MINNEAPLIS, Minn., Oct. 10The funerals of Maj. Melville C. Wilkinson, Sergt. Wm. Butler and Privates Alfred Zebell, Edward Lowe, John Olmstead and John Showolstocker, member of the 3rd United States infantry, who fell in the battle with Indiana at Leech lake, October 5, were held at Fort Snelling Sunday afternoon. It was estimated that six to eight thousand people were in attendance. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 11, 1898. The many friends of Mike Ziegler were shocked Saturday to hear of his sudden death. We hardly believe it, however, as he was in the DEMOCRAT office Monday, and as he weighs 320 pounds, he was the most substantial ghost we have seen in many a day. May he live long and his shadow never grow less. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 29, 1890. DIED-At his home in this county, Saturday of heart disease. Michael Zeigler aged 65 years. 	After a long and painful illness, Mrs. Dennis Zittle died at her home near Waco, Tuesday afternoon of a complication of diseases. Sister Zittle was one of our best old ladies, a consistent member of the M. E. Church South. She had been ill since December, and some months ago when it seemed that the end was near, expressed her willingness and readiness to join those in the deep beyond. She leaves a husband, one son and four daughters. Deceased was buried at College Hill, funeral by Rev. O. B. Beck. We extend our sincere sympathy.

Zollicoffer, Felix Kirk	A few days ago a gentleman from Pulaski County, who served in the Thirteenth Kentucky United States Volunteers, was in town, and discussing war incidents, the killing of General Zollicoffer came up. The gentleman conversing with him took the position that General Fry killed the ex-Confederte chieftain, "Oh, no." said the Pulaski ex-soldier. "General Fry was 'nominated' for it, but the deed was done by a private soldier well known to me."-Columbia Spectator. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 8, 1893.
	Place where General fell, will see dedication October 10 Somerset – On October 10 there will be erected a beautiful marble slab on the spot where Gen. Zollicoffer, the noted Confederate general, fell in the battle of Mill Springs on January 19, 1862. The dedicatory services will be in charge of Col. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, who is at the head of the work having the spot where Gen. Zollicoffer is said to have fallen, and which is known as Zollicoffer tree, and which is decorated every year in honor of the dead hero. The occasion of the dedication of the memorial slab will be one of great interest, and will be attended by noted war veterans from different parts of the country. Col. Bennett H. Young took this matter up some years ago and had W.G. Trimble, of this place, deed away a plot of ground for this purpose, Trimble having been the owner of the ground on which the battle was fought. Several efforts have been made by Congressmen from the Eleventh district to have Congress make appropriation for the building of a fine turnpike from Somerset, the nearest railroad point to the Mill Springs battlefield and the National cemetery. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, September 20, 1910 Somerset – While setting the Zollicoffer monument to mark the grave of Gen.
	Zollicoffer the bullet that killed this brave Confederate officer is believed to have been found. It was found on the exact spot where Gen. Zollicoffer was killed and where the monument will be placed. The heavy rains of late had washed the earth, and the ball was found buried in the ground.

_	Assisted Living in Carlsbad, California. She endured seven long years of Alzheimer's disease and never gave up hope that one day there would be a cure. Her daughter Laura was by her side.
	Pat, the daughter of Burl Stafford and Lucille Lewis Stafford, was born Feb. 22, 1938 in Wagoners Corner, Rowan County, Ky. She attended public school in Elliott County, Ky., graduating in 1954. She went on to attend Morehead State University and earned a B.S. degree from Mercer University in Atlanta, Georgia. In 1969, she married the love of her life, Richard Zweig. They moved to Atlanta, where Pat began her 25-year career with the Environmental Protection Agency. Pat often said working for the EPA was an honor. She was passionate about her job and truly wanted to make a difference in "God's beautiful world." She retired as section chief of Pollution Prevention at the level of GS-14. In 1995, Pat and Dick fulfilled their dream of retiring to St. Simons Island, Ga., where they shared their life with their beloved dog, Max. They also treasured visits with dear friends from Atlanta, "The Girls." In October 2009, Pat and Dick moved to Carlsbad, Calif., to be near their daughter Laura and son-in-law Michael. Pat believed in women helping women and was a mentor to many. She served as president of the Atlanta Chapter of American Business Women's Association. A love of poetry is just one of the many things Pat was known for. Her grade school teacher, Miss Annabell, introduced her to poetry, and even in the late stages of Alzheimer's she could recite her favorite poems. She was well-known for her infectious sense of humor and her ability to remember every joke she ever heard. She had a deep love for her family, her friends,
