfort, Ky., June 3 – Roused to fury by the fatal shooting of a white man by a negro, a masked mob of 75 men Wednesday night stormed the Frankfort (Ky.) jail on Curtis street here, dragged out the negro, who earlier had narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of men of his own race, hanged him to the bridge between North and South Frankfort and riddled his body with bullets. The negro's name was John Maxie, and he was a laborer in Howe's show, which gave a performance here Wednesday night. The lynching was the result of the fatal wounding by Maxie of Bert C. Bower, of Wichita, Kan., superintendent of the laborers with the show, after the performance. When the canvassmen were taking down the tents Bower saw the negro ripping the canvas of one of the tents and ordered him to desist. The negro thereupon turned on Bower and showed fight. When Bower advanced he drew a revolver and shot the white man in the abdomen. Bower, who was mortally wounded, was cared for by his brother and wife, who are attached to the show. He is an Elk, a member of Valdost (Ga.) lodge, that city originally being his home. After midnight a quiet fell upon the town and the streets were deserted. At about 1:30 Thursday morning the mob, which had formed on the outskirts of the town, appeared in the central part of the city, all wearing masks and headed for the jail, which is on St. Clair street, in the center of the city. Arriving at the prison they spent no time in parley, but promptly took the prisoner from Jailer J.W. Bridges. They threw a rope around the negro's neck and headed for the bridge over the Kentucky river, which unites the North and South portions of the town. A beam under an electric light which throws its beams on the state house windows was selected and the negro asked if he had anything to say. While the rope was being adjusted to the beam the negro pleaded frantically with his executioners, saying: "Please mister white men, won't you give a poor negro a chance. I didn't intend to shoot him." The wretch's pleadings were unavailing, however, for hardly had he uttered the first sentence when the crack of a revolver rang out and in a flash a fusillade of shots was poured into his body. Lusty arms pulled at the rope and a moment later the riddled body was dangling high over the crowd a target for a score of marksmen.  The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, June 8, 1909

May, Ruben	Ruben May's Body Found In Kentucky River A body found floating in the Kentucky river two miles below Boonesboro Sunday was identified as Ruben May, 61, of Langley. The body was found about 4:30 p.m. Sunday by Harvey Roberts of Paris, and Berkley Russell, Lexington. The men were in a boat about 1 ¼ miles downstream from the mouth of Lower. Howard's Creek. The body had become caught on a snag in the water and was floating on the water when found, the men said. Coroner James W. Bean said the body was identified by a social security card found on it. May, a painter, was formerly employed by Snowden and Estes here. Bean said the body had been in the water for about five months and was in an advanced state of decomposition. May's survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Cameron Williams, Winchester, and a son, Robert May, Detroit, Michigan. Mrs. Williams said her father had left here in December to go to Florida. She said she had received no word from him since then. He apparently drowned shortly after announcing his intentions of going to Florida. Coroner Bean listed the cause of death as an accidental drowning. THE WINCHESTER SUN, MON. 5/26/58

Mayer, Joan Bowman Pursley		Joan Bowman Pursley Mayer, 88, died February 12, 2022. Joan was born in Lexington, KY on June 6, 1933 to the late Wiliam Fauntleroy Pursley. Joan attended Winchester High School where she was a member of the debate team. After high school Joan attended Bradford Jr. College in Massachusetts where she was elected president of her freshman class. She then continued her education graduating from Northwestern University in Chicago, IL. After her marriage to Marine Corp Lt. Gerald S. Mayer, she and her husband were stationed for two years at NATO Headquarters in Naples, Italy. They returned to their farm in Clark County to restore Joan's 1790 ancestral home, where she lived out her life. Horses were an important part of Joan's life; she began riding ponies at two years old. Joan's parents were integral members of the Iroquois Hunt. Joan's father, Fauntleroy, served as Master of Fox Hounds for 42 years. His wife Charlotte was Field Master for thirty-seven years.  Joan followed as Master and enjoyed hunting with Iroquois into her late seventies, Joan also enjoyed other hobbies such as swimming, running, biking, yoga, painting, acting, and taking daily walks over the farm with her dogs. In her later years, Joan researched her parents' lengthy genealogies dating from 1806. She used her research to publish the book "Of Family and Place, a Narrative History." It contains many stories of the life of her parents and those who came before them. Her Bowman ancestors were instrumental in the founding of both Transylvania College and the University of Kentucky. Previously, her uncle John Bowman, Col. Of the Kentucky Militia, had led his troops to break in Indian Siege of Fort Boonesborough. Joan was especially happy to live in the family home at Nursery Place, where her father, grandmother, and great grandmother in 1810. Joan was a member of First Families of Kentucky and First Families of Clark County, The National Society of Colonial Dames of America, and the Iroquois Hunt Club.  She and her parents are among the founding members of the St. Hubert Episcopal Church in Clark County, which she faithfully attended. Joan was predeceased by her

	sister Betty Pursley Gess. Joan is survived by two sons: John Fauntleroy Prusley Mayer (Martie) and Mark deWael Mayer (Carlisle). She leaves six grandchildren: Griffin Fauntleroy Mayer (Jennifer), Walter Haggin Mayer (Alice), William deWael Mayer, Samuel Pearce Mayer (Ann), Solomon Van Meter Mayer, and Charlotte Bowman Mayer. Three great grandchildren: Bowman Fauntleroy Mayer, Mary Grace Mayer, and Sarah Carlisle Mayer. She is also survived by her brother-in-law Bill Guess, nephew Bush Guess (Edie), niece Diane Alverson (Bill), a great niece, five great nephews, and many close friends. Joan will be at rest in her family cemetery near her home at Nursery Place. Mayfield, Vera Leah Meade	 Vera Leah Meade Mayfield, 60, died at 5 p.m. Monday, Nov. 16, 2015, at the Clark Regional Medical Center under the care of Hospice East of Winchester, Kentucky. She was born March 31, 1955, in Williamson, West Virginia, to Rufus Meade Jr. and the late Mary Thompson Meade. She was married to Danny Hatfield briefly and then to Robert L. Mayfield for 23 years before divorcing. Vera did not have children of her own, but loved and cared for her step children, Mike and Jenny Mayfield when they were young. Vera was a long-time resident of Winchester, living most of her years along Old Boonesboro Road near the old Providence Elementary School. She loved the beauty and peacefulness of the country and her numerous cats had room to roam during those years. She was a graduate of Belfry High School in the class of 1973. She started her working career with the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government, then on to Arizona with the GSA Corporation briefly before settling at Kaiser-Taulbee Associates Engineering Company as Financial/Human Resources Manager for 20 years in Lexington, Kentucky. In Vera's younger years, she was the church pianist at Grace Baptist Temple in Williamson, West Virginia. She loved to cook and canned vegetables from her garden. Flowers were another passion of hers which included many plants from her grandmother's garden. She was very talented in fiber arts and created beautiful crewel embroidery and cross stitch pieces. She greatly enjoyed visiting Florida beaches with family during late summer. Classic films were loved by Vera as well. "Gone with the Wind" and "It's a Wonderful Life" were two of her movie favorites. Vera is survived by her sister, Theresa Meade Raker (Nubbie, as Vera called her) and brother-in-law, Keith, of Lexington, North Carolina. She was preceded in death by her beloved grandfather, Jay Boyd Thompson, whom she called Pa or Jay Fred Mugs; and grandparents, Rufus Sr. (Papaw) and Elizabeth Moore Meade (Granny). A private ceremony was requested by Vera. Her sister wishes to thank all of those who cared for Vera and were a friend to her during her life. Care Cremation of Lexington, Kentucky is appreciated for making the final preparations. The Winchester Sun November 29, 2015

Mays, _____	An old jail Grant county's old log jail which recently burned at Williamstown, was built in 1821 at a cost of $220. It was used for thirty-five years, and no prisoner ever escaped from it. Four persons were taken out of it to be hanged. Two white men, Mays and Crouch, were hanged by a mob. Two negroes were hanged legally. One of them, Sam, was accused of having murdered his master's wife. He protested his innocence. Before being hung the negro again declared that he was not guilty and told those present that lightning would strike the two white oak trees in attestation of his innocence. Lightning did strike the trees, and on his deathbed the former master of the negro confessed that he had killed his wife and charged the crime to the negro, who was entirely innocent, as he had claimed to be says the Williamstown Courier. McAtee, John	A GREWSOME COINCIDENCE. John McAtee the Last of a Quartette to Commit Suicide. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Julia Long, the mother of John McAtee, the Kansas City southern clerk who is reported to have committed suicide in Kansas City Sunday because of an accusation of attempted robbery, rejects the story of theft as the motive.

	She says John McAtee is an only son and could have had financial assistance had he asked for it. A grewsome coincidence comes to light in connection with the death of McAtee. When he was a young man he was intimate with three other well known young men-Irvin Gillis, Dudley Reynolds and Will Coker. Each of these men has since died by his own hand and McAtee is the last of the quartette to take his life. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 14, 1902.

McCann, James P.	Decision Affirmed A decision was handed down in the Supreme Court of Missouri Wednesday, affirming the decision of the lower court in finding "Lord" Seymour Barrington guilty of having murdered James P. McCann two years ago, and fixing the date of his execution as March 15th, next. McCann formerly lived in Fayette county not far from the Clark line. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Feb. 6, 1906 Widow Of McCann When "Lord" Barrington Killed, Lost Her Life At Frisco Lexington, Ky., May 2 Information was received here that Mrs. Jennie McCann, widow of the late "Jim" McCann, who was killed near St. Louis several years ago, had met death in the San Francisco earthquake. "Lord" F. Seymour Barrington is now under sentence of death for the murder of McCann. If Barrington is given a new trial, and it is shown that the widow of the murdered man is dead, it is not believed the prosecution will again be able to convict the alleged bogus lord. McCann was a native of this city, while his wife was a Miss Jessie Calloway, of Owensboro, Ky. The estate left by McCann has never been settled, as there has been a mystery regarding about $6,000 which it is known that he possessed at the time of his death. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 4, 1906 Remarkable Coincidence Will Be The Hanging Of Barrington And Piersall On Same Day. Lexington, Ky., June 4 A peculiar coincidence in connection with the hanging of "Lord" Seymour Barrington, scheduled in St. Louis for July 26, is the fact that about the same date James Piersall, a negro jockey, will meet a like fate in the county jail here. Piersall's father, Gabe Piersall, was a body servant of Jim McCann, for whose murder Barrington is to pay the extreme penalty, and the young negro was named for his father's master. Many years ago the elder Piersall was discovered in the act of slaying McCann's father and mother while both of the intended victims were asleep, but Mrs. McCann awoke in time to drive away the negro, who had an ax raised ready to strike them. For that crime he was run out of the country. The report that McCann had been seen in Ireland and other places, recently is denied by the relatives here, who claim that the bogus lord is trying every means to escape the gallows. Shortly after the discovery of the body near St. Louis B. T. Hume, brother-in-law of McCann, went to St. Louis, where he identified it. The Winchester Democrat Fri., June 8, 1906

		Another stay of execution granted St. Louis, Mo., - Because of the illness of Attorney Wilfred Jones, counsel for "Lord" Frederick Barrington convicted of the murder of James P. McCann, of Lexington, Ky., and under sentence of death, another stay of execution has been granted. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, November 6, 1906 Identity Of Jas. McCann denied – Claims that he is alive at Des Moines, Iowa Some years ago James P. McCann, of Fayette county, and a prominent horseman, disappeared at St. Louis. A few days afterward a body was found in an old stone quarry and was identified as that of McCann, his relatives from Lexington having no doubt as to his identity. Seymour Barrington, who claimed to be a member of the British nobility, was the last man seen with him and when Barrington returned he had with him some of McCann's personal effects. Barrington was arrested and charged with the murder and after a most sensational trial, in which the representative of the British Government took a lively interest. Barrington was given life sentence which he is now serving in the Missouri penitentiary. Recently Mrs. Laura Gates, a woman detective, who was well acquainted with McCann, claims that she has identified him in the person, who under the name of J.C. Maybray, is in jail at Des Moines, Iowa, charged with a number of big swindles on wealthy persons in various places by means of faked horse races. Maybray says there is nothing in it. That he was born in Mississippi and lived for years in Omaha where many people know him. McCann's relatives in Fayette county scout the idea that McCann is living and say that the dead body in the St. Louis quarry was fully identified as his. He spends most of his time reading the Bible and says he is prepared to die, but fully expects to have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment. The death watch will be set over him the first of the coming week. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 15, 1903 Cheated The Gallows Wm. McCarty, the wife murderer of Lexington was to have been hanged Friday morning, but by some means he obtained poison, probably morphine and strychnine which he took some time after midnight. Notwithstanding the efforts of the physicians he died shortly after the time set for his hanging, eight o'clock. Where he got the poison is a mystery, and how he kept it concealed is another, as the jailer had him stripped and his clothing was thoroughly searched a few hours previously. He was also required to stay outside his cell under the vigilant eyes of a watchman who sat beside him. It is charged he had a capsule concealed in his ear while being searched. It is murder in the second degree to furnish the means of committing suicide and strenuous efforts will be made to detect the one who gave it to him. The Winchester Democrat Tue., May 19, 1903

McChesney, F. L.	Veteran journalist dead Hon. F.L. McChesney, aged eighty years, one of the best known educators and newspaper men in the State, died at his home in Paris Tuesday of heart failure. "Mr. McChesney was a prominent figure in public life, having been County Superintendent of Schools one term, and was a candidate for re-election. He was a native of Georgetown, D.C., where he was born in 1829. He was in the newspaper business in Louisville on the Louisville Courier, under George D. Prentice, and in 1858-59 he was sent to Washington as resident correspondent for that paper. During the Constitutional Convention that framed the present Constitution he was head proof reader of the official proceedings. He was prominently identified with the Democratic party in all its campaigns and was always in demand as a speaker. Despite his advanced age, he never wore glasses and could detect typographical errors in print at a glance." The Winchester Democrat Friday, October 8, 1909

McClain, Ethel	Died by Law's edict. Sheriff tied the knot that strangled the Mayfield negro. Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 1 – Allen Mathis, the negro who assaulted Miss Ethel McClain last Wednesday night, suffered death on the scaffold for his crime, in the presence of 10,000 infuriated people. Mathis was not lynched in the usual acceptance of the term, but after being found guilty by a jury, was legally hanged by a deputy sheriff on the gallows erected by the mob, in expectation of taking the negro from the troops and lynching him. There was intense excitement and several minor clashes with the troops during which Dr. Rozzell, a prominent physician, had a bayonet run through his side and was very seriously hurt. This helped to incense the crowd and they rushed to the jail yard and literally tore down the enclosure from around the gallows. The negro was brought into the courthouse at precisely 7 o'clock, strongly guarded by the troops. There was no rush for him, as the better counsel of the townspeople prevailed. It was decided that he should be tried and hanged instantly if guilty. The jury was picked and ready in their seats when the negro was brought in. The testimony was produced and without leaving their seats the jury pronounced the verdict which carried with it the death penalty. The Winchester Democrat Friday August 3, 1906

McConn, Robert	A War Reminiscence. Hugh Coldiron, who was a Sergeant in Co. F of the Seventh Kentucky Cavalry and Capt. Tom Collins will attend the reunion at Louisville on May 30th 31st, and June 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, writes Spencer Cooper in his paper, the Hazel Green Herald. The Seventh was Col. D. W. Chanault's regiment and James B. McCreary was a Major in the same regiment; Joseph Tucker of Winchester was Lieutenant-Colonel. Chenault was killed at Green river bridge, July 4, 1863, while trying to take the stockade. Capt. Alex Tribble, of Richmond, was also killed in the same fight, as were Lieut. Bill Baldwin, father of Lew Baldwin, killed at Lexington a few years ago by Tom Green, of Maysville, and the father-in-law of Rodney Haggard, of Winchester; Lieut. West, Lieut. Rob't. McConn, Alex Cosby and John Cosby, brothers; Maj. Brent and others, whose names Hugh could not recall when the writer interviewed him. Capt. Steve Sharp, of Lexington; Bush Castleman, of Louisville, and many other well known Confederate soldiers were in that fight. The stockade was on a bluff on the Columbus side of the river going from Lebanon and was under command of Lieut. Miller, who belonged to some Michigan regiment, we believe. Col. Chenault wrote a note demanding the surrender of the stockade and the men, to which Miller laconically replied: "On any other than today I would consider the matter, but under the circumstances, if you want it, you will have to come and get it." Chenault attempted to do so with the assistance of Cluke's regiment and met with disastrous loss. After the fight was over Miller had the wounded Confederates taken to farm houses in the neighborhood and told the people with whom he left them that he would hold them personally responsible for their treatment, and the result was that they received the best attention. For this act Miller became endeared to all the Confederates, and had they subsequently captured him, they would have vied with each other in treating him the best they possibly could under the circumstances. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 24, 1900

McCord, Jr., Joe Brown	Joe Brown McCord, Jr., age 73, husband to Sheila Walden McCord for 54 years, passed away on Thursday, May 2, 2019 at his home.  He was born in Fayette County, on September 24, 1945, to the late Joe Brown and Mary Frances Cassell McCord. He was 1963 graduate of Clark County High School.  Joe was a lifelong Clark County farmer and entrepreneur. He raised sheep, polled Hereford cattle, tobacco and hay. He was the first in Clark County to raise tobacco plants in greenhouses for himself and others. Freshwater shrimp and tilapia fish were also a first to be raised in ponds in KY by Joe. Joe grew vegetables (in the field as well as in the greenhouse in winter) for the market at the farm, Clark County and Lexington Farmer's Markets, as well as five white table cloth restaurants in Lexington. Joe and his sons showed Polled Hereford cattle all over the United States and brought home many championships. In his "retirement" Joe went back to his love of woodworking using cherry and walnut wood from trees on Avalon Farm and started a Quail & Pheasant Hunting Preserve.  Joe was a Kentucky Colonel, former Clark County Fiscal Court Magistrate, member of KACo, Winchester Art Guild, KY Agriculture Association, KY Farm Bureau and Certified Roadside Market Program, KY Cattlemen's Association, KY Proud, Chamber of Commerce, director for KY Polled Hereford Association, co-founder of the Clark County Farmer's Market and Central KY Growers Association.

McCord, son	Scarlet Fever at White Hall. Richmond, Ky., Nov. 3.—Scarlet fever has appeared at White Hall, this county. The 3-year-old son of John McCord died Wednesday and other cases are reported. The public schools are suspended. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 8, 1898  The old saying, “misfortunes never come singly,” seems to be particularly true in the case of John McCord, of Foxtown. Two weeks ago diphtheria carried off his bright little three-year-old son. A few days later his fine brood mare, which he valued at $500, died and the other day five good cattle were stolen from his farm.—Richmond Register The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 22, 1898

McCord, Woodson		Is Becoming Noted It is said that his action in arresting Caleb Powers is what nominated Henry Bosworth, of Fayette county as the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer. If the Curt Jett trial had come sooner or the Democratic nominations later, Woods McCord would have acquired a sufficient reputation as an official of the same kind as to have almost or totally eclipsed Bosworth. Although living in another county he has been at all times one of the fore-most figures in that case. He arrested Jett, secured Jim Bach when he had almost escaped to Virginia, and Friday added to his reputation by finding and arresting George Green, a prominent witness for the Commonwealth, who had forfeited his bond and had been reported as being in Canada. McCord found him at a relatives in Fayette county, arrested him and carried him back to Cynthiana. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 23, 1903 Rewards to be paid. Ex-Sheriff Woodson McCord has been given orders on the State for $50 in each of the three cases of horse stealing to which W. T. Pace confesses, as the state has a standing reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the thief. He was also paid the reward offered by Charlie Neal for the recovery of his mule. The reward offered by Will Landrum is claimed by Mr. McCord and an officer from Cynthiana, but as McCord traced the horse, found and arrested the thief, secured the horse and brought it home, it seems he has a valid claim to the reward. A.B. Hampton's mule was sold to a firm in south Carolina has not been recovered. The firm that bought it is good for the value of the animal and it is probable that suit will be brought there for its value. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, May 8, 1906

McCormack, Jim	AA	Jury Exonerated Him. Jim Hayden, Colored, Shot and Killed Jim McCormack, Also Colored, for Running Away With His Daughter. Glasgow, Ky., June 30.—At Glasgow Junction, about daylight Wednesday morning. Jim Hayden, colored, shot and killed Jim McCormack, also colored. McCormack, although having a wife and children living at Bowling Green, has been living with another woman at Glasgow Junction for several years. Last Thursday he abandoned this woman and ran off with one of Jim Hayden's daughters. Hayden and his son pursued him to Bowling Green, where they found McCormack under arrest upon an old warrant. Tuesday McCormack broke jail and the authorities wired the marshal at the junction to look out for him. The marshal deputized Hayden to assist him. Wednesday morning Hayden ran across McCormack and ordered him to surrender. Instead he gathered some rocks and assaulted Hayden, who shot him, tearing one side of his head away. McCormick, Wallace V.	Sad accident Wallace McCormick was accidentally killed at his home on the Boonesboro pike – exact details not known Our people were shocked Tuesday afternoon by the report that Wallace V. McCormick had been fatally injured at his home on the Boonesboro pike. It seems that he started a corn crusher that was driven by a gasoline engine and was found lying by the side of the engine unconscious and with his skull fractured. He lingered until the next morning but never recovered consciousness. The exact details of the accident, will never be known, but it is probable that he was caught in the belt while trying to adjust the machinery. The funeral services were held at the family residence Thursday morning being conducted by Revs. B.J. Davis and Thomas C. Ecton. The remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. The following were the pall bearers: W.P. Hieatt, A.T. Tucker, Fount Hughes, Clayton Strode, John McCormick and J.B. Carroll. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Fannie Haggard, and three children. Also his father, George McCormick, and brother, Dudley McCormick, both of this city. The deceased was one of our very best citizens and his death is a distinct loss to the community. He was an honest, upright man, who possessed the entire confidence of all who knew him. McCoy, Bud	The following dispatch gives the end of another one of the famous Pike county desperados: "Bud McCoy was waylaid by Wm. Dyre and P. McCoy, on Peters' Creek Pike county, Ky., and killed. The victim spoke pleasantly to the two men and passed them, when they turned in their saddles and shot him through the back, firing several shots into his dead body after he fell from his horse. The murder stirred up tremendous excitement among the McCoy's and Hatfields and a posse at once started after the murderers, who fled through the southwest corner of Virginia into Kentucky. News was received today that a posse came upon the fugitives in Buchanan county Monday. P. McCoy was shot and captured but Dyre escaped after a running fight. A portion of the posse is in pursuit and he will probably be killed" The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 19, 1890

McCready, Richard French	The Winchester Sun Tues., 10-6, 10-7-1992
McCready, Richard French Jr.	Richard French McCready Jr., a Winchester native, died at the age of 70 on Aug. 22, in Charleston, S.C. An active member of the Winchester community, he traced his Kentucky roots back to colonial Fort Boonesborough. Richard was born on July 10, 1941, to Dolly T. and Richard F. McCready. A competitive debater at Sewanee Military Academy, he graduated as salutatorian in 1959. He graduated cum laude from Princeton University in 1963 and the University of Virginia School of Law in 1966. He earned a Master of Law degree from the University of London in 1967. As a trusts and estate lawyer, he worked at the New York law firm Davis Polk & Wardwell from 1967 to 1977. Thereafter, he was in private practice in Winchester. In 1987, he succeeded his father as president of Winchester Federal Bank, which was founded in 1934. He is survived by his wife, Jane H. McCready (née Jane Cockburn Houston); two daughters, Sarah McCready Boston and Louise French McCready; Sarah's husband, Hugh C. Boston III; and Louise's fiancé, Lewis J. Hart III. Richard and Jane celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary last December with a Kenyan safari trip. Crew was an integral part of his life, from the varsity team at Princeton and rowing at Henley to starting the Spuyten Duyvil Crew Club in New York. However, even greater than his love for rowing, which requires a straighter stretch of water than the Kentucky River, was his passion for tennis. Weekly doubles games weren't enough for this slice serve king. He recruited both daughters, and their beaux, to play on vacation. Philanthropy and education were of utmost importance to Richard. He served as a senior warden at Emmanuel Episcopal Church; on the Board of Directors at Sayre

	School; supported his children's colleges, Bowdoin College and the University of Pennsylvania; and was a member of the Lamp Lighters Club. From his father, he learned the value of community development and enjoyed supporting businesses in Winchester. Richard was well respected for his integrity, keen intellect and Irish wit. He will be sorely missed. The church service will take place Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral in Lexington. The reception at Winchester Federal Bank, 1705 Bypass Road, will immediately follow the graveside service. Graveside services will be at Winchester Cemetery. Pallbearers include Jeffrey Adams, Hugh C. Boston III, E. Paul Du Pont III, Lewis J. Hart III, Douglas C. Houston, J. Ronald Houtz, Charles N. Marshall, Thomas Miller, Eugene R. Preaus, Colin Stewart, George W. Taliaferro, Donald L. Twiss, Bayard Walters, John Warden and David E. Woods. McCreary, J. D.	Suicide at Lexington J.D. McCreary, aged about sixty-five years, shot himself twice in the head at a boarding house in Lexington, Friday. No cause is known for his rash act. No one in the house heard the shots and he had been dead several hours when found. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, August 25, 1908
McCreary, James B.	A War Reminiscence. Hugh Coldiron, who was a Sergeant in Co. F of the Seventh Kentucky Cavalry and Capt. Tom Collins will attend the reunion at Louisville on May 30th 31st, and June 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, writes Spencer Cooper in his paper, the Hazel Green Herald. The Seventh was Col. D. W. Chanault's regiment and James B. McCreary was a Major in the same regiment; Joseph Tucker of Winchester was Lieutenant-Colonel. Chanault was killed at Green river bridge, July 4, 1863, while trying to take the stockade. Capt. Alex Tribble, of Richmond, was also killed in the same fight, as were Lieut. Bill Baldwin, father of Lew Baldwin, killed at Lexington a few years ago by Tom Green, of Maysville, and the father-in-law of Rodney Haggard, of Winchester; Lieut. West, Lieut. Rob't. McConn, Alex Cosby and John Cosby, brothers; Maj. Brent and others, whose names Hugh could not recall when the writer interviewed him. Capt. Steve Sharp, of Lexington; Bush Castleman, of Louisville, and many other well known Confederate soldiers were in that fight. The stockade was on a bluff on the Columbus side of the river going from Lebanon and was under command of Lieut. Miller, who belonged to some Michigan regiment, we believe. Col. Chanault wrote a note demanding the surrender of the stockade and the men, to which Miller laconically replied: "On any other than today I would consider the matter, but under the circumstances, if you want it, you will have to come and get it." Chanault attempted to do so with the assistance of Cluke's regiment and met with disastrous loss. After the fight was over Miller had the wounded Confederates taken to farm houses in the neighborhood and told the people with whom he left them that he would hold them personally responsible for their treatment, and the result was that they received the best attention. For this act Miller became endeared to all the Confederates, and had they subsequently captured him, they would have vied with each other in treating him the best they possibly could under the circumstances. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 24, 1900

McCuffin, Nellie	Triple Tragedy. Jealousy Drives a Young Woman to Kill Her Widower Lover and Baby and Then Take Her Own Life. Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16.—One of the most terrible tragedies that ever occurred in Louisville was revealed Thursday morning at the Enterprise hotel on east Market street. The occupants of room 4 failing to answer a call, the door was broken in and on the floor lay a 6-months-old girl baby dead from poison. Joseph F. Villiers, with his arm about the babe, dead with a bullet hold in his temple, and across his body that of a beautiful young girl, Nellie McCuffin. Every circumstance indicates that she killed Villiers and the baby and then committed suicide. The only apparent motive was jealousy. Villiers was a motorman on the Seventh street trolley line and the son of a farmer of Meadow Lawn, Ky., also the woman's home. He was a widower and the baby his daughter by the dead wife. The trio went to the hotel at 8 o'clock Wednesday night and registered as Geo. F. Villiers and wife, Meadow Lawn, Ky. The coroner's investigation indicates that the woman had purchased morphine before going to the hotel. This was given to the baby in milk and Villiers was sent out on some pretext, while the dose was administered. She also took the drug, but it failed to take effect at once. When Villiers returned she evidently killed him and then took a larger dose and fell across the two bodies to die. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 20, 1898

McDonald, Averill	This week Chief of Police Oden received a telegram from the Sheriff of Clinton, Tenn., telling him to arrest one Homer Caldwell for the murder of Averill McDonald, of that place, Caldwell was soon found, being a brick layer, engaged on the new building near the Central Hotel, in process of erection by Charles Devine. He was in jail and the Sheriff notified, but as he failed to put in an appearance, Mr. Oden turned the prisoner loose, Thursday evening. McDonald the murdered man, was a telegraph operator who disappeared mysteriously about two months ago, and whose body was found in the river a few weeks later. Campbell denies all knowledge of his death, and says the only reason for his arrest that he can conceive of is the fact that both he and the dead man were intimate with a couple of women who were arrested for the murder but dismissed. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 6, 1891

McDonald, Humphrey	A TRAGEDY Wealthy West Virginian Murdered by a Farmer The Murderer Arms and Barricades Himself in His House Later on He Fires on a Deputy Sheriff-A Posse Goes Out, and the Murderer, Finding Capture Certain, Fires Three Shots Into His Head FLEMINGTON, W. Va., March 15-A few months ago James Robinson, a prosperous farmer, living near Tyrconnel, Taylor county, sold his farm to Humphrey McDonald, the wealthiest man in the county, aged 65 years. Possession was to be given Thursday. Wednesday morning Robinson sent for McDonald, who called. They had a bitter controversy, Robinson endeavoring to lack out of the sale. The men finally engaged in a fist fight, but suddenly ceased and McDonald turned as though going home. Then Robinson pulled a revolver and fired five shots into McDonald's back, killing him instantly. He then got a shotgun and emptied the contents into the dead body, scattering the brain all over the road. After this he went into the house and barricaded himself, and is still there armed to the teeth, defying arrest. The report of the murder reached here at 4 o'clock and officers went out for the body, which was found at the spot where it fell Wednesday morning. The neighbors stated that Robinson guarded it from the window of the house all day, warning them to keep out of range of his rifle. He allowed a deputy sheriff to pick it up, but notified him that if he attempted to arrest him he would sell his life dearly. The sheriff organized a posse of twenty-five citizens, heavily armed, and left here at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. A report reached here at 10:30 that Robinson had shot and killed a deputy sheriff. It caused great excitement, and more citizens started for the scene, but met the officers returning, who stated that the deputy was not seriously injured but the murderer, finding capture certain, fired three shots into his own head, inflicting fatal wounds. The sheriff has possession of the house and the unconscious prisoner. The Winchester Democrat, Friday March 16, 1894.

McDonald, Nathan	Squire Nathan McDonald Dead Squire Nathan McDonald died at his home in this county Saturday, aged about eighty years. Burial at the home place; services at the residence by Eld. Fenstermacher. Squire McDonald was one of nature's gentlemen; kindly courteous and charitable, he was everybody's friend. He raised more orphan children and buried more old people without means than any man in the county. He was for many years a member of the County Board of Magistrates and all his work in that capacity was marked by ability and uprightness. He had a wonderful fund of humor and anecdotes and was a most genial companion. An incident, illustrative of the character of himself and his brothers is told: When the estate in which the three brothers were interested was to be divided, each of the three secretly approached the Commissioners and gave cogent reasons why the share allotted to himself should be diminished and that of his brothers increased. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 4, 1894 County Court Items The will of Nathan McDonald was probated. McDonald, Zerildah	Death of Mrs. McDonald. Mrs. Zerildah McDonald died of pneumonia Friday night at her home near Old Pine Grove, aged eighty years. The funeral was preached at the family residence Sunday by Rev. Mr. Tadlock, of Clintonville, and the remains were brought to this city for internment. She was originally Miss Hulett and married Squire Nathan McDonald who died a few years ago. She had for many years been a member of the Baptist church and was a good Christian woman. Without any children of her own, she had been a mother to many, and it was such a woman as she that made the old-fashioned Kentucky hospitality a synonym of all that is best in human nature. McElroy, James	Killed-Section 17, E. L. & B. S. R. R.—On last Thursday a most horrible accident occurred about two miles from town. A man by the name of James McElroy, hosing for Mr. John Madigan, on Section 17, E. L. & Big Sandy R. R., was instantly killed by a premature explosion of which drillers call a “spring” blast. He blew the first “squib”, and having poured in a second prime, prefectory to a second charge, it exploded, tearing things to atoms. McElroy, who was struck on the head by a large rock thrown up by the explosion, presented a horrible appearance, the top of his head being blown off and his brains scattered in all directions. The strongest present, men whose nerves were like steel, shuddered and turned sick on viewing what was a few minutes before a strong and stalwart man. His remains were taken to Paris on the following day, and they’re interred. We understand he leaves a wife and children in some part of Indiana. Another man, names James Quinn, was severely burned. A boy named Wm. Coyne, was also slightly injured. Clark County Democrat Thur., 5-2-1872

McGinty, son	Some years ago a son of Robert McGinty, of this city, was killed by the K. C. railroad. McGinty sued the railroad for damaged, alleging that the boy was killed by the negligence of the employees and recovered damages in the lower court to the amount of $2,754 50. The railroad appealed to the Superior Court which reduced the damages to $4 50, McGinty's attorney in turn took the case to the Court of Appeals where it was this week reversed entirely, thus cutting McGinty out of the $4 50 allowed him by the Superior Court. McGlanan, Dan	HEAD-END COLLISION. Engineer Killed and the Fireman Pinioned Between the Cab and the Tender. Paducah, Ky., Feb.7—Two Illinois Central freight trains came head-end together two miles north of Hastingson the Memphis division Wednesday morning, killing Engineer Jas. Wilson, who was mashed to death by the coal in the tender. His fireman Pink Underwood, was shoveling coal when his right hand was pinioned between the cab and the fender. With a mighty effort he tore his hand from his arm, doing likewise when his left foot caught, tearing both members from his body. He will die. Dan McGlanan, aged 24, a tramp, beating his way to Memphis with his brother, Gus McGlanan, was cut in two by engine wheels. Two Negro brakemen and Engineer Phil Ketheimer and fireman Morrison were injured. They were brought here Wednesday night. Engineer Wilson's body will be shipped to Water Valley, Miss. His former home. Conductor Foster overlooked his orders, which caused the wreck, he leaving Hennings nine minutes ahead of time, as he stated himself. McGlone, Mike	Horrible Accident On Sunday night a most unfortunate accident occurred at the depot in this city by which

	a most estimable young man lost his life. A freight car had pushed on to the main line and the engine and other cars were on the switch. By some means the brakes on the single car failed to work and the car rolled back towards the switch until it was so close to the main line that in passing it struck the side of the engine tearing off the cab, etc. In the cab was Mike McGlone, a young brakeman, who was instantly killed, his shoulder being broken and his skull crushed. Coroner Alexander summoned the following jury, who brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts: R. R. Perry, C. T Haggard, S. E. Bowen, H. E. Paynter, T. M. Newton, John Fitzpatrick. The victim was from Washington, Mason county and a most exemplary young man. He was quite popular with the officials and was booked for early promotion. The remains were carried to Maysville, the funeral being held Tuesday at the residence of his sister, Mrs. M. J. Lynch, Thomas Lynch, the father-in-law of the latter, was the first man killed on the Kentucky Central road. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, December 27, 1893

McGregor, _____	A Big Suit One Sunday afternoon in the latter part of August, 1891, while a K. C. train was being made up in the yards of this city, C. H. James, a young brakeman, was caught between the bumpers of two cars and the life was crushed out of him. The Coroner's jury found out but little and the incident passed from the minds of most the people. It is brought to mind again by a suite filed in the Circuit Court Friday by Mrs. Sadie McGregor, of Kansas City, Mo., for twenty thousand dollars damages for the death of the brakeman. It seems that the real name of the dead man was McGregor, and that he was her son. He had become involved in some way with a woman and had assumed the name of James, which he bore at the time of his death. The case will not be tried at this term of the court as the papers were not served on the railroad officials in time. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 5, 1895.

McGruder Gang	A dispatch from Barren county Says: "A few mornings ago Mr. George Johnson, who lives four miles south of this place, went coon hunting, and the dogs chased a coon up a poplar. After daylight Mr. Johnson cut the tree, and after killing the coon returned to the stump to get his ax. On the inside of the stump, which was hollow Mr. Johnson found a stone jar which contained $ 3,700 in gold coin and two gold watches, which were undoubted placed there by the famous guerrilla, Bill McGruder, as one of the watches was marked " J. B. L. " and has been identified by Mr. J. B. Lessenberry, of Glasgow, as being his watch. Mr. Lessenberry was relieved of this watch in the spring of '62 by Bill McGruder and his gang, who bound Mr. Lessenberry behind the counter in a bar-room in Glasgow, and after helping themselves to all the whisky they wanted went through the cash drawer and took Mr. L's watch, and left town. A few days after they were met by Col. Frank Wolford, who killed several of them and chased the others to mountains of East Tennessee. The Democrat, Wednesday, November 18, 1891.

McGuire, daughter	A THREE-YEAR-OLD daughter of Lewis McGuire, living near Worthville, was shot and instantly killed by her ten year-old brother Thursday. He was playing with an old shotgun, and shot her head off. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 6, 1894.  ABOUT PEOPLE-THE Carrolton Democrat had the following: "A sad accident which resulted in the death of a three year old child occurred Tuesday on T. W. Bates' on Camp Branch, in this county. Lewis Maguire's stepson, a boy about ten years old, was playing with a gun, and with the usual result it went off, the whole charge taking effect in his sister's head, killing her instantly. The particulars of the case will perhaps never be learned, for no one but the two children were at the house at the time." The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 9, 1894.

McIntosh, Harlan	Harlan McIntosh, 88, passed away at 6:50 p.m. Saturday, June 18. Harlan was born in Breathitt County on Feb. 6, 1923. He was the son of Bill and Georgia Ann Morris McIntosh, also of Breathitt County. Harlan was residing at

	Fountain Circle Health and Rehabilitation when the Lord called him home. Harlan was married to Clara Spicer in Jackson and worked in the coal mines starting at a very young age. He and Clara moved to Clark County in the 1950s and he worked as a tenant farmer for several families in the Boonesboro Road area. Forty years ago, he started working for Dykes, Beulah and their son, Doug Oliver, and lived on their family farm. He assisted "Mr. Dykes" with carpentry jobs and loved tending to the cattle and gardening. He turned his life over to the Lord later in life and joined Forest Grove Christian Church. In 1998, he married Inis Olinger Thomas and since he had no children, her family became his. Harlan was a man of character. He was faithful, a hard worker, trustworthy, kind, soft-spoken, loving and a good friend to all he met. He will be greatly missed. He is survived by nieces, Karen Sue (Jeff) Taulbee, Lois (Bert) Barnett, Bobbie (Wayne) Bryant, all of Breathitt County, Ellen (Albert) Craig of Northern Kentucky, Doug and Carol Anne Oliver, Alissa (David), Ainsley and Cambren Ayres, Amy Oliver, Ryan and Houston Goodman, April Thomas (Corey), Haley and Harley Jako. McIntyre Family	A Harrodsburg special of Sunday says; "A sadly fatal accident is related by Mr. Samuel Landers, who came to this place today from near Buena Vista, a little village in the county of Garrard. Yesterday a family named McIntyre, near the above place, partook of a hearty dinner, among which was a dish of boiled cabbage. Immediately after dinner all who had partaken of the cabbage were taken violently ill. The colored cook was suspected of an attempt at wholesale poisoning but she protested her innocence and said she was willing to partake of the food, eating heartily of the cabbage. She was also taken ill and four of the white family and the cook are now dead. Upon examination of the remaining cooked cabbage it was ascertained that snake had been cooked with the vegetables, and this they assume, accounts for the sudden death of the victims, as the reptile was one of the spreading viper variety, and known to be deadly poisonous if its fangs are ever fastened upon man or beast." McKee, Dinwiddie	At Paris the contest over the will of Dinwiddie McKee, which had been in progress in the Circuit Court for a week ended Thursday by the jury bringing in a verdict to set aside the will and all codicils except the one giving A. T. Forsythe $4,000. McKee who was a bachelor seventy years old, cut off his relatives and gave his 1,000 acres of land and thousands of dollars to friends who had waited on him during sickness. The relatives lived in Illinois and Missouri and came on and made a fight for the property, the best legal talent being employed on each side. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, July 12, 1893  The Dinwiddie McKee will case was compromised. By the terms of the compromise, Mrs. America McNamara and daughter will retain the three hundred acres of land now in their possession and the balance of the property, about eight hundred acres, goes to the McKee heirs and it was agreed that the appeal would be made on the will. A. T. Forsyth of Paris will receive $4,000. Miss Mary Armstrong, of Millersburg, $1,000 and Mrs. McKee Doty, also of Millersburg $1,200, as these bequests were sustained by the court.—Paris Kentuckian-Citizen The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, December 27, 1893

McKinley, I. H.	Sudden summons Dr. I.H. McKinley, one of Winchester's distinguished physicians passes away Our people were shocked Tuesday afternoon by the report that Dr. I.H. McKinley had died suddenly. He was in his office preparing some medicine for a lady, and after saying he had a dreadful pain in the region of his heart, he dropped to the floor and was dead. He had previously manifested no symptoms of heart trouble but had been quite ill of grip for several weeks and had but recently resumed business through still far from well. He was born in Spencer county fifty-six years ago and in 1879 graduated from the Central University School of Medicine of Louisville, with the honors of the class. The following year he located in this city having formed a partnership with the late Dr. Hub Taylor then a leading physician of Central Kentucky. Two years later he married Miss Lucy Taliaferro, daughter of Maj. John Taliaferro, who survives him with three children, Dr. David McKinley, Mrs. S.T. Davis and Miss Margaret McKinley. He was an enthusiastic member of Hickman Lodge of Odd Fellows and at one time was a Mason, but had not affiliated with the order for many years. He possessed deep religious convictions and for a long time had been an officer of the Presbyterian church. As a man and citizen we possessed none better and his death is a distinct loss to the community. With strong convictions of right, he did his duty as he saw it without fear or favor and he had the respect of everybody and the love of most. Our people sympathize to the fullest extent with his stricken family. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon by Rev. Wm. Cumming at the Presbyterian church and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. The following were pall bearers: Active – A.R. Baldwin, D.T. Matlack, R.S. Scobee, Oscar Johnson, J.M. Wheeler, J.N. Renaker. Honorary – Dr. B.F. Johnson, B.F. Curtis, Dr. I.A. Shirley, J.D. Simpson, Dr. S.W. Willis, A.H. Hampton, Dr. Glenmore Combs, J.E. Garner, T.C. Robinson, J.H. Evans, A.H. McKinley, the following resolutions were adopted: Whereas, our co-worker and brother practitioner, Dr. I.H. McKinley, has been removed from our midst by death, and Whereas, Dr. McKinley was an active member of the Clark County Medical Society for the period of twenty-eight years, during which time he was nearly always present at its meetings, taking an active part in its proceedings. A strong trait in Dr. McKinley's character, was industry and application, hence the practice of the arduous duties of his profession drew largely upon his physical endurance, but found him responsive to the last, and he died, as he had lived, rendering

	service to his fellows. The Clark County Medical Society will miss his faithful presence and the cheerful readiness with which he performed every duty which fell to his share. Resolved, that the Clark County Medical Society feels deeply the loss of our esteemed brother and extends to his family and friends our heartfelt sympathy in their affliction; that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family, the county papers, and Kentucky Medical Journal, and that these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Society. I.A. Shirley, Geo. F. Clark, B.F. Johnson, Committee. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, April 21, 1908 Will probated The will of Dr. I.H. McKinley was written by himself, was without witnesses and was dated May 14, 1907. His house and lot on Hickman street is left to his wife, Lucy McKinley, for life, and she is appointed executrix without bond. His life insurance is to be equally divided between his wife, two daughters and one son, Dr. David H. McKinley. To the latter is left the testator's medical books and instruments, gold watch and diamond stud and he is charged with one thousand dollars which had been advanced to him. McKinley, William	Will Ask For a Continuance. A dispatch from Frankfort says: "The opinion is held here by people who are in a position to know, that the defense will ask for a continuance in the Howard case. The reason given is the fact that the whole country, including this State, is wrought up over the attempted assassination of President McKinley, and that the defendant could not at this time secure a fair and impartial trial. The attorneys in the case will not make a statement regarding the matter." LATER:-The case was continued until the January term, as the Commonwealth had failed to serve notice on Howard in a legal manner. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 13, 1901.

McKinney, Evermont		Case affirmed In the Court of Appeals this week the case of McKinney’s heirs and others against the Central Kentucky National Gas Co., from Menifee county, was affirmed. The heirs of Evermont McKinney, formerly of this city, and others had sued the company holding that years ago they had leased the mineral rights of a large portion of the territory now occupied by the Gas Co., by the owners of the property was illegal. The Gas Co. won in the Circuit court and this was affirmed in the higher court which says that “mineral rights” includes natural gas, yet there is nothing to show that the original owners intended to include natural gas at the time of the old lease and that the intentions of the parties at that time must govern, and so the Natural Gas Co., wins out. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, June 15, 1909

McKinney, Henry AA	Killed by the train Tuesday morning the body of a negro man was found dead on the track of the L &amp; N road near the Hagan Gas Engine factory. The body had been cut in two under the arms, and again near the hips. Coroner Brinegar empanelled a jury composed of Phillip Westfall, Geo. F. Watson, Dan Howard, Davis Rupard, S.B. Kerr and E.W. Stokely, whose verdict declared the dead man to be Henry McKinney and that he came to his death from being run over by a train or trains on the L &amp; O road. It is probable that he was drunk and went to sleep on the track sometime during the night and was run over and killed in the darkness without being seen. He was a ex-convict, whose civil rights were restored by Governor Bradley several years ago. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 10, 1908

McKnight, John	Several days ago, John Eversole, Job Bowling, Wesley Whittaker, Green Morris and Frank Polly, members of the Eversole faction that are now in jail here charged with the murder of John McKnight, made application to Judge Scott for bail. He required them to give a bond of two thousand dollars each that they would not try to escape while being tried. This bond was filed Monday, Harry Eversole and others becoming bondsmen. Judge Scott has set Sept. 18 th for the final hearing. It is probable that Fulton French and his adherents will make application for bail at the same time. 	The Execution of Bad Tom Smith at Jackson. "WORSE than affairs in Breathitt county," which a few years ago was the worst that could have been said of any community, can now no longer be truthfully averred of that action. The church, the schoolhouse and the newspaper have done their civilizing work and instead of crime being avenged by the bullet of the bushwhacker or the rope of the lyncher, the stern majesty of the law, without haste, without hate, but terrible in its awful simplicity, enforces the penalty of the ancient law, "Who so sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." An object lesson of the stern majesty of the law, an account of which will take its place among the traditions of the mountains and which will be handed down to future generations, was the execution Friday of Tom Smith at Jackson for the murder of Dr. Rader last February. The day was beautiful and several thousand persons were present including many women. An excursion was run from Lexington and a number from here went up to see

	the execution. Those present say it resembled a huge picnic or holiday more than anything else. Several days ago Smith professed conversion and at an early hour he was taken under a strong guard to the river where with manacled hands and feet he was baptized by a couple of Baptist ministers. The scene was a most impressive one and strong men wept. He was taken back to jail and the hours sped on until noon, the time set for the execution. Just before the hour fixed Smith told the sheriff that he had been forgiven for all his other crimes, but was not for the murder of Dr. Rader. He telegraphed to Gov. Brown asking for time but the latter refused to interfere and the execution proceeded. On the Scaffold he made he made a long talk confessing his various crimes interspersed with appeals to God for mercy. K. J. Hampton and John Bosley were there in the interest of the Louisville Post and the following extracts are from their report: “He and Joe Adkins ambushed Joe Eversole and Mick Combs. Joe Adkins fired the fatal shot and he afterwards shot Combs and Eversole. He then took $30 from Eversole’s pocket. He shot at John McKnight, but as Bob Profit was shooting at the same time, could not tell who killed him. “I shot and killed Bob Cornet while he was sitting on a log. Jack Combs was with me. “He said he was with B. F. French, Joe Adkins, Jesse Field and Boone Frazer at Field’s house last fall, when they planned the murder of Judge Josiah Combs. He said he was wounded at the time and could not go with them. “I heard Atkins say afterward that he fired the shot that killed Combs. I also heard French speak of the job. “After making this statement to the reporters he talked to the crowd and warned the young men of the dangers of whiskey and bad women. He told how in a drunken delirium he had killed Dr. Rader. He said: “No man paid me to kill Rader. I was drunk and Catherine McQuinn roused me from my sleep and said: “He is fixing to kill you.” I jumped up and fired two shots; one of them killed him.” The preachers then sang, ”Guide Me, Oh Thou Great Jehovah,” in which Smith joined as he walked around on the top of the scaffold. After this he knelt under the gallows and prayed most fervently for god to have mercy on him. He arose and another song was sung. “He then roamed again under the gallows and prayed most pitifully. The black cap was placed on his head and his last words were, “God have mercy upon me.” Sheriff Breck Combs spring the trap.” The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 2, 1895.

He had also served in the Legislature of Minnesota and also of Texas. Very few men have served in the Legislature of three different states. The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 21, 1908 Representative McKnight succumbs

	Frankfort, Ky., - Representative Virgil McKnight, the anti-Beckham democratic representative from Mason county, died at the Capitol hotel here heart trouble, following complications of grip and pneumonia, was the cause of his demise. This complicates the senatorial situation. With Mr. McKnight's seat vacant, 69 votes are necessary to assure an election. Acting Gov. Cox will call an election to choose a successor to Mr. McKnight. It is said in legislative circles here that the deadlock will continue until the new representative is chose, and it is predicted that he will be a Beckham man. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 25, 1908

McLain, Mrs. E. A.	Sudden Death. Death is always a shock to surviving friends, but when the summons comes so suddenly as in the case of Mrs. E. A. McLain, of this city, it is doubly so. While the family were at the dinner table Wednesday Mrs. McLain was seen to gasp, and in a moment she was dead. She had been in delicate health for sometime but was feeling better than usual at the time. The trouble was obviously heart disease. She was a native of Mississippi and was about 55 years of age. After the death of her husband some seven years ago she came to Winchester to reside with her adopted son, Rev. W. H. McGee, and had since lived. A brother, A. K. Lyon, and sister, Mrs. Frankie Earl, live in Lexington and were present at the funeral. Her adopted son, Rev. McGee, left a week ago for Cuba to serve as a missionary of the Episcopal church and has probably reached his destination. The funeral was preached at the Episcopal church this city yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by Bishop Burton, of Lexington, and Rev. G. C. Abbitt, of Mt. Sterling, and the remains were taken to Lexington for interment. Gentle, kind and helpful, she was a favorite with all who knew her and her death will be much regretted. McLear, Clay	Last week Clay McLear was killed near Nicholasville by his stepson, Duke Perkins, who was arrested and placed in jail. The examining trial showed the killing to be the result of a conspiracy among Perkins, his mother and Will Gaskins, her lover, the object being to get the old man out of the way. After discussing the matter excitedly for several days, the negroes organized a mob and tried to storm the jail, with a view of lynching the prisoner, but were frustrated by the efforts of Jailer Welch, who had the jail strongly guarded. Grace is survived by her children: David (Linda) McLemore and Jeanne (Dallis) Crowe, her daughter-in-law Patti McLemore, all of Winchester; her six grandchildren: Kimberly (Van) Bugg of Harrodsburg, Morgan (Michael) Heath of Winchester, Dallis (Heather) Crowe II of Richmond, Shawna (Darrell) Lucas of Richmond, Paul (Mary Ellen) McLemore II of Winchester, and Whitney Crowe of Winchester; her 10 great grandchildren: Taylor (Zach) Lewis of Winchester, Hannah Ritchie of Harrodsburg, Hunter, Hayden, and Houston Heath of Winchester, Shelby and Jaxon Lucas of Richmond, and Mason, Lilly, and Kimbrell McLemore of Winchester; and, her sister, Thelma Chambers Horton of Winchester.  She is preceded in death by her son, Paul McLemore, and by four siblings: John Fox Chambers, Betty "Bab" Arthur, Calla Chambers, and Joe Chambers.  Grace was a woman of faith and was a member of Epperson First Church of God, where she shared her musical talents as the Church's longtime pianist and was a member of the Epperson First Church of God Missionary Society. She also was an active member of the community, serving as treasurer of the Glen Eden Youth Center and fundraising for the George Rogers Clark High School Marching Band. Grace retired from the Lexington-Bluegrass Army Depot. She also spent many years providing child care for beloved family and friends, many of whom knew her best as "Nana Grace."  The funeral service will be held at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday, May 14, 2019 at Scobee Funeral Home by Rev. Chris Williams. Burial will follow at Winchester Cemetery, Winchester.  Visitation will be held from 5:00 p.m. until 7:00 p.m., Monday, May 13, 2019 at Scobee Funeral Home.  Pallbearers are Dallis Crowe II, Paul McLemore II, Van Bugg, Michael Heath, Darrell Lucas, and Zach Lewis. Honorary pallbearers are Granddaughters, Great-grandchildren, Epperson First Church of God Missionary Society, and Dr. Charles Salters.

	In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Glen Eden Youth Center, 2150 Mina Station Road, Winchester, KY 40391. The Winchester Sun May 10, 2019

McMakin, Oliver (Buck)	A Family Quarrel. A Louisville Horse Trainer Shot and Killed in His Father-in-Law's House. Louisville, Ky., March 27.—Oliver "Buck" McMakin, a trotting horse trainer, was shot and killed Tuesday night at the home of his father-in-law, Thompson Smith, on North Second Street, New Albany, Ind. McMakin went Tuesday evening to the home of his father-in-law, and it is said, assaulted his wife Kitty McMakin, who had gone there after a quarrel Monday with her husband. Her father got into a fight with McMakin in defending her and Mrs. Smith attempted to hand her husband a shotgun, but McMakin kicked it from her hands, in falling the gun exploded and the charge took effect in McMakin's abdomen, inflicting a wound from the effects of which he died. McMichael, Charles	The Court of Appeals this week decided the case of Mrs. Florence McMichael against the K. C. and C. and O. Railroads. This case was caused by the explosion if a car load of powder at the depot several years ago by a collision of cars on the two roads. McMichael was conductor on the train and the explosion blew him over the depot, inflicting injuries from which he died in a short time. His widow brought suit for damages and recovered $7,000 from the C. and O. and $5,000 from the K. C. It was carried to the higher courts where it has been for some time. The recent decision of that court affirms the decision as to the K. C. and reverses it as to the C. and O. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 1, 1891 In the Court of Appeals the petition of the C. and O. road for the modification of the mandate in the case of Mrs. Florence McMichael vs. the road was overruled. This is the case that has been pending for many years in which Mrs. McMichael secured a verdict of several thousand dollars for the death of her husband who was killed by the explosion of a carload of powder near the depot. McMurtry, Edward P.	George Soper. In the bar room of the Florentine Hotel at Lexington about 10 o'clock Sunday night, Ed McMurry received a wound on the head from which he died in a few hours. George Soper was on duty as bar keeper at the time, others were in the room. The Coroner's Jury returned the following verdict: "We the jury, find the body before us to be that of Edward P. McMurry. From the evidence before us we believe he came to his death Sunday, December 21, 1902, from a blow inflicted with a glass bottle in the hands of George Soper in the Florentine Hotel bar-room, on the night of December 21, 1902." A careful reading of the testimony in our opinion does not justify a verdict of this kind. Mr. Soper is well known here, and has many friends, none of whom believe that he would do an act of this kind. It looks dark for Mr. Soper. He was the bar-keeper in a saloon on Sunday night which will make against him. And then to have the bums that infest such places to swear anything that would clear their own skirts, places him at a great disadvantage. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, December 17, 1902 Indicted for Murder. The Lexington Grand Jury brought in an indictment against Geo. Soper for the murder of Ed. McMurry, but the fact that he was admitted to bail shows the court did not believe he was guilty, at least not of murder. Soper's attorney, Dunlap, in the argument for bail stated that the defense would probably be that Soper was not guilty of any higher grade of offense than involuntary manslaughter. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 20, 1902. Indicted On Murder Charge Lexington, Ky., Dec. 26 George Soper was indicted by the grand jury, charged with the murder of Edward McMurry here last Sunday night. Soper, it is alleged, struck McMurry on the head with a wine bottle, fracturing his skull. He was released on $5,000 bond. Winchester Sentinel Wed., Dec. 31, 1902 George Soper Acquitted. George Soper was tried in the Lexington Circuit Court for the killing of Ed. McMurry, and the jury, after being out a few moments brought in a verdict of not guilty. Soper testified that McMurry came into the saloon where Soper clerks and was drunk and abusive. He finally threw the contents of a glass into Soper's face and the latter pushed him away. McMurry fell, his head striking a slot machine, fracturing his skull, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. This was the generally accepted version of the affair at the time it happened, but the report afterward got out that Soper struck him with a bottle causing his death. Among the witnesses from here who testified to Soper's good character were Judge Benton, Capt. Hathaway, Judge Beckner, S. A. Jeffries, F. H. Dudley, Lee Baldwin, Judge Evans, R. R. Perry, W. T. Adams, C. C. Quisenberry, John S. Reese, C. B. Fox, O. P. Evans, A. R. Sphar, Henry Jones, D. S. Gay, W. W. George, W. T. Ogden, Hon. Jas. F. Winn, S. D. Hayes, Col. T. G. Stuart, T. F. Moore and Ernest Bean. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 13, 1903. Acquitte Geo. Soper who was tried for the killing of McMurry was acquitted last Thursday at Lexington. The testimony showed that McMurry received the wound that caused his death by falling against a slot machine.

McNairy, Dr. _____		Superintendent McNairy Dead Frankfort, Ky., May 13.—Gov. Bradley Wednesday morning received a telegram from Lakeland, Ky., telling of the death of Dr. McNairy, superintendent of the Lakeland asylum. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 14, 1897 Shake Up At The Feeble Minded Institute. The Republican administration continues to have trouble in its appointees. Since Dr. Berry was removed on account of his politics the institute has now its third Superintendent. The first appointee was Dr. Huff, the second was Dr. Long, who has just passed out at the Governor's request and is succeeded by Dr. W. W. Ely, of this city. The Republicans have been very unfortunate in selecting asylum Superintendents. The only qualified appointment was Dr. McNary and he died very soon after his entrance into office. The other appointees were removed for cause. The charities will ever remember the Republican administration of Kentucky and they wish it at an end.— Kentucky Argus. McNeal, Ella		Almost a triple tragedy. Killed wife, shot at her mother, then turned weapon on himself. Portsmouth, O., April 17 – What came near being a triple tragedy greatly stirred up the little town of Limeville, Ky., 10 miles east of here, when Thomas McNeal, aged 20 shot his young wife, Ella McNeal, aged 18, through the heart, then fired at but missed her mother, and after fleeing to the hills, turned the weapon on himself, but was not dangerously wounded. The wife died instantly. The mother was bent over a wash tub in a neighbors yard opposite the house in which McNeal, had lay concealed for several hours awaiting the opportunity. He shot himself through the breast. Jealousy prompted the murder. He and his wife had separated at frequent intervals during their two years of married life. The murderer is a son of William McNeal, a prominent store keeper. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 20, 1906

McNiel, Linda A.	Linda A. McNiel, 72, cherished wife of 51 years to Wayne H. McNiel, left this world peacefully to meet Jesus face-to-face on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 7, surrounded by her family. She was the daughter of the late Clarence and Mary Anderson of Harrison County. In addition to her husband, she is survived by five children; Whitney McNiel, Cincinnati, OH, Jason (Kerri) McNiel, Winchester, Ashley (Michael) Lewis, Winchester, Leslie (Alvin) Pasley, Richmond and Joshua McNiel, Winchester, as well as five grandchildren, Jacob McNiel, Matthew and Hailey Pasley, Nathan and Gabriella Lewis. Andy, as she was known to her friends, graduated from Harrison Co. High School and received a bachelor's degree in elementary education from the University of Kentucky. She also did graduate work at Eastern KY University. Andy's heart belonged to the Lord, then her family, then to her church family at Fellowship of Believers, where she has been a member for almost 50 years. She taught Sunday School there for close to forty years. She spent her life investing in others. Her faith inspired her to a lifetime as an educator. She taught elementary school in Clark Co. School System for two years and was one of two teacher in Clark Co. named Outstanding Elementary Teachers in America, her second year. She left teaching to start a family but returned as a volunteer and interim directress at Children's House Inc. Montessori School while her children were students there. She home-schooled all five of her children, and four of them went on to complete baccalaureate or post-graduate degrees. As her children grew, she became involved in 4-H, where she was a club and project leader. In addition, she served as president of the local 4-H Council, president of the Bluegrass Area Extension Council. She received along with her family, the Clark Co. Extension Leadership Award. She and her husband were chosen for the Clark Co. 4-H Hall of Fame. During this time, she continued to share her talent as an educator with expectant parents as an employee, then owner of Winchester Prepared Childbirth Association, teaching childbirth techniques and sharing her wealth of experience as a parent. As her children grew, she and her husband fostered and adopted a special young man who has blessed their lives. As a result of that, she became more involved in foster care, serving as a member of the KY Foster and Adoptive Parent Training Support Network for the Southern Bluegrass Region, providing training and crisis support for foster parents in Ky. McQuinn, Jerry	Case Reversed.

	The Court of Appeals reversed the decision of Judge J. M. Benton in a case from Breathitt county. A few years ago Jerry McQuinn, of that county was sent to the Lexington Lunatic Asylum where he died a couple of years ago. His wife, Catherine, then took up with "Bad Tom" Smith, and it was at her house that Dr. Rader was killed for which Smith was hung and she was sent to the penitentiary for life; she was afterward pardoned by Gov. Bradley. Before the husband was sent to the asylum he deeded all his property to his wife, and after Mrs. McQuinn was pardoned out of the penitentiary, C. B. McQuinn, the father of the crazy man, brought suit to have the deed set aside. Able counsel was employed on each side and the case was hotly contested. For some reason Judge Redwine the regular Circuit Judge refused to act and the matter was referred to Judge Benton of this city, who decided in the favor of Mrs. McQuinn. The father appealed and the Court of Appeals reversed this decision and gave the property to the father. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 2, 1901

Laura, aged seven and Jennie, aged five lay locked in each others arms. While the parents were absent the children had been playing hide and seek with three other little tots. While searching for a good hiding place the two evidently thought of an old trunk in the cellar. They crawled into it and closed the lid. The other children had been searching for three hours when Melton and his wife returned. Father and Mother conducted a distracted search for an hour before the trunk was thought of. Memke, Joseph	Deaths. Mr. Joseph Memke died at his home in Cincinnati Saturday after a long illness. He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Maggie Devereaux and father of the late Miss Kate Memke, of this city. The interment was at Dover, Indiana, yesterday. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 20, 1902  Richard Devereaux and family were called to Cincinnati Sunday by the death of Joseph Memke. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 20, 1902
Memke, Katie	Death of Miss Katie Memke At an early hour Sunday morning, the angel of death summoned one of the best and brightest of our young ladies to her eternal rest. About ten days ago Miss Katie Memke came from her home in Cincinnati to visit her aunt, Mrs. Maggie Devereaux. She was in her usual good health, but about the middle of the week she became violently ill, and the end came Sunday morning. The immediate cause of death was an ulcer of the stomach which broke into the cavity of the left lung. The funeral was held at St. Joseph's church yesterday morning, and in the absence of the regular pastor, Father Ryan, Father Burke, of Paris officiated. The remains were taken to Cincinnati for interment. St. Joseph's church was crowded during the funeral and the great quantity of flowers attested the universal esteem in which she was held. She was twenty-three years of age, and had for the past seven years assisted Mrs. Devereaux in the millinery business. Her genial disposition and bright, cheerful manner made her very popular, and she was a general favorite with her large circle of acquaintances, with whom we join in extending sympathy to the stricken family. Merritt, Thomas H.	Harris Acquitted. - Jacob S. Harris, was acquitted at Lexington, Friday, of the killing of T. H. Merritt. Judge Falconer dismissed Harris after a rather lengthy opinion, in which he said it was a case of where the unwritten law should be upheld. The decision was greeted with applause. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday July 20, 1897  All central Kentucky was agitated by a killing in Lexington in July, when Jacob Harris followed his wife and Thomas Merritt, a pension agent to Gratz Park and in the presence of his wife shot Merritt to death. After a hard trial Harris was cleared, although his wife was his bitterest prosecutor. They have reconciled their differences and are living together in seeming concord and happiness. The Winchester Democrat Friday October 22, 1897  Jacob Harris' Second Trial Lexington, Ky., April 7.—Jacob S. Harris is again on trial here for killing Thomas Merritt at Gratz park July 9, 1897, when he found Merritt making love to Mrs. Harris. At the examining trial Harris was acquitted by Judge Falconer, whose decision was based on the “unwritten law.” Harris has reunited with his wife and they have been living in Louisville. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 12, 1898  J. S. Harris Acquitted Lexington, Ky., April 8.—After being out 20 hours the jury in the case of J. S. Harris, for killing his wife’s lover, Thos. H. Merritt, last summer brought in a verdict of acquittal Thursday night. He was acquitted by Judge Falconer under the “higher law” at the examining trial, but the recent grand jury indicted him for murder. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 12, 1898

Merschmann, Joseph	Death of Father Merschmann At an early hour Sunday morning the dead body of Father Joseph Merschmann was found in his room at the Mission House in Richmond, where he lived. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for a number of years and it is supposed he died from an attack some time during Saturday night. Father Merschmann was sixty-one years of age and was a native of Germany. For many years he was pastor of the St. Stephen's Church, Newport. Last September, upon his return from Europe, he was assigned to St. Mark's Church at Richmond, and Father Ryan, who had been serving at Richmond in connection with his duties here, was made pastor of the Winchester Church alone. Father Merschmann was a pious holy man, a cultured gentleman, whose every walk in life redounded to the credit of the Mother Church whose teachings he so ably espoused. His remains were taken to Newport Tuesday and the funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. Steven's Church, Rt. Rev. Bishop Maes officiating at High Requiem Mass, and his remains were placed in the vault in St. Stephen's Cemetery, and later will probably be sent to his old home in Germany. Messer, Tom	Was Killed From Ambush. A Member of the Taylor Faction Laid Low at a Spring—Another Kentucky Feud Fatality. Middlesboro, Ky., June 13.—A story comes from Harlan county, where the Taylor-Lee factions are at war, telling that Tom Messer, one of the Taylor faction, was shot down near his home. There is a threatened outbreak of the old feud and there may be many deaths in the next 24 hours. It is said Messer went to the spring near his house to get water and without warning a volley of shots were fired from the bushes. There seemed to be several in the crowd who fired upon him and they could be heard riding away as Messer lay dying. Messer's wife is nearly overcome from sorrow at the sudden and violent death of her husband. This is the second killing within a fortnight. More trouble is sure to follow. Meyer, Harry	Harry Meyer, aged 1, was blown to pieces by the explosion of a threshing machine boiler near Indiana, Pa. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 5, 1892.
Meyer, Isadore (Isader)	Near Little rock, Ark., a passenger on a train became suddenly insane and shot the conductor, Leech, through the head killing him instantly. He then fired at Isader Meyer, a drummer and also killed him. Meyer was formerly a merchant at Richmond. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 25, 1891 Isader Meyer, who while traveling on the Iron Mountain road near Little Rock, Ark., was shot and instantly killed by a passenger named Greater, who became suddenly insane, a notice of which was given in our last issue, was a brother-in-law of Mr. Landsberg of this city. Messrs, Theodore Landsberg, of this city and Henry Landsberg of Versailles, were with their sister, Mrs. Meyer, at New York, when the news of her husband's death reached her. She has three children, all girls. Wells, the murdered conductor left a wife and nine small children in destitute circumstances. Messrs. Beckner &amp; Jouett, of this city, Gen. Wendling, of Indianapolis, and a prominent local attorney have been retained by Messrs. Landsberg and the murderer will be vigorously prosecuted. He is thought to be a victim of temporary insanity of a most murderous type. He was sent from his home in Texas, in shackles as a dangerous maniac, but was discharged reaching his destination as he showed no signs of insanity. Messrs. Landsberg say the object of the prosecution is to have full severity of the law meted out to him, if he proves to be rational, and if he is insane, to have him placed where he will have no further opportunity to exercise his murderous proclivities. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, March 4, 1891 Mrs. Meyer, mentioned in the following telegram from Washington, Ind., is the sister of T. Landeberg, of this city: "John W. Greater, of Vincennes, Ind., who, last year suddenly becoming insane while on a train in Arkansas, shot and killed Isadore Meyer, has been sued in the Circuit Court of Vincennes for $20,000 damage by the widow of

	Meyer. A change of venue has been taken from Vincennes to Washington, and the trial is now in progress. Greater killed two men while on the train. The widow of the first, having sued, was awarded $5,000 for damages. This persuaded Mrs. Meyer to bring suit. After his terrible crime Greater was placed in an insane asylum at Cincinnati and has since been pronounced cured. He is, however, not present at the trial in person, but is represented by his guardian, Dr. Fairhurst, of Vincennes. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 3-30-1892 Last Week we made notice of the suit of Mrs. Isador Meyer against John W. Greater, of Vincennes, Ind., for damages for the loss of her husband who was killed by Greater in a fit of insanity, on the car near Little Rock, Ark. The jury brought in a verdict of $18,000. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 4-6-1892 An Interesting Case. In February, 1891, Isadore Meyer, whose wife is a sister of Theodore Landsberg, of this place stepped aboard the train of the Iron Mountain Railroad at Bald Knob in Arkansas and took a seat in the Pullman sleeper. Pulling out a newspaper he began to read when a maniac named Graeter, sitting in his rear, shot him through the brain and he was dead without ever knowing who fired the shot. Mr. Meyer was a very successful drummer for a great New York tobacco and cigar establishment, and left a widow and three young daughters. Graeter had been brought over the Iron Mountain Railroad from Fort Worth, Texas, three weeks before the killing, in irons and guarded by two policemen—a raving lunatic. Mrs. Meyer brought suit in the United States Court at Little Rock against the Iron Mountain Railroad Company and the Pullman Palace Car Company for damages and employed Beckner &amp; Jouett of this place and N. M. Rose, of Little Rock as her counsel. The case was tried in October 1891, but the Court so instructed the jury that it found for defendants. An appeal was taken and the judgement reversed, the higher court holding that if the companies knew Graeter to be a dangerous lunatic and took no steps to remove or restore him, they were liable for any damage done by him. Judge Beckner spent last week in Little Rock trying the case a second time. The jury brought in a verdict for $19,000, subject to a credit of $7,000 recovered from the estate of Graeter at Vincennes, Indiana, where he lived.. It has been an expensive litigation as the witnesses were scattered from Massachusetts to California. Mr. Theodore Landsburg, however, has faithfully stood by his sister and enabled her to carry on a fight against such tremendous odds as these two great corporations. We clip the following notice of the case from the Little Rock Gazette: “The greatest legal tilt that has happened in the local courts in some time came to an end yesterday evening in United States Court when ex-Congressman, W. M. Beckner, of Kentucky, concluded on behalf of the plaintiff the argument in the Greater $50,000 damages suit against the Iron Mountain Railroad and the Pullman Palace Car Company. Judge Beckner’s argument occupied several hours and it was lucid upon the points involved in the case, and, judging from the close attention accorded by the jury, carried much weight. He detailed the character and circumstances of Isadore Meyer, one of the men slain by the demented passenger, John W. Graeter, at Bald Knob in February, 1891, and emphasized the damage occasioned by his death to the widow and children of Meyer. He made a passing allusion to the reference of the opposing counsel that Mrs. Meyer had remarried, and said that marriage was a high and honorable, and that Mrs. Meyer had a perfect right to re-marry. “Pryor to Judge Beckner’s argument Hon. Perry Roberts, of New Orleans, held the jury’s attention, speaking in behalf of the Pullman Palace Car Company, which is made a counter-defendant because Meyer was killed on a Pullman car attached to an Iron Mountain train. Mr. Roberts is an engaging forceful and effective pleader, He analyzed the evidence in a masterly manner. “In the forenoon Attorney B. S. Johnson, for the Iron Mountain Railroad, argued at length. “As the main question in the trial was as to the responsibility incurred by the defendants in accepting as a passenger a person of unsound mind and one whose violent outbreaks involved danger to his fellow passengers, the argument turned upon that point.” The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 21, 1895

Miles, James AA	A Negro Killed.  Wednesday night James Miles, a young negro man, was killed on North Main street by Charles Jackson, another negro. Miles approached Jackson and in a moment was shot in the stomach by a bullet from a pistol in the hands of Jackson. The latter claims it was an accident, and the absence of any motive for the killing , renders the statement probable. Jackson surrendered to the Police and was lodged in jail.. He will be brought before Judge Evans for examination tomorrow morning.  The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 5, 1899 Circuit Court  Will Jackson, colored, was indicted for murder by maliciously shooting and killing James Miles, of color.  The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 12, 1899 For Murder.  The negro, Chas. Jackson, who shot and killed James Miles, another negro, one night last week, was brought before Judge Evans Monday for examination. The plea of accident was not upheld by the circumstances and he was held over. The grand jury, which was in session, brought in an indictment for murder and he is still in jail. The pistol was pointed directly at his victim and fired, and the police say the motive for the deed was a previous quarrel about the inevitable “woman in the case.” His trial will probably be deferred until next term. Miller, Ann		In A Rich Spinster's Will in Shelby County A Voluminous Document Shelbyville, Ky., April 12.—Then last will and testament of Miss Ann Miller, the wealthiest woman in Shelby county, who died several weeks ago, was probated in the county court Monday. Her fortune is estimated at over $100,000, and her bequests range from $10,000 to $100 each. The instrument was the most voluminous ever probated in the county, and the legatees number over 100 persons. No contest will be made by any of the devisees to break the will as one clause absolutely revokes any bequest made to anyone who institutes such action. Miss Miller was an aged maiden lady, and left no heirs except very distant relations. She gave largely to Baptist churches, orphanages and seminaries. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 19, 1898

Miller, Elijah		Death of Elijah Miller Elijah Miller, a prominent farmer of the county, died at his home near Tanner's Store, Friday afternoon, of heart disease about 76 years. The funeral was preached Sunday at Mt. Zion Church by Rev. J. A. Francis and C. B. Clark, and the remains were interred in the cemetery of this city. Fifty-three years ago he was married to Miss Elisa Whitsitt, of Montgomery county, who survives him, with three children, Frank and John Miller and Mrs. Mattie Tanner, wife of David H. Tanner.

	The deceased was a very quiet, unassuming man, but was one of our best citizens. For many years he had been a consistent member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and died as becomes a Christian. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 8, 1898 In Memoriam Died, suddenly, at his home near Tanner’s Store, March 4th, Uncle Elijah Miller, aged 76 years. Mr. Miller was one of our best citizens in every respect, meek and mild in his disposition, an affectionate husband, a kind and generous neighbor. He lived a consistent member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church since early manhood. He leaves a most excellent wife and three loving children with numerous friends and relatives to mourn his loss. He was very energetic, always ready to do good wherever he could. He has put on the robe of immortality and gone to live in the sunshine of God’s love. Let us not think evil of the one that calls us our loved ones, since our family ties are often broken to remind us that we too are approaching the river of death. We know he will be sadly missed in his home and among his friends and neighbors. Yet through our tears we must look to Jesus and find comfort in his precious promises, knowing his sufferings are at an end. Having been an invalid several years previous to his death, he bore his affliction with patience, being tenderly nursed by his loving companion and devoted son, who always stood ready to administer to his wants. The funeral service was ably handled by Brother Francis, of Winchester, at Mt. Zion Church, after which a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends, followed his remains to the Winchester Cemetery and tenderly laid him to rest. The bereaved family have our heartfelt sympathy, for we loved him as a neighbor. May God send His comforting spirit to the lonely family, bind up their broken hearts with his divine love and so guide them through life that when they too are called to cross the river they may have a joyous meeting at the gates of the celestial city with all these loved ones gone before is the prayer of the writer. They stopped at the home of Will Devary of get their little daughter Leota. Before the little girl could enter the vehicle the horses became frightened and ran off. Mrs. Tanner jumped from the vehicle and fell, striking the back of her head and crushing her skull, from the effects of which she died that night. Mr. Tanner remained in the vehicle, until it struck an obstruction and was wrecked, but he was not hurt. The funeral of Mrs. Tanner was preached at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church by Rev. J. A. Francis and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. She was about forty-two years old and was a daughter of the late Elijah Miller. She was a good, true woman with many friends. She leaves a husband and two children, a son, Linnie aged 19, and Leota aged 9. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 27, 1903.

Miller, George	W. Scott Glore, for several years largely interested in the Frankfort Lottery of Kentucky, died of paralysis of the brain at his residence in Louisville last week, aged forty-eight years. He leaves a fortune of $150,000 for a widow and one son. A strange fatality has followed the owners of this lottery. Ex Gov. Bramlette, one of the founders, fell dead of heart disease before he realized any of his profits; C. M. Briggs, another, met the same fate; W. D. Barrow made a fortune in it and died suddenly while on a visit to Colorado; Chas. J. Howard, one of the founders, and who also was one of the starters of the New Orleans lottery was thrown from a buggy in New York and killed; M. L. Stewart, who had a long legal contest about the lottery, fell dead on the street, and George Miller, a prominent owner, died of delirium tremens. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 2-13-1889
Miller, George	A Winner Killed. Cheating Alleged by a Poker Player—He Procured a Shotgun and Made Use of It, Killing a Man. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 25.—George Miller, aged 30 years, a driver for a tannery, was shot and instantly killed by John Isenberger, also a teamster, Thursday night shortly after 10 o'clock. The shooting occurred at Piazza's saloon, Jacob and Breckinridge streets, and was the result of a quarrel over a card game. The men and several others began playing poker shortly after 7 o'clock. Isenberger lost heavily and finally accused Miller of cheating. This the latter denied, and Isenberger declared that he "would stand it no longer" and left the saloon. He returned a short while later with a double-barreled shotgun and demanded the money he lost. Miller, who was the biggest winner, laughed at him. This angered Isenberger and he struck Miller. The latter picked up a poker and began beating his adversary over the head with it. Isenberger finally pushed him off and raising his gun fired both barrels at the man, who fell dead. His breast was horribly torn. Isenberger was arrested. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 29, 1898

Miller, George Bruce Taylor Jr.	George Bruce Taylor Miller, Jr, 88 years old, born in Somerset, Kentucky died peacefully at home with his family Sunday, July 18, 2021. He was a member of First Christian Church of Winchester. Bruce, as he liked to be called, was twice a widower, first to his early love of 20 years Linda Oaks, in 1983 with whom he fathered three children, and in 2012 to his great love of 25 years, Donna Allen. They combined her three children with his to become the local Brady Bunch. He is also preceded in death by his son Richard, his parents George Bruce Taylor Miller and Elizabeth Lilleston and his sister Annelle Goodin. He is survived by his children: GB Taylor Miller III; Melissa (Alex), Bilbao, Spain; Anne (DJ) Gabbard, John (Janis) Allen, Nancy (Fielding) Turner. Grandchildren Zack, Justin and Andrew Allen and Henry Turner, all of Winchester, KY. Cousins Joe, Bill and Bruce Betts, his amazing caregivers Ann Shepherd and Terri Nicely and special friend Martha Gamble. Following graduation from Paris High School and the University of Kentucky, he served as a 2nd Lt through an ROTC commission serving for 21 months as an Army infantry officer and discharged a 1st Lt. He was then a licensed Registered Representative for the now defunct Kentucky Co., an investment firm. Afterwards he accepted a position with KY State Government, serving under three governors with his final position as Director of Accounts in the Dept. of Finance. Next came an appointment with a USAID contractor as Accounting Advisor and Chief of Party to the governments of Afganistan and Pakistan, where he spent five years with his family in those countries. His daughter was born in Afganistan. He then accepted an appointment to the University of Kentucky, where he remained for 25 years serving under three Presidents until his retirement in 1995, with his final position as Director of Employee Benefits. He then joined Donna in her home accessory business, It's a Keeper, in Winchester until they both finally retired in 2003. Donna and Bruce travelled extensively, both in country and abroad. Six trips stood out as highlights of their extensive travel life. First, their trip to Antartica and Buenos Aires, where they were joined by Melissa and Richard. Second, the trip to Alaska with all the children and grandchildren. Third, the trip to France and England. Fourth, the trip to Greece and Turkey with Donna's sister, Penny, and fifth the trip up the St. Lawrence from Rochester to Halifax, Canada, and lastly, the train ride from Maysville to Portland culminating in a paddle wheel boat trip up the Columbia and Snake Rivers. Other memorable trips to include trips on Donna's father's boat including the trip around Manhattan Island (up close to the Statue of Liberty), the trip from KY Lake to MS and MO rivers in Michigan, the trip up the Atlantic coast from Hilton Head to Annapolis (with Nancy and John) and the trip from Louisville down the Tom Bigby Canal to Mobile, AL with Annie. Donna and Bruce especially enjoyed the Isle of Palms in SC, spending many happy weeks there with family members and friends visiting each year, and Taylor was especially helpful in transportation to and from KY. The Pallbearers will be John Allen, Zack Allen, Justin Allen, Andrew Allen, DJ Gabbard, Fielding and Henry Turner. Honorary pallbearers include Alex Garcia, Doyle Stone, Charles Houghland, and Will Hodgkin and his many friends in the Rosemary Brooks community, as well as countless others too numerous to mention. Services will be held on Friday, July 23, at 1:00 pm, at the First Christian Church, 24 E. Hickman St., Winchester with Rev. Jerry Johns and Dr. Ed Mesta officiating. Visitation will take place from 11:00 am till the hour of service. Burial in Winchester Cemetery. Miller, Gregory		GREGORY AUGUST MILLER May 10, 1960 – November 9, 2022 HEY!! On a beautiful fall Kentucky afternoon, we unexpectedly lost our youngest brother and loving uncle Gregory too soon at the age of 62. Those who knew and loved Greg enjoyed his dry sense of humor and unique wit. He loved his family and had a smile and a hug that could turn any bad mood around. Greg loved dogs, especially his beloved lab Gus, and cared for many strays throughout his life. An avid outdoorsman, Greg took pride in his garden, sharing the bounty with everyone, and loved every single tree surrounding his cabin home. He most enjoyed the scenic and serene views from his cabin porch, which overlooked his Estill County property, and a beer or two at the local pub with his friends. Oh, he made a mean pot of chili if you could take the heat! We are truly heartbroken with his passing.... A 20 plus year veteran of the Madison County Post Office, Gregory is survived by his brothers, Edward Miller (Linda) of Newark, OH and Gary Miller of Winchester, and a sister, Marlene Mason (Silas) of Lexington. Also survived by nephews, (“nefews”) E. Scott Miller (Lindsay) and Claiborne Mason, and niece, Mary Elizabeth Lorenz (Andy) plus five grand nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, Othel E. “Mutt” and Alma M. Miller, Isaac		Strange Fatality. Isaac Miller Dies at Louisville While on His Way Here to Attend the Funeral of His Son, Wm. Miller. A coincidence that rarely occurs was the burial of father and son in our local cemetery Monday afternoon. Our people are familiar with circumstances by which William Miller, or "Chic," as he was better known, an officer of the Citizen's Bank, left home last January. Notice has also been made in these columns of his shipwreck and rescue and finally of his death of meningitis at Skaguay, Alaska, where he had charge of a hotel. When his relatives here heard of the latter event they determined to bring the remains home for burial. Gibson Taylor, formerly of this city, but now of Seattle, Washington, who knew the deceased well, took charge of the matter, after being thoroughly satisfied by personal inspection that the remains were really those of Mr. Miller. They were shipped by way of Chicago and reached here Saturday. The coffin was opened here and the remains were viewed by quite a number of his former associates; although swollen and discolored, the features were easily recognizable and were fully identified as those of "Chic" Miller. This should set at rest all doubts that have heretofore existed on this score. In the meantime, Isaac Miller, of Nashville, Tenn., and father of the deceased, was notified of the expected arrival of the body of his son and started to Winchester. When he reached Louisville he, by mistake, purchased a ticket for this city over the L. & N.

	road, when he wished to come by another road. The conductor informed him of his mistake, at the same time telling him he had ample time to correct it and not to hurry. Mr. Miller was an old man, feeble and nervous, and the haste and excitement proved too much for him. Shortly after getting his ticket exchanged and getting back to his train, he fell and in a few moments was dead. The remains were taken to a local undertaker's and prepared for burial. Dr. Miller was notified and at once ordered the body be sent here for burial. It was taken to Dr. Miller's residence on its arrival Sunday, and from thence to the cemetery where father and son were buried yesterday afternoon, Rev. B. B. Bailey conducting the services at the grave, in the absence of Dr. Chisholm, of the Presbyterian church, of which both the deceased were members, the father having been an officer in that church for half a century. Isaac Miller was a native of this county, and was 75 years old; he was the oldest of a family of four children, of which Dr. Wash. Miller was the youngest and is now the sole survivor. He was three times married. His first wife was Miss Sallie Lewis, daughter of Alpheus Lewis, of this county; two children, the result of this union, are living. Mrs. Sallie Wigginton, of Lexington, and Isaac Miller, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn. After her death he married Mrs. Kay of Fayette county; several children by this wife are living and reside in Missouri. His second wife having died, he married again, his third wife being Mrs. Bridgeforth, of Missouri, who survives him. She was a native of this county, a daughter of James Wallace who went from here to Missouri shortly after the civil war. Mr. Miller was highly esteemed by those who knew him and will be well remembered by most of our older citizens as he lived here until about the close of the war. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 16, 1898 On Their Way Here. J. D. Simpson, administrator of the estate of the late William Miller, received a telegram Wednesday from Gibson Taylor at Seattle, Washington, that Miller's remains would be shipped from that place Wednesday night and they will probably reach here Sunday. Mr. Taylor says he viewed the remains and recognized the deceased without any doubt whatever. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 12, 1898

The bullet entered under the chin and ranged upward passing through and fracturing the skull. He was carried to Mt. Sterling where the wounds were pronounced fatal. He had evidently prepared for the deed, as he also had a large package of morphine. He said trouble was the cause. Three months ago his mother-in-law, to whom he was much attached, died. Six weeks ago his brother was burned to death in a railroad wreck at Salt Lick, and a few days ago his wife was taken to the hospital desperately, ill. Just before he shot himself he helped to transfer a corpse at this place and seemed much depressed. The Winchester Democrat Tue., March 27, 1906

Miller, Jerry W.	Jerry W. Miller, age 52, died Tuesday, April 30, 2013, at Maine General Medical Center, Augusta Campus. He was born in Amarillo, Texas, on Aug. 14, 1960, to John and Essie (Caskey) Miller. Mr. Miller was a graduate of George Rogers Clark High School in Winchester, Ky. He was extensively educated in Automotive Repair by GMC for numerous years. Jerry headed the service department at a local dealership for many years before opening his own shop 15 years ago. Mr. Miller was pre-deceased by his father and three brothers: Johnny, Earl and Paul Miller. He is survived by his wife, Kathy (Ketchum) Miller of Augusta; a son, Michael Stevenson of Augusta; his mother, Essie (Caskey) Miller of Winchester; four brothers, Jim, Rusty, Lonnie and Embry Miller, all of Kentucky; four sisters, Patty Tyra, Ruby Salley, Betty Gay Tipton and Linda Lewis, all of Kentucky; his four-legged children, Buddy and Girly Dog, as well as many nieces, nephews and cousins. Jerry is also survived by special friends, Robbie and Bree Morin and their children, Conor, Parker and Kate, Pierre, Alain, Bruno and Ray Blais and Ed Bonefant, as well as many others that are too numerous to mention. Jerry had a heart of gold. He thought of others before himself. He made time for everyone and would always help people in need. Many of his customers became lifelong friends. He was a great teacher. A graveside funeral will be held at 2 p.m. on June 8 at the Westbend Cemetery in Powell County. The Winchester Sun June 7, 2013

Miller, John	AA	Received A Fatal Blow Richmond, Ky., Dec. 20 While drinking and in a prankish mood, Marcellus Devore, son of William Devore, superintendent of the Richmond Transfer Company, killed John Miller, colored, by striking him on the temple with an unloaded pistol. There had been no previous ill feeling between the men. Miller, who was employed in Lexington, had just arrived on a train to visit his mother, and stepped into Sexton's saloon to get a drink. After being struck by Devore he walked a half mile to the police judge's office and had a official arrest issued for Devore. The wounded man went to his mother's home and before he could tell her what had befallen him he fell dead from exhaustion. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Jan. 2, 1900 Held For Murder Sil. Miller, Mrs. Elizabeth	Death of Mr. Eliza Miller. Mrs. Eliza Miller died Saturday at her home near Tanner's Store after a lingering illness, aged about seventy-two years. She was the widow of Elijah Miller, and before her marriage was Miss Whitsitt. She leaves two sons, Frank and John, and one daughter, Mrs. D. H. Tanner, to mourn her death. The funeral was preached at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church Sunday by Rev. J. A. Francis and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. She was a good, true woman who will be greatly missed. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 9, 1899  Will Probated Mrs. Miller devised the one-fifth interest in the estate left by her husband, Elijah Miller, to her three children, S. F. Miller, J. B. Miller and Mrs. Mattie Tanner. The reason given was that her daughter, Maria, had already received three thousand dollars. The will was dated May 4, 1899. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 26, 1899

Miller, Mrs. G.A.	Death of Mrs. G.A. Miller Monday, Sept. 25 th , at the parsonage of the Ninth St., Christian church, Washington, D.C., Mrs. George A. Miller died of acute indigestion. The remains were taken to Illinois, her native State for burial. Mrs. Miller was widely known throughout this State, where she lived for many years. Her husband succeeded the late Rev. W.S. Keene in the Christian church of Covington when he came to this city. About three years ago Rev. Miller was called to the church in Washington where he and his wife have labored faithfully, endearing themselves to hundreds of friends. Mrs. Miller's sweet, pure Christian spirit, was an inspiration. Her memory a benediction. With others here who knew and loved her, we extend sympathy to her bereaved husband. Miller, Mrs. Louann B.	Died—At the residence of her son, near Carpentersville, Putnam county, Indiana, on the 5 th inst., of dropsy, Mrs. Louann B. Miller, mother of the junior editor and publisher of this paper, in the 58 th year of her age. The deceased was born in Clark County, Kentucky, June 6 th , 1816, and consequently lacked one day of being 57 years and 7 months old at the time of her death. Although left a widow before she was 25, she remained true to the memory of her husband, and never married again. She had been a consistent member of the Baptist church for more than a quarter of a century, and died in the blessed hope of beyond the grave. “Unveil thy bosom, faithful tomb; Take this new treasure to thy trust, And give those stored relics room, To slumber in the silent dust. Nor pain, nor grief, nor anxious fear, Invade thy bounds; no mortal woes, ease the peaceful sleeper here, Which angels watch the soft repose.” Deniteur Magnet Clark County Democrat Thur., 1-25-1872

Miller, Reva Jane Stanfield	Reva Jane Stanfield Miller took her last breath in her home on April 18, 2021. She was 75 years old. Born on September 18, 1945, in Winchester, KY to Elizabeth Tomlin and Ocie Stanfield, Reva was not only beautiful but also determined, fearless, confident, and absolutely devoted to her family. Reva was the third oldest of six children and the eldest of her sisters. The three sister's devotion to each other was unbreakable. Reva had a zest for life and was a lover of travel, but she always called Winchester her home. Reva spent her career as a caregiver, which suited her because she was always taking care of someone, whether a friend or a family member. No one could escape Reva's kindness, for she was always helping others whenever possible. Outside of taking care of her family, Reva was a fantastic cook. She was also a lover of animals, an avid quilter, a skilled marksman, and enjoyed fishing. Reva left behind her beloved husband of eleven years, Charles Miller, her brothers Otis (Barbara) Stanfield and Leonard Hall, and her sisters Arlene Fugate and Catherine Hall Campbell. She will also be remembered with love by numerous nieces and nephews, including Tony Stanfield, Cynthia "Cindy" Wills, Jeanie Byrd, Jonathan Campbell, Daniel Campbell, Johanna Hall-Rappolee, Kylie Rappolee, Meredith Campbell, and Nathan Campbell. Reva was predeceased by her parents, and a nephew, Robert Ashley. Reva's family will have a graveside burial at the Winchester Cemetery on Friday at 1:00 PM. Those who were fortunate enough to know her may join us to reminisce. Together we will heal in memory of our beloved Reva. The Winchester Sun April 23-25, 2021 + Scobee Funeral Home

Miller, Shelby	Shelby Miller, 68, husband of Kathy Miller, of Winchester, KY, passed away on Wednesday, September 26, 2018 after a short battle with Lymphoma.  He was born on July 27, 1950, to the late Cornwallis and Canzalia Combs Miller, in Clay City, KY.  In addition to his loving wife of 48 years, he is survived by two sons, Brian (Lisa) and Jeremy (Helena); two grandchildren, Angela and Shelby Dean. Shelby was a loving father and husband and will be remembered by all who knew him as a kind, hard-working man, always willing and ready to help others. It is because of his strength and kindness that his family thrived.  Shelby worked as a laborer with the Laborers International Union of North America for most of his life, moving on to work as a Field Rep, Business Manager, and eventually Regional Training Director for Kentucky. Shelby had a strong love for his fellow man and dedicated much of his life to fighting for workers' rights and fair treatment.  Funeral services will be at 1:00PM, Saturday, September 29, 2018 at Scobee Funeral Home. Burial will be in Combs-Miller Family Cemetery in Clay City, KY.  Visitation will be Friday, September 28, 2018 from 6:00-8:00PM at Scobee Funeral Home.  The Winchester Sun September 28, 2018
Miller, Shelia M.	Sheila Miller, passed away on Tuesday July 5, 2022. She was 90 years old and had been in poor health since August 2021. Since that time, she had been hospitalized multiple times and finally was placed in an extended care facility.  Sheila was involved with dogs for most of her adult life. She first had St. Bernards and when she lived in Southern California, she had both a St. Bernard and Clumber Spaniel Judge. Her last Clumber, received from a member of the Lexington Kennel Club, died about 2 years ago. She loved him a lot but conceded that Clumbers were her life! Sheila was a member of the Lexington Kennel Club, the Clumber Spaniel Club of America, and the United States Coton de Tulear Club.  Until her retirement in about 2010 Sheila was employed by General Atomics in Southern California. She worked with computers for many years including the time when one computer took up an entire room. Unknown to most people she was a member of MENSA, the largest and oldest high IQ society in the world.  In April of 1996, the Clumber Spaniel Club of America held its national specialty at the Kentucky Horse Park. This area is incredibly beautiful in April and Sheila moved here in approximately 2012 when she retired. Both in Southern California and in Lexington, Sheila was involved with community theatre in addition to her life with Clumbers. She was in several drama clubs here including Studio Players.  At her request, there will be no funeral services.  The Winchester Sun July 8-10, 2022 + Scobee Funeral Home

Miller, Thomas "T.B."	 Thomas "T.B." Miller, 93, of Winchester, passed away Friday at Clark Regional Medical Center. He was the husband of Ann Taylor Miller for 70 years, and the son of the late Ovia and Flora Parrish Miller. In addition to his wife, he is survived by one sister, Inez McDonald of Cleveland, Ohio. He was preceded in death by nine brothers and sisters. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Samuel Peoples at 1 p.m. today at Broadway Baptist Church. Visitation will be from 11 a.m. to the hour of service. Burial will be in the Clarmont Memorial Garden. Adams-Hill Funeral Home is in charge of all arrangements. The Winchester Sun June 14, 2012 Veteran, businessman Thomas Miller dies in Clark County Former Tuskegee Airman and Winchester businessman Thomas Miller died Friday at 93. Miller was born in Madison County in 1918, but spent most of his life in Winchester after moving here at age 4. Although his military career took him overseas for three years, he returned home to establish the two businesses he ran with his wife, Ann. Thomas Miller and the former Ann Taylor were married three months when Miller was drafted in October 1942, when he began training to work as part of the ground crew for the famed Tuskegee Airmen. His service brought him numerous awards and accolades over the years, Ann Miller said, and he enjoyed attending reunions and awards ceremonies when his health allowed it. The Millers attended church together at Broadway Baptist as children, and continued their membership into adulthood. Thomas Miller was the oldest male member of the congregation before his death, and he served the church in numerous capacities. The two began dating as high school students at the old Oliver High School, where Thomas Miller was three grades ahead of his future wife. After graduating, Miller began working for the Bell family on North Maple Street, serving as a chauffeur and working in the home. He briefly attended Fiske University in Nashville after the war, but came back to Winchester to open his service station and taxi company on West Washington Street. The Millers worked at the service station together for 23 years before opening another business, Maple Street Liquor Store. The couple also ran the liquor store for more than 20 years. "We were in business together for over 50 years," Ann Miller said. Thomas Miller was a hard worker all his life, Ann Miller said, beginning with his paper route at age 10. In 1955, the Millers moved to Los Angeles, where they lived for a year, also operating a service station owned by a friend. In 1952, they bought the home on South Burns Avenue where they lived for 60 years. Ann Miller said because the home was not in the black community, they had to fight to live in the neighborhood. "He enjoyed being in business. We had a pretty good business. We managed to make a living out of it. We came a long way and worked hard together. The Lord blessed us," Ann Miller said. Funeral services will be Thursday at 1 p.m. at Broadway Baptist Church. Visitation will be from 11 a.m. until the hour of service. "Overall, he was a good husband and friend," Ann Miller said. The Winchester Sun June 12, 2012

Miller, William L.		A Sad Story. Our readers will remember the sudden and unaccountable disappearance last winter of Mr. William Miller, then teller of the Citizens' National Bank of this place. He was seen on the train going to Louisville, was at Tucson, Arizona, and was believed to have gone to the Klondike. It was a strange affair to all who knew him. He was connected with many of the best people in this county, had married a most estimable lady and for years had been regarded as one of the safest and best bank officers in the county. It turns out that he is dead. The story is a sad one. He got to Seattle in January. His friends have a page of a hotel register sent from that city on which his name is written "William L. Miller," January 14, 1898, in what is undoubtedly his own handwriting. He shipped for Skaguay on the Corona which was wrecked on an island off the coast of Alaska. He with other passengers was rescued and taken to his destination. On shipboard, he was observed because of his genteel appearance and good manners. A Mrs. Stark, who was having a hotel built at Skaguay, and whose husband was taken sick at Seattle and could not accompany her, engaged Mr. Miller's services to manage her hotel. When they got there, the house had not been finished and Mrs. Stark suggested to him to get other employment temporarily until she was ready for him. He got a place as clerk at another hotel and in February took spinal meningitis and becoming at once delirious, died in thirty-six hours. Accompanying Mrs. Stark from Seattle was a lady from Minnesota named Hilliard, who also got acquainted with Mr. Miller and was rescued after the wreck. Her husband met her at Skaguay, and crossing the Chilcoot Pass, she went to the gold regions, but the glare of the snow so affected her eyes that she was compelled to return. When she got to Skaguay on her way back, she stopped with Mrs. Stark and on inquiring about Mr. Miller, learned that he was dead. He had told her he was from Kentucky, but she thought he was from Louisville. Coming East she met T. C. H. Vance, who had been to

	the Klondike and suggested to him to have Miller's death mentioned in the Courier-Journal, as his friends might not have heard of his fate. She told him to add that Mrs. Stark, who was then in Seattle could give fuller particulars. Mr. Vance gave the item to the Courier-Journal as requested, and his friends here seeing it, immediately wrote to Gibson Taylor, now a resident of Seattle, requesting him to find out what he could about the matter. He saw the Starks, who had Mr. Miller's watch and other personal effects, not knowing to whom to send them, as he became unconscious so suddenly when taken sick as to leave no directions. The watch has the number recorded here by Baldwin Bros., who sold it to him. There is also a photograph taken after he left Seattle, which is recognized as that of Will Miller. He was buried at Skaguay and his grave marked. There can be no doubt of his death. The cause of his going away is easily understood in view of what has since been discovered. He was largely in debt, having invested heavily at Big Stone Gap and in the old Opera House. His salary would not pay the interest on what he owed. He could not face his failure and went off to retrieve his fortunes. His accounts at the bank were all right. He collected some money the day he left as treasurer of the Opera House which was placed to the Company's credit. He would not tell his wife or his uncle, Dr. Miller, of his intentions to leave because he knew how much they would be opposed to his doing so. Mrs. Miller has the tenderest sympathy of our entire community. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 1, 1898 On Their Way Here. J. D. Simpson, administrator of the estate of the late William Miller, received a telegram Wednesday from Gibson Taylor at Seattle, Washington, that Miller's remains would be shipped from that place Wednesday night and they will probably reach here Sunday. Mr. Taylor says he viewed the remains and recognized the deceased without any doubt whatever. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 12, 1898 Strange Fatality. Isaac Miller Dies at Louisville While on His Way Here to Attend the Funeral of His Son, Wm. Miller. A coincidence that rarely occurs was the burial of father and son in our local cemetery Monday afternoon. Our people are familiar with circumstances by which William Miller, or "Chic," as he was better known, an officer of the Citizen's Bank, left home last January. Notice has also been made in these columns of his shipwreck and rescue and finally of his death of meningitis at Skaguay, Alaska, where he had charge of a hotel. When his relatives here heard of the latter event they determined to bring the remains home for burial. Gibson Taylor, formerly of this city, but now of Seattle, Washington, who knew the deceased well, took charge of the matter, after being thoroughly satisfied by personal inspection that the remains were really those of Mr. Miller. They were shipped by way of Chicago and reached here Saturday. The coffin was opened here and the remains were viewed by quite a number of his former associates; although swollen and discolored, the features were easily recognizable and were fully identified as those of "Chic" Miller. This should set at rest all doubts that have heretofore existed on this score. In the meantime, Isaac Miller, of Nashville, Tenn., and father of the deceased, was notified of the expected arrival of the body of his son and started to Winchester. When he reached Louisville he, by mistake, purchased a ticket for this city over the L. &amp; N. road, when he wished to come by another road. The conductor informed him of his mistake, at the same time telling him he had ample time to correct it and not to hurry. Mr. Miller was an old man, feeble and nervous, and the haste and excitement proved too much for him. Shortly after getting his ticket exchanged and getting back to his train, he fell and in a few moments was dead. The remains were taken to a local undertaker's and prepared for burial. Dr. Miller was notified and at once ordered the body be sent here for burial. It was taken to Dr. Miller's residence on its arrival Sunday, and from thence to the cemetery where father and son were buried yesterday afternoon, Rev. B. B. Bailey conducting the services at the grave, in the absence of Dr. Chisholm, of the Presbyterian church, of which both the deceased were members, the father having been an officer in that church for half a century. Isaac Miller was a native of this county, and was 75 years old; he was the oldest of a family of four children, of which Dr. Wash. Miller was the youngest and is now the sole survivor. He was three times married. His first wife was Miss Sallie Lewis, daughter of Alpheus Lewis, of this county; two children, the result of this union, are living. Mrs. Sallie Wigginton, of Lexington, and Isaac Miller, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn. After her death he married Mrs. Kay of Fayette county; several children by this wife are living and reside in Missouri. His second wife having died, he married again, his third wife being Mrs. Bridgeforth, of Missouri, who survives him. She was a native of this county, a daughter of James Wallace who went from here to Missouri shortly after the civil war. Mr. Miller was highly esteemed by those who knew him and will be well remembered by most of our older citizens as he lived here until about the close of the war. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 16, 1898

Miller, Wm.	Disobedience Of Orders Causes a Terrible Wreck on the L. &amp; N. Road Near Upton, Ky.,--Three Men Are Dead Elizabethtown, Ky., Jan. 26.—A disastrous head-end collision between two freight trains on the Louisville &amp; Nashville railroad about a quarter of a mile north of Upton, which is 15 miles south of this point, at 1:45 o'clock. Tuesday morning. Three men were killed instantly and four were badly injured. The killed are: Wm. Miller, engineer of No. 16, of Louisville; Lee Ellison, brakeman on No. 16, of Louisville; unknown tramp, about 22 years of age. The injured are: Smith King, brakeman, Louisville, arm broken and skull thought to be fractured; Clarence Ryan, brakeman, Louisville, scalp wounds and badly bruised; J. M. Burnett, engineer No. 71, flesh wounds; Frank Bell, Western Union line repaired, hip broken. The bodies of Engineer Miller and Brakeman Ellison have not been recovered and are still under debris of the two engines, which are piled high upon each other. The wreck was caused by Engineer Miller's disobedience in not obeying orders. He had instructions to wait at Upton for the arrival of the southbound train, No. 71, but did not do so. A quarter of a mile beyond the station, on a curve, the collision occurred. A wrecking train with several physicians was sent out from Louisville immediately and began work. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 1, 1898

Mills, John Augustus	Death Of Dr. Mills Dr. John Augustus Mille died quite suddenly of heart disease yesterday morning at his home on South Main street, aged about seventy years. He came of a distinguished

	family of physicians and surgeons both his father and grandfather as well as himself being noted members of the profession. During the civil war he was a surgeon in the regiment of Kentucky Federal troops commanded by Col. Brax Grigsby. His wife, formerly Miss Carrie Simpson, survives him, as does one daughter, Miss Daisy Mills. He also has a brother and two sisters in Kansas City, Mo. At the time of going to press no arrangements for the funeral had been made. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Dec. 26, 1899 The Late Dr. John A. Mills. The recent death of Dr. Mills, in his seventieth year has left a vacancy in the medical profession of which he was a talented and gifted member. He had a host of friends who admired him for his many good traits of character. He was the eldest son of the late lamented Doctor A. W. Mills, who lived in Winchester all his life, and was a physician and surgeon of State reputation, and was possessed of brilliant talents. He died in the meridian of life. He left no superior and but a few equals in his profession in Kentucky. He was married in early life to Miss Eliza Buckner, of this city, who was a superior woman, and whom he survived several years. His father, Dr. John Mills, was a practicing physician in Winchester and Clark county for a half century, who after an exemplary career and full of toil, left Winchester, when nearly ninety years of age, with his aged wife to spend the residue of their days with their days with their daughter, Mrs. Emily Hockaday, of Fulton, Missouri, where they died after the close of the civil war full of years and after well spent lives. The writer was present the morning of their departure for Missouri. Many old friends came to bid them farewell. It was a sad and pathetic scene—not soon to be forgotten by those who were present at the sorrowful severing of the many ties of mutual love and friendship. There was not a dry eye as they pronounced good-bye to the noble pair, with sincere wishes for their future happiness. Dr. John A. Mills continued the practice of medicine and ere long was chosen surgeon of the 8th Regiment of Kentucky Infantry Vole's., commanded by Colonel Sidney M. Barney, which regiment participated in several of the bloodiest and hottest contested battles of the civil war, and won deserved reputation for courage and gallantry. Dr. Mills, by his skill as a surgeon and physician, became endeared to the regiment. Several of the soldiers of the regiment were killed in battle and quite a number received capital wounds, who were treated successfully by Dr. Mills and his assistant surgeon. Several of the wounded were ordered by the Medical Board for amputation of their limbs, who were saved and spared from that dreadful ordeal by the masterly skill and humanity of the subject of this brief sketch. John A. Mills was a gentleman in his bearing and deportment with others. Fifteen years ago he united with the Presbyterian Church in this city, and had ever since been a consistent member. After his return from the army he married Miss Carrie Simpson, of this city, a most estimable lady, and great church worker, and prominent but not ostentatious in acts of kindness and charity. She and their lovely daughter survive him, and have the sympathy of our people in their irreparable loss. Doctor Mills was handsome in features and form. It was the good fortune of the writer to have been with him as a companion on several occasions on the fishing shore, and while in camp he was as scrupulously neat in his person and apparel as he appeared in public on the streets of Winchester. He was social and enjoyed life. He was a link between the present and the past in the society of Winchester, and was one of the survivors of a generation now nearly passed away. His memory will be kindly cherished by the survivors and by those who have succeeded them. J. F. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 12, 1900

Milward, Robert	Robert Kavanaugh Milward, 73, of Winchester, Kentucky, passed away at 2:53pm on Thursday, February 18, 2021 in his home after a long battle with ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease). Just like he dealt with all experiences in life, Robert managed his illness with strength and grace, and wanted to spend as much time with his loved ones as possible. He was surrounded by his wife, Jo Milward (Harrison) and his children, Olivia Claire May (Milward), Robert Stevenson Milward, all who he adored more than anything else in the world. Robert Kavanaugh Milward was born March 21, 1947 in Lexington, KY to the late Burton and Francis Milward (Newell). In addition to his wife, Robert is survived by daughter Olivia Claire May (Chris), son Robert Stevenson Milward (Melissa), daughters by marriage: Jolie (Jon) Thompson, Johnna (Brad) Atkinson-Bigelow, and Jill (Amber) Atkinson-Petter. Grandchildren: Kayla May, Brittany May, Jonathan May, Lily Milward, Everlee Milward, Gwendolyn Milward and Vanna Milward. Grandchildren by marriage: Cade Thompson, Chloe Thompson, Braden Bigelow, Emerson Atkinson-Petter and Hudson Atkinson-Petter. Great Grandchildren: Ambriella Smith and Dawson May. Siblings: Dudley Zopp (Milward) and Burton Milward, Jr., nieces and their families. He was preceded in death by his parents and granddaughter by marriage, Brynlee Bigelow. Robert's love for leading an adventurous life began with his Air Force Career. He was a member of the Strategic Air Command with the United States Airforce. He flew the KC135s and fueled up the B52 Bomber planes. Being a pilot was always his passion. He continued that passion even on the ground where he was an avid model airplane builder and pilot. He spent many Fridays with his Lexington Model Airplane Club (LMAC) friends flying at the LMAC field and indoors at the College Park Gym. Even at home he often could be found on his flight simulator. As a proud Air Force veteran, he was also a member of the Paralyzed Veterans of America. Robert always had a knack for real life problem solving and loved learning everything he could about new technology. He excelled at engineering innovations at the Hyatt earlier in his life. These skills served him well as he battled his ALS diagnosis and researched the latest advances in adaptive technology to help him live his best life in spite of the horrible effects ALS had on his body, but not his keen mind. Robert was an avid equestrian. In 2008, Robert founded the Buffalo Trace Mounted Search and Rescue Team. It became a passion for him and his legacy. He spent the next 10 years as their Chief. In addition to all his various interests, he was also a skilled

	carpenter and built the barn and cabin that are still on the farm where his daughter, grandchildren and great grandchildren currently live. It was on this farm in Maysville, KY that founded the Buffalo Trace Mounted Patrol. He retired his horse, Lady, to the farm, where she is still enjoying her retirement. In 2008 he met Jo. They fell in love and were married on December 21, 2010. She was the love of his life and it showed to anyone around them. A Celebration of Robert's amazing, adventurous, love-filled Life will be held at 9:00 a.m. with services immediately following at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, February 23, 2021 at Scobee Funeral Home on Lexington Ave. in Winchester, KY. All friends and loved ones who will miss his endearing presence are invited to attend following proper Covid protocols. In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting you send memorial donations to the ALS Foundation in hopes that a cure is found for this horrible disease so that no other family will know the heartache and devastation it can bring into the lives of so many wonderful people, like Robert Kavanaugh Milward. The Winchester Sun February 23, 2021 + Scobee Funeral Home

Miner, Patricia Gale Hackworth	Patricia Gale Hackworth Miner, 74, wife of Clement Joseph Miner went to meet her Savior on Tuesday, July 19, 2016, after a long illness. She was born on November 30, 1941 in Clark County, Kentucky, to the late Henry Thomas and Daisy Mae Hall Hackworth. She was a member of the St. Joseph Catholic Church and retired from Lexington-Bluegrass Army Depot. In addition to her husband, she is survived by four daughters, Angie (Marc) Devers of Indianapolis, Shelly Miner, Pam Greer and Jennifer (Chris) Miles of Winchester; ten grandchildren, Joshua White, Chris (Alecia) Greer, Joel (Terri) White, Tabatha Greer, Ashley Tuttle, Whitney Tuttle, Matthew Tuttle, Tyler Miles, Courtney Miles and Rebekah Miles; ten great grandchildren, Makala, Ryan, Whitley, Zoey, Kayden, Brantley, Mayson, Jackson, Willie and Sophia; two sisters, Betty Crawford, Winchester, and Margaret (Wendell) Cole, Summerfield, Florida; numerous nephews, nieces and cousins. Gale graduated from Clark County High School in 1960. As a teenager she worked at Kress Five and Dime and Jack and Jill's. She met Clem in 1958 and they were married May 22, 1961. They celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary before her passing. Once she and Clem started a family, she chose to raise her daughters by blessing them with her strength and hard work ethic to ensure that her family was never in need. She canned vegetables from the garden, sewed clothes for her children, made many family meals and crocheted a number of afghans and baby blankets. She also managed to make the most of everything she had or bought. She would prepare for family camping trips so that weekend state park visits and vacations were fun for the whole family. After her children were in school, she worked at Conkwright Junior High in the cafeteria, then began her career at the Lexington-Bluegrass Army Depot in various organizations from 1982 until retiring in 1993. She was resilient, persistent and determined throughout her life and passed those qualities on to her four daughters. She was the matriarch of her family and will be greatly missed. Pallbearers will be Josh White, Joel White, Matthew Tuttle, Tyler Miles and Walter Hackworth of Winchester and Chris Greer of Nashville. Honorary pallbearers will be Marc Devers - Indianapolis, Chris Miles and Mike Crawford - Winchester, John Miner - Cadyville, New York, Wendell Cole and Bobby Faulkner - Summerfield, Florida and Tom Ellis, Tampa, Florida. Services will be held 10:00AM Friday, July 22, 2016, at St. Joseph Catholic Church. Visitation will be 6:00 until 9:00 PM on Thursday at Scobee Funeral Home. Burial will be in the Clarmont Memorial Gardens on Mount Sterling Road. Memorial contributions may be made to St. Joseph Catholic Church, 248 South Main Street, Winchester, KY 40391 and/or Hospice East, 407 Shoppers Drive, Winchester, KY 40391. The Winchester Sun July 20, 2016

Minton, Byron Keith	Byron Keith Minton, 52, passed away on Saturday, Oct. 10, 2015, in Winchester, Kentucky. He was born on May 23, 1963, to Ted and Rena Minton. Survivors include two daughters, Jennifer (Kevin) Basham of Georgetown and Keitha Griffith of Florida; two step-daughters, Amy (David) Airth of Frankfort and Jessica (Bobby) Roberts of Winchester; three grandsons, Jacob Ball, Bobby and Charlie Griffith; two granddaughters, Jayden Basham and Ariana Airth; two brothers, Kevin (Remona) Minton and Tracy Wilson; several nieces, nephews and special friend Anita Michelle Minton. Family will receive friends from 2 to 7 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 13, 2015, at Calvary Baptist Church, 204 French Ave., Winchester, KY.  The Winchester Sun October 13, 2015  A Paris man died early Saturday morning after his truck struck a tree along Lexington Road. Byron K. Minton, 52, was pronounced dead at the scene of the crash, Clark County Sheriff Berl Perdue Jr. said. According to the accident report, a witness called 911 after seeing a Dodge Ram pickup truck weaving across Lexington Road. As the truck approached Hud Road, the witness said the truck left the road, entered the ditchline and followed it until it struck a tree. In the report, Deputy Lee Murray said it appeared Minton struck his head on the right side of the windshield upon impact and suffered a significant gash to his forehead. Minton was not wearing a seat belt and alcohol may have been a factor in the crash, Perdue said. Photographs of the scene showed a couple of beer cans in the truck. Toxicology tests are pending, Perdue said. The impact also caused both air bags to deploy. No other vehicles were involved in the crash and Minton was alone in his vehicle. The Clark County Coroner's Office and the Clark County Fire Department also responded to the crash.  The Winchester Sun October 12, 2015

Mitchel, Clay	Suicide Clay Mitchel, aged 67, years, committed suicide by shooting himself in the stomach at about 11 o'clock, a. m., last Wednesday, near Sewell's Shop in the eastern part of the county. The jury summoned by Coroner Brinegar consisting of B. A. Tracy, R. P. Taylor, J. W. Hinzen, R. H. Scobee, T. N. Duncan and J. M. Sewell, returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts. Mr. Mitchel was a man of superior qualities and was at one time in good circumstances. He was separated from his second wife, and this may have been the cause of his rash act. The remains were carried to Ripley, Ohio, his old home, for interment, accompanied by his daughter and her husband, Mr. Bud Moore. Winchester Sentinel Wed., Nov. 5, 1902

Mitchell, Ben S.	SMITHFIELD, Ky., JUNE 4, 1900. One of the happiest home gatherings that had taken place in this section of the country in a long time was the reunion of an old and prominent family (June 1 and 2) Friday and Saturday. It was the coming together of the late Ben S. and Mary Mitchell at their picturesque old home a mile west of this place, which was settled by their Virginia ancestors in the early history of Kentucky and has been in the family for four generations and is occupied to-day by three of the children, Charles and Misses Fannie and Annie Mitchell. The other children are Mrs. Katherine Gardner and Mrs. Mattie Choat, of Louisville; D. T. Mitchell, who was a gallant Confederate Lieutenant in the 4th Kentucky Cavalry, and is now a wealthy planter in the black belt of Mississippi; W. D. Mitchell, a well to do farmer of Montgomery county, Ind.; Judge J. D. Mitchell, an attorney and editor of The Sun, at Winchester, Ky. The only one of the children not present was W. S. Mitchell, of Texas, who could not come on account of sickness in his family. There were several of the nieces and nephews and other relatives present and the occasion will long be remembered as a most happy and enjoyable one. Lieut. D. T. Mitchell, who has lived in Mississippi ever since the Civil War, had not been in Kentucky or visited his old home for twenty-eight years, and among the old comrades who served with him under Col. H. L. Giltner whom he met here, were Col. W. L. Crabb and W. B. Crabb, of Eminence; Geo. Doyle, of this place, John Calloway, of Louisville, and a number of others. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 19, 1900.

Mitchell, Cary	Committed Suicide. Wednesday, shortly before noon, Cary Mitchell, a white man, aged sixty-seven years, committed suicide at the home of his son-in-law, Bud Moore, near Sewell's shop, by shooting himself in the stomach with a forty-four calibre revolver. He was a man of very few words and while he had been exceedingly silent for some time, he had given no sign that he contemplated suicide. His daughter heard the shot, but paid no attention thinking it was fired by hunters near. When she went to call her husband to dinner she found the body of her father lying in the chimney corner, the shot having proved immediately fatal. Coroner Brinegar was notified and held an inquest with the following jury: B. A. Tracey, R. P. Taylor, J. W. Hinzen, R. H. Scobee, T. N. Duncan and J. M. Sewell. The jury brought in a verdict that he had died from the effects of a pistol shot fired by his own hand. The deceased came here about ten years ago from Brown county, Ohio, and was a man of more than ordinary intelligence, but of eccentric habits. He formerly possessed considerable property and at one time owned a drug store in an Ohio town. He bought tobacco here for a while, but for some time had done nothing on account of ill health. He leaves two children, Mrs. Moore, with whom he was living at the time of his death, and a son, Charles, who formerly lived here, but now is a resident of Levanna, Ohio. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 31, 1902

Mitchell, J. Ed.	Death Of J. E. Mitchell J. Ed. Mitchell, who went to Colorado Springs some months ago on account of his health, grew gradually worse, and a few days ago, started home. His strength was not equal to the journey, and he died before reaching St. Louis. His brother, Andrew, of Lexington, had gone to meet him at St. Louis, and accompanied the remains home, where they arrived last night. No arrangements for the funeral had been made at the time of going to press. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Nov. 16, 1900 Burial Of J. Ed. Mitchell In our last issue we briefly related that J. E. Mitchell died while on his way home from Colorado Springs, his death occurring at some point not far beyond St. Louis. His brother, Andrew, of Lexington, was waiting for him at St. Louis and accompanied the remains to this city where they arrived Thursday night. The remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery Saturday under the auspices of Winchester Lodge of Elks and Hickman Lodge of Odd Fellows. He was about thirty-two years of age and had lived here a number of years, succeeding his brother, Andrew, as agent for the C. and O. and L. and N. roads. He was a valuable employee of the road and was held in high esteem by the officials of the road. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Vertner Garner, to mourn his loss, to whom goes out the sympathy of our people. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Nov. 20, 1900 Sorrow and Pleasure. In sorrow we remember our brothers that have gone over the river; with pleasure we do honor to their memory. The Elk's memorial Services at the Opera House Sunday afternoon combined the two-sorrow and pleasure. The departed brothers in whose memory the services were held were, J. Edward Mitchell, Rodney Haggard, George W. Flanagan and N. V. Prewitt. The program as printed in last week's paper was followed. The singing by the Winchester Choral Society was fine indeed. "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Miss Elizabeth Robinson, Mrs. Savage and Messrs. Hodgkin and Wentworth was equal to the very best. The Solo by Mrs. Savage was especially pleasing. The address was delivered by Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge. It was the best, because it was the last we have heard him make. It is sad to think that in not so many years Breckinridge will be heard no more. He is a young man for his age of 66, and while we trust there are many more years of brightness and usefulness left to him, we realize that when he is gone there will be a vacancy that cannot be filled. After the service the Elks, with Col. Breckinridge, repaired to the Club Room where an hour was spent in cordial greetings. Col. Breckinridge kindly gave his autograph to the large number that asked for it. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, December 10, 1903.

An old grudge was the cause. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 27, 1895 Desperate Fight Two Men Stand and Fire at Each Other—One Dead, the Other Dying Berea, Ky., Dec. 26—A desperate fight took place here between two factions, in which Will Johnstone was killed instantly and Less Mitchell riddled with Bullets will die. The two men met on the streets of Berea and Mitchell approached Johnstone and threatened to blow his brains out. Both men drew their weapons simultaneously, and standing face to face, within three feet of each other, began firing. Each fired four shots. They then ran, each in a different direction toward their friends. Mitchell dropped to the ground before he had gone 50 yards. While on the ground four shots were fired by unknown parties and when Johnstone was reached it was found that his body was riddled and that he was dead. It is supposed the shots came from the friends of Mitchell. Mitchell's body was found 100 feet from the scene of the shooting with three bullets in it. He was still alive at last accounts, but can not live. The shooting is the outcome of an old grudge between the two men. A Christmas entertainment was in progress near which the shooting occurred and the firing almost caused a panic. Mitchell, Mrs. James	Killed His Wife. Jas. Mitchell is in jail at Mt. Sterling charged with killing his wife. He denies, but the woman's ten year old daughter says he struck her in the breast with his fist from which she died. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 13, 1898  The Mt. Sterling Wife Murderer A dispatch from Mt. Sterling says James Mitchell, charged with the murder of his wife by striking her with his fist, had his examining trial Thursday before Judge Hazelrigg, and was held to answer at Circuit Court in the sum of $500. In default of bail he was remanded to jail. The proof by the little daughter of the dead woman developed the fact that Mrs. Mitchell first assaulted her husband with a chair and then attempted to cut him with a large knife before he struck her. Mitchell, therefore, has a much better case than at first supposed, and the Court fixed his bail at a low figure. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 17, 1898

Mitchell, Mrs. Mary	SMITHFIELD, Ky., JUNE 4, 1900. One of the happiest home gatherings that had taken place in this section of the country in a long time was the reunion of an old and prominent family (June 1 and 2) Friday and Saturday. It was the coming together of the late Ben S. and Mary Mitchell at their picturesque old home a mile west of this place, which was settled by their Virginia ancestors in the early history of Kentucky and has been in the family for four generations and is occupied to-day by three of the children, Charles and Misses Fannie and Annie Mitchell. The other children are Mrs. Katherine Gardner and Mrs. Mattie Choat, of Louisville; D. T. Mitchell, who was a gallant Confederate Lieutenant in the 4 th Kentucky Cavalry, and is now a wealthy planter in the black belt of Mississippi; W. D. Mitchell, a well to do farmer of Montgomery county, Ind.; Judge J. D. Mitchell, an attorney and editor of The Sun, at Winchester, Ky. The only one of the children not present was W. S. Mitchell, of Texas, who could not come on account of sickness in his family. There were several of the nieces and nephews and other relatives present and

		the occasion will long be remembered as a most happy and enjoyable one. Lieut. D. T. Mitchell, Robert M. (victim)		Given death sentence Prof. Robert Mitchell, a former Winchester man, sentenced to be hung Reports have reached here that Prof. Robert Mitchell had been tried for murder at Marietta, Ga., and had been given a death sentence for killing a man some time ago. The cause of the difficulty is not definitely known, one version being that the murdered man had made remarks detrimental to the character of Mitchell's daughter, and another being the dead man accused Mitchell of hiding in a toilet room to spy on the ladies. We have never heard either report confirmed, nor has the report of his death sentence for the crime received definite confirmation. Prof. Mitchell is well known here where he resided for some time and where he had charge of the local band. He also resided in Richmond, Mt. Sterling and other places in Central Kentucky. While here he was not regarded as a dangerous man and would not have been chosen as a man to commit murder. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 11, 1908 Will not be hung Prof. Robt. Mitchell, formerly of this city, given a life sentence at Rome, Ga. There recently appeared in this paper, as well as in several others in Central Kentucky, an unverified rumor that Prof. Mitchell, who had been bandmaster in this city and a number of neighboring cities, had been sentenced to death for murder at some point in Georgia. We this week received the following letter from Eld. C.J. Armstrong, of Troy, New York, and recently pastor of the Christian church here. "When I read in the Democrat of Prof. Mitchell's conviction I wrote for information. I am sure his friends will be glad to learn that the verdict was not death as at first reported. I have written Mitchell also but to date have not heard from him. "Sincerely, C.J. Armstrong, "Troy, N.Y." This letter from Eld. Armstrong encloses the following: "Marietta G.A., Feb. 24, 1908. "Rev. C.J. Armstrong; "My dear sir: - "Your letter of the 15th received. Prof. Mitchell was tried and convicted in Floyd county, Ga., of Rome, Ga. All I know of it is from the newspaper accounts. It seems that Mitchell and the man he killed boarded at the same place and had some words about Mitchell using the ladies bathroom, and a few days later they met, and Mitchell shot him without saying much to him. Mitchell was ably defended, but was convicted and sentenced for life in the penitentiary. "Very truly yours, "B.F. Simpson. "P.S. - Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Rome, Ga., defended him." The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, March 3, 1908 Mitchell pardoned Former Winchester bandmaster, sent up for life, is pardoned by Governor Smith of Georgia Robert M. Mitchell, formerly a resident of Winchester and who was musical director of the Winchester Military band for two years has been pardoned from the Georgia penitentiary by Governor Hoke Smith. Mitchell was sent up for life for the murder of the proprietor of a cigar store at Rome, in that State, last summer. The Atlanta Constitution of June 6th gives Gov. Smith's reasons for issuing the pardon. It follows: "Robert M. Mitchell, white, Floyd county, 1908, murder, life imprisonment. While this prisoner has only been in the penitentiary a little over twelve months, he has become paralyzed from his waist down. He is helpless and harmless, and his affliction is incurable. His punishment is worse than death. He has a wife and relatives who are willing to care for him in his helpless condition. The ends of justice do not require that he should remain in his pitiable condition away from those who can lesson his suffering and care for his wants." The Winchester Democrat Friday, June 11, 1909

Mitchell, William		A leading citizen dies at ripe age Mr. William Mitchell passed away last Friday afternoon Mr. William Mitchell, for a number of years, one of Winchester’s most prominent business men died at his home on Maple street, Friday afternoon at four o’clock after an illness of several months, of rheumatism and the infirmities due to old age. Mr. Mitchell was 74 years of age and had spent the greatest part of his life in this city. He came here when quite young from Carlisle and engaged in the grocery business and later going into the shoe business, which he conducted up to about eight years ago. Mr. Mitchell retired from the business on account of his declining health. He had been a sufferer from rheumatism for a number of years and had just returned from Martinsville, Ind., where he had been to be treated. Mr. Mitchell is survived by his wife and two children, Charlie, who conducts the Coco Cola bottling works at Lexington and one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Goff, of Indian Fields, this county. He was a kind and loving father and husband and highly esteemed by all who knew him. The funeral services were held at the residence at ten o’clock Sunday and conducted by Eld. J.H. MacNeill, of the Christian church, of this city and Elder I.J. Spencer, of Lexington. The burial took place in the Machpelah cemetery at Mt. Sterling. The following were pall bearers: Active – Lee Baldwin, Goerge W. Beihn, C.B. Stewart, F.C. Wheeler, H.B. Scrivener, W.S. Massie, J.P. Adamson, and C.B. Redmon. Honorary pall bearers: N.G.H. Witherspoon, J.W. Hunt, H.L. Stevens, Dr. J.W. Johnson, W.D. Strode and Claiborne Lisle. The Winchester News Monday, October 12, 1908  Good citizen gone Death claims William Mitchell at his home Friday – Burial at Mt. Sterling The death of William Mitchell Friday afternoon was quite a shock to most of our people, for it was not known that he was dangerously ill, although he had been in delicate health for some time. He was seventy-two years of age and was a native of Montgomery county. He had lived in Winchester for sixteen years and was engaged in the shoe trade until his retirement from active business life several years ago. He was a Director of the Winchester Bank and was President of the Coca Cola Bottling Works at Lexington. He had been a successful businessman and had secured a competency before retiring from business. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Burgess, of Sharpsburg, one son, Charles, and one daughter, Mrs. Ida Goff, of Indian Fields. He was a modest, retiring man, but one who made and retained many friends. The funeral was preached Sunday morning at the residence on South Maple street, services being conducted by Revs. J.H. Mac Neill, and under the auspices of Winchester Lodge F. & A.M., of which he had long been a member. The remains were taken to Mt. Sterling and buried in Machpelah cemetery. The following pall bearers: Lee S. Baldwin, Geo. W. Biehn, Chas. B. Stewart, F. Clay Wheeler, H.B. Scrivener, W.S. Massie, J.P. Adamson, C.B. Redmon. Honorary pall bearers were N.H. Witherspoon, James W. Hunt, Hub L. Stevens, Dr. J.W. Johnson, W.D. Strode, Claiborne Lisle. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, October 13, 1908

Mize, Mrs. Edith Vaughn	Mrs. Edith Vaughn Mize passes away The sudden death of Mrs. Edith Vaughn Mize which occurred at her home in Lexington Thursday afternoon was a great shock to her friends. She had been ill for several weeks, but was perceptibly improved and apparently on the road to recovery. The remains were brought to the Winchester cemetery Sunday afternoon and laid to rest beside her husband, Isaac N. Mize, Jr., who died about twelve years ago. Mrs. Mize was the daughter of Samuel Jackson and Polly Bush Vaughn, who resided near the old Estill Furnace, "Peaceful Valley." The Vaughn Plantation was one of the most hospitable homes in Eastern Kentucky. Its host and hostess were never happier than when entertaining friends from "off the mountains" or down in the "blue grass." The beauty of Edith Mize at the age of sixty-nine verified the report of her girl-hood loveliness, when from the little town of Irvine came her Lochinvar, Isaac Mize, Jr., whose father was also a Potent Pioneer of that section. After a short courtship they were married and began home making at "Vaughn's Mill." Being imbued with their ancestor's spirit of hospitality, they immediately hung the "latch string on the outside and wrote welcome over the door." Seldom was the spare room vacant or the extra chair empty. To Isaac and Edith Mize were born twelve children, five of whom "crossed the Bar" in the springtime of life. Those who mourn the going of this noble mother are Mrs. Florence Locknane, of Washington D.C., Mrs. Walter R. Day, of Arkansas, Mr. John Mize, of Powell county, Mrs. J.W. McKinney and Willie O. Mize, of this county, Mrs. A.R. Hale and Mrs. A.J. Haggard, of Lexington; a brother, John W. Vaughn, of Arizona, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Shimfessel, of Clay City, also survive. The soul of a splendid woman has passed away like a frail ship weakened by long battling with wind and wave, it silently slipped its moorings and went once more to sea. Me thinks that on the other shore there was a great cry of welcome as the frail ship came into harbor and the Heavenly Father folded this child into his arms. Doubtless too, there were in the welcoming hand, Angelic fathers and mothers, whose children she had mothered in our heart of hearts. Faith in her Lord was the stimulant to her Christian living, kindness her creek. Truly her life was an inspiration and her memory a benediction. Mize, Rodney S.	A Mysterious Death Roderic Mize, aged 22, died at the residence of his brother-in-law J. M. Locknane in this city, on Tuesday evening last. Mr. Mize has for a number of years past has been a member of the arm of Mize Bros., of Clay City. On Saturday of last week, he came to Winchester on his way to Louisville to buy goods, and while here deposited quite a sum of money. He left next day for Louisville, but it is believed he stopped at Frankfort. His friends in this city supposed him to be at his destination until an omnibus deposited him at Mr. Locknane's door on Tuesday evening, almost unconscious and unable to talk. Dr. Browne was called and pronounced it a case of poisoning but could not determine what drug had been administered. Mr. Mize died in great agony, about two hours after his arrival here, but regained consciousness sufficiently to recognize Mr. Locknane, and when asked the question where he had come from, answered "Frankfort." The conductor of the train that Mr. Mize arrived here on said that two men had placed him in the car at Lexington, he being perfectly helpless at the time and unable to talk. One claimed to be his brother-in-law and the other his cousin. They were, however, not related to him in any way. Mr. Mize was a man of steady habits, and was highly respected by those who knew him. Whether he took poison accidentally or with suicidal intent, or was given poison by others with murderous intent remains a mystery. When he arrived here he had $10 in money and his gold watch which had not been disturbed. His remains were interred in the cemetery here at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

	The Democrat Wednesday, May 29, 1889 OBITUARY  Death of R. S. Mize  Rodney S. Mize departed this life, May 21, in the twenty-third year of his age. The deceased was the son of Isaac and Edith Mize, of Vaughn's Mill, Ky. He had never enjoyed good health, and although of feeble constitution, he was a young man of untiring industry and business habits. Having engaged while very young in the mercantile business with his elder brother J. G. Mize, Esq., he was an accomplished and popular salesman, and much beloved by all with whom his business and social relations brought him in contact. When returning to his home from a business trip he was stricken with heart disease while at Winchester, Ky., and despite all that medical aid could do he survived but a few hours. His loss will be greatly deplored by his many friends and especially by those who knew him best, and the large circle of relatives among whom is a devoted father and mother, brothers and sisters, all of whom have the deepest sympathy of the entire community where they live. But their greatest consolation is in the faith that he professed in his Savior, and hope of meeting him again in a world of endless joy. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 15, 1895. In Memoriam Who can measure the influence of a good true woman? Like, the silent agencies of sun and dew, the little world in which she moves is made better, purer and brighter. These thoughts are suggested by the life of Miss Nannie Mobley, which closed February 13th. Faithful to all trusts confided to her, a loving sister, a dutiful daughter, a humble and devoted Christian, her influence was always for good and she was a living example of what a true young woman should be. To those of us who knew and loved her, it seems strange that she should be thus taken away in the prime of her sweet young womanhood, but when we attain to that perfect rest which she has already entered then we shall know and be satisfied. Monroe, Alfred Jr.		Deaths Mr. Alfred Monroe, Jr., died yesterday at 1 p. m. He will be buried today at the Ecton graveyard on the Ruckerville pike. Funeral at the Fairfax Street Christian Church at 2 p. m. Services by Eld. M. P. Lowry. The Sun-Sentinel Thursday June 1, 1905  Resolutions of Respect. Onequa Tribe, No. 2, Improved Order Red Men, Hunting Grounds of Winchester, Reservation of Kentucky, 9 th Sun. Hot Moon, G. S. D., 414. (Common Era, June 9 th , 1905) Whereas, The Great Spirit has in His wisdom made manifest His power, resulting in sorrow and grief as well as in joy and happiness. He loves His people, this fraternity and its members for the good they desire to do. He has seen fit to take from our midst our friend and brother, Alfred Monroe, in the prime of his manhood and the flower of his life; therefore be it resolved: 1 st . That we tender our heart felt sympathy to his bereaved wife and relatives. 2 nd . That we consider it an honor and a great benefit to this Tribe to have had him associated with us as a member and brother. 3 rd . That we recognize in him and earnest and faithful member, always kind, gentle and unassuming in the performance of his duties in the Wigwam, and upright and honorable in his dealings with his brothers and palefaces while "following the hunt." 4 th . That we earnestly deplore the death of our brother, Alfred Monroe, and join with his friends and relatives in mourning his loss. 5 th . That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Tribe, and a copy of them be sent to his wife and to The Winchester Democrat, and The Sun-Sentinel for publication. Through all pain at times he'd smile A smile of heavenly birth; And when the angels called him home, He smiled farewell to earth. Heaven retaineth now our treasure, Earth the lonely casket keeps; And the sunbeams love to linger, Where our sainted brother sleeps. S. J. Bradley, C. E. Lyddane, Jas. A. Boone, Com.

Monroe, John		Tulip; Died—John Monroe, a respected citizen of this place died last Friday, of Consumption. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 4, 1891  On April 4 th William Monroe, aged 68 years, applied to the County Clerk for license to marry the widow of his son, John Monroe, age 48. As this is forbidden by law, of course the clerk refused. The would-be-groom sent for Judge James French who informed him that the divine law as well as the civil law forbade such marriages, but the former would not be satisfied until the Scriptures were read to him. The Monroe's wife has been dead less than a year while the woman's husband died since Christmas. Later—The couple this week repaired to Maysville where they were married by Judge Phister. We have no knowledge of why they took this step, as the marriage was just as illegal at Maysville as it would have been here. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 15, 1891

Montgomery, A. J.	A SHOOTING affray occurred at Georgetown, Thursday resulting in the killing of three men, one of them who had nothing to do with the trouble, being killed in his own door. Milton H. Kendall and four sons live in Scott county and adjoining them live Mrs. Jarvis and three sons. Old man Kendall's watermelon patch robbed and he claimed he tracked the culprits to Mrs. Jarvis' and three sons. Some trouble resulted and the Jarvises got out a writ for the Kendall's. Thursday was set for the trial and when the parties met a fight occurred in which two of the Jarvis boys were killed. One of the latter in trying to escape, ran into the store of A. J. Montgomery, a hardware merchant, who was standing in the door. A shot from the elder Kendall at the fleeing Jarvis, struck Montgomery killing him at once. The Kendall's at first resisted arrest but afterward surrendered and were placed in jail. Kendall was formerly a resident of Bourbon county where he owned 500 acres of fine land, but moved to Scott several years ago. He was for some years Chairman of the Democratic County Committee of Scott county. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 2, 1891. The Kendall's who shot the Jarvis boys at Georgetown waived examination and the cases will go before the grand jury which is now in session. George Kendall, on of the boys will be remembered here, as he was arrested here a few years ago for stealing a horse in Scott county. The cost was a plain one but his attorneys succeeded in making the jury believe he was insane and he just managed to miss the penitentiary. The old man was here a week or two at the same time. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 9, 1891. An indictment for manslaughter was returned Thursday in the Scott county Circuit Court against Milton H. Kendall, Sr., for the shooting of Burrell Jarvis, and two indictments against Milton H. Kendall, Sr., Milton H. Kendall Jr., Geo. Boot and Papsy Kendall for killing A. J. Montgomery. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 16, 1891. THE Kendalls who were confined in the Georgetown jail for the murder of Montgomery and Jarvis, broke jail Monday evening and escaped. They got out through the place where the murderer True sawed the iron had been riveted, and with a pen knife and a brick they worked out the rivets. They are heavily armed and say they will not be taken alive. They also say they will finish killing the Jarvis family. The old man Milton Kendall was sick in bed and unable to escape. Crowds of armed citizens are

	after them, and a desperate fight is expected when they are overtaken. The Democrat, Wednesday, November 11, 1891. Governor Brown has offered a reward of $ 150 each for the arrest of the Kendall boys, Milton Jr., George H., R. B. and Popsy, who escaped from the Georgetown jail an the night of Nov. 9th, and their return to the jailer of Scott county. The Democrat, Friday, December 4, 1891. Milton Kendall, Jr., one of the Georgetown murderers that escaped from jail some months ago, was recaptured Wednesday. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 3, 1892. Milt Kendall, Jr. was shot through the left arm by Allen Sharon. There is air of mystery about the affair. Sharon claims that it was accidental, at Paris Wednesday evening. Kendall is a member of the family of that name in Scott county who were implicated in the killing of Mr. Montgomery at Georgetown last year and for which Milt Kendall, Sr., is now serving in the Frankfort Penitentiary. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 13, 1893 Milton Kendall, who killed Montgomery at Georgetown while shooting at John Jarvis, was discharged from the penitentiary Wednesday, his time having expired. Moore, Della	A Heavy Verdict. J. J. Moore, of Boyle, whose daughter was killed at the Stanford turnpike toll gate, near Danville, while soldiers were guarding it last winter, was this week given a verdict against the road for $17,000 damages. He sued for $30,000, and the road got a change of venue to Casey county. The turnpike will appeal. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 12, 1898  Big Verdict A year or two ago while Miss Della Moore of Lincoln county, was passing through a toll gate in that county, she was struck on the head by the pole, from the effects of which she died. Her administrator sued the turnpike company and last week secured a verdict for thirteen thousand dollars. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Aug. 19, 1902
Moore, Dick	A special from Paris says; "Near Centerville, this county, last night, Kenney Houston shot and mortally wounded Dick Moore. Houston was passing through Moore's place, and the latter followed and threatened him, as he had been warned before not to pass through. They quarreled and Moore pursued Houston on to his own place, where Houston shot Moore, who is now dying from the wound. They are both young men, aged each about twenty-one and are well-to-do. Houston came in this evening and gave himself up, claiming he had acted in self defense. He is now in the county jail." The Democrat, Wednesday, June 18, 1890

Moore, James	A Bad Man. If Jesse Fields, of Breathitt county, is not a very bad man he has been much maligned. Not content with being mixed up in the French-Eversole, feud, where he was a trusted leader of the French side, he has been in trouble ever since. He and Joe Adkins were indicted for the murder of Judge Combs, at Hazard and the latter is now serving a life term in the pen with a probability of being joined by Fields when the latter is tried. A few weeks ago Alfred Little, an ex-convict and a bad man generally, who has been keeping a blind tiger, was shot at Jackson. His leg was amputated to save his life, but the operation was not successful and he died. James Moore, a deputy Sheriff, was shot while at home in bed at the same time. The Breathitt Circuit Court, which adjourned last week, has indicted Fields for these crimes also, and the probabilities are that he will spend the remainder of his days in durance vile. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 20, 1899

Moore, Josephine "Jo" Hatton	Josephine "Jo" Hatton Moore, 76 (10/15/1946 – 6/22/2023) a lifelong resident of Winchester, Kentucky, went to be with the Lord on Thursday, June 22nd. She was a member of First Baptist Church and has been attending Salem Presbyterian Church.  Jo, Mom, Mimi, will be missed more than words can express. She will be remembered for her kindness, selflessness, gratefulness, and her hospitality toward not just those she loved, but also toward everyone she met.  "She opens her mouth with wisdom, and on her tongue is the law of kindness." Proverbs 31:26  Jo attended Hickman Street Elementary School and graduated from George Rogers Clark High School in 1965 as the salutatorian of her class. She began her career at Jones, Nale and Mattingly (47 S. Main) and remained at that same office, through many name changes, as the office manager for 49 years. She loved her job and it gave her the flexibility to put her family first.  Jo remained active in community groups that were near and dear to her heart. As a 24 year breast cancer survivor and 9 year colon cancer survivor, Jo was very involved with Pink Ribbon Partners, a world-wide breast cancer awareness foundation. Jo was also a member of the Clark County Homemakers Group: The Rowdy Golden Girls. These groups, along with family and friends that loved her deeply, were blessed to live and love life, and laugh together, enjoying every moment. Jo is survived by her daughters (Her girls) Tiffany Rank (Ken) and Jaime Moore. Grandchildren Abigail Rank Aydlotte (Paul), Benjamin Rank, Elijah Williams, Josie Williams, their father Shannon Williams, cousin Dorothy Barnett Peel, and adopted daughters Dawn Pelfrey, Alicia Gillman, Tiffany Flinchum, extended grandchild Libbie Aydlotte, and many other close family members and friends.  She was preceded in death by her mother, Gracie Lumpkins Hatton, her sister Ada Dunaway DeVary, her brother Denzel Dunaway, and her ex-husband William Owen Moore. Moore, Mrs. Maria Bright	DIED-at her home at Jackson Ferry Wednesday, after a long illness, Mrs. Maria Moore, aged 73 years. The funeral was preached at the Presbyterian church by Rev. J. J. Chisolm and the remains were interred in the local cemetery. She was originally Miss Bright, a native of Tennessee, a daughter of Hon. John Morgan Bright, formerly a member of congress of that State. Her husband, Maj. Thos. H. Moore, died many years ago. Six children survive her, viz: Mrs. L. M. Vanmeter, of Shelby county; Mrs. Chas F. Exum, of Frankfort; Mrs. A. H. Hampton, Miss Pattie Moore, J. Matt Moore and Thos. F. Moore of this county; Mrs. Moore, for many years, had been a member of the Presbyterian church. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 16, 1897. IN MEMORANDUM There was committed to her last resting place in our beautiful cemetery on Friday afternoon, April 16th, a spirit so pure, so noble and so humble, so full of the virtues of this life, that those who followed her to her grave felt amid their sorrow a sense of exaltation and hope which can be imparted only by the purest Christian influence. Mrs. Maria Bright Moore had passed round a cycle of seventy-four-years, a very pioneer in domestic and religious duties. She united to great strength of character, and to a mind of unusual penetration, a disposition the most womanly and devout. It was not in accordance with her modest and unobtrusive nature to speak of the sacredness of her vows, nor of her unwavering trust in the promises of a just and merciful God, but she bore life's duties with a gentle submission and faith which told all of those who new her that she walked with her Master. When she lingered in the "valley and shadow of death" she feared no evil, and though at times suffering intense pain, she sent bright messages of hope and encouragement to absent friends and commended her devoted children to the care of a heavenly father whom she had found sufficient in every hour of need. Mrs. Moore was a native of Fayetteville, Tenn., the daughter of James and Nancy Morgan Bright. In the annals of that grand State her ancestry had borne a distinguished part. The heroic Daniel Morgan had no worthier descendent than she, and yet she treasured the memory of his avowed dependence upon the grace and guidance of a sovereign God than did she all of his brilliant achievements as a statesman and soldier. She came to Kentucky in 1842 as the beautiful bride of Major Thomas Hockaday Moore and presided with charming grace over his hospitable bluegrass home. After the death of her gallant husband, she lived comparative retirement, surrounded and comforted by her devoted children and grandchildren, who watched her faithfully and lovingly to the last. She loved her home, but her delight was in the church of God, and even in failing health she was not noted only for her attendance upon, but for attention to services of the sanctuary. A Christian from her youth, both by education and choice, she had the happiness of before she died of seeing her six children and all of her grandchildren communicants of the Presbyterian church. Her loved Pastor never presided more impressively over the Holy Supper than when he administered it to the sorrowing loved ones who had gathered around her dying bed. "Made perfect in holiness she has passed into glory." She will not come to us when the "evening shadows fall" nor will the morning bring her back, but one by one we must follow her to that farther shore where so many loved and sainted ones wait to receive us. Think of us dearest one, while o'er life's waters we seek the land. Missing thy voice, thy touch, and the true helping of thy pure hand. I'll through the storm and tempest, safely anchored on the other side. We find thy sweet face looking through death's shadows, not changed but glorified. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 6, 1897.

Moore, Mrs. Nannie	Death Of Mrs. Moore Mrs. Nannie Moore, wife of W. L. Moore, died yesterday morning at her home on East Broadway, after a short illness of typhoid fever. The funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock from the Methodist church, services being conducted by Revs. Geo. Froh and C. J. Armstrong, and the remains will be interred in the Winchester cemetery. She leaves a husband but no children, her only daughter having died a few years ago. Before her marriage she was Miss King and was a daughter of the late John P. King. Of a family of thirteen the following survive her: Robert M. King and Mrs. W. E. Dean, of this county, Mrs. Ella Fleming and Miss Florence King, of Henry county, Mrs. Alice Kennedy, of Boone county, Mrs. W. W. Spates, of Sharpsburg, Mrs. Owen Morris, of Mt. Sterling, and J. D. King of Middlesboro. She was a true christian woman with a host of devoted friends who will join us in sympathy with the bereaved husband and relatives. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Aug. 8, 1902

Moore, Robert	Robert Moore a farmer of Carroll county, died of pneumonia Friday, aged 95 years, and until he was stricken a week ago was remarkably hale and active. He lived all his life in a hilly and unfrequented part of the county, within a mile of where he was born. He came into life while Washington was President; voted his first Democratic vote in 1816, before he was quite 21 years old, and never scratched a Democratic ticket from that time until he died. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 11, 1891
Moore, Robert	Robert Moore Dead Thursday Robert Moore was taken to the Poorhouse. He was quite sick at the time and very feeble. At midnight Mr. Thomas gave him medicine but the next morning he was found dead in his bed. He was a native of Cork, Ireland, but afterward went to England from whence he came to this country some forty years ago. He was an artist of decided ability and excelled in animal painting. During the balmy days of the Shorthorn his services were in much demand. He was of gentle, unassuming manners, and always, even in his cups, a gentleman. He was not given to indiscriminate friendships, but his friends were very dear to him. For many years he was an enthusiastic Mason, but was dropped many years ago for financial reasons. On account of this feeling of fellowship the members of Winchester Lodge took charge of the remains and they were interred in the Masonic lot in the cemetery. S. D. Goff, who had often befriended the deceased, furnished the coffin, and if the spirits of the departed take cognizance of terrestrial things, his artist soul must be glad that the body does not rest in a pauper's grave. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, Nov. 27, 1894

Moore, S. C.	Quarrel between partners Over an employee results in one being killed Louisville, Ky., - As the result of a quarrel concerning business matters, W.F. Hockersmith shot and killed S.C. Moore, a prominent Red Man of Louisville and a partner in the Kentucky Salvage Co. In the affray an employee named Frank Johnson figured prominently Moore attacking Johnson, who had him arrested for it. Hockersmith defended the employee. Matters reached a climax when Moore kicked Johnson out of the store and barring it, went up to Hockersmith's room. According to Hockersmith's story, Moore threatened his life and he shot him with a double barreled shot gun which he intended to use on a hunting trip. Moore is the man who gave out the charges that the National Lodge of Red Men had "grafted" $1,500 from Kentucky in connection with the alleged building of the Log House here. Moore, Tom (victim)	From Ambush Escaped Murderers Fire on and Repulsed Arresting Officers. Paintsville, Ky., May 6.—while Officer Lewis Mockery and posse were making a search at Rock House, a very remote place in Magoffin county, for the escaped murderers, Milton Franklin and Tom Moore, they were fired upon from ambush by unknown parties. The officers exchanged a number of shots with the bushwackers, when the firing became too hot, and the officers were forced to retreat. McKurray's hat has three bullet holes, placed there during the skirmish. It is thought that the murderers are strongly fortified in that section. Mockery is organizing a strong force to make another attack on them Thursday. Serious trouble is expected. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 7, 1897

Moorefield, Ben	Burned to death For quite a while Ben Moorefield, a well known and eccentric character, has lived alone on the farm of S.P. Hodgkin on the Colby Pike. A portion of his domicile consisted of a hollow tree to which he had built an addition. At an early hour Tuesday morning it was found to be on fire and an investigation showed that Moorefield had perished in the burning domicile. His legs had burned off and most of his head. From the position of the body he was probably overcome by the smoke before he awoke. Coroner Brinegar

	held an inquest without a jury and returned a verdict that the fire in which he perished originated accidentally. Moorefield was about seventy-five years old and is said to have owned some property at one time. He was a widower, his wife having died more than forty years ago. He leaves two sons, who live somewhere in Virginia. He was an old Confederate soldier and preparations had been made for him to go to the Soldiers' home at Pewee Valley. The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 21, 1908 Hermit burns to death Winchester, Ky., - Ben Moorefield, a hermit, was burned to death. Morefield, Adam Royce	The Winchester Sun Thur., 6-23-2011
Morefield, Adam Royce	Adam Royce Morefield was born in Lexington on Oct. 18, 1981, to Darrell and Linda Morefield of Winchester. He came into our lives a beautiful squalling infant and left as an amazing young man who had touched the lives of so many more people than we could imagine. He is survived by his parents and his sister, Tiffany Morefield of Winchester; two children, Tanner and Presly Morefield of Winchester; his grandmothers, Sylvia J. Morefield and Hazel R. Adams; a niece, Karen A. Wise; and a nephew, Scott A. Morefield. He is also survived by many aunts, uncles and cousins who loved him dearly. He is also survived by his ex-wife; Alyson Hubbard Morefield, and he still considered members of her family as part of his own. He is preceded in death by his grandfathers, Elbert W. Adams and Daymond Morefield; and two uncles recently lost, Earl W. Adams and George L. Hanlin, all of Winchester. Adam became a Marine in September 2001, four days before the attack on the World Trade Center. He had been out of his beloved U.S. Marine Corps since 2005, but always considered himself a Marine and loved talking with his Marine Corps brothers. He was a veteran of the War on Terror in Iraq and the Global War on Terrorism in Afghanistan and was set to redeploy to Afghanistan as an ammunition inspector in August. Adam was a firm believer in family, God and country, and served all three in any way he could. He was very proud of serving well as a Marine, but loved most being a father to his two children. Adam was also a member of Right Angle Masonic Lodge No. 233 and Elks Lodge No. 2816, both in Clark County. He loved helping people, and both organizations gave him that opportunity. He worked at the Blue Grass Army Depot in Richmond as an ammunition inspector and made many friends there. He assisted with the Wounded Warrior Program, which allowed wounded servicemen to hunt on the depot grounds, and he even enlisted his dad's help because he believed in supporting the men who served this country. He will be missed. Funeral services will be conducted at noon Saturday, June 25, at Calvary Christian Church, 15 Redwing Drive, Winchester, by the Rev. Brian Walton. Burial will be in Clarmont Memorial Gardens with military honors by the Harold G. Epperson, Medal of Honor, Detachment No. 1113 Marine Corps League. Visitation will be from 4 to 8 p.m., Friday, June 24, at Calvary Christian Church. A Masonic service will be held at 8 p.m. Memorial contributions are suggested to the Wounded Warrior Project, P.O. Box 758516, Topeka, KS 66675-8516. The online guest book is available at www.scobeefuneralhome.com, and a 24-hour funeral information line can be reached by calling 744-2122. The Winchester Sun June 23, 2011 Soldier from Winchester drowns in Oklahoma

	Authorities have recovered the body of a soldier from Kentucky who drowned while on a float trip on the Illinois River in eastern Oklahoma. The Oklahoma Scenic Rivers Commission says the body of 29-year-old Adam R. Morefield of Winchester was recovered Sunday morning. The agency said Morefield was on a rafting trip with two other soldiers Saturday when he vanished after swimming behind the raft for much of the trip. According to a report from WKYT, Morefield was not wearing a life jacket. Morefield had been training at the Army Joint Munitions plant at McAlester, as had the soldiers with him on the float. Morefield worked as an ammunition inspector at the Blue Grass Army Depot, according to WKYT, and his supervisor, Brent Dubois, praised his performance. "He worked his way up through the ranks here. He came into our organization with a lot of knowledge with his former military (background)," Dubois told WKYT. The death is under investigation. The Winchester Sun June 20, 2011

Morefield, Sylvia Jewell	Sylvia Jewell Morefield, 92, of Winchester, passed away at her home surrounded by family on November 9, 2023. She was born October 6, 1931, in Clark County, Kentucky, to John Samuel Kincaid and Katherine Curtis Kincaid. Sylvia married Daymond Morefield on September 9, 1950, and they had a family of five children together before his passing in 1976. She is survived by those children: Kathy (Mike) Newkirk, Randy (Elsie) Morefield, Darrell (Linda) Morefield, Kevin Morefield, and Melody (Jeff) Gallenstein, all of Winchester. She is also survived by seven grandchildren: Jason (Cindy) Newkirk of Lexington, Jonathan (Betsy) Newkirk of Ft. Mitchell, Tiffany Morefield of Winchester, Lauren (Jared) Basara, Dalton Gallenstein, Jillian (Fiancé Cole Putnam), and Kathryn Gallenstein. Her eighth grandchild, Adam Morefield, passed away in 2011. She is also survived by eight great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Sylvia is also survived by her brothers and sisters: Thelma Powers, Dessie Haggard, Lydia Ratliff, Gola Prewitt, Millie Bennett, Rezin Kincaid, Roy Kincaid, and Victor Kincaid, all of Winchester. She was preceded in death by her parents, two brothers and their wives: John and Beulah Wages Kincaid and August and Barbara Estes Kincaid. She was also preceded in death by several in-laws: Dan Powers, Ernest Haggard, Shelby Ratliff, Doug Prewitt, Gene Bennett, Bettie Walker Kincaid, and Francis Welch Kincaid. She is also survived by a host of nieces and nephews who love her dearly. The family grew up in the country and learned the value of hard work early in life, which she passed on to her children. Once they moved to town from Fenwick, Daymond was away during the week working for the railroad, so Sylvia raised her children alone all week, but she raised them with love, care, and discipline. She was an amazing Mama to her family, and they will never forget the lessons she taught them. She recently told her youngest daughter that her heart was full of faith, and she was ready to go. Mama is on to the next big thing where there is no pain or worry and her body is new again. Sylvia was a member of the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses and had many friends and acquaintances there. She will be missed by us all. Service will be held at 1:00pm on Tuesday, November 14, 2023, at Scobee Funeral Home. Burial will follow in Winchester Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Jason Newkirk, Jonathon Newkirk, Dalton Gallenstein, Tanner Morefield, Jeffery Gallenstein, and Jared Basara. Visitation will begin at 11:30am until the time of service. The Winchester Sun November 14, 2023 + Scobee Funeral Home

Morgan, Mary Elizabeth	Mary Elizabeth Morgan was born on November 7, 1931 in Louisville, KY to the late George and Ruby Farris. She was a loving and devoted wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, great great grandmother, sister and friend. In 1947, she met and married the love of her life, William Hershel Morgan, in Louisville, KY. She loved to cook, read, organize her pictures and spend time with her family. She especially loved all the family "get-together." Mom's favorite book after the Bible was "Jesus Calling." These provided her great inspirations daily. She always said, "God is SO good – ALL the time" and you would hear her say "God Bless You" to everyone she'd meet. Her desire was "to be a blessing to everyone for the Lord," and she was. Mary's daughters lovingly called her "the little pink 'Ever Ready' bunny" because she loved to stay "casually busy" and kept "going and going." Mary loved God. She and her husband were saved in June 6, 1954 and she supported her husband as he entered the ministry in September 1954. When Mary's husband stated he felt called to preach, she stated "where you go, I'll go." Mary was busy in the church until her later years performing any task that needed attention. She taught young children's lessons, assisted in summer Bible School programs, singing in the choir if she wasn't playing the piano, organized fundraising events and church family reunions along with other special events. At fundraising bake sales for church missions, Mary's Carrot Cake was auctioned and raised $300!!! That cake is still enjoyed by the family and has been added to their personal favorite recipes. Mary loved serving the Lord and being a witness for Him. Many have said, when God called her husband to Preach, He called Mary into the Ministry as well. She has been a great supporter of her husband in promoting the Gospel of God. Mary had a beautiful smile, contagious laugh and as Madison, one of the great granddaughters, said, "great Mamaw gives the biggest hugs!" Her family and friends will miss her greatly. They know one day they will see her again in Heaven and it will be the most wonderful reunion. Mary was preceded in death by her husband Rev. William Hershel Morgan, parents, George and Ruby Farris, two sisters, Onie Dabney and Juanita Hiser, a brother George Farris, Jr. and one great granddaughter, Morgan Elizabeth Poole. Mary leaves behind four children, William Hershel Morgan, Jr. (Vicki) of Winchester, KY; Elizabeth Ann McDaniel (Glenn) of North Myrtle Beach, SC; Ronnie Lee Morgan (Carolyn) of Piqua, OH; and Judy Lynn Thomas (Stuart) of Winchester, KY. Mary is also survived by eight grandchildren: Amy Morgan Henry (Donald); Cameron Morgan (Katie); Beth Morgan Cook (Mike); Keri McDaniel Monday (Chad); Kyle McDaniel (Trish); Lori Morgan Hill (Jeff); Brandon Thomas (Lauren); and Brittany Thomas Paquin (Douglas). Mary has 15 great grandchildren, and three great great grandchildren. Mary leaves behind many nieces, nephews and friends. Mary was a dedicated woman of God, and a great inspiration to others. She loved sharing God's love for all. On February 4, 2020 at 1:50PM, the Heavens opened, and Mary entered her Eternal Home. Mary will be greatly missed by her family and many, many friends. Funeral services will be at 10:00AM, Saturday, February 8, 2020 at Church of God Cathedral, 3313 Lexington Road, Winchester, KY 40391 by Pastors Ed Toler, Mike Smith, and Bro. Brandon Thomas. Burial will follow in Winchester Cemetery. Visitation will be Friday from 6:00-8:00PM at Church of God Cathedral. In lieu of flowers memorials are suggested to The Gideons International Processing Center, P.O. Box 97251, Washington, DC 20090-7251. The Winchester Sun February 6, 2020

Morgan, Richard Oliver III	 It is with great sadness that the family of Richard Oliver Morgan III announces his passing after a brief illness, on Thursday, June 22, 2017, at the age of 53 years. Richard, known to many as “Rick,” will be lovingly remembered by his mother, Martha Blevins, and his son Jody Lamb. He was predeceased in death by his father Richard Morgan Jr (Lorna). Rick will also be fondly remembered by his sister Michelle Morgan (Lisa Morris), step-siblings Chris Hopkins (Terry), Bill Conley (Deborah), Mark Conley, and Danny Conley (Terry), his grandson Thomas Allen Lamb, and numerous cousins, aunts and uncles. Rick was born and lived his life in Winchester, Kentucky. He was an avid music collector, a good friend, and a kind and gentle soul. Visitation and a Celebration of Rick’s life will be held on Monday, June 26, 2017 from 6-8p, at Scobee Funeral Home, 219 West Lexington Ave, Winchester, Kentucky. For those who wish to join, family and friends will continue Rick’s celebration of life immediately following the visitation at one of his favorite spots, Woody’s Bar and Grille. Funeral Services will be held on Tuesday, June 27, 2017 at 10am at Scobee Funeral Home with burial at the Winchester Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Rick can be made to L.I.F.E. for Pets at lfpky.org . L.I.F.E. for Pets is a non-profit, 501(c)(3) organization based in Clark County that is dedicated in giving homeless animals a chance for a better life by rescuing, fostering and adopting animals into loving homes. The Winchester Sun June 24, 2017

Morgan, Tom	In a recent issue of the Courier Journal was a sketch of the Lebanon fight, which does gross injustice to Gen. John Morgan. At that battle Gen. Morgan commanded the Confederate troops and Col. Chas. Hanson, of this city, the Federals. Many of the officers and privates on each side were personally, well known to each other and for that reason, perhaps the battle was one of the most obstinate of the war for its size, although Col. Hanson was finally obliged to surrender to superior numbers. With Gen. Morgan were his brothers, Charlton and Tom, the later being killed during the fight. The article in question says that after Col. Hanson surrendered, Gen. Morgan, rendered furious by the death of his young and favorite brother, seized Col. Hanson by the beard and personally abused him. It was not Gen. Morgan, but his brother Charlton, who was thus carried away with grief and anger, and when he laid his hand on Col. Hanson, Gen. Morgan rebuked him, reminding him that Col. Hanson was a prisoner. When thus brought to a realization of his conduct Charlton Morgan promptly apologized, Col. Hanson spoke of the episode afterward to some of our residents by whom it is remembered. The insulting of a helpless prisoner was a thing of which Gen. Morgan would never have been guilty. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 20, 1895

Morgan, William Hershel	Reverend William Hershel Morgan, 89, went to be with his Lord and Savior on Friday, July 19, 2019. He was born May 28, 1930 in Barren County, Glasgow, KY to the late Sophie and Frank Morgan. He married his sweetheart Mary Elizabeth Farris on November 1, 1947. Rev. Morgan gave his life to Jesus and accepted Him as his Lord and Savior on June 6, 1954. He entered the ministry and preached his first sermon just three short months later, in September, 1954 in the courthouse yard at La Grange, KY. His text was John 14:1-3; Jesus said, "If I go, I will come again." Rev. Morgan pastored in: Louisville, KY; Bernard Ridge, KY; Vanceburg, KY; Sidney, OH; Winchester, KY; and Corbin, KY. Rev. Morgan officially retired from pastoring in August, 1996. However, Pastor Morgan, as he was so-often called, couldn't stop preaching. With the burning desire to help others accept Christ, he and his wife Mary hit the road to do evangelistic work. After many years on the road, Pastor Morgan started the Praise and Worship Center in Winchester, KY. Pastor Morgan resigned and retired, again, in 2017 as both he and his wife had health issues. Rev. Morgan's parents, great granddaughter, Morgan Elizabeth, as well as many sisters and brothers preceded him in death. Rev. Morgan is survived by his wife, Mary, and four children: William Hershel Morgan, Jr. (Vicki), Winchester, KY; Elizabeth Ann McDaniel (Glenn), North Myrtle Beach, South Carolina; Ronnie Lee Morgan (Carolyn), Piqua, OH; and Judy Lynn Thomas (Stuart), Winchester, KY. Rev. Morgan is also survived by eight grandchildren: Amy Morgan Henry (Donald); Cameron Morgan (Katie); Beth Morgan Cook (Mike); Keri McDaniel Monday (Chad); Kyle McDaniel (Trish); Lori Morgan Hill (Jeff); Brandon Thomas (Lauren); and Brittany Thomas Paquin (Doug). Rev. Morgan also has 15 great-grandchildren, three great-great-grandchildren, two brothers; Frank and Thomas Morgan and a brother-in-law Lowell Sturgill. Rev. Morgan also leaves behind many close friends. Rev. Morgan has been a loving and devoted husband, loving father, papaw, great and great-great-papaw, brother and friend. He has been a dedicated man of God, promoting the Gospel of Jesus Christ and the hope of salvation. He will be greatly missed. Funeral services will be at 11:00AM, Thursday, July 25, 2019 at Church of God Cathedral, 3313 Lexington Road, Winchester, KY 40391 by Pastors Ed Toler, Mike Smith, Mitchell Tolle and Bro. Morgan, instantly by striking him on the head with an ax. Both men were in the harvest field repairing a machine and Morgan was stooping over in the act of fixing a bolt, when Whalen dealt him the fatal blow from behind. The murderer, after the deed, became a raving maniac, ran a mile and plunged into a

Whalen was brought here, tried for lunacy and sent to the Lexington asylum. Morgan was a prominent and well known farmer. The Winchester Democrat Tue., July 17, 1900 Killed His Brother-In-Law On Tuesday, A. J. Williams, of Harrison county, while assisting his brother-in-law, Wm. Morgan in building a wheat granary suddenly became insane and seized an ax from the hand of a bystander, struck Morgan twice on the head crushing his skull. He then went to Morgan's home, told them of the deed and then jumped into the river. He was rescued by a neighbor, taken to Cynthiana, tried and adjudged insane and was taken to the asylum at Lexington. (Same Paper, Different Killer) The Winchester Democrat Tue., July 17, 1900
Morgan, Wm.	After Many Years Several years ago Jas. Moberly killed Wm. Morgan in Mercer county. Moberly was declared insane after the murder and was sent to the asylum; he has since been discharged as cured and a recent grand jury returned an indictment for murder and he will now be tried for the killing. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Dec. 18, 1900 Arraigned For Murder James M. Moberly, After Spending A Year In The Asylum, Was Declared Sane Harrodsburg, Ky., Dec. 18 The Trial of James M. Moberly for killing W. H. Morgan in September, 1898, was begun here Monday morning. Pending an indictment for murder Moberly was declared insane and sent to the Lexington asylum. After remaining there about one year Moberly was declared by a Lexington jury to be of sound mind. He was released from the asylum, and will now stand trial for the murder. Moberly is a nephew of the late Gov. Beriah Magoffin. Moberly and Jack Chinn married the Misses Morgan, double cousins, and Moberly's victim was Chinn's brother-in-law and a double cousin of Mrs. Moberly and a brother of Col. George Morgan, the widely known sporting man. Great trouble is being experienced in getting a jury, and when court adjourned for the day only seven men had been selected. Morris, Aaron	Terrible Feud Outbreak. Five Men Reported Killed in Clay county Ky.—War Between the Philpot and Morris Factions. Louisville, Ky., July 18.—A special from London, Ky., tells of a report reaching here of the outbreak of another feud in Clay county by which five men lost their lives Monday. The dead are said to be: Robert Philpot, Ed Fisher, Aaron Morris, Jim Griffin and Hugh Griffin. These fatalities resulted from a pitched battle fought near Little Goose creek, three miles of Manchester. The feud dates back nearly two years. On Christmas, 1897, James Philpot was killed by Aaron Morris, but before he died he shot and killed Wm. Bundy, a friend of Morris. The Morris and Griffins were closely affiliated. Since then the feuding between the two factions has been very bitter, and it has been aroused recently by the White-Baker hostilities. The Philpots, who are the strongest faction in the mountain numbering about 750 voters, openly espoused the cause of the Bakers, White, the Griffins took sides with the Whites. The story that reaches here from Manchester is to the effect that Bob Philpot was arrested Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Wash Thacker. While very circumstantial, in other respects the report does not show clearly the origin of the trouble nor give the reason for Philpot's arrest. It is said that while Thacker was taking Philpot's bond, the latter was shot from behind by a member of a crowd that had gathered. This precipitated a general fight with Winchesters and revolvers, which was participated in by George, Granville, Robert and Peter Philpot and Ed Fisher on one side and Aaron Morris, Hugh, Jim and Green Griffin on the other. The battle began about 9 o'clock and raged fiercely for ten or fifteen minutes. When it was over it was found that the five men mentioned above had been killed outright, three of the belligerents were seriously wounded, while Pete Philpot was the only one on either side to escape injury. Granville Philpot is said to be one of the most seriously wounded. He is a union veteran having lost a leg at Stone river. He is an ex-member of the Kentucky legislature and is said to have killed three or four men. Ed Fisher, who is reported dead, was another man with several nicks in his cane. He was but 23 years old but was said to have killed three men. The story of this battle caused consternation here notwithstanding the fact that serious trouble has been expected to break out among the mountaineers of Clay county ever since the assassination of Tom Baker several weeks ago. An effort was at once begun to secure deputies to go to the seat of the trouble and attempt to restore quiet, but up to a late hour in the afternoon there had not been enough responses to make up a force that would command respect. The situation at Manchester is deplorable. Since morning the place has been in a state of terror, scarcely anyone daring to venture out of doors. Business is suspended and the residents are momentarily expecting a renewal of hostilities. The entire county of Clay is filled with men mounted and armed. Other battles may occur at any moment. A relative of the Philpots has just left here to join his family and swears vengeance. London Depot, Ky., July 18.—Clay county has another killing for its annals. Dick Lovens' body has been found three miles from Manchester. He was beaten to death in the night. When found his head was severed from his body and had been beaten to a pulp. A 45-calibre revolver was found on the body. Having killed three men and injured several, he was probably killed by the friends on one of his victims. He leaves a widow and eight children. An attempt has been made to kill Will Gray, near Manchester, Clay county. After three shots had passed through his clothes, one of them scraping his body, he escaped by running through a forest. Gray is one of the Baker's friends. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 21, 1899

Morton Family	The Morton Family IN a sketch of the Morton family published in the Jessamine Journal, we find the following concerning the Clark county branch, which is numerously represented here: "After the death of David Morton, who was the founder of the Morton family in the colony of Virginia, John Morton, his eldest son, took charge of the family. In 1754, he brought over from England his mother and three sisters and his youngest brother David. Tradition has it that he first settled in Westmoreland: three weeks afterwards he removed to Culpepper, where, in 1756, he married Hester Conway, first cousin to Nelly Conway, mother of James Madison, the President. The first child born to John Morton and Hester Conway, was Capt. John Morton, who settled in Kentucky in the fall of 1789. Capt. Morton was born in Culpepper C. H. Va., on the 16 th of August, 1757, and died near Winchester Clark county Ky., married Talitha Tinsley, daughter of Isaac Tinsley of Spottsylvania county, on the 10 th of September, 1788. Talitha Tinsley was four years the senior of her husband, and was born September 20 th , 1854. She survived her husband's death, eleven years, and died near Winchester in 1880, aged 92 years, and was buried by the side of her husband on Boone's creek, in Clark county. "Four of the sons of Capt. John Morton were preachers. Elder William Morton served under General Harrison in the war of 1812. William Morton was the eldest of the sons of Capt. Morton. He was born in Clark county in 1790, died in Versailles in 1858. Quinn Morton was a Methodist minister. He died in Alabama in 1845. Richard Morton, who lived in Jessamine county many years, was a preacher in the Baptist church, but afterwards became a preacher among the followers of Mr. Campbell. He had a son, Richard, who was also a preacher among the Disciples. Elder John Morton the youngest son, was born July 8 th , 1800. He was a popular preacher, and was greatly beloved for his boldness in defending the truth. He died in Lexington Sept. 8 th , 1852.

	His first wife was Elizabeth Rogers a niece of Gov. Clark. The second wife was Susan Christy. Jonathan and David Morton were farmers and were living in Clark county years ago. William Morton married Rebecca Didlake, afterwards the widow Davenport. Both left no children. Talitha Morton married John Goldston. Jonathan married Chima Thompson. David married Sallie Wagner, Quinn Morton married Elizabeth Hedges. Richard, Eleanor Pedicord: Lucy married David Ownes, Betsy married Jos. Craig, Susan Married Thomas Lowe first and then William Webb. “The father of Captain Morton was opposed to the colonies taking up arms against the mother country. He kept his son John from joining the regular army until the traitor Arnold invaded Virginia, in 1781. He then enlisted and served under Gen. Washington, until Yorktown surrendered and the seven years of war closed. David Morton, whose name as a soldier in the revolution is mentioned above, was three or four years in the regular army. The father of Capt. Morton was a Quaker in religion, and a lover of peace. He after the close of the revolutionary war, settled with his son in Kentucky in 1789. Died, if I am not mistaken in Clark county in 1810. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 28, 1892.

Morton, Ambrose AA	GRUESOME FIND IN A CAVE. Bullet Holes Will Be Sought in the Bones of the Dead Man. Frankfort, Ky., April 7.-While Junie Brightwell and Willie Purdy were exploring a cave Sunday near Frankfort, they discovered the body of a man. Coroner Graham and Mercer Harrod found that the body was that of Ambrose Morton an eccentric old Negro trapper, who mysteriously disappeared the latter part of last December. It is generally believed that Morton went into the cave to set traps, but it is said that a few days before Morton disappeared he drew his pension and was enticed into the cave and killed for his money. The advanced decomposition of the body prevents any marks of violence being the covered, but the coroner will examine the bones for bullet holes or any other evidence of a violent death. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 11, 1902.

Morton, Jere R.	Judge J.R. Morton Dies suddenly at his home in Lexington Friday evening – Was a native of this county Judge Jere Morton died suddenly Friday evening at his home in Lexington. He had returned home from his office and was lying on a lounge reading a paper, when he was stricken with heart disease and was dead in a few moments. He was about sixty-five years of age and was a native of this county being the son of Eld. John Morton, a prominent minister of the Christian church. He began teaching school when seventeen years old and taught until the war broke out when he joined the Confederate Regiment commanded by Col. Roy Cluke, of this county. He was captured and put in prison at Johnson's island, but escaped by way of Canada, Halifax and the Bermuda islands and joined his command again in West Virginia. He was captured again but was exchanged and served to the end of the war. Returning home he studied law and located at Lexington. He was City and County Attorney and was afterward elected Circuit Judge to fill out the unexpired term caused by the resignation of Judge Ben Buckner. He also served the following term. He was Captain in the State Militia and served at Ashland during the excitement of the trial of Neal and Craft at that point. He has been on one side or the other of most of the prominent cases in Lexington for many years. He was a Mason of high degree and a member of the Christian church. He leaves a wife and one son, Bernard. His only daughter, Judith, a lovely and popular young lady, was killed a year or two ago by being thrown from a horse. Judge Morton has many relatives and many more friends in this county who will regret to learn of his sudden death. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 22, 1908  Will probated The will of Judge Jere R. Morton was admitted to probate in the Fayette county court Monday. He leaves all of his property, estimated at about $50,000, to his widow, and designates her as executrix without bond. The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 15, 1909

Morton, Joseph Veneble		Death of J. V. Morton Joseph Veneble Morton died rather suddenly at his home on Maple street Tuesday afternoon, aged fifty-nine years. A few years ago he had a spell of the "grippe" and since that time his health has failed. Recently his family have become convinced that his ultimate recovery was impossible, yet they had no idea that the end was so near. Monday he became worse and his son at Franklin, Ky., and daughter at Shreveport, La., were summoned by telegraph. The next day he had another sinking spell and the end came suddenly and peacefully. The funeral was preached yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian church by Rev. J. J. Chisholm assisted by Rev. Richard French, and the remains carried to Shelbyville, Ky., where they will be interred this morning. He was a native of Shelby county where he lived for years and where he was at different times principal of an academy, a druggist and a farmer. In 1861 he was married to Miss Sarah Taliaferro, and most of the time since he has resided here. Mrs. Morton and four children survive him. Prof. W. H. Morton, of Franklin, Ky., Mrs. Fannie Jackson, of Shreveport, La., Thompson and Hay Morton of this city. All of these were present at the time of his death except Mrs. Jackson who did not arrive until the following day. The deceased came of one of the best families in the State, several of whom have attained prominent positions. A brother is the leading physician at Racine, Wisconsin, and two others are prominent ministers in Kansas and Missouri. Mr. Morton was a man well calculated to win and retain the friendship of those with whom he came in contact; his was a life of singular purity and his standard of integrity and honor was of the highest type. He was an inventor of no mean ability, and his skill as a painter was marvelous. Although a great reader and a deep thinker and with decided opinions on topics of public interest he did not seek public preferment, and with the exception of a term as School Commissioner of this county, and considerable experience as a member of the School Board, he never held public office. In his death our community has lost one of its best citizens. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 29, 1895. CITY, COUNTY, STATE-J. V. Muir, Benjamin F.		Suicide-The quite little town of Allensville, Clark County, Kentucky, was thrown into great excitement on Thursday afternoon, about four o'clock by the announcement that Mr. Benjamin Muir, a wealthy farmer, whose residence was at Allensville, had committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a Derringer pistol. The circumstances, as best we could learn, were about as follows; He entered the house after a long ride on horseback and as he passed through the hall met his wife and remarked that he was very tired, adding that he would take a nap, and requested her not to arouse him. He then went into his room, and in a moment after the report of a pistol was heard. Mrs. Muir at once ran into the room and found him dead and the blood flowing in torrents from the wounds. She ran out screaming at the top of her voice, and on reaching a side door fainted and fell senseless into the yard. The words "good bye all" were written on a hat box cover, and that is all that the unfortunate man left in writing. He had been married about two years, and had one child. Deceased was a sober, industrious man, universally liked. Clark County Democrat Thur., 4-4-1872  Mr. Benjamin F. Muir, a well to do farmer of Allensville, this county, committed suicide on the 8 th ult., by shooting himself through the head. No financial or domestic causes are assigned fir the act. About twenty years ago his father committed suicide, blowing out his brains with a pistol, and a brother is now confined in the Asylum for the insane at Hopkinsville or Lexington. Clark County Democrat Thur., 4-4-1872

Muir, O'Clarence	IN MEMORY O'Clarence Muir, who departed this life Wednesday, August 2, 1899, aged 32 years. To chronicle the death of my warm personal friend is a sad task indeed. For ten years Cousin Clarence, as we always familiarly called him, had been to us a genial, kind and obliging friend and neighbor, and while he rarely ever enjoyed a perfectly well day, yet he was always full of hope and life and his cheerful smile and pleasant greeting were a benediction to those whom he met in the daily walks of life. We know of no one in this entire community who will be so sadly and universally missed as Clarence. At the store, at the blacksmith shop and at all our public meetings and gatherings he was always there and his social nature and kindly presence ever lent an additional charm to all these occasions. But in the home, in the family circle around the pleasant hearthstone where he was so much loved and almost idolized, he will be so surely and sadly missed. The loving, dutiful wife, the obedient affectionate children, the aged father-in-law bending under the weight of many years, will so much miss his cheerful presence and the tender loving influence of his sweet association. The home has indeed been made desolate and cheerless. How sad and mysterious somehow are the dispensations of Divine Providence. But a few days ago our dear friend was mingling among us planning for many years of usefulness and happiness with bright hopes for a long and happy future. But alas! Ere he had reached the zenith of mature manhood he is cut down by the relentless scythe of time, and the body so full of life is now mouldering back to mother dust. These sad experiences teach us the frailty and uncertainty of human life and we should thus be admonished to "so live that when thy summons comes to join the innumerable caravan which moves to that mysterious realm here each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death, thou go not like the quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his conch about him and lies down o pleasant dreams." To the dear ones so sadly bereaved we would say it is right to weep tears of sorrow over the loss of the kind husband, indulgent father and dutiful son, but sorrow ot a those who have no hope. Let us trust that the precious soul of dear Clarence, which has thus been separated form the fever-burnt, pain tossed body of his earthly existence is now happy, basking in the sunshine of a loving Savior and singing the glad songs of Jesus and the Lamb around the great white throne. Let us hope when life's fitful fever is over we shall all meet again. In loving remembrances we place this tribute to the memory of the loved and loving dead. Mullen, David Leslie	David Leslie Mullen, Jr., 47, son of Dave and Susan Mullen, passed away on Saturday, October 23, 2021, in Highlands Ranch, Colorado, from Covid-19 complications, just six months after surviving cancer.  David was born at Wright Patterson AFB in Dayton, Ohio, on May 14, 1974. As a military child, he spent his formative years in England and Florida before permanently residing in Colorado.  In addition to his parents, David is survived by three children, David Mullen III, (Winchester) Dane Mullen, and Cassidee Mullen; (Aurora, CO), one granddaughter, Nevaeh Mullen; (David III), one brother, Bill Mullen; and several extended family members. What brought David the most joy in his life were his children.  To say that he was a dedicated father is an understatement, for he had an unwavering devotion to them that defined his character. David was a supportive and protective brother, a loving and gracious son, and a new and elated grandfather. His integrity and kindness earned him much respect by his coworkers and friends at United Airlines. He enjoyed playing basketball and softball with friends, fishing and camping with family, and was an avid Pittsburgh Steelers fan. Never one to turn down a deep philosophical conversation or a light discussion over a new film, David was constantly seeking knowledge and further understanding about all elements of life and the cosmos. Not only did he bring smiles and laughter to those around him, but he also brought much care and empathy, having a magnetic personality that those around him were lucky enough to experience. The world is a much sadder place without him. David will never be forgotten by those whose hearts he touched.  Funeral Services will be held at 2:00PM on Friday, October 29, 2021, at Scobee Funeral Home in the Leon Pace Memorial Chapel, 219 W. Lexington Avenue, Winchester, Kentucky by Pastor Ron Barker. Burial will be in the Winchester Cemetery.  Visitation will be at 12:00PM until time of service.  The family would like to thank the ICU staff at UC Health Hospital, Highlands Ranch, CO, for their professional care and United Airlines for being a top rate employer that

Mullins, Alfred	General Fight. One Man Killed and Three Others Wounded at Bracht, Ky.—The Murderer Escapes. Crittenden, y., July 19.—The little town of Bracht, Ky., three miles north of here, was the scene of a shooting affair late Saturday, in which one man was killed and three others were wounded. Carl Fisk, of Fiskburg, had been employed as a workman in the construction of a

	railroad at Crittenden, Ky., by Contractor S. S. Mullins, who also runs a saloon at Bracht. There was a dispute between the two over a settlement. Carl Fisk and several friends went into Mullin's saloon together and a general fight ensued. It is said that Carl Fisk drew a revolver and began firing. The pistol user escaped. Then it was found four persons had been shot. S. S. Mullins, saloon-keeper, was wounded in the left hand. His son, Alfred, was shot in the mouth and through the right lung and died. William De Jarnett, of Crittenden, was shot through the right shoulder, and Frank Richards, of Key West, was shot in the head, but has only a scalp wound. It is reported that young Mullins seized a club to run the crowd out. He knocked Fisk down and the latter immediately began shooting. Young Fisk fired the shots while on the floor. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 26, 1898 Independence, Ky., July 19.—Carl Fisk, who killed Alfred Mullins at Bracht Saturday, was lodged in jail here Sunday on a charge of murder. Mullins, George	RAILROAD BRIDGE GAVE WAY.  Two Men Killed, Five Seriously Injured and Ten Slightly Hurt In the Wreck.  Lebanon, Ky., June 31.-Two men were killed, five seriously injured and ten slightly  injured in a wreck on the Greensburg branch of the Louisville &amp; Nashville railroad at  Calvary, six miles from Lebanon. The killed are: Geo. Mullins, bridge carpenter, of Mt.  Vernon, and J. H. Houston, bridge carpenter, of Pine Hill. Seriously injured: J. B.  Martin, supervisor, of Lebanon; Wm. Adams, bridge carpenter, of Broadhead; John  Newland, bridge carpenter, of Broadhead; E. W. Hagan, baggage man, of Greensburg,  and Claude Hobson, brakeman, of Campbellsville. Slightly injured: Ed Smith,  engineer; H. H. Martin, fireman; Wash Cabell, bridge carpenter; Arch Brown, bridge  carpenter; Charles Andes; Robert Bell, bridge carpenter; Frank Allen, bridge carpenter;  Walter Miller, bridge carpenter, Glen Spaulding, passenger, of Lebanon, and C. K.  Crawford, passenger, of Danville. Thirteen bridge carpenters were at work on the

	bridge that crosses Rolling Fork river. The passenger train, composed of engine, baggage car, combination coach and one regular coach, was in the center of the first 100-foot span when the bridge gave way and precipitated almost the entire train into the bed of the river. The last coach, containing 23 passengers, was left hanging over the abutment, and was not seriously damaged until after its occupants were taken out. Lebanon, Ky., June 22.-With the exception of John Newland and Wash Cable, bridge carpenters, of Broadhead, those injured in the wreck at Calvary, Ky., are rapidly recovering. The remains of James Houston and George Mullins, the two killed, were shipped home. The wreck, is considered by railroad men the worst in years, the bridge having given away at each end almost simultaneously, precipitating bridge and train, with the exception of a rear coach, to the river bed, about 30 feet below. Men are working night and day, and it is not thought traffic will be delayed longer than Friday. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 26, 1900.

Mullins, Ira	Mountaineers Killed.  Four of Them Bit the Dust in a fight Among Themselves Near Whitesburg, Ky.  Louisville, Ky., Dec. 15.—The Commercial has received by mail from its  correspondent at Whitesburg, Ky., a story to the effect that four mountaineers were  killed near there a few days ago in a fight among themselves. Whitesburg is the county  seat of Letcher county in the heart of the mountain region along the Virginia border and  miles from a railroad. According to this story Alex Bryant, John P. Mullins, John H. and David L. Craft went  to Shelby gap, a few miles from Whitesburg near the Pike county border, on business.  En-route a quarrel arose in which Bryant is said to have been shot through the head and  instantly killed. The remainder of the party returned to Whitesburg, armed themselves  and fled to the mountains, fearing arrest. Soon afterwards a number of shots were heard.  Mullins a little later appeared at the house of Detective J. W. Wright, suffering from  serious wounds. He said he proposed to the Craft boys to leave the country, he to  remain and turn states evidence on the killing of Bryant, taking his chance of acquittal.  The Crafts refused and the fighting was resumed, the Crafts using the Winchesters and  Mullins a revolver. The Crafts according to the story were killed and Mullins received  wounds from which he is believed to have died, as he was in an exhausted condition  when he left Wright's house. Mullins was the only surviving son of Ira Mullins, who  was killed in the Mullins-Fleming tragedy at bound gap in May 1892. The Craft boys  were his cousins. A party was organized and went in search of the Craft boys, who were  found lying side by side with their Winchesters tightly grasped in their hands. Mullins, James Arthur "Jimbo"	James Arthur "Jimbo" Mullins, 73, of Irvine, Kentucky passed away on August 22, 2023, at his home. Born in Jeffersonville, Indiana on January 13, 1950, he was the son of Bill and Martha Lee Morris Mullins, and grew up in Winchester, Kentucky. He graduated from high school in Jeffersonville, Indiana and earned his Bachelor of Arts degree from Eastern Kentucky University, with his previous studies at the University of Louisville in Liberal Arts and humanities. Living in the cities of Odessa, Kharkov and Kyiv, Ukraine from 2015 to 2018, he was an English Instructor at Ideal International Language Center for sixteen months while there. He was a substitute teacher for Powell, Clark, and Fayette Counties for several years. Ongoing education throughout his entire lifetime was a priority to him and he shared his knowledge with friends and family, with great enthusiasm. James had an adventurous spirit and a zeal for life and many devoted friends whom he spent quality time with. He was a hard worker of labor jobs and kept himself physically fit. Fort Boonesborough State Park was one of his jobs, as he was the Potter, making the artistic pottery creations that he had researched and displayed for tourists while visiting the Fort and giving information on historical events and pottery items. This was a job he loved and was there during the season, for many years and made many new friends. He is survived by one daughter, Shannon (Michael) Dubke, of Alexandria, Virginia; two grandsons, Sam Dubke, and Harry Dubke; nephews, Robert Abner, Daniel Abner, Billy Mullins, Danny Mullins, Josh Mullins, Jordan Dain, and Derek Abbott; nieces, Heather Merritt, and Victoria Mullins. He is also survived by one sister, Carolyn (Lewis) Abner; and one brother, William Ray Mullins. In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by two brothers, Daniel Jack Mullins, and Robert "Bob John" Mullins. Allansville Baptist Church was his home church, as he accepted Christ there 29 years ago. To all his family and many friends, he was known as Jimbo and greatly loved by them. He was a hard worker and had a great sense of humor. Visitation will be at 12:00PM on Saturday, August 26, 2023, at Scobee Funeral Home with services starting at 1:00PM by Allansville Pastor Paul Jorgensen. Burial will be at the Mullins Family Cemetery in Letcher County, Kentucky. The Winchester Sun August 26-27, 2023 + Scobee Funeral Home

Mullins, Lula Venters	Lula Venters Mullins, 94, widow of Willis Mullins passed away in her home under the care of Hospice Thursday, June 19 at 11:35pm. Mrs. Mullins was born on March 27, 1926 to the late Wallace and Ida Venters of Pine Top, KY. Mrs. Mullins, affectionately called “Miss Lou” graduated from Caney Junior College, now Alice Lloyd College, and Eastern Kentucky University. She was 18 years old when she began her teaching career, upon signing a promissory note to complete her Bachelor’s Degree in Education. Her first teaching opportunity was at Neely Elementary School (1944) in Knott County. John Filson Elementary School (1960-1963), in Jefferson County, was her next position. She then returned to her hometown of Hindman to teach at Carr Creek Elementary (1964-1968). “Miss Lou” and her family moved to Winchester in 1968 and she began teaching at Becknerville Elementary (1968) and then went on to Central Elementary (1969-1982). At that time, she retired her position with the Clark County Public School System. Miss Lou had such a love for teaching that she went on to teach at Saint Agatha Elementary School (1982-1985). The next several years she worked with the children at Little Learners. She returned to the public-school system to substitute teach and work as a Reading Interventionist. Mrs. Mullins served as a principal for Clark County Christian School (2000-2001) followed by a year of teaching Kindergarten for the same school. She returned to the Clark County School System as an interventionist (2003-2008) to complete her career in education. The entire time “Ms. Lou” lived and worked in Clark County she tutored thousands of children out of her home. Teaching was her life-long passion. She was a member of Central Baptist Church Winchester, KY. She loved going to church and was an active member of Gail Blakeman’s Sunday School class. Mrs. Mullins is survived by her daughter Kimberly Mullins Kerr of Winchester, two granddaughters, Jessica (Zach) Kerr Ernst of Lexington, Emilee (Shane) Kerr Fidler of Summerville, SC; two great grandchildren, Ava Katherine Ernst and Wynn Pendleton Fidler. Mrs. Mullins is also survived by her much loved children gained by marriage EJ (Ann) Mullins of Lexington, Flo (John) Reese Shelbyville, Dean Mullins of Lexington, Bill (Nancy) Mullins of Nicholasville, Freida Lear of Nicholasville and Terry Murphy of Alexandria, VA. Mrs. Mullins was also blessed to have many loving nieces and nephews. She was proceeded in death by five brothers: Claude Venters, Curt Venters, Luther Venters, Fred Venters, Jim Venters and three sisters: Olly Keen, Persa Combs, and Nancy Lee. Public graveside visitation will be held at Winchester Cemetery on Tuesday, June 23 from 10:00-11:00AM. A private graveside family service will follow at 11:00AM. Services will be led by Pastor Kevin Parido, a beloved family friend. Pallbearers will be Zach Ernst, Shane Fidler, Lee Kerr II, Lee Kerr III, Ronald Parido, and Mike Rogers. Honorary Pallbearers will be members of Gail Blakeman’s Sunday School class. The family would like to express their special thanks to Sandra Lamb and Brenda Turley for being such devoted friends. In lieu of flowers the family suggests that any contributions be given to Justice Elementary School Family Resource Center, attention Eva Miller, Director, 350 Mt. Mullins, Robert (Bob John)	Robert (Bob John) Mullins, 68 of Stanton, Kentucky passed away peacefully with his loved ones surrounding him on March 4, 2023 at the VA Community Living Center.  He grew up in Winchester, Kentucky and was born in Jeffersonville, Indiana on March 21, 1954, the son of Bill and Martha Lee Morris-Mullins.  He received training as an auto body restoration specialist at Ivy Tech Community College in Clark County, Indiana. At the age of 17 in April of 1971, his wish was to join the Army of the United States and serve in Vietnam. Training included airborne, armor reconnaissance specialist (army scout) and army tank with an assignment as honor guard on many occasions, being one of just a few men selected out of hundreds. Although he never had the opportunity to serve in Vietnam, and the war ended before he was deployed, he served two overseas assignments in Germany, after he re-enlisted.  He is survived by his wife, Tonya Trickett-Mullins, three children, Heather (Robert) Merritt, Victoria Dawn Mullins, and Derek Abbott; two grandchildren, Jordan Dain and Jade Morimando. Also, one niece, Shannon Dubke; nephews, Robert Abner, Daniel Abner, Danny Ray, Billy Mullins, and Josh Mullins. Other survivors include one sister, Carolyn (Lewis) Abner; two brothers, James A. Mullins, and William Ray Mullins.

	In addition to his parents, he is preceded in death by a brother, Daniel Jack Mullins. To many of his close friends and relatives, he was called Bob John and to others, "Bobby". A hardworking, loving, and generous man, he was. Often, he would help relatives and friends in need by sharing his resources and services for them. A man of humility with a servant way about him, he was also a man who believed in God and was baptized as a young man. He had a special friend, Larry Pasley and special second cousin, Kenneth Mullins. Fishing was his passion and he loved his brother-in-law, Lew or Kenneth to go along. He loved doing good things to help his nephews, Bob, and Dan Abner, as well as many other people. Visitation will be at 11:00am on Saturday, March 11, 2023 at the Leon Pace Memorial Chapel with service starting at 1:00pm by Pastor Phillip Ronk, with full Military Honors to follow with burial at Camp Nelson National Cemetery. The Winchester Sun March 7 &amp; 10-12, 2023 + Scobee Funeral Home
Mullins, Robert "Moon" Gale	Robert "Moon" Gale Mullins, 59, passed away on Tuesday, May 5, 2015 at University of Kentucky Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky. He was born in Winchester, Kentucky, on July 17, 1955 to the late Burley and Nina Brandenburg Mullins. Robert loved life and encountered many health issues in his 59 years here on earth, but always kept up the fight with no wavering. He was a loyal friend and family member who loved UK basketball, hunting, fishing and loved watching his grandsons play sports. He always looked forward to and loved the annual Brandenburg/Hogan family reunion as he missed the days of his childhood at the farm on Muddy Creek Road. He was a former employee of Roses Department Store, The Dura/Weaver Corporation and Floor Shine. He is survived by four children, Natasha Epperson, Andrea (Jason) Johns, Joshua (Becky) Mullins and Jessica Fox; one sister, Sharon (Don) Howard; six grandchildren, Gregory Cornwell, Chandlyr Epperson, Anthony, Isaiah and Colton Johns and Caden Mullins; two nieces, Misty (Shayne) Harris and Tara Howard; and several aunts, uncles, cousins and friends. He was preceded in death by his grandparents, Bee and Rosa Mullins, and William S. and Marie Hogan Brandenburg. Services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 9, 2015, at Scobee Funeral Home by Pastor Ronald Gene Johns. Burial will be in Winchester Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Shayne Harris, Jason Johns, Greg Cornwell, Jeremy Tolson, Josh Mullins and Tony Haddix. Honorary pallbearers will be Keith Rainey, Jimmy Brandenburg, Lowell Hatton, Belvin Brandenburg, Carl McKinney, Tony Noble and Ronald Thomas. Munday Family		Heirs to a Big Estate – Every once in a while we hear of a big estate in some foreign country that awaits claimants. Most of these are frauds, but some of them are all right. One of the latter class is believed to be the Walden estate in England, estimated at forty million dollars. Considerable interest has been aroused in Lexington over the matter as some of the heirs live there. Virginia parties are in that city looking up the heirs, and it is said Judge Geo. Denny will take up the matter as an attorney. Among the heirs are the Munday family, of which M. C. Guy and Mrs. S. A. Lipscomb live in this county. Mr. D. C. Munday lives at White Hall, Madison county, and Miss Sallie Munday lives with her niece, Mrs. J. F. Davis, at Lexington. The line of descended, is not long and is said to be easy of proof. The father of Mr. David Munday was the great grandson of Benjamin Munday, who married Lord Walden's daughter. We hope that something tangible may grow out of this and that they may realize a handsome fortune. The Winchester Democrat Friday November 12, 1897 The Munday Family. Lexington, NOV. 14, 1897. EDITOR DEMOCRAT: I notice in The Argonaut a piece taken from your paper in which you are in some what error as to the genealogy of the Munday family. There was born to a Lord Walden an only child, John Walden, who came to this country about 1715. John Walden had several children, among them Rachel who married Benj. Munday, who had three sons, Charles, Abram and Edmund. The latter was the father of Capt. James Munday, who was the father of Aunt Sallie Munday, who lives at my house, which makes Benjamin and Rachel Munday great grandparents to Sallie, D. C., and William Munday, the latter who lives in Columbus, Ga. There is no controversy over the English property that is in the hands of a trustee, consisting of valuable real estate and about $ 40,000,000 in cash in the Bank of England and subject to distribution upon proper proof of the heirs. Mrs. Jennings, an heir, has been at work on this case for more than ten years and is now in England, her daughter, Mrs. Chanslor, is here and Mrs. Taylor has gone to Virginia from whence she will soon sail to England to join Mrs. Jennings. Messrs. Davis and Wood, of Lexington, have been engaged to look up the few remaining heirs and forward the papers when properly fixed up, and any parties interested will do well to write to us about this matter. J. F. Davis. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday November 16, 1897.

Munday, Robert Lowry		One of the most hotly contested legal battles ever fought in this State was the trial of Mrs. Lucretia Munday for the murder of her husband and which terminated Monday at Lexington by a verdict of acquittal. Mrs. Munday and her husband lived in Woodford county and had been married for nearly thirty years. They had raised a family among whom was a daughter who married Dr. Walker Davis, of that county in 1881. The next year Mr. Munday had his life insured for nearly $30,000 in various companies and shortly after death, under circumstances which indicated foul play. An autopsy revealed the fact that he had died from the effects of poison, and his wife and son-in-law were arrested for the crime. Davis was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Mrs. Munday obtained a change of venue to Fayette county where one trial resulted in a hung jury, eleven members it is said being for conviction and the death penalty. After that the case was continued several times until the present term of the court it was tried again and resulted in an acquittal. The cost to the State was over ten thousand dollars. Winchester Democrat Wed., 2-22-1888 Another chapter of the famous murder case was closed this week. Several years ago Mr. Lowry Munday, who lived in Mercer county on the Kentucky river, died under suspicious circumstances. His wife Lucretia and son-in-law Dr. Davis were charged with having poisoned him, and Davis given a life sentence in the State prison for it. Mrs. Munday after several years of bitter legal struggle was acquitted. Col. James Hawkins was an important witness against her, and one night he was called to his door and murdered in cold blood. Mrs. Munday and a young man in her employ were arrested for the crime, and though circumstances pointed strongly to their guilt, they were acquitted. At the time of Lowry Munday's death, his wife and Dr. Davis held policies on his life amounting to $20,000 which was supposed to be the motive for the murder. After her acquittal, she sued the insurance companies, and last week the matter was compromised by their paying about three-fourths of the amount. Mrs. Munday is now an old woman, broken in health, and will probably live but a few years. The Democrat Wednesday, May 8, 1889 In Woodford county, Miss Lillie Davis, daughter of Dr. Walker T. Davis (now in the penitentiary for the murder of his father-in-law, Lowry Munday,) has sued ex-County Judge Gillespie and his bondsmen for $8,000. They claim that the father, as guardian for the girl, was short in his accounts, and his bond was not sufficient for the amount to be made out of it, that the Judge failed to annually examine the bond to see if it was sufficient. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, September 13, 1893 Mrs. Allie W. Munday, William		Wants A Divorce The Wife of Poisoner Davis Wants to Marry Again. Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 15.—The decision of the court of appeals Tuesday, granting Mrs. Allie Davis, of Woodford county, a divorce from her convict husband, Dr. Davis, recalls one of the most celebrated criminal trials in the history of this state. Davis is serving a life sentence for the alleged murder of his father-in-law, William Munday. Davis was a physician and Munday's life was insured for a large amount for the benefit of his wife. Munday died mysteriously in 1889, and it was charged that he was poisoned by Davis, and that the crime was instigated by the wife of the dead man. Mrs. Munday finally went clear, but Davis went up for life. Mrs. Davis is said to be engaged to an attorney of a neighboring county. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 21, 1897

Munk, indian fighter	AA	A monument is being put up in the white cemetery at Richmond, Ky., to the memory of Munk, the colored Indian fighter, who was a hero in the battle with the Wyandottes in 1782, where Mt. Sterling now stands, and who carried Captain James Berry, who was badly wounded, forty miles on his back to the Fort, in Madison. Captain Estill and all his men, but six were killed, and all the Indians but one. Pres. Harris, another colored man, recently died in Richmond. He was a drummer in the old Militia days, and beat the drum for volunteers in the Mexican war when Gen. C. M. Clay was the first to enlist. He also beat the drum at the laying of the corner stone of the Clay monument at Lexington and various other places. He was Drum Major of the 145 th Kentucky Infantry, colored and, in a contest with a hundred regiments in the Army of the Potomac was awarded the prize for the best drilled Drum Major. Murphy, Isaac		NEAR Salyersville, about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, Logan Murphy shot and killed his father, Isaac Murphy. He then stood guard over the house till daylight, and prevented his mother or any of the other children from going out. Just before sunrise he left and tried to escape, but the news spread quickly, and he was soon captured. He gave no reason for the murder except that he had quarreled with his father over a trivial matter, and his father had threatened his life. No lawyer of Salyersville would defend Murphy, and he began his own defense by waiving an examination. In default of bail, he was held a prisoner, and taken to Prestonburg jail. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 30, 1891.  LOGAN MURPHY of Magoffin county sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his father, has been placed in the Mt. Sterling jail for safe keeping.

The Democrat, Wednesday, November 4, 1891.

AT Mt. Sterling Wednesday night Logan Murphy, under sentence of death for killing his father and James Crockett, sent up for robbery, became involved in a quarrel when Murphy cut Crockett in six places. Inflicting dangerous wounds. Murphy claims that Crockett attacked him without provocation. Monday night Crockett set fire to his bedclothes and his own clothing, but the flames were extinguished by help from the outside.

The Democrat, Wednesday, November 18, 1891.

THE jail at Mt. Sterling is confessedly a strong one but three prisoners broke out Wednesday evening by cutting loose an upright stone that divided a window. The prisoners were Logan Murphy, from Magoffin county, under sentence of death for the murder of his father; John Cassity of Menifee county, confined for stealing, and T. E. Briggs, from the world-at-large, for passing forged checks. Murphy was caught before he got out of the city, Cassity was caught the next morning near Grassy Lick, and Briggs is still at large. The latter was the same man that passed several forged checks in this city some time ago. LATER: Griggs was captured at Cynthiana Saturday while attempting to pass another forged check.

The Democrat, Wednesday, January 20, 1892.

Mobbed! Logan Murphy the Double Murderer. Taken from the Winchester Jail by a mob from the upper counties, and hung from a railroad trestle at Mt. Sterling. Another man has paid the penalty of his crimes by means of Judge Lynch's court. Logan Murphy is the latest victim. Some time ago he murdered his father in a fit of drunken fury in Magoffin county, and after conviction and sentence of death, was taken to the Mt. Sterling jail for safe keeping. He has been a troublesome prisoner and some time ago severely cut a fellow prisoner. Thursday he had a quarrel with Arch Steele, another prisoner, over a game of cards and stabbed him in the abdomen with a barlow knife he had secured by some means, from the effects of which Steele died the next day. As a matter of precaution Murphy was brought here Sunday night for safe keeping. It was not thought that there would be any danger of a mob coming here, and the jail was not guarded. As events afterward showed this assurance was not well founded. About half past one o'clock Monday morning a number of persons, variously estimated from twenty-five to fifty men, some on horseback and others in buggies, came from the direction of Mt. Sterling. They dismounted on North Main street and quietly proceeded to the jail. They knocked on the door and, in answer to the question as to what was wanted, replied that they had a negro named Ballenger whom they wished to place in jail. Jailer Piersall opened the door and was instantly covered with a dozen revolvers that gleamed cold and un pityingly in the moonlight. Resistance was useless and when the leader demanded the keys of the cell where Murphy was confined, Mr. Piersall wisely complied. Meanwhile the poor wretch, whose hours on earth were so short, had heard the coming and was cowering in his cell under the bed. A light was procured and he was quickly dragged out by the mob. He uttered no outcry, but was taken away moaning piteously. As he passed Jailer Piersall he looked over his shoulder and begged the jailer to pray for him. Without waiting for him to dress, they hustled him away and placed him in a buggy. Dr. McKinley has been summoned to the country to see little Nelson Rash, who had fallen and hurt himself at J. Miller Clark's and while returning, met the mob about three miles from town. The prisoner was in a buggy between two men and the whole crowd was proceeding swiftly and silently. Nothing more was heard of them until the next morning, when it was learned that he had been taken to Mt. Sterling and hanged to the timbers of the trestle of the coal road at that place. While on their way to the jail the mob met Jim Bob Broadhurst and Jas. Adams. They were promptly ordered to throw up their hands, and when Mr. Broadhurst informed them that the jail was guarded, he was placed in the front rank and ordered to march, which he did with much alacrity. Will Adams and George Parris were in the Sun office and when the mob ordered the lights put out, Will took refuge in the press cylinder while George hid in the water barrel. Murphy was only nineteen years old, but was a bad boy. His wife, to whom he had been married but a month when he was placed in jail for the murder of his father, lives at Ford. He was evidently expecting the mob as he had taken off only a part of his clothing and had a light burning when they first reached the jail. On several occasions he had begged Jailer Piersall to stand off the mob when it came. Sheriff Hampton had offered to furnish a guard for the jail, but persons who were in Mt. Sterling Monday saw no indications of a mob and it was not believed here that any would come.

The Democrat, Wednesday, August 17, 1892.

Logan Murphy, who was lynched from Winchester the other night, was from all accounts the meanest man in existence, although some married readers may not agree with us. He married about a year since, and often amused himself by shooting at the spectacles on his mother-in-law's nose. He frequently deplored the fact that he missed his mark on such occasions – Frankfort Journal.

The Democrat, Wednesday, August 24, 1892.

Logan Murphy, the young murderer whom a mob took from the Winchester jail and hanged at Mt. Sterling last week made an immense amount of history in twenty years, and was diligently increasing his stock when carried off by unappreciative citizens. He began his career as the illegitimate child of one Cockrell, of Eastern Kentucky, and was left in a basket at the door of Isaac Murphy. Murphy adopted the infant and was repaid by being murdered. When only fourteen years old, Logan spent one year in the

		penitentiary for shooting Smith Reid. He married a Miss May when 17 years of age and lived with his wife's parents. A pleasant amusement of the playful bridegroom was shooting at his father-in-law to see how close a hair cut he could give the old fellow without drawing blood. But this favorite sport, a pastime in which he frequently indulged and proved especially expert was shooting at the spectacles that rested on his mother-in-laws nose. It is sad and painful to realize this brilliant, so full of promise, has adjourned sine die. But his life has not been in vain. The world now knows how to manage a mother-in-law. – Cynthia Democrat. Murphy, Will		Police officers dismissed From force for alleged conspiracy to aid slayer Louisville, Ky., - Two patrolmen, alleged to have conspired to lighten the weight of evidence against Val Zeigler, charged with murder, were dismissed from the police force by the board of public safety. The two men dismissed, Jesse Fugitt and William Bourland, were the arresting officers in the Zeigler murder case. Zeigler shot and killed Patrolman Will Murphy several weeks ago, and was arrested by Fugitt and Bourland. The testimony against Zeigler immediately after the shooting was most convincing but when the case came up for the trial the prosecution was so weak that Major Lindsey, chief of police, ordered an investigation. The result was that Fugitt and Bourland were cited to appear before the board of safety and explain their lack of diligence in aiding the commonwealth. Their explanation did not satisfy the members of the board and they were dismissed in disgrace. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 28, 1909

Murray, Bridget	Sudden Death. Miss Bridget Murray of this city was found dead in her bed at her home on Mt. Abbott Thursday morning. Having evidently died of heart trouble. She was sixty years of age and had never previously known a day's illness. Miss Murray was a native of Roscommon, Ireland and for the past twenty years she has been a resident of this city, making her home with her sister, Mrs. Jake Yancy. She was a devout member of the Catholic Church both in faith and practice and her death will be mourned by a large number of friends. The funeral will be held at St. Joseph Church this morning at eight o'clock with High Mass by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Ryan, and the remains will be taken to Paris for interment. Murray, Mrs. Martha		Many Generations. It is very seldom that a person lives to see seven generations of the same family. The subjoined sketch is taken from an Odessa (Mo.) paper. The subject, Mrs. Martha Murray, is a niece of C. T. and S. B. Redmon, and was raised by their father, Robert Redmon. She is a member of the Ramsey family here and has numerous other relatives in the county. The article says:

	"Mrs. Martha (Ramsey) Murray, has the very pleasant remembrances of enjoying the company of seven generations of her relatives or own family, beginning with her great-grandfather, Benjamin Ellsberry, who was born in 1777, and died in Kentucky in 1858 aged 81 years; her grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Ellsberry Redmon, who died in Kentucky in 1848, aged fifty years; her mother, Mrs. Nancy Redmon Ramsey, who died in Clark county, Kentucky, in 1852, aged 36; her sister, Miss Mollie Ramsey, now living in Odessa; her daughter, Mrs. Mary Murray Whitsett her granddaughter, Mrs. Edna Whitsett Smith and her great-granddaughter, little Hula Smith, all living near Mayview, Mo.
